I do not see why they keep you incarcerated; you have done nothing. I am the mischievous rebel that has done all the mischief. They ascribe to me a marvelous power and capacity of mischief. I'll be even with them yet. Why do you not make use of the means in your power to get out and try to reach Dixie? The way is open. True there is risk, but "nothing risked nothing won." See Doctor Thomas, who would introduce you to the President and Secretary Benjamin; or the better one to see would be Doctor Bealle.

I did write to Seward and since to Stanton, but 'tis useless; they've got too much against me. The commission is not all. Mrs. Rose Greenhow and myself were the first females brought to this old Union rat trap, but our number is gradually increasing. The first accession was Mrs. Morris, still with us; the next a Mrs. J. Barton, alias Mrs. McCarter; [she] still sports her male attire—can't help herself. Then a party were brought here who were released in two or three days. Then Mrs. Morris, of Baltimore, who is likely to remain with us; then two young ladies captured at Dranesville or thereabout who said they were sorry, promised amendment, took the oath and God speed them. I am always glad when we get rid of a craven. Colonel Thompson is out at last. Schley will get out this evening. We have quite a sprinkling of Marylanders here and some from Baltimore City. Strange to say every lady now under arrest and with but three or four exceptions have been Marylanders.

Your situation is far preferable to mine. You are in Baltimore near your friends where your wants and comforts can be ministered to by friends. Whilst my condition is pitiable in the extreme I almost wish that death would come to my relief; but these devils shall not have the pleasure to know how much I feel. I tax every power and every nerve to bear up, but 'tis indeed a terrible tax. The indignities we are continually subjected to is a disgrace to people calling themselves civilized to permit. But I will not repine; every dog has his day. Our turn will come anon. I'll stick to the old Merrimac while there's a plank to her deck, and when she goes to pieces or sinks I'll go with her. I saw her and examined her thoroughly and felt sure she would be able to weather the gale.

Good night, for as usual I have an intolerable headache.

C. V. B[AXLEY.]

COMMISSION RELATING TO STATE PRISONERS,

Washington, April 1, 1862.

Brig. Gen. JAMES S. WADSWORTH, &c., Washington.

GENERAL: If they consent you will please convey * * * Mrs. C. V. Baxley, prisoners at present held in the Old Capital Military Prison in this city, beyond the lines of the U. S. forces into the State of Virginia and release them upon their giving their written parole of honor that they will not return north of the Potomac River during the present hostilities without permission of the Secretary of War.

Very respectfully, yours,

JOHN A. DIX,
EDWARDS PIERREPONT,
Commissioners.

HEADQUARTERS, Fort Monroe, Va., June 2, 1862.

We, the undersigned, late prisoners in the Old Capitol at Washington, do pledge our word of honor that in consideration of our being set at liberty beyond the lines of the U. S. Army we will not return north of the Potomac River during the present hostilities without the permission of the Secretary of War of the United States.

C. V. BAXLEY.

NOTE.—Mrs. Rose O'N. Greenhow and Mrs. Augusta Morris also signed this parole and were sent South with Mrs. Baxley.

COMMISSION RELATING TO STATE PRISONERS,
New York, April 8, 1862.

Col. W. W. MORRIS, Commanding Fort McHenry.

COLONEL: You will discharge from custody the following state prisoners on the conditions herein specified, viz: * * * Dr. Septimus Brown on his parole of honor to render no aid or comfort to enemies in hostility to the United States and to hold no correspondence with any person in the insurgent States except in portions of said States occupied by the U. S. forces. * * *

We are, very respectfully, yours,

JOHN A. DIX,
EDWARDS PIERREPONT.

Commissioners.

Case of William M. Hill.

William M. Hill was arrested January 8, 1862, by the U. S. marshal of Iowa at the city of Des Moines on an order of the Secretary of State dated December 28, 1861, and was conveyed to Fort Lafayette. The charges against Hill were disloyalty to the United States Government and treasonable correspondence with the rebels. The following extracts are taken from a letter written by Hill for publication in the South.* After writing the above letter and during the summer of 1861 Hill made a visit to Virginia, by some means having obtained permission to pass the Confederate lines, and was absent several weeks. The said William M. Hill remained in custody at Fort Lafayette February 15, 1862, when in conformity with the order of the War Department of the preceding day he was transferred to the charge of that Department.—From Record Book, State Department, "Arrests for Disloyalty."

DES MOINES, IOWA, December 17, 1861.

DEAR KASSON: Since writing you the other day I have positive information that the counsel for the defendant furnished to the clerk the names which he placed in the box from which the jury which is to try Hill was drawn. The most notorious and rabid secessionists in the State are on the jury, and his conviction on any state of facts is absolutely impossible.

I have talked with Sells and others who concur in the opinion which I have heretofore expressed to you, to wit, that the indictment should be nollied and the accused committed to military custody. His absolute discharge will exasperate the loyal people of the State and embolden the secessionists. I find that it will be impossible for me to make any preparations to assist in the trial of the cause, and if any counsel is assigned you will confer a favor by naming some other man to the Attorney-General.

*Omitted here. See p. 1323 for this letter.

I will not forget, however, your kindness in this matter. Mrs. W.'s health is quite feeble. The baby is doing finely. Mrs. Goodwin is now with us.

Truly, &c.,

THO. F. WITHROW.

DES MOINES, December 25, 1861.

Hon. W. H. SEWARD, Secretary of State, Washington.

SIR: At the November term of the U. S. district court for the district of Iowa one William M. Hill, a citizen of this State, was indicted and presented by the grand jury charging him with treason. The indictment was based more particularly on a letter written by him, a printed copy of which I send herewith, with a statement of the case clipped from the editorial columns of the Iowa State Register.

The accused will not be found guilty though of his guilt there can be no question. There is a large secession element in the jury selected to try him. I am convinced that the accused intends to go South as soon as he is released and that he will be able to give the rebels much valuable information. His acquittal would be a severe blow to the cause of the Union in our State. Traitors of whom we have many will be emboldened.

Under the circumstances I believe it would be better for the Government to enter a nolle and have him committed to military custody by order of the State Department.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. M. HOXIE,
U. S. Marshal, District of Iowa.

P. S.—I also inclose a letter from Hon. S. J. Kirkwood, governor of this State.

[Inclosure No. 1.—Extract from Iowa State Register.]

INDICTMENT FOR TREASON.

Soon after the commencement of the present term of the U. S. district court in this city information was filed against Capt. William M. Hill, of Magnolia, Harrison County, Iowa, charging him with certain treasonable words and acts. A warrant was thereupon issued by Judge Love and U. S. Marshal H. M. Hoxie proceeded to Harrison County to make the arrest. He found Mr. Hill at home, served the warrant and started on his return to Des Moines. In Magnolia and in Council Bluffs there were threats by secessionists that they would rescue Hill from the custody of the marshal, but fortunately for them the attempt was not made and the prisoner was brought safely to this city.

A portion of the information upon which the arrest was made was substantially as follows: Hill was formerly a resident of Monroe County, Va. He has resided in Harrison County five or six years, during which he held we think for two terms the office of clerk of the district court. Last summer he concluded to visit his old home in Virginia; by some means obtained permission to pass the Confederate lines and was absent from this State several weeks.

During his absence a letter came to his address from the Dead-Letter Office in Washington which upon examination proved to have been one which he had written to the Union Democrat, a secession paper in Monroe County, Va. It had been stopped by some U. S. officer and sent to the Dead-Letter Office, where, falling into the hands of some traitorous employé, it was remailed to Hill. Instead of reaching the hands of its author, however, it was in his absence opened by his deputy J. L. Deforest, a loyal Union man, its contents made known to others and finally published at length in the Magnolia Republican. Subsequently a private letter written by Mr. Hill found its way to the Dead-Letter Office in Washington, and falling into proper custody there it was sent to the U. S. officers of this State for their consideration.

These and other matters were put into tangible shape, the warrant issued and the arrest made as we have above stated, and on Monday last after a careful examination of the case a bill of indictment was found by the grand jury against Mr. Hill for treason and his trial assigned for the 7th of January next, at a special term of the U. S. district court to be held in this city. He has retained as his counsel Messrs. C. C. Cole and S. V. White. The prosecution will be conducted by W. H. F. Gurley, U. S. district attorney.

The following is a copy of the letter sent by Hill to Virginia, and returned to Magnolia:

CLERK'S OFFICE, Magnolia, Iowa, May 14, 1861.

EDITOR UNION DEMOCRAT, Union, Monroe County, Va. :

Some good friend from my far-off paternal home sends me your paper. Whoever caused my name to be placed upon your book cannot be a submissionist, else the patriotic and Southern Rights sentiments breathed through your editorials would be suppressed. Continue to forward your paper to my address, and when I am informed of the amount due on subscription the same will be sent you. The Democrat is a welcome visitor. First among the exchanges and correspondents it is opened and read because it hails from the land that is dear to me, hallowed by the recollection of youthful days, passed amid the mountain sceneries that overlook your beautiful town; the thoughts of aged parents, relatives and friends in the Southern clime, with whom I journeyed as youthful days pleasantly fled away. All, all makes the tidings from my paternal home eagerly sought after and interesting.

Truly, Mr. Editor, these are exciting times. The old ship of state that has carried us safely through storms and perils is drifting rapidly toward the breakers. Yea, she has struck and must go to pieces never again to be reconstructed.

Who has brought this dire calamity upon us? Not the conservative men of the South, nor the conservative voters of the North. The demons in the shape of Black Republicans and Abolition rulers have so misled the excitable masses of the North by such doctrines as set out in Uncle Tom's Cabin and such as taught by Beecher, Greeley, &c., that the fanatics believe they are doing God's service to wage a war of extermination against the Southern slave-holders. Yes, Mr. Editor, the black-hearted fanatics have caused the dark clouds of war to hang over us, and this once peaceful and happy Union to be deluged with the blood of relatives and friends, and the Union destroyed.

Conservative citizens in this portion of the West justify the course the South is taking and condemn this Black Republican Administration for waging this unholy and unjust war upon the South. All over the Northwestern States are thousands and tens of thousands of Union-loving Democrats who say amen and God speed you in your noble work in driving back the hordes of unprincipled Abolitionists who bide the calling of a sectional Administration to plunder the citizens of the South. Never let them pollute your sacred soil.

In the opinion of a majority of the citizens of the Northern States, and perhaps of a majority of this town and my adopted county, the foregoing are entire secession sentiments. I know I am pronounced a traitor by the negro worshipers, but my opinion is given now as has been given since I have resided in the State. I have fought the Abolitionists through each canvass with pen and tongue, and shall continue on, though my office and press are threatened by the friends of the renowned John Brown.

I am not alone with regard to the views expressed concerning our national difficulties. The conservative Democracy are with me. I give your readers an idea of the views of the conservative Democrats of the Northwest. I clip from The Council Bluffs Bugle, a leading Democratic paper, which I make a part of this communication. I indorse it, as every conservative man North will. (Here follows an extract from the Bugle.)

* * * * *

I clip another editorial from The New York News, which represents the faithful of the State who have ever faithfully battled against negro equality and for the rights of the Southern States. (Here please state that in this communication follows a printed extract from The New York News.)

* * * * *

I find words local and will bid your readers farewell. Not a company nor a volunteer will leave Western Iowa to obey the call of Lincoln to battle with the Southern troops. The Government has called the troops stationed at Fort Randall and Fort Kearny and leaves our frontier exposed to the invasion of the hostile Indians. Volunteer companies are being formed for home protection. The Government stopped the transportation of all provisions down the Missouri River. This act is arousing the masses against the Government and making friends for the cause of the South.

A thousand cheers for the Monroe volunteers! In their ranks I see the names of a brother and relatives. May they cover themselves with glory in this struggle and be an ornament to the State and the Southern Confederacy.

I have spun out this communication too long and perhaps it should go, if at all, on the outside of the Democrat.

WM. M. HILL.

Mr. Windell, if you think the foregoing would interest your readers, give it a place in your paper, after correcting bad spelling, &c. If desired I may correspond occasionally.

[Inclosure No. 2.]

DES MOINES, December 25, 1861.

Hon. WILLIAM H. SEWARD,

Secretary of State, Washington City.

SIR: Mr. Hoxie, U. S. marshal for this State, informs me he has written you in regard to one Hill indicted for treason in U. S. district court of the State and whose case is set for trial at a special term of said court to be holden at this place on the 7th day of next month.

I have information on which I rely that a large number of the jurors selected by the deputy clerk for the trial of said cause are in sympathy with the rebels. I have personal knowledge that such is the fact as to one or two of them. Under these circumstances a conviction is at least doubtful and I should regard a failure to convict as a misfortune. An acquittal would embolden men who are silent only from fear to speak out against the Government.

I state what I believe to be facts, and would suggest if within the rule upon which you have heretofore acted that Hill be removed from the State by your order and imprisoned elsewhere under military authority. The evidences of his guilt will as I hear from Marshal Hoxie be sent to you by him. Permit me also to suggest the necessity for some change in the law for the selection of jurors and the empaneling of juries. I am of opinion that the sympathies of many of the district as well as higher judges are at least doubtful. Their clerks, selected by themselves, are of like sympathies, and from these causes our courts instead of being as they should be, a support to the Government and a terror to traitors, are made points of attack against the one and a shield to the other.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

SAMUEL J. KIRKWOOD.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, December 28, 1861.

H. M. HOXIE, Esq., Des Moines, Iowa.

SIR: Arrest and convey to Fort Lafayette, N. Y., William M. Hill as soon as he is discharged from civil custody under the present indictment against him in the U. S. district court in Iowa.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. W. SEWARD,
Assistant Secretary.

FORT LAFAYETTE, N. Y., January 19, 1862.

Hon. WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Department of State, Washington.

DEAR SIR: Since confined here I have been informed that you would learn from the accused* statements and facts which led to the arrest and confinement of persons in this fort. This was truly gratifying news to me, believing that when heard I will be released. I herewith hastily condense my statement.

Last spring my wife left Magnolia, Iowa (my residence), to visit her friends in Virginia. Shortly after her arrival the civil war broke out in Western Virginia and the mails were stopped. She could not return home, neither could I receive any communication relative to her return or safety. I was informed through the medium of the press that no citizen of the North could pass Wise's or Floyd's lines, all being held as spies and their enemies. To aid me in passing these armies—to pave my way through them—to reach my family and return with them home I composed a sympathizing letter directed to a little county paper published in the county where my family had gone to visit, designed to allay any prejudices against me and to accomplish the object already stated.

I did pass the armies, met my family and in forty days from the time I left I was at my home in Iowa.

This letter was returned from the Department in my absence and was published in several papers in the State, commented upon and exaggerated. Some charged that I had left my judicial office, all my property and a part of my family to join the rebellion. Thus I was misrepresented and also my motives by designing men who envied me the office of clerk of the district and who represented that I could not nor did not intend to return to Iowa.

Under these circumstances I was not surprised that I was indicted, having no opportunity to explain the designs and motives in writing a sympathetic letter to my wife's friends in Virginia. The U. S. district court appointed a special term to hear my case. I gave bail for my appearance and at the time appointed I appeared in court. The U. S. attorney after being apprised of the circumstances and the evidence against me entered a nolle prosequi in my case and I was discharged. (It was at the sacrifice of much of my means that I procured counsel (of attorney) and traveling witness 400 miles to defend the civil action against me.)

Shortly after my discharge I was arrested by your honor's order and confined in this fort. I respectfully state further and hope by them and the proof thereof [you] will honorably discharge me from confinement. Not a citizen of Western Iowa who is acquainted with me and the circumstances under which the imprudent letter was written but will petition for my release. I can obtain the proof and petitions of thousands who know me and my loyalty. I can obtain the prayer of Judge Love, U. S. judge of Iowa; Mr. Gurley, U. S. attorney, and H. M. Hoxie, U. S. marshal, who are acquainted with all the evidence against me and who will plead that I have already been punished enough for my imprudence in writing the letter referred to.

* See Seward to Keyes, p. 151.

I have ever been a loyal citizen. Nothing in this world could have induced me to take up arms against my Government or give aid and comfort to the enemy. All I possess in this world is in my adopted State. I have no interest nor affinity in the South. I can obtain the prayers of nearly all the jury summoned in my case; also every Government witness petitioning that my design was not to injure the Government, and thousands of citizens who know my loyalty. The State Flag, a newspaper I published during the last campaign, I can produce as other evidence that I have charged and blamed the ultras of the South with being the instigators of all our troubles.

With these facts stated by the high judicial authorities of Iowa and all others I have named may I not fondly hope to soon meet my family again (to whom I am fondly attached, and who are now among strangers without parental care)? If my loyalty is questioned I will readily take a solemn obligation to do and perform every act the Government may make incumbent upon me in this or any other crisis. Could I be released on parole? If so I can obtain an exchange to amply satisfy my Government, and to this end I will give such security as may be required.

I desire remaining at this place the length of time I am confined rather than at Fort Warren. I await an answer with much suspense.

Humbly, your servant,

WILLIAM M. HILL.

DES MOINES, January 27, 1862.

Hon. W. H. SEWARD, Secretary of State, Washington.

SIR: I inclose herewith a card clipped from the columns of the Iowa State Register, which was rendered proper by the attacks of certain disloyal newspapers.

Hill is the leader of a class of our citizens who reside near the border of the State of Missouri that are detrimental to the Union cause.

Since returning a civil action has been commenced against me to recover $1,000 forfeiture under the provisions of the Iowa habeas corpus act for disregarding a writ which was served upon me while on my way to Fort Lafayette. Steps are being taken by C. C. Cole, one of Hill's attorneys, who is a sympathizer with the leaders of the rebellion, to procure the release of Hill. I respectfully suggest the propriety of consulting His Excellency Governor Kirkwood and the State officers of this State before issuing any order for the release of said William M. Hill.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. M. HOXIE,
U. S. Marshal, District of Iowa.

[Inclosure.]

CARD FROM MARSHAL HOXIE TO THE PUBLIC.

The numerous false statements which have been put in circulation by a disloyal press concerning my conduct in the arrest and transfer of William M. Hill to Fort Lafayette render a brief recital of the facts at least proper.

Hill was indicted by the grand jury at the last term of the U. S. district court for the western division of the district of Iowa for treason against the Government. His offense as I am informed consisted in writing letters to the rebels, of which the following is a sample:*

Without entering into details it is sufficient to say that the fact that he wrote the above letter and others is established beyond dispute and is not denied by him. His trial was set for the 7th of January and a special jury was drawn and summoned for the purpose. On Thursday, the 3d day of January, 1862, I received from the post-office in Des Moines an official notification from the district attorney who was then in Washington of his purpose to enter a nolle in the case pursuant to instructions received from the Attorney-General of the United States. On Saturday, the 5th of the same month, I received an order over the signature of William H. Seward, Secretary of State, bearing date of December 28, 1861, commanding me to arrest and convey to Fort Lafayette William M. Hill as soon as he is discharged from civil custody under the present indictment against him in the U. S. district court in Iowa. On the 8th of January I received a letter from the Assistant Secretary of State, bearing date of January 2, 1862, advising me that the order above referred to had been issued.

I did not stop to make inquiries as to the new light of which the State Department was possessed or the reasons upon which this new action was based. My duty as an officer to execute the order seemed clear and I resolved to do it. On the evening of the 8th I made the arrest at the Des Moines House in this city and immediately started for Fort Lafayette. There was nothing unusual or remarkable in the manner in which the arrest was made. The prisoner was in the office of the Des Moines House when arrested. He quietly made such arrangements for the journey as were necessary, and when he left the office some time after he was taken into custody other persons who were there during the entire time noticed no unusual occurrence.

On the 10th we were met on the cars of the Mississippi and Missouri Railroad by the deputy sheriff of Scott County, who served upon me a writ of habeas corpus, issued by Judge Linderman of the county court upon the application of James Grant, an attorney. Without immediately determining in my own mind what course to pursue I proceeded to Davenport and delivered my prisoner to the jailer of the county for safe-keeping until again demanded. After consulting with those whose advice I deemed it proper to ask I resolved to disregard the writ as has been repeatedly done by other marshals having the custody of military prisoners. I demanded the prisoner of the jailer, received him and went on my way. On the 16th of January I delivered him to the commandant of Fort Lafayette, as his receipt now in my possession attests. At no time was any unnecessary hardship practiced upon the prisoner.

The above statement has been rendered necessary by rumor and newspaper articles of which the following is a sample:

[Extract from The Davenport Democrat and News.]

MORE OF THE HILL KIDNAPPING CASE.

From one of our citizens who has been traveling in Illinois we gather a few items concerning the movements of the scoundrel Hoxie and his kidnapped prisoner, Captain Hill. It appears that Hoxie was afraid of an attempt at rescue if he did not put a long distance between himself and the place of his theft, and therefore hired a conveyance and pushed on to Viola, in Mercer County. Here our informant saw them Saturday morning. Hill was in chains and was compelled to lie down on the floor with a guard over him. Our informant inquired into the nature of the offense and was told that Hill was a runaway military prisoner who had been captured in a house of ill-fame in Davenport. Subsequently, however, Mr. Hill gave our informant the particulars of the arrest and Hoxie's villainy.

* See p. 1323 for Hill's letter written to the Union Democrat of Union, Monroe County, Va., which is here omitted.

During the recital Hoxie threatened his prisoner with severe punishment if he did not shut his mouth. Mr. Hill said that all he asked for was his rights guaranteed to him under the Constitution of the United States—a fair and impartial trial—but that now he was beyond the reach of his friends he had no hopes of being heard until the Government reached his case, which may be in a month, and perhaps not in a year. Hoxie told our informant that he must keep a close mouth in Davenport regarding what he had seen and heard, but the scamp mistook his man when he undertook to frighten our informant into silence. What surprises us is that Mr. Hill should so tamely submit to the outrage of being carried off after having been released by course of law from the custody of the marshal. Hoxie in Hill's presence acknowledged that he stole his prisoner from the jail—at least so our informant says. Hill would have been justified in letting daylight into Hoxie and then returning to stand his trial, and he should have done just that very thing. From what we can learn the proper tools for his release were offered him by more than one individual during the morning the party tarried in Viola.

These paragraphs contain but a single truth. I was in Viola on Saturday morning. Hill was not in chains and never had been. He was not compelled to lie down on the floor. No one was told that Hill was a runaway military prisoner who had been captured in Davenport, but the bystanders were told that he had been indicted as a traitor and that I held him a military prisoner under an order from the President to deliver him to Fort Lafayette. I did not threaten to inflict severe punishment upon him or in any other way restrain his statements. The charge that he had been cleared of crime by a jury of his countrymen is simply false.

The only action that has ever been taken in his case was by the grand jury which indicted him. The Attorney-General saw proper to nolle that indictment and discharge him from civil custody for reasons which were doubtless satisfactory to him. The proper Department issued the order to take him into military custody and I executed the order. General Banks refused to obey a writ of habeas corpus issued by Chief-Justice Taney and General Dix—not only refused to obey a writ issued in a similar case, but issued an order for the arrest of the attorneys who sued it out. I held Hill as a military prisoner, and with such examples did not feel disposed to stop and discuss with every pettifogger between Des Moines and Fort Lafayette the power of the Commander-in-Chief and those acting under his orders to disregard the writ, when it is sought to be interposed in revolutionary times for the relief of such prisoners. It was my business to obey an order issued by the proper Department in the manner authorized by approved precedents, and not to discuss constitutional law and the powers to be exercised by the Government when engaged in a contest with domestic traitors, the issue of which involves the very existence of the Government.

I arrested Hill and took him to Fort Lafayette and have nothing to regret in connection with the transaction. If any similar orders shall be directed to me in the future they will be as promptly executed. If secret sympathizers with or open partisans of traitors can draw any consolation from this assurance they are entirely welcome to it.

H. M. HOXIE.

FORT LAFAYETTE, N. Y., February 7, 1862.

Hon. WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Department of State, Washington.

DEAR SIR: Some three weeks since I was informed that you would hear the statements of those confined here relative to charges of the Government against them. Thus understanding I made mine condensed in a space that would make it understood. I am well aware of the pressing and urgent business under your charge, all of which is more urgent than mine, and you may have not reached my case or my letter may not have reached you, and thus anticipating I hope you will pardon my calling up my case and troubling you again.

You are aware that the U. S. attorney (Gurley) of Iowa after advisement with your Department of State dismissed the civil process against me satisfied that there was not a citizen of the State of Iowa who could find me guilty of the charge after the circumstances surrounding the case.

I have in my former letter stated why the imprudent letter was written by myself to a friend in Virginia, namely: My family were there on a visit; I could not hear from them and was informed that I could not pass the armies to reach them and return with them to my home in the West. I published The Harrison County Flag (Iowa) and took a strong part against Davis et al. and their efforts to break up the Union and the party to which I was attached. Many copies of my paper went to Virginia. I knew I had made enemies there, and the letter written was to reach my family and to allay for a time the prejudices against me as a citizen of the North.

I regret the aim to dissolve the Union and this rebellion. I have no interest in the South; never expect to reside there. All I have in this world in the way of property is in my adopted State, and there, too, I have a young family among strangers and must be suffering for the want of parental care. I wish I could forward you a copy of the letter. In it I am sure you could see no treason.

I hope you will find it convenient to refer to U. S. Judge Love, U. S. Attorney Gurley and U. S. Marshal Hoxie, of Iowa, for the proof of my statement of my case. I am willing to readily subscribe to the oath of allegiance in as binding terms as may be required. I have spent more than one-half of all my means in defense of the civil charges against me from which by the instructions of the Government I have been acquitted. It seems hard indeed after all my battles and sacrifice of my limited means and discharge from the accusation against me that I am confined here and undergoing another punishment for writing an imprudent letter only, for which I have already suffered much; but I will submit patiently hoping when my case is reached I will be released by taking the oath. I await.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. M. HILL.

—
DES MOINES, February 12, 1862.

W. M. HILL, Fort Lafayette.

SIR: I have seen a letter addressed to a number of State officers by you in which you say that I am willing to interpose in your behalf in your efforts to procure a discharge from Fort Lafayette. Justice to yourself as well as myself requires that you should understand my position clearly. Those claiming to act as your friends have attempted through the secession press of this State to fill the public mind with false statements concerning my conduct in connection with your arrest, and your attorney claiming to act under your instructions has instituted one civil suit against me and proposes to try his hand at another. A criminal prosecution was even attempted and failed. To ask any interference on my part under these circumstances is exacting too much of human nature and I shall therefore decline to interfere in your case.

Respectfully, &c.,

H. M. HOXIE,
U. S. Marshal, District of Iowa.

—
WASHINGTON CITY, February 16, 1862.

[WILLIAM M. HILL.]

DEAR SIR: I have this morning received yours* of the 12th instant, addressed to the entire delegation in Congress. I will lay it before them to-morrow morning and advise you of their action. I have no doubt, however, but you will be released very soon under the recent order of the President. I may say for myself that I have seen and conversed with the U. S. attorney for Iowa on the subject of your arrest and confinement, and will say frankly that his statements agree substantially with your narrative.

I have no doubt but General Jones† will also soon be released. Should you have the opportunity say to him that I have conversed with Mr. Seward in relation to his case very recently. I send by this mail some Iowa papers for you and him.

Yours, &c.,

JAS. HARLAN,
[U. S. Senator.]

—
DES MOINES, February 16, 1862.

W. M. HILL, Esq.

DEAR SIR: A letter has been received by the governor addressed to him and other State officers, myself included, asking a recommendation from us for your release. While I might under ordinary circumstances be in favor of granting your request, it is proper for me to say that your legal adviser in this city having commenced proceedings in court to recover damages from the U. S. marshal of this State for doing his duty in arresting and conveying you to Fort Lafayette you can hardly expect any interference from us in your behalf while that prosecution is pending.

Very respectfully,

—
F. W. PALMER.

DES MOINES, IOWA, February 20, 1862.

HON. WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.

SIR: Has the President ever made a formal order suspending the privileges of the writ of habeas corpus? If he has will you be kind enough to cause a copy to be sent me. I make the application as the attorney of H. M. Hoxie, U. S. marshal, against whom an action is now pending to recover the forfeiture provided by statute for disregarding a writ of habeas corpus. The action was brought by William M. Hill, who was recently by your order consigned to Fort Lafayette.

Very respectfully,

THO. F. WITHROW.

* Not found.

† See case of George W. Jones, p. 1295.

FORT LAFAYETTE, New York Harbor, February 23, 1862.

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON, War Department, Washington.

DEAR SIR: I had fondly hoped that your recent proclamation would have reached my case and that I would have been released as a political prisoner. Some forty prisoners were discharged from this fort yesterday whose misdemeanors and offenses were of more magnitude than the one I am supposed to have committed. My misdemeanor is writing a sympathizing letter to friends in Virginia from Iowa, my adopted home. For this, too, I have been tried before the civil authorities of my State and honorably acquitted. I refer you to U. S. Attorney Gurley, of Iowa (who is now in Washington), and Senator James Harlan from Iowa.

I am willing to subscribe to the reasonable requisition of your proclamation or to take the oath of allegiance, and if required give any other obligation or security that may be required. All my property and interest is in a loyal State, where I expect to remain the residue of life. May I hope to hear of my release by return mail.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. M. HILL.

—
FEBRUARY 24, 1862.

I, William M. Hill, of Magnolia, Iowa, a prisoner confined in Fort Lafayette, N. Y., hereby make application to be released from custody on my parole of honor to render no aid or comfort to the enemies in hostility to the Government of the United States, in accordance with the terms of Executive Order, No. 1, of the War Department, dated February 14, 1862, in reference to political prisoners.

WILLIAM M. HILL.

—
SENATE CHAMBER, Washington, February 26, 1862.

The SECRETARY OF WAR.

SIR: We respectfully request that William M. Hill, a citizen of the United States residing in Iowa now in confinement at Fort Lafayette on an order as it is said emanating from the Secretary of State on account of suspicion of disloyalty, may be discharged from custody and permitted to return to his family.

Your obedient servants,

JAS. HARLAN.
JAMES W. GRIMES.

—
WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, March 3, 1862.

H. M. HOXIE, Esq., U. S. Marshal, Des Moines, Iowa.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 27th of January last, which was addressed to the Secretary of State, and also a letter from Thomas F. Withrow, esq., your attorney, relative to the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus in the State of Iowa. In reply I inclose a copy, authenticated, of an order* which was issued by the President on the 6th day of December last addressed to Major-General Halleck, commanding the Department of the Missouri, suspending the execution of the writ of habeas corpus within his command. I have also to inform you that by an order which was issued from this Department on the 9th day of August, 1861, the State of Iowa was included within the Department of the Missouri.

* Omitted here; see p. 1334; also see Vol. I, this series, pp. 230, 231, for correspondence relating to suspension of the habeas corpus act in General Halleck's department.

I am, sir, &c.,

E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, March 3, 1862.

H. M. HOXIE, Esq., U. S. Marshal, Des Moines, Iowa:

What are the names of the attorneys who have commenced proceedings against you for refusing to obey a writ of habeas corpus? Answer by telegraph.

E. D. WEBSTER.

FORT LAFAYETTE, N. Y., March 3, 1862.

General JOHN A. DIX, Baltimore, Md.

DEAR SIR: Unless I can get a parole for a few days I will not be able to offer my evidence explaining the circumstances under which I wrote a letter in which there is seeming aid and comfort to the rebellion. At that time I was aiming only to get my family through the lines of Wise and Floyd to their home. I had no thought of committing the act of treason against my Government. No one thought then the rebellion would assume such magnitude. The letter was returned to my address and pilfered from the post-office by an enemy, published in a paper that has ever aimed to traduce my humble name and character. I have read the copy. It is not all my production. I can get evidence of this at my home. I wrote my wife in Virginia advising her how to pass the armies. This was directed to some postmaster to forward to her. In that letter to the postmaster I may have flattered his views for the same designs.

Nearly every citizen of Iowa who is acquainted with my case would petition for my release. Thousands of devoted Union men have expressed their astonishment to me of the course pursued in my case. If you cannot consistently release me I ask to be remanded to my district? I will give good bond and go before a grand jury and ask that my case be investigated and will not depart until I am honorably discharged. I send you a copy of the order* of my release before I was arrested by the marshal; also some comments of newspapers showing the facts of the marshal's acts. I am not accountable for the course pursued by some of the newspapers of my State. They censure some of the Government officers. I wish it had been otherwise. It has been no advantage to me; but it is no fault of mine.

I hope, general, you will excuse my earnest and anxious demeanor. I have no one to present my case. While I fear the same persons who have formerly misrepresented me may do so again, all I ask is the evidence from the capital of Iowa (Des Moines) and from Magnolia, my home. My importance is not to be compared to Mr. Brounlen. While he is a public man of ability, I am an humble, quiet citizen. Yet he received his liberties after the civil action was dismissed against him. Hon. F. W. Palmer and the marshal are against my release because of the suits pending against the marshal. The marshal procured my arrest. You can see his designs.

I remain, general, your obedient servant,

WM. M. HILL.

* Not found.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, March 8, 1862.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK, Saint Louis, Mo.

GENERAL: I inclose herewith for your information a letter* from H. M. Hoxie, esq., the U. S. marshal for the district of Iowa, relative to proceedings which one C. C. Cole, who is represented to be a sympathizer with the persons in insurrection against the authority of the Government of the United States, has commenced against him for declining to obey a writ of habeas corpus while in the execution of an order from the Secretary of State. The State of Iowa is in your military department. The President by an order addressed to you on the 6th day of December last suspended that writ therein.

With a view to this arrest you will adopt such proceedings as you may find necessary to protect officers who perform whatsoever duties are required of them by the Executive. It is presumed that the arrest and detention of Mr. C. C. Cole would have a salutary effect. An order addressed to the U. S. marshal at Des Moines, Iowa, will without doubt be properly executed.

I have the honor to be, &c.,

E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, March 10, 1862.

Hons. JAMES HARLAN and JAMES W. GRIMES, U. S. Senate.

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 26th ultimo, requesting that "Mr. W. M. Hill, a citizen of the United States residing in Iowa now in confinement at Fort Lafayette on an order as it is said emanating from the Secretary of State on account of suspicion of disloyalty, may be discharged from custody and permitted to return to his family."

In reply I have the honor to state that Mr. Hill is held upon what appears to be conclusive evidence that he not only sympathized with the enemies in hostility to the Government of the United States but that he was actually engaged in affording aid and comfort to them in the character of a spy. It is presumed, however, that in making this request you may have been actuated by a knowledge of facts of which this Department may not be aware. I will consequently thank you to state the reasons upon which your application is founded.

I have the honor to be, &c.,

E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

SENATE CHAMBER, Washington, March 13, 1862.

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

SIR: We have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 10th instant concerning the imprisonment of William M. Hill, of Iowa, at Fort Lafayette. We are informed that Mr. Hill was indicted by the grand jury of the U. S. district court for Iowa, but that Hon. W. H. F. Gurley, U. S. district attorney for Iowa, after consultation with the Attorney-General of the United States entered a nol. pros. in the case on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence to convict Mr. Hill of treason.

*Omitted here. See Hoxie to Seward January 27, with its inclosures, p. 1326.

Although at the beginning of the rebellion Mr. Hill's sympathies may have been with the enemies of the Government we do not believe he has been guilty of any act of treason, and from the best information we have now before us we believe him to be in sympathy with the Government and that he has been sufficiently punished for any improper acts of which we have any knowledge.

Your obedient servants,

JAS HARLAN.
JAMES W. GRIMES.

—
SAINT LOUIS, March 15, 1862.

H. M. HOXIE, Esq., U. S. Marshal, Des Moines.

SIR: I had authority to declare martial law in Iowa but have never exercised it. I have made and send herewith an order in relation to Hill in order to protect you so far as I can. I must have immediately a full report of the facts of the case in order to justify me in this proceeding. Unless this is given and it is satisfactorily stated that it is necessary for public good to exercise this power the order will be revoked.

I am inclined to think from your letter to Secretary Seward* that this difficulty has grown out of some newspaper quarrel. If so I shall have nothing further to do with it. I permit the newspapers to abuse me to their hearts' content and I advise you to do the same. It is, however, a very difficult matter where they assist and encourage the enemies of our Government in this unholy rebellion.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General.

[Inclosure.]

SAINT LOUIS, March 15, 1862.

H. M. HOXIE, Esq.,

U. S. Marshal, District of Iowa, Des Moines:

By virtue of authority conferred on me by the President of the United States I direct that you do not release William M. Hill without the proper orders from these headquarters, the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus being suspended in regard to said Hill. You are authorized to disregard the writ or process of any civil court which may have been or may be issued for the release or production before the court of the body of the prisoner.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General.

—
FORT LAFAYETTE, N. Y., March 17, 1862.

General JOHN A. DIX,

Hon. Judge PIERREPONT,

Commissioners, Washington City.

GENTLEMEN: I have aimed to forward to you the evidence of my trial and acquittal in my State and district of the accusation of treason, the same charge under which I am held here as a political prisoner. I am hopeful that this evidence with evidence in my behalf is before you.

I will reiterate though that I am only accused of writing a sympathizing letter to friends in Virginia long before the rebellion assumed the magnitude it has (May, 1861). This imprudent letter, too, was written while my wife was there on a visit, and pleading for a way or passage through the armies of Virginia to her home in Iowa. The letter was designed to pave my way through the armies who would otherwise have denied me a passage, and would in my opinion have been held as a spy and refused me passage and prevented me returning with my wife to my home in a loyal State. With much difficulty I made the journey and returned to my home and office.

*Probably refers to copy of Hoxie to Seward, January 27, ante.

The citizens of my State and the legal tribunal through which I have been made to pass with this mistaken charge against me have judged that I committed an imprudent act only, and all have been surprised that I have been made to bear the punishment I have, and all would without distinction of party speed the day of my release. Had not the marshal of the State with seeming malicious and speculative designs filed the information against me and urged my prosecution the Government or no one else would have judged I had designed to commit treason against my Government, nor would my humble and quiet position as a citizen ever been noticed by legal or Government counsel. I may be all wrong in so referring to the marshal of Iowa, but the journals of the State I have sent you expose his illegal acts in my prosecution for which he has been sued (but not at my request or will). His exposition has brought him and a few of his friends down upon my incarcerated head and they are again misrepresenting me. I am thankful I am not to pass under their judgment, but under yours, who will judge me as I deserve.

I have aimed to forward you letters of Messrs. Harlan and Grimes, Iowa Senators, who have been made acquainted with my offense and who have made written request to the War Department for my release (since your appointment). I refer you to them; also to U. S. Attorney Gurley for Iowa, now in Washington; to U. S. Judge Love of Iowa, who judged me not guilty of treason; who tried me and honorably acquitted me. I wish I could refer you to the opinion of the press and the almost unanimous [voice] of the citizens of Iowa in my favor. But I must not intrude more upon your time. I have asked in case you cannot immediately discharge me to send me to my State and district, where I will ask a bill being found and a trial before those who are well acquainted with my loyalty; where I will neither ask to challenge a juror nor introduce a witness, nor depart until my title to freedom is clear. I have asked, too, for a parole to seek my liberty through an exchange of some grade designated by the Government—to secure my liberty and return to my office, my home and suffering family. I have asked to renew my pledge of loyalty by taking the oath of allegiance. I have no interest in Virginia nor in this rebellion. All I possess is in Iowa, my home. I must be excused for presenting my own case. I have no acquaintance to plead for me nearer than Iowa.

With hopes to hear from you soon, I remain, gentlemen, humbly, yours,

WM. M. HILL.

—

FORT LAFAYETTE, N. Y., March 18, 1862.

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON, War Department, Washington.

DEAR SIR: Senator Harlan and Senator Grimes, of Iowa, kindly sent me your letter addressed to them concerning the charges against [me] and my release.

I am much surprised to learn that I am charged with disloyalty, aiding and comforting the enemies and even [being] a spy. Whoever has made these accusations against me has done me great injustice. The only act of error and imprudence I have committed was in writing a letter to Virginia while my family were there to enable me to pass the armies and get my family home. Had I not resorted to flattery, sympathy and deception I would likely have been incarcerated in a Southern prison as a spy in my endeavors to get my family home. I repeat again frankly and honestly and truthfully that was all that induced me to write at all to Virginia, and this letter, too, was written long before the rebellion assumed the magnitude it has (May, 1861), since which time and before I have acted the part of a loyal citizen in a loyal district and State, having no communication with the South nor desiring any; and living content a thousand miles from the South how unreasonable it is that I can be charged as a spy. If I was a traitor or desired the success of the rebellion I would have remained in Virginia, but I have no interest there nor any in the South nor in the rebellion. All my interests are in Iowa, and I would I could refer the Department to the citizens of my district and get their truthful verdict as a loyal citizen.

I know I have been much wronged in this prosecution by the marshal of the State, who with a few others for the per diem and fees and through seeming malice have made me suffer for many months in this prison while my family are among strangers. For the truth of this hasty assertion I refer your honor to my trial and acquittal under charge of treason in the U. S. court of Iowa, to U. S. Judge Love and U. S. Attorney Gurley.

To get me confined here the marshal kidnapped me—stole me from the custody of an officer who had served upon him the sacred writ of habeas corpus for my release. Thus I have been misrepresented and thus denied the benefit of the habeas corpus writ, and, too, after having been acquitted of the same charge that stands in your Department.

I have asked to be discharged. If refused I ask to be sent to my district where I will ask the finding of a bill (if possible to indict me for treason) and will faithfully abide the decision of my State.

There is not one citizen of my State who is acquainted with my case but will say I have been much wronged and would plead for my release. Surely I have been punished already more than my offense justifies. For the safety of my family and myself I did write only a sympathizing letter. That too may have been altered as I never have seen it since it was published. If my case is with the commissioners I hope this will be given them.

With great hopes and respect, I await and submit my liberty to your good will.

Very obediently,

WM. M. HILL.

FORT LAFAYETTE, N. Y., March 23, 1862.

General JOHN A. DIX,
Hon. EDWARDS PIERREPONT.

GENTLEMEN: I have before me honorable Secretary Stanton's letter of the 20th informing me that my case (state or political prisoner) was referred to you and that my release depended upon your decision. I have aimed to get the evidence in my favor (sufficient I think to discharge me) before you, though I am not certain it is now before you. The great distance from my home, from friends, and the difficulties of communication and presenting my case with that light and truth I would wish prompted me again to refer to other evidence in case you have not received my letters or that they are not sufficient for my discharge.

At my former trial for the crime and offense of writing the unfortunate letter I had evidence to prove that the person who abstracted the letter from the post-office—the editor who published it—had materially altered the wording of it. (They are revengeful enemies.) When I was discharged by the U. S. court from further prosecution by the entering of a nolle the jurors and Government witnesses signed an entry to the effect that my prosecution was unwise, unnecessary, and calculated not to result in any good in the cause of the Government.

This resolve by those who know me well, the circumstances under which this letter was written, and my loyalty, together with the record of my acquittal and discharge, I have written to the clerk of the U. S. court at Des Moines, Iowa, to send you. If you have not received them reference is made to Mr. Gurley, U. S. attorney of Iowa, who is now in Washington. Senators Harlan and Grimes, of Iowa, have been made acquainted with my case. I hope it may be convenient for you to refer to them.

It seems some one has done me the injustice to accuse me of aiding, comforting, and even accuse me of acting as a spy to the rebels. I have not written at all or communicated with any one South for eighteen months except the letter designed to aid me in meeting my family. I reside too in a loyal State where all my interest is centered, a thousand miles from a rebellious district. My loyalty is not doubted by any citizen of my State who knows me; nor would my imprudence ever been noticed or my little property sacrificed or I been for many months incarcerated had not personal enemies promoted it all and magnified my offense.

I wish I could inform you how much the marshal of Iowa is censured by the citizens of the State for his malicious persecution. He first commenced my troubles and it is said to get his per diem and mileage from the Government. He has been sued for his violation of right in my prosecution and I know he and his friends are doing all they can to misrepresent me. I will not again give my excuses and apologies for writing at the time I did. My motives I have stated, and whatever wrong I have done I surely have received my just punishment already. It is my anxious wish to be sent to my district, where I will urge a trial in case I am not readily released. I wish I could be informed who made the charges against me and upon what grounds.

I am, gentlemen, your humble servant,

WM. M. HILL.

WASHINGTON, March 24, 1862.

WILLIAM M. HILL, Esq., Fort Lafayette, N. Y.

DEAR SIR: The Iowa delegation in Congress have this day united in requesting your discharge from confinement. I have no doubt our request will be complied with.

Your obedient servant,

JAMES W. GRIMES.

COMMISSION RELATING TO STATE PRISONERS,
New York, April 8, 1862.

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War, Washington.

SIR: We have the honor to inform you that we have had under consideration the case of William M. Hill, of Iowa, and respectfully rec-commend that he be discharged upon taking the oath of allegiance to the Government of the United States, stipulating that he will do no act hostile or injurious to the Government of the United States, and that he will release all claims against the U. S. marshal for the district of Iowa growing in any manner out of his arrest and confinement and particularly in disregarding the writ of habeas corpus.

Very respectfully, yours,

JOHN A. DIX,
EDWARDS PIERREPONT,
Commissioners.

FORT LAFAYETTE, N. Y., April 10, 1862.

General JOHN A. DIX,
Hon. EDWARDS PIERREPONT,
Commissioners.

GENTLEMEN: Deputy U. S. marshal informs me that you had requested him to say to me that you had agreed upon my release and that I would receive my discharge in a few days. I am not informed upon what conditions. I would rather have been sent to my State and district for trial, but will accept your conditions, as I anticipate them reasonable from the questions propounded while I was before you. I have a friend in the city from Iowa who is waiting to advance me some means and accompany me home. It would be of great convenience and pleasure to know the time I may expect my discharge, and if it is necessary for you to await further instructions from Washington. May I hope for an answer.

Very respectfully,

WM. M. HILL.

FORT LAFAYETTE, N. Y., April 14, 1862.

Hon. JAMES W. GRIMES, U. S. Senate.

DEAR FRIEND: I am under many obligations to you and Senator Harlan for the sympathy you have manifested for me, and for your kindness and efforts in releasing me from my unhappy confinement. Though I have troubled you much I will ask another favor of you.

Messrs. Dix and Pierrepont have recommended my release on the conditions that I dismiss suits commenced in Iowa against Mr. Hoxie, the marshal, and by taking the oath of allegiance. This I am willing to do. I informed you that Mr. Cole, who had formerly acted as my attorney, had no authority to bring these suits; that what he has done was without my authority or knowledge. I have not consulted with him, nor has he ever informed me of the bringing of these suits. I think Mr. Hoxie has done me great injustice, but I never thought of suing him, as I know litigation with a Government officer would only redound to my disadvantage. But to my request. I respectfully ask that you would personally refer to the War Department and see that the papers for my release are made out and sent on. Under the press of business the recommendation and application of the Commissioners may remain in the office days and weeks without being sent on.

I cannot be misinformed of the decision of the commissioners. It comes through Mr. Webster, the Secretary; also through U. S. marshal. I cannot think the Government will refuse to discharge me under these circumstances. If there is any refusal or any cause, will you please inform me what can be the reason. You can reiterate the opinion of Mr. Gurley, U. S. attorney, who knows all about my case—my innocence of the charge against me. You can refer to my trial and acquittal, to my loyalty, the great distance I reside from the South, and that all my wrong consists in writing a sympathizing letter to my friends in Virginia, designed to get my family home through the armies. The letter of the Iowa delegation* for my release to the President can also be transferred to Mr. Stanton. I hope I may hear from you by return mail. I hope to be situated so I can repay you for your kindness.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. M. HILL.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, April 26, 1862.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. DIX,

Hon. EDWARDS PIERREPONT,

Commissioners.

GENTLEMEN: The Secretary of War directs me to acknowledge your letter of the 9th [8th] instant * * * recommending that William M. Hill be released on taking the oath of allegiance and stipulating to release all suits and claims against the U. S. marshal, H. M. Hoxie, growing out of the execution of any orders in connection with his arrest. He approves your findings as above stated and directs that you carry into effect the decision in respect to William M. Hill upon the terms and conditions proposed.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

P. H. WATSON,
Assistant Secretary of War.

APRIL 28, 1862.

ROBERT MURRAY, Esq., U. S. Marshal, New York.

SIR: You will please bring before the commission to-morrow (Tuesday, April 29), at 11 a. m., the following-named prisoners confined at Fort Lafayette, viz, * * * William [M.] Hill.

By order of the commission:

E. D. WEBSTER,
Secretary.

COMMISSION RELATING TO STATE PRISONERS,
New York, April 29, 1862.

Lient. Col. MARTIN BURKE, Fort Lafayette.

COLONEL: Mr. Hill having taken the oath of allegiance and engaged to relinquish all claims against the U. S. marshal for the district of Iowa growing in any manner out of his arrest and confinement you will please release him.

Very respectfully, yours,

JOHN A. DIX,
EDWARDS PIERREPONT,
Commissioners.

* Does not appear in the case.

Case of Messrs. Hunter and Hull.

Samuel Hunter was arrested by the military authorities near Sandy Hook, on the Upper Potomac, and sent by order of Major-General Banks December 25, 1861, to the provost-marshal of Washington who committed him to the Old Capitol Prison. The charges against Hunter were that in violation of the President's proclamation interdicting correspondence and commercial intercourse with the rebel States he went to Virginia in August, 1861, on a collecting tour for the firm of Hopkins, Hull & Atkinson, of Baltimore; that by representing the members of that firm loyal to the Confederate States he traveled with impunity through the insurrectionary States, and on his return brought with him various business and social letters to be delivered by him personally or mailed to parties in the North. Application having been made for the release of Hunter an order was issued from the Department of State January 22, 1862, directing the provost-marshal of Washington to discharge him on his taking an oath not to visit any of the insurrectionary States during the present war without consent of the Secretary of State, or do any act hostile to the Government of the United States. The said Samuel Hunter was accordingly released.

Robert Hull was arrested January 30, 1862, in Baltimore by order of the Secretary of State and committed to Fort McHenry and from thence conveyed to Fort Lafayette. The charges against Hull were that in violation of the President's proclamation interdicting communication with the rebel States he with his partners representing the firm of Hopkins, Hull & Atkinson doing business in Baltimore sent Samuel Hunter as their authorized agent to Virginia and the Southern States to collect moneys and accounts due the firm. The said Hunter upon his return having been arrested by the military authorities of the United States near Harper's Ferry, upon his person were found letters and certain correspondence implicating Robert Hull and his partners with being in sympathy with the rebels. It appears that the said Hunter while acting as agent of the said firm found difficulty in making collections, and in behalf of Messrs. Hopkins, Hull & Atkinson addressed the following letter to a firm in Richmond.* Mr. Hunter acting under the written authority of Hopkins, Hull & Atkinson assures their friends that that firm is "known to be loyal to the Confederate States." February 5, 1862, an order was issued from the Department of State directing the release of Hull on his taking the oath of allegiance and entering into stipulations to do no act hostile to the Government of the United States. This offer of release was declined, and in reference to it Hull wrote February 9, 1862, as follows:

I was offered my release yesterday on taking the oath of allegiance, which I had respectfully to decline. Even if so disposed it would ruin me with nine-tenths of our customers who live in the South, but I had no idea of taking it under any circumstances.

The said Robert Hull† remained in custody at Fort Lafayette February 15, 1862, when in accordance with the order of the War Department of the preceding day he was transferred to the charge of that Department.—From Record Book, State Department, "Arrests for Disloyalty."

* Omitted here. For Hunter to Messrs. Meredith, Spencer & Co., September 23, see p. 1341.

† For Dix to Stanton, February 20, 1862, recommending Hull's retention among others as a dangerous prisoner, see Vol. I, this series, p. 738.

HDQRS. CITY GUARD, PROVOST-MARSHAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., January 7, 1862.

Brig. Gen. A. PORTER, Provost-Marshal.

DEAR SIR: In the case of Samuel Hunter, a prisoner confined in the Old Capitol Building, I have the honor to report as follows:

Said Hunter was sent here from General Banks' division on the 25th of December ultimo, having come into our lines from Virginia near Sandy Hook, Md. On examination at this office he stated that he was a native of Ireland; that he emigrated to this country about eleven years ago; that he had resided in Baltimore, Md., ever since he arrived in this country; that he was now twenty-one years of age; that he did not know whether he was a citizen of the United States or not; that he had never been naturalized and did not know whether his father ever had been or not; that he had been in the employ of Messrs. Hopkins, Hull & Atkinson, dry goods merchants, 258 Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md., for the last six years as clerk; that for the last year he had been engaged in collecting bills for goods sold by the above-mentioned firm; that on the 31st of August last he was requested by his employers to go South on a collecting tour; that he accordingly went as requested; that he took no letters or communications of any kind with him except his own simple accounts; that he went by the way of the Eastern Shore of Virginia, and had no difficulty in getting along, having stated who he was, what his business was, &c.; that having made a tour of considerable extent in the South he started from Richmond on the 19th of December to return to Baltimore; that he went by the railroad to Strasburg via Manassas Junction, thence to Winchester in an omnibus, thence to Charlestown by railroad, and thence to Harper's Ferry by private conveyance, where he arrived on the morning of the 24th of December; that he engaged a man there who raised a white flag and put him across the river into Maryland; that on landing on the Maryland shore he was taken into custody by the Union pickets and conducted to the headquarters of Major Tyndale, where he was searched and then sent to the headquarters of General Banks at Frederick, whence he was sent under guard to this city. Among the papers found upon the person and in the baggage of Hunter were the following:

BALTIMORE, April 30, 1861.

TO OUR CUSTOMERS AND FRIENDS IN EAST TENNESSEE, VIRGINIA AND ALABAMA:

The bearer of this, Mr. Samuel Hunter, is hereby authorized by us to attend to the settlement of our business in the above-mentioned States and to receipt for any money paid for our account, and his receipt will be good against us for the same.

HOPKINS, HULL & ATKINSON.

WYTHEVILLE, Va., September 23, 1861.

Messrs. MEREDITH, SPENCER & Co., Richmond, Va.

DEAR SIR: You will do me a great favor by inquiring of the attorney-general or some other competent person whether there is a law or proclamation in Virginia or in the Confederate States prohibiting the payment of debts to Baltimore houses who are known to be loyal to the Confederate States. I have met with considerable objection on this account. Some of our best customers have an idea that it is a penal offense and have refused to pay the money on that account although they were anxious to do so. If there is no law or proclamation to the above effect, if you can get the attorney-general or other competent person to give you a few lines to that effect and inclose it to me it will promote my business very much. Our friends are all willing to pay their Baltimore debts but have doubts on the above subject. Please write me as soon as possible to care of Keebler & Pepper, Bristol, Va., what the attorney [-general] says about it; and if you can get me a few lines from him please do so. If you think fit you can just show him this letter.

Your early attention will much oblige yours, respectfully,

SAMUEL HUNTER,

For HOPKINS, HULL & ATKINSON.

RICHMOND, October 21, 1861.

MR. SAMUEL HUNTER.

DEAR SIR: Yours of the 14th was received a day or two ago and I have seen the attorney-general and herewith inclose the law in regard to the collection of debts due Maryland. Your letter to Hopkins, Hull & Co. I will send so soon as an opportunity occurs, which is rare now. I have been able to hear but little from Baltimore for some time, and that little of very unsatisfactory character. Your first letter was received while I was out and so long after the time you wished me to write you to a certain point that I did not write you. Hope you may have success in your business operations. Write me when I can be of use to you.

Very respectfully, yours,

E. N. SPILLER.

Besides these letters there were found among the papers of Hunter sundry business letters from citizens of the South (mostly in reference to accounts in his hands for collection), and also a few social letters from citizens of the South to their friends in the North which Hunter was bringing within our lines for the purpose of mailing or delivering in person. It is perhaps due to Hunter to say that there were no papers found in his possession of a treasonable character any further than those above mentioned may come under that definition. Upon Hunter's person also was found $4,240 in Virginia bank bills which I have given up to Mr. Robert Hull on Hunter's order, taking the former's receipt therefor.

On the 1st of January the following document was received by mail at this office, post-marked Baltimore, Md.:

The undersigned, doing business in the city of Baltimore, desire to state that the debts due them being almost entirely in the South, and their only dependence either for living or paying their debts being the debts due them, and feeling it due to themselves as well as to their creditors to do all in their power to collect and secure their debts, sent their clerk, Samuel Hunter, who has been living with them several years and whom they know to be a man of the strictest integrity, to Virginia in August, 1861, with instructions to take with him no letters or correspondence, and to bring none with him on his return. The object of his trip was only to secure and collect the debts due us and to bring the money home with him so that we might be able to pay those to whom we were indebted here and in the North, who were then as now very urgent and pressing. Since his departure we have not written to him except on business, nor has he to us. He has been since his departure diligently engaged in attending to our business, and as we are satisfied to that only. On his arrival at Frederick, Md., a few days since he was arrested and taken to Washington and is now held a prisoner there.

As the trip on which we sent him was only on business as stated before, we respectfully ask that he be discharged.

HOPKINS, HULL & ATKINSON.

BALTIMORE, December 31, 1861.

The above firm are highly respectable, and I have no doubt that their statements may be implicitly relied on.

GEO. R. DODGE,
Provost-Marshal.

It is of course unnecessary for me to say that the whole mission of Hunter if not the agency of his employers in the matter was in direct contravention of the President's proclamation in regard to communicating with the rebel States, while it is for others also to define the penalty due such an offense. But the written intimation of Hunter in the South that his employers were known to be loyal to the Confederate States is a very serious aggravation of the matter. Here we have a case of a mercantile firm living and flourishing under the protection of the Federal Government confessing themselves through an authorized agent traitor to that Government, and openly bidding defiance to the ordinances of the executive officers by communicating with its enemies in arms through an agent alike faithful to their pecuniary interests and their traitorous designs.

I cannot see how the Government can secure proper respect for its ordinances or discharge its duty to the loyal people and the loyal and brave army enlisted in its support without in this case, as in all others of the kind, holding to strict account all the parties concerned in contraband communication with the enemy. I deem it my duty therefore on this occasion after a thorough examination of the case to recommend and urge not only that Hunter be held in custody until all occasion for his contraband agency is over, but that his three employers, Messrs. Hopkins, Hull & Atkinson, of Baltimore, the principals in this habitual contraband business, be arrested and so disposed of as to effectually prevent any further indulgence in their treasonable propensities.

All of which is respectfully submitted by your obedient servant.

E. J. ALLEN.

[Indorsement.]

Respectfully forwarded to Hon. W. H. Seward, Secretary of State.

A. PORTER,

Brigadier-General and Provost-Marshal.

—

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, January 22, 1862.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. DIX, Baltimore, Md.

GENERAL: I will thank you to inquire and report to me the names in full of each of the persons composing the firm of Hopkins, Hull & Atkinson, doing business in Baltimore, and whether any of them are citizens of the United States, and if so which of them.

I have the honor to be, &c.,

F. W. SEWARD,
Assistant Secretary.

—

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, January 22, 1862.

Brig. Gen. ANDREW PORTER, Provost-Marshal.

SIR: Let Samuel Hunter, a prisoner confined in the Old Capitol Prison, be released on engaging upon oath that he will neither enter any of the States in insurrection against the authority of the United States Government nor hold any correspondence whatever with persons residing in those States without permission from the Secretary of State; and also that he will not do anything hostile to the United States during the present insurrection.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. W. SEWARD,
Assistant Secretary.

—

BALTIMORE, January 23, 1862.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. DIX.

SIR: Referring to the inquiry as to the firm of dry goods merchants here of Hopkins, Hull & Atkinson I have to state that Basil Hopkins, Robert Hull and Thomas W. Atkinson compose the firm. They are all citizens of the United States. The first-named, Hopkins, is known to be a Union man; the others are secessionists. They have a large number of accounts due them in the South.

Yours, respectfully,

GEO. R. DODGE,
Provost-Marshal.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, January 28, 1862.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. DIX, Baltimore, Md.

GENERAL: I am directed by the Secretary of State to request that you will arrest and convey to Fort Lafayette, New York Harbor, Mr. Robert Hull. You will please make a thorough examination of his person and the premises of the firm of Hopkins, Hull & Atkinson for treasonable correspondence. Please transmit all such of which you may take possession together with your report thereon to this Department.

I have the honor to be, &c.,

F. W. SEWARD,
Assistant Secretary.

HEADQUARTERS, Baltimore, January 30, 1862.

Hon. WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.

SIR: Mr. Robert Hull, of the firm of Hopkins, Hull & Atkinson, has been arrested and will be sent to Fort Lafayette to-morrow with twelve others, political prisoners from Fort McHenry. His person and the premises were searched but no treasonable correspondence has been found.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. DIX,
Major-General.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, February 5, 1862.

Col. MARTIN BURKE, Fort Hamilton, N. Y.

COLONEL: Mr. Robert Hull, of Baltimore, who has recently been committed to Fort Lafayette, is a member of the firm of Hull, Hopkins & Atkinson of that city. In the course of the last summer this firm in defiance of the President's proclamation sent an agent to Virginia on business who must have surreptitiously passed through the military lines of the United States. On his return, however, he was arrested and confined in this city, and there was found upon him a correspondence by which the loyalty of his employers was compromised. The firm referred to then applied to Lord Lyons to ask for his release on the ground that he was a British subject, and he was released accordingly. It was then deemed advisable to arrest one of the principals, and Mr. Hull was selected for that purpose. You may, however, inform him that if he will take the oath of allegiance to the United States he will be set at liberty, and if he does take the oath you may release him.

I am, colonel, your very obedient servant,

WILLIAM H. SEWARD.

FORT WARREN, Near Boston, May 7, 1862.

Major-General DIX and Hon. EDWARDS PIERREPONT.

GENTLEMEN: I am a native citizen of the State of New York but have resided in Maryland for the last twenty-nine years. On the 30th of January last whilst in the legal prosecution of my business I was arrested by an officer professing to act under an order of the Hon. F. W. Seward, Assistant Secretary of State of the United States, and forcibly taken to Fort McHenry, where I remained one night; then I was taken to Fort Lafayette by an armed force and treated on the route like a common felon. Remained there some fortnight or more and from thence removed to this place and kept as a prisoner ever since, without any charge having been made against me and without any legal warrant for my arrest. My house and place of business were searched without warrant and without oath; all of which was in violation of the Constitution of the United States, and particularly of the fourth article of "amendments to the Constitution."

I was on the 8th of February last tendered my release on condition of taking an oath of allegiance not required by law, which I declined. There is no provision of the Constitution or any law which requires of private citizens any such oath, and I object to being singled out and marked with suspicion by having any such oath imposed on me. I have never yet been informed as to what is charged against me and I am not conscious of having violated any law; therefore I do not want any amnesty nor will I give any parole or take any oath not required by the law of the land; but I claim as I have a right to do an immediate and unconditional release from my present unjust and illegal imprisonment. If I have done any act contrary to the laws of my State or of the United States I claim a speedy trial by my peers.

Very respectfully,

ROBT. HULL.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, D. C., May 15, 1862.
Mr. ROBERT HULL, Fort Warren, Boston Harbor, Mass.

SIR: The Secretary of War directs me to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 8th instant* stating that you had declined being released on the terms offered by the commissioners and asking to be paroled thirty days, and to inform you in reply that your request cannot be complied with.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

P. H. WATSON,
Assistant Secretary of War.

FORT WARREN, Boston Harbor, November 27, 1862.
General L. THOMAS, Adjutant-General, Washington, D. C.

SIR: I have the honor to report that I have this day released the following-named prisoners in obedience to telegram† 26th instant, viz,
* * * Robert Hull. * * *

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. DIMICK,
Colonel First Artillery, Commanding Post.

Case of Arthur Brown.

Arthur Brown was arrested by order of the Secretary of State at Fairfield, Conn., by U. S. Marshal David H. Carr on the 7th of February, 1862, and committed to Fort Lafayette. He was charged with disloyalty and the strongest sympathy with the rebel cause. A letter said to have dropped from his pocket dated Richmond, December 31, 1861, and signed "F. C. P.," informed him that his proposition to purchase a fast steamer and go at privateering met with Jefferson Davis' most hearty approval. Advised him to come without delay to rebel-dom by the way of Baltimore, where his friends would see him safe through the lines. The writer also suggests that he does not think it advisable to drop down to Africa, as there would be danger of capture before getting into Congo. The said Arthur Brown remained in custody at Fort Lafayette February 15, 1862, when he was transferred to the charge of the War Department.—From Record Book, State Department, "Arrests for Disloyalty."

* Not found.

† For Townsend to Dimick, November 26, 1862, ordering release of all the Maryland state prisoners, see Vol. I, this series, p. 748.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, March 12, 1862.

Lient. Col. MARTIN BURKE,
Fort Lafayette, New York Harbor.

COLONEL: You may release Mr. Arthur Brown, a prisoner confined in Fort Lafayette, upon his giving his written parole of honor that he will render no aid or comfort to the enemies in hostility to the Government of the United States.

By order of the Secretary of War:

L. THOMAS,
Adjutant-General.

[FORT LAFAYETTE,] March 15, 1862.

I, Arthur Brown, of New York City, do hereby give my parole of honor that I will render no aid or comfort to the enemies in hostility to the Government of the United States.

ARTHUR BROWN.

Witness present—

HARRY C. EGBERT,
First Lieutenant, Twelfth Infantry.

Case of Mrs. Augusta Morris.

Mrs. Augusta Morris,* alias Miss Ada M. Hewitt, alias Mrs. Mason, was arrested by order of Major-General McClellan and confined in the Old Capitol Prison February 7, 1862. She was charged with being a spy in the employ of the rebels. The said Miss Hewitt, or Mrs. Morris, remained in custody at the Old Capitol Prison February 15, 1862, when in conformity with the order of the War Department of the preceding day she was transferred to the charge of that Department.—From Record Book, State Department, "Arrests for Disloyalty."

Information obtained by a thorough examination and study of the papers of Mrs. Augusta Heath Morris, otherwise Mason.

That on the 20th of January, 1854, she as Mlle. Augusta Heath Morris was married in Paris to John Francis Mason in the presence of Julian Taylor, of Virginia, and George W. Morris, of South Carolina, and all of the United States; that Mason has a mother (a Mrs. Mason) at or in the vicinity of Frederick, Md., with whom he seems to reside principally, and that his Parisian wife goes by the name of Mrs. Morris; that Mrs. Morris is a second Mrs. Greenhow, having been boarding in style at Brown's Hotel and been engaged principally it would seem in collecting information and communicating it to the enemy; that she has been in correspondence with Thomas John Rayford,* the rebel correspondent of Mrs. Greenhow, &c.; that Rayford for the purpose of misleading detectives has been in the habit of dating his letters as from New York City while writing from secesh; that he (Rayford) has called on Mrs. Morris at Brown's Hotel since she has been there; that Mrs. Morris left the Ebbitt House for Brown's Hotel under the auspices of a Mr. Elias M. Green, a Quaker; that since Mrs. Morris' sojourn at Brown's Hotel she has had more or less social intercourse with Mansfield T. Walworth, Major McClure, George A. Hanson, Capt. Fred. Buclock, U. S. Army, E. W. Belt, Upper Marlborough, Md., Mrs. and Miss Mackall, Mrs. Merrick, Hon. J. S. Rollins, Edward Loring, Mr. Lovejoy, &c., but with none of these parties does there appear to have been any intercourse but of a social nature; that she has a social correspondent at Frederick, Md., named E. A. Hanson; that she has a lady correspondent in New York named Mrs. Gildersleeve, who seems to be on very intimate terms with her socially; that she has a lady correspondent in Baltimore named Mrs. C. S. Wilson, in whose possession interesting correspondence might no doubt be found; that Daniel R. Kenney, of Point of Rocks, offered to see Mrs. Morris safe across the river on the 27th of July when she was at Frederick. He had just sent a note across to Mrs. Mason for her, showing that Mrs. Mason was probably at the time in Virginia; that Mrs. Morris corresponds socially with Lizzie Grant, Oswego, N. Y., Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Syms, 300 Broadway, Mrs. Beaumont, Miss Price, Mrs. Walworth, Mrs. Gildersleeve, Mrs. Speed, her husband, &c.; that in a note to her at Brown's Hotel Mansfield T. Walworth spoke of a Mrs. R. being about to leave the city and wishing to see her; that in one of Rayford's letters to her he speaks of their cousin, Jane Elmford, being in co-operation with them in Washington, and hopes that she was not involved by the arrest of "ফজল," probably W. T. S. (Smithson).† He also spoke of "poor ফজল" (R. G.) as being a persecuted individual. He also speaks of a friend of theirs whom Nesmith, of Oregon, is after with resolutions of inquiry, thus giving a clue to said friend by communicating with Nesmith; that she (Mrs. Morris) has been informed by some faithful Maryland friends that Mrs. Baxley has been put in prison with Mrs. Greenhow to get all she could out of her. She asks Rayford for information about her (Mrs. B.)

*In connection with this case see case of Mrs. Greenhow, p. 561 et seq.; also case of Mrs. Baxley, p. 1315 et seq.

There is nothing in the papers of Mrs. Morris or of himself to show any treasonable practices on the part of M. T. Walworth.‡ He appeared to be mixed up with Mrs. M. socially to some extent, like several other parties.

[E. J. ALLEN.]

* Rayford was Thomas Jordan, assistant adjutant-general to General Beauregard.

† See case of Smithson, p. 1354 et seq.

‡ See case of Walworth, p. 1351.

*Copies of intercepted letters sent out of the Old Capitol Prison by Mrs.
Augusta Heath Morris February 27, 1862.*

[No. 1.]

PRIVATE.]

OLD CAPITOL PRISON, February 19, 1862.

Dr. J. F. MASON,

Care Maj. T. G. Rhett, Asst. Adjt. Gen. of Johnston's Staff:

(To be forwarded.)

Two days after I laid my babe down to rest—the 7th of February, his birthday—I was arrested at Brown's Hotel—where I have lived ever since I have been in Washington—for giving information to the enemy. I write you this letter to let you know how futile was the attempt of your good mother to have me either arrested or exiled from the South; that I actually left the South, sent by General Joe Johnston and General Beauregard, and with the consent of the President, to go to Washington and see if my feeble efforts could be of use to them. I may not have been of use, but I am so dangerous, or so considered by this Government, that a military necessity compels them to arrest me, in the language of General McClellan]. He, however, arrested me too late. I already had gotten his plans, as laid before the military committee, from one of the members. It is true that your mother's voice did have some weight with General Winder who protested at my leaving the country; but he being politely informed to mind his own business I consequently left upon my mission. I left as an alien; but that stain will be removed from my child and we will have a claim on the Southern Government, and I shall be able to fight you and your mother from a fortress.

I hold in my possession the proof of your mother's constant communication across the river with Colonel Stone. I have two of our friends to bear witness to my conversation with Mrs. Buell when she said her (your mother's) property here was secure; it was all safe; the Government understood your position perfectly—to use her elegant phraseology, "that they were all right," meaning you and your mother. Then my conversation with the Secretary of State places it beyond a doubt that it is your mother that is the traitor and not I. Colonel W.'s was broken in and robbed. The Government had it closely investigated and the perpetrators punished. "Huntly" has not been touched. All this goes to prove that your mother's position is very well understood here by the Lincoln Government. I have understood from parties in Frederick that your mother wrote to Colonel Geary that she had committed an error in trying to fasten upon me the suspicion of having an intrigue with the commander at Point of Rocks. She told me to my face, "She must be a spy, for how else could she (I) have gotten across the river?"—that I had actually left the country as a spy for the Southern Government. Geary replied, "It was only Mrs. Mason's malignity," and he paid no attention to it, and he is now actually trying to get me released upon parole; but I will not come out upon that. I have worked for them ever since the war broke out, and will never yield until they do, and not even then.

I wrote you a letter from Leesburg, which is more than probable that you did not get as I waited in Richmond for the answer. I was detained at Fairfax to get my instructions some weeks, for the arrangements for my leaving were being made, and whilst there I saw Bradley T. Johnson. I believe he is my friend—at least he pretends to be, or from policy, seeing that my friends were those that held all in their hand. I staid a day with him at the station. He was very kind to me and the children. He is a dear funny fellow. He tells me he told Mrs. Johnson the night before the fight at Manassas of me and my children, and she would be a friend to those children. When I told him of all my sufferings in Arkansas the tears rolled down his face. I had not the heart to tell him of all the unkind things your mother had said of his wife, but for fear my letter has failed to reach you I will tell you all she said of you.*

* * * * * *

Your wife,

A. MASON.

[Newspaper slip inclosed. From Washington.—Special to The New York Herald.]

ARREST OF A FEMALE SECESSIONIST.

A lady calling herself Mrs. Morris, who came here from Richmond some time since alleging that she had been compelled to leave on account of expressions of sympathy with the North, was arrested to-day and locked up in the Capitol Hill Prison. She is charged with giving information to the enemy regarding the position and strength of the Federal troops and fortifications in and about Washington. Mr. Walworth, son of Chancellor Walworth, of New York, clerk in the Adjutant-General's Office, has also been arrested and imprisoned on charge of acting in complicity with her. This Mrs. Morris, who is a gay, dashing and sprightly widow, it will be remembered offered for $100,000 to explain the Confederate Army signals. This offer was not accepted but for prudential reasons it was deemed advisable to keep a strict watch upon her and the result has been her arrest, which took place at 4 o'clock this morning while she was in bed at her hotel.

[No. 2.]

FEBRUARY 24, 1862.

Col. THOMAS JORDAN. (To be forwarded.)

MY DEAR FRIEND: I have written you twice since I have been in this charming place—once a private letter to you, another claiming your protection for Mrs. General Gaines, my friend. Some of our friends have written South that she is a spy for this Government. It is utterly false. In my letter I also spoke of the cabal formed against me by Mrs. Greenhow. She too has added her voice against Mrs. G[aines], and as I said she is drowned by mean ambition of being known [as the only one] in the good work and jealous of everything that surpasses her in loyalty and courage. She makes herself the echo of every evil rumor and she may injure Mrs. G[aines].

I have seen in the papers a speech alleged to have been made by Faulkner† at M——. I wrote you when I saw him at the hotel to tell the President to be careful of that man and not to trust him nor to give up Ely for him. He I assure you is no friend to the South. He is crafty and calculating. He has some voice in Virginia. This speech will do harm. He had I am confident a pretty good understanding with this Government before he left, so the Union men gave me to understand. Mr. Davis will understand him better than you will, for he knows him. I cannot describe to you the whole manner of this man, but it left the impression on my mind that he was not to be trusted. I was talking to him; I said "the President"—meaning Mr. Davis. He did not understand me. "O, Mr. Davis." "Yes," I replied, "President Davis. You have not yet gotten used to it. You know we have two Richmonds in the field." His whole tenor and manner showed that the fat turkeys and baskets of grapes presented by those Boston abolitionists had won his heart in spite of his allegiance to the South. His falsehoods about his kind treatment to the prisoners will be proved some day. He ought to be placed under arrest for it as Henry May was for his speech in Congress last summer.

* Omitted portions of these letters relate to unimportant family matters.

† See case of Faulkner at p. 463 et seq.

All of my letters to you, so I have learned since I have been here, were opened on both sides of the river before they reached you, and those that were not mutilated by being opened were resealed and forwarded. That is the reason why so few reached you. Did the ones with McC[lellan]'s plans as given to the military committee reach you? Mrs. Lincoln gave Wycoff the message you saw when they arrested him to make him tell.

Their successes have completely deranged them. All that I am afraid of is that success is so powerful even in the eyes of great men; and so strongly does force impose upon men that I am afraid our friends here will grow lukewarm and forget we are right. I have great hopes of you if McC. will give you fight. "Nous ne brûlons que pour brûler les autres." You ought to see the attitude they are now assuming toward England. After you are subjugated they are going to whip all Europe, send an immense army to Mexico, to Canada and all over the world.

E. P. Bryan is here; was arrested on the 22d. He tells me you are gone with your chief. * * * I have written reams. Cannot you possibly get me an answer? They arrested a woman in men's clothes and brought her here. She will not take them off. She is either a spy for them (for she is a Yankee woman) or it's been done to degrade us and deter every respectable woman from raising her voice in our cause.

[No. 3.]

PRIVATE.]

OLD CAPITOL PRISON, February 19, 1862.

Col. B. T. JOHNSON, Present.

MY DEAR COLONEL JOHNSON: * * * "A military necessity" compelled McC. to arrest me two weeks ago. I have excellent society, when I get a chance to enjoy it. It's solitary confinement; but trust to my French sagacity for that. Latude, the thirty years' prisoner in the Bastille, you know never saw any one (?). Greenhow enjoys herself amazingly. My friends, or our friends, have supplied me with every comfort. I have no fault to find, but on the whole rather like it—out of the way of scandal! I cannot work so well here as when free. I regret that. Frank kicks against the door. "Let me out, you damn Yankee, you." * * * Give it to Colonel Jordan. That's a good man, I love him very much. I thought old Bryan was here, but was agreeably disappointed to find it was only his cousin.

I now will write you what I desired to say. George Hanson tells me if you will send a power of attorney to any one your interest at all hazards shall be respected. The Union sentiment is dying out in F. Banks has your house. Also that Miss or Mrs. Robinson is making an effort to sell your house to foreclose a mortgage. You will understand what I mean. I am writing in great haste to give to the sentinel before he is changed. He will not be on again for a week. You could buy up the whole regiment for $1,000. I am not at all low-spirited. You know I cultivate a cheerful spirit as a duty. I often think we are very much alike in some respects.

Our losses in Tennessee and Kentucky is a blow, but they have to fight a long death fight before our brave people are conquered. I am only afraid so powerful is success even in the eyes of superior men, and so strongly does force impose upon men despite the voice of conscience, that our friends here will forget we are right. If you are whipped and taken prisoner you will be brought here. They are making extensive preparations for your accommodation. This piece of paper Mason wrote his name on in my portfolio long time ago, and I have kept it as a souvenir. You know I have only his children to remember him by. Pardon this scrawl, but I write with a stick.

The sentinels, keeper, prisoners and officers are all kind. They only keep me here because they hate to part with me. * * *

Yours, &c.,

A. M.

Please forward the inclosed letter* to Doctor Mason.

COMMISSION RELATING TO STATE PRISONERS,
Washington, April 1, 1862.

Brig. Gen. JAMES S. WADSWORTH, &c., Washington.

GENERAL: If they consent you will please convey * * * Mrs. Augusta Morris, prisoners at present held in the Old Capitol Military Prison in this city, beyond the lines of the U. S. forces into the State of Virginia and release them upon their giving their written parole of honor that they will not return north of the Potomac River during the present hostilities without permission of the Secretary of War.

Very respectfully, yours,

JOHN A. DIX,
EDWARDS PIERREPONT,
Commissioners.

HEADQUARTERS, Fort Monroe, Va., June 2, 1862.

We, the undersigned,† late prisoners in the Old Capitol at Washington, do pledge our word of honor that in consideration of our being set at liberty beyond the lines of the U. S. Army we will not return north of the Potomac River during the present hostilities without the permission of the Secretary of War of the United States.

MRS. AUGUSTA MORRIS.

Case of Mansfield T. Walworth.

This person [Mansfield T. Walworth] was arrested February 7, 1862, in Washington, D. C., by order of Major-General McClellan and committed to the Old Capitol Prison. He was charged with being a spy‡

* Omitted as unimportant.

† Mrs. Greenhow and Mrs. Baxley also signed this parole and were sent South with Mrs. Morris.

‡ But see report of Allen in case of Mrs. Morris, p. 1346.

in the service of the rebels. The said M. T. Walworth remained in custody at the Old Capitol Prison February 15, 1862, when in conformity with the order of the War Department of the preceding day he was transferred to the charge of that Department.—From Record Book, State Department, "Arrests for Disloyalty."

COMMISSION RELATING TO STATE PRISONERS,

Washington, April 1, 1862.

Hon. REUBEN H. WALWORTH, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

SIR: Herewith I have the honor to inclose by direction of the commissioners, Major-General Dix and the Hon. Edwards Pierrepont, a copy of the order issued this day for the discharge of Mr. Mansfield T. Walworth from confinement at the Old Capitol Military Prison in this city.

I have the honor to be, &c.,

E. D. WEBSTER.

[Inclosure.]

COMMISSION RELATING TO STATE PRISONERS,

Washington, April 1, 1862.

W. P. WOOD, Esq., Superintendent, &c., Washington.

SIR: You may release Mr. Mansfield T. Walworth upon his taking the oath of allegiance and engaging upon oath that he will leave the city of Washington forthwith and repair immediately to his paternal home in Saratoga County, N. Y., and report daily therefrom to the Hon. Reuben H. Walworth, and that he will not leave the county of Saratoga nor hold any correspondence himself nor be engaged in any with any person in the States in armed insurrection against the authority of the Government of the United States without permission from the Secretary of War.

Very respectfully, yours,

JOHN A. DIX,
EDWARDS PIERREPONT,
Commissioners.

Case of W. W. Hedrick.

W. W. Hedrick, of Memphis, Tenn., was arrested in Chicago, Ill., February 8, 1862, and by direction of the Secretary of State was conveyed to Fort Lafayette. Hedrick was charged with being an agent of the insurrectionary Government to procure the printing of Confederate scrip or bonds and that in pursuance of his agency and authority he contracted for and had printed in Chicago a large number of bonds or scrip, and when arrested was about to proceed with them to the rebel States. On his person was found a large amount of money or scrip issued by authority of the so-called Confederate States, and of issues of the banks of the States in rebellion against the Government of the United States. The said W. W. Hedrick remained in custody in Fort Lafayette February 15, 1862, when in conformity with the order of the War Department of the preceding day he was transferred to the charge of that Department.—From Record Book, State Department, "Arrests for Disloyalty."

U. S. MARSHAL'S OFFICE, New York, April 9, 1862.

Lieut. Col. MARTIN BURKE, Commandant, Fort Lafayette.

COLONEL: I have the honor to inclose orders for the release of William W. Hedrick. * * *

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. MURRAY,

U. S. Marshal.

I, W. W. Hedrick, of the city of Memphis and State of Tennessee, do solemnly swear that I will support, protect and defend the Union and Constitution and the Government of the United States as established by that Constitution against all enemies, whether domestic or foreign, and that I will bear true faith, allegiance and loyalty to the same, any ordinance, resolution or law of any State convention or legislature to the contrary notwithstanding; and further that I do this with a full determination, pledge and purpose without any mental reservation or evasion whatsoever; and further that I will well and faithfully perform all the duties which may be required of me by law. So help me God.

WM. W. HEDRICK.

Sworn and subscribed to before me this 9th day of April, 1862.

EDWARDS PIERREPONT,

Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, April 14, 1862.

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that the commission relating to state prisoners at its session in New York discharged from confinement Mr. W. W. Hedrick, a prisoner who was arrested in Chicago, Ill. Mr. Hedrick applied to the commission for the restoration of a sum of money which was taken from him at the time of his arrest and transmitted to the State Department. The commission informed him that the order for restoration must be made by the Secretary of War. The package which is sealed and said to contain $700 in gold is still in my possession. Shall I return it and take his receipt therefor?

I have the honor to be, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. D. WEBSTER.

[Indorsement.]

WAR DEPARTMENT, April 18, 1862.

Mr. Webster is directed to return the money as suggested within.

By order of the Secretary of War:

P. H. WATSON,

Assistant Secretary of War.

NEW YORK, April 22, 1862.

Received of Mr. E. D. Webster, secretary of the commission relating to state prisoners, two sealed packages addressed to William H. Seward, Secretary of State, Washington, D. C., and marked to contain, respectively, one the sum of $25 and the other the sum of $700, and which upon examination appears to be the amount and the same taken from me at the time of my arrest at Chicago, Ill., by John C. Miller, esq., an agent of the Government of the United States.

WM. W. HEDRICK.

Case of William T. Smithson.

William T. Smithson, a banker of Washington City, was arrested on the 8th day of January, 1862, by order of the Secretary of State issued on application from the office of the provost-marshal. This person's treason was detected in the following manner: On the 19th of December, 1861, the Navy Department transmitted to the provost-marshal's office a quantity of contraband correspondence taken from the schooner Lucretia by the U. S. brig Perry near Alexandria, in which were found two letters addressed in some kind of cipher or character, and signed Charles R. Cables. One of these letters contained the following:

We can learn little or nothing about the intended movements of McClellan's army across the river. I believe the fellow is a coward, and will never attack you without he is forced to do it. I would like to see you rush down upon him, if you think it safe or best to do so. I think you could drive them back to their forts with ease, and with great advantage to the cause you are fighting for. But you know what is best. I have an important fact for you and it is important that you should look to it promptly. Johnson, of Tennessee, is here and he has a devil in him as large as an ox. He is entering into an arrangement with the President and Cabinet to furnish him with large sums of money to be used in the employment of men to go to Tennessee and Kentucky to burn bridges and mills and machine shops, and such like. These devils here are determined to destroy any vestige of property and to take the life of every citizen in Tennessee rather than not succeed with their fiendish purpose. Two meaner and viler devils never lived than Johnson and Etheridge. They are concocting all sorts of plans to get hold of Tennessee. Watch these devils closely. The Cabinet will give them any amount of money to enable them to carry out their plans. I send you a pamphlet touching up McClellan. Read it; it is rich. It will give you some "incite" also to matters and things as they are viewed by such men as the author, Ellet. Shall I continue to look after and supply our friends in B.? Expense falls heavily upon me in my present embarrassed condition. Everything I have after paying my debts is at the command of those you represent. If you should fail to succeed I don't wish to live any longer. I have given one friend in B. the money to buy the books you wrote for. My God, how I would rejoice to see you and your army in this city soon. Come ahead. I believe you can get here. Etheridge has gone to Kentucky to employ men to engage in bridge-burning on a large scale. Look to this matter all over the South, particularly in Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia. * * * I suppose you receive our papers regularly. Troops continue to come in, and how strange it is, no inducement in the world but the small pay they receive. With the officers it is different. They go in for plunder, &c. What a set of rogues they are. Watch all the time.

CHARLES R. CABLES.

The other letter, dated December 14, 1861, says:

I have just received your letter of the 7th instant. Glad to hear from you. Handed the letter inclosing the $20 to our friend in B. * * * I send along with this a number of letters. Please forward them. Troops are still going over the river. Three thousand cavalry went over yesterday. Be sure to look after bridge burners in Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia. Etheridge, of Tennessee, is gone to Kentucky to arrange for burning bridges, mills, machine shops, &c. Large sums of money will be expended by this Government in such work. What are you all doing touching such work? Something ought to be done in this direction at once. We have no news of interest here to-day. The weather is very fine. We have some mean men here who have large possessions in the South whose names I will give you by and by. I write in such haste to be in time for the messenger. My love to you all. I have something nice for your chief which I will send soon, and for General Beauregard.

Truly,

CHARLES R. CABLES.

By a report of E. J. Allen* made through the provost-marshal's office it is shown that the letters signed Charles R. Cables were written by Smithson, and also that evidence was found among his papers that he had been in contraband correspondence with the South since the issuance of the President's proclamation of non-intercourse. In the same lot of correspondence containing the Cables letters was also a letter addressed to R. A. Matthews, esq., Richmond, Va., also identified by the same report as written by Smithson. The report speaks of further evidence discovered in Smithson's papers of his sympathy with the rebels, and of care manifested to exclude from his premises all papers of a positively treasonable character. Upon the information so acquired and more elaborately set forth in said report and upon the application from the provost-marshal's office found thereon to arrest and hold him as a spy, Smithson's arrest was ordered. The said Smithson remained in custody at Fort Lafayette February 15, 1862, when in conformity with the order of the War Department of the preceding day he was transferred to the charge of that Department.—From Record Book, State Department, "Arrests for Disloyalty."

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, January 8, 1862.

Brig. Gen. ANDREW PORTER, Provost-Marshal, Washington.

GENERAL: You will please arrest and convey to Fort Lafayette, New York Harbor, Mr. William T. Smithson. You will also make a thorough search of his person and premises, and send all letters and papers of a treasonable character found in his possession together with your report thereon to this Department.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
WILLIAM H. SEWARD.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, January 9, 1862.

CHARLES WILSON, Esq., Washington.

SIR: Your application for an interview with Mr. Smithson has been submitted to the Secretary of State. In reply I am directed to say that it is deemed inexpedient at present to grant the request, but that any unsealed communication of a proper character which you may desire to address to him will if sent to this Department be duly forwarded to him.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
F. W. SEWARD,
Assistant Secretary.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, January 18, 1862.

Brig. Gen. ANDREW PORTER, Provost-Marshal, Washington.

GENERAL: You will please make thorough examination of the premises of William T. Smithson, banker of this city, now a prisoner at Fort Lafayette, New York Harbor, for treasonable papers. For that purpose it is deemed advisable that you should take immediate possession thereof and hold the same until the examination hereby ordered is perfected, and in the meanwhile you will permit nothing to be taken therefrom.

*Not found; but see cases of Thompson and McArthur, p. 1307 et seq.; also case of Mrs. Morris, p. 1346 et seq.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. W. SEWARD,
Assistant Secretary.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, March 19, 1862.

Mr. CHARLES WILSON,
Washington, D. C. (for Mrs. Smithson).

SIR: The Secretary of War directs me to inform you that the petition presented by you in behalf of William T. Smithson will be transmitted to the special commissioners in accordance with your request.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

P. H. WATSON,
Assistant Secretary of War.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, D. C., April 28, 1862.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. DIX and Judge E. PIERREPONT,
Commissioners.

GENTLEMEN: The Secretary of War directs me to request that you will forward to this Department a report in the case of William T. Smithson, banker, and to ask whether he can be temporarily or finally discharged. In case he cannot be discharged could he be transferred to Washington?

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

P. H. WATSON,
Assistant Secretary of War.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, D. C., May 7, 1862.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. DIX and Judge EDWARDS PIERREPONT,
Special Commissioners, &c., New York:

Your report* in case of Smithson received and approved. Administer the oath of allegiance and then release him.

By order of the Secretary of War:

P. H. WATSON,
Assistant Secretary of War.

COMMISSION RELATING TO STATE PRISONERS,
New York, May 9, 1862.

ROBERT MURRAY, Esq., U. S. Marshal.

SIR: You will please bring before the commission at room No. 51, Astor House, to-morrow at 11 o'clock, Mr. William T. Smithson, a prisoner confined at Fort Lafayette. * * *

Very respectfully, yours,

JOHN A. DIX,
EDWARDS PIERREPONT,
Commissioners.

* Not found.

COMMISSION RELATING TO STATE PRISONERS,
New York, May 10, 1862.

Lieut. Col. MARTIN BURKE, Fort Lafayette, N. Y.

COLONEL: Mr. William T. Smithson having taken the oath of allegiance to the Government of the United States you may discharge him from confinement.

Very respectfully, yours,

JOHN A. DIX,
 EDWARDS PIERREPONT,
Commissioners.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, D. C., May 10, 1862.

Judge EDWARDS PIERREPONT, 103 Fifth Avenue, New York:

Is Smithson to be released on taking oath of allegiance? If so, when?

P. H. WATSON,
Assistant Secretary of War.

NEW YORK, May 12, 1862.

Hon. P. H. WATSON:

Smithson took the oath* and was released on the 10th. I expect to be in Washington Friday, the 16th.

EDWARDS PIERREPONT.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., September 12, 1866.

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

SIR: I see by the papers that a suit has been brought against you by Mr. Smithson, banker, of Washington. Yesterday a person of the highest respectability called on me and said that Smithson attempted in the fall of 1861 to send through the lines a plan of the fortifications of Washington and other information, through Lieut. Col. B. B. Boone, a paroled rebel prisoner belonging to a Mississippi regiment, who declined taking it because it would violate his parole, and my informant returned the documents to Mr. Smithson. The papers were inclosed in a small package of tobacco, the center of which was scooped out for the papers and a portion of the end cut off as though used. My informant is personally known to you and will give testimony should it be necessary to satisfy the ends of justice, but shrinks from any publicity being given to her name. She is a Sister of Charity and was connected with the Providence Hospital in Washington. The Sister will go to Washington should her evidence be necessary.

P. H. SHERIDAN,
Major-General.

Cases of Messrs. Ogden, Perkins, Brady and Child.

Col. J. M. Ogden was arrested by order of Brigadier-General Grant January 1, 1862, at his residence in Weston, Ky., and was delivered into the custody of U. S. Marshal Phillips, of Illinois, January 16, and on the same day by order of the Secretary of State was conveyed to Fort Lafayette. The charges against Colonel Ogden were disloyalty to the United States Government. January 16, 1862, General Grant telegraphed to the Secretary of State that the persons named (Colonel Ogden and others) are very dangerous men and ought to be permanently secured. U. S. Marshal Phillips states in a letter to the Secretary of State, dated January 16, 1862, "Colonel Ogden is one of the most wealthy and respectable rebels in Western Kentucky, and is a most important man to hold." The said Col. J. M. Ogden remained in custody at Fort Lafayette February 15, 1862, when in conformity with the order of the War Department of the preceding day he was transferred to the charge of that Department.

* This oath cannot be found. Allen's report and a number of other important papers in the Smithson case are missing from the files.—COMPILER.

James M. Perkins, of Caldwell County, Ky., was arrested by order of Brigadier-General Grant in Southern Illinois about the 1st of January, 1862; was delivered over to the custody of U. S. Marshal Phillips, of Illinois, January 16, 1862, and on the same day by order of the Secretary of State was conveyed to Fort Lafayette. January 16, 1862, General Grant telegraphed to the Secretary of State that "the persons named (Perkins and others) are very dangerous men and ought to be permanently secured." On the same day U. S. Marshal Phillips wrote to the Secretary of State that "Brady and Perkins are both rebel emissaries and desperate men. General Grant deemed it unsafe and unwise to keep them in charge near his army, and hence turned them over to me for your disposition." The said James M. Perkins remained in custody at Fort Lafayette February 15, 1862, when in conformity with the order of the War Department of the preceding day he was transferred to the charge of that Department.

Patrick Brady, of Missouri, was arrested by order of Brigadier-General Grant, commanding at Cairo, Ill., and on the 16th of January, 1862; was given into the custody of U. S. Marshal Phillips, of Illinois, who by direction of the Secretary of State conveyed Brady to Fort Lafayette. January 16, 1862, General Grant telegraphed to the Secretary of State that the persons named (Brady and others) are very dangerous men and ought to be permanently secured. On the same day U. S. Marshal Phillips wrote to the Secretary of State that "Brady and Perkins are both rebel emissaries and desperate men. General Grant deemed it unsafe and unwise to keep them in charge near his army, and hence turned them over to me for your disposition." The said Patrick Brady remained in custody at Fort Lafayette February 15, 1862, when he was transferred to the charge of the War Department.

William H. Child, of Alabama, was arrested by order of Brigadier-General Grant, commanding at Cairo, Ill., and on the 16th of January, 1862; was given into the custody of U. S. Marshal Phillips, of Illinois, who by order of the Secretary of State conveyed Child to Fort Lafayette. January 16, 1862, General Grant telegraphed to the Secretary of State that the persons named (Child and others) were very dangerous men and ought to be permanently secured. On the same day U. S. Marshal Phillips wrote the Secretary of State that Child had been north, perhaps to Canada, in the employ of the Confederate States and was arrested in attempting to pass the lines of our army at Cairo. He is a talented engineer and a most dangerous man.

The following extract from a letter written by Child, addressed to R. M. Crow, from Fort Lafayette February 10, 1862, establishes his guilty intentions:

Hope to get out of here soon by regular exchange, which seems to be the only available chance for I can't go the oath. Am gaining in health daily and will soon be up to my full fighting weight, in fact mentally and all I am under excellent training for a good mill when the time comes. My prison companions are genuine Southern gentlemen in the absolute sense of the term. Do not feel in the least degraded by this incarceration. On the contrary esteem it some honor to be counted worthy of some stripes in so good a cause. Hope soon, however, to be placed on a more ennobling stage of action in the contest.

The said William H. Child remained in Fort Lafayette February 15, 1862, when he was transferred to the charge of the War Department.—From Record Book, State Department, "Arrests for Disloyalty."

—
WAR DEPARTMENT, February 21, 1862.

Lient. Col. MARTIN BURKE,
Fort Lafayette, New York Harbor.

COLONEL: You may release on the 22d of February instant the following prisoners confined in Fort Lafayette upon their engaging upon their honor that they will render no aid or comfort to the enemies in hostility to the Government of the United States: J. M. Ogden, J. M. Perkins, Patrick Brady. * * *

By order of the Secretary of War:

L. THOMAS,
Adjutant-General.

—
FORT HAMILTON, New York Harbor, February 22, 1862.
Brig. Gen. L. THOMAS,
Adjutant-General of the Army, Washington, D. C.

SIR: Inclosed please find the parole of thirty-six prisoners [including J. M. Ogden, J. M. Perkins and Patrick Brady] at Fort Lafayette, released in obedience to your telegraphic dispatch of the 21st instant. * * *

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MARTIN BURKE,
Lieutenant-Colonel, Commanding.

[Inclosure.]

FORT LAFAYETTE, New York Harbor, February 22, 1862.

We, the undersigned, do solemnly promise upon our word of honor that we will render no aid or comfort to the enemies in hostility to the Government of the United States.

PATRICK BRADY.
JAMES M. PERKINS.
J. M. OGDEN.
[And 33 OTHERS, OMITTED.]

Witness:

HARRY C. EGBERT,
First Lieutenant, Twelfth [U. S.] Infantry.

COMMISSION RELATING TO STATE PRISONERS,
New York, April 8, 1862.

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

SIR: We have the honor to inform you that we have had the case of Mr. William H. Child under consideration and have recommitted him to Fort Lafayette, and respectfully recommend that he be continued in confinement.

We have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servants,
 JOHN A. DIX,
 EDWARDS PIERREPONT,
Commissioners.

WASHINGTON, December 12, 1862.

Col. MARTIN BURKE, Commanding, Fort Lafayette:

You will discharge from custody William H. Child * * * on [his] taking oath of allegiance or an oath not to aid in any way the rebellion. * * *

By order of the Secretary of War:

L. C. TURNER,
Judge-Advocate.

FORT LAFAYETTE, New York Harbor, December 13, 1862.

Lieut. Col. MARTIN BURKE,
Commanding, &c., Fort Hamilton, New York Harbor.

COLONEL: In obedience to your instructions I have released from custody * * * William H. Child.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
 CHAS. O. WOOD,
First Lieutenant, Ninth Infantry, Commanding Post.

BALTIMORE, MD., February 11, 1863.

Col. W. HOFFMAN, Washington.

DEAR SIR: I went to Fort Monroe, Va., as directed, to report to Lieutenant-Colonel Ludlow for exchange, but did not find Colonel Ludlow to report in person. The marshal informed me at about the time the boat was leaving that Colonel Ludlow had gone away, and that I must return to Baltimore, there being no accommodations at Fort Monroe. I have reported my case to Marshal McPhail here, who will undoubtedly be able to inform me in due time when the next truce boat is to leave Fort Monroe, but having unavoidably come short of your specific directions in not reporting in person to Colonel Ludlow, I deem this explanation proper. Any further directions or orders you might see fit to give that would expedite my movements homeward I do assure you, sir, would be most highly appreciated.

Very respectfully,

WM. H. CHILD.

CONFEDERATE POLITICAL ARRESTS.

Miscellaneous Confederate Correspondence Relating to Political Arrests During the First Year of the War.

[For the cases of Hon. Thomas A. R. Nelson, Hon. William G. Brownlow, and other Confederate political arrests, see "Confederate Policy of Repression in East Tennessee," Volume I, this Series, pp. 823-931.]

NORFOLK, VA., June 29, 1861.

Maj. Gen. R. E. LEE, Commanding, &c., Richmond.

SIR: The mayor has committed to jail a man named Bryan who wrote a letter and endeavored to send it off by a woman who had permission to leave for the North by the last flag of truce, which letter was giving information to the enemy and expressing hostility to the Government of the Confederate States. The mayor informs me that he considers the evidence that he did write and send the aforesaid letter as conclusive, and he holds him for trial by a military tribunal. I beg to be instructed as to the tribunal before which I shall bring him, and what laws it is to be governed by. I expect to have another and similar case to-day.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

BENJ. HUGER,
Brigadier-General.

RICHMOND, July 4, 1861.

General R. E. LEE.

SIR: In respect to such cases as are referred to in the letter of General Huger of the 29th ultimo it is difficult exactly to define a rule to cover every case. The person committing the offense according to his relations to the State will determine the disposition to be made of him. If he be a soldier and is guilty of holding correspondence with or giving intelligence to the enemy he should be tried by court-martial under the fifty-seventh Article of War. If he be not a soldier but a citizen of Virginia or a citizen of one of the Confederate States and is guilty of such offense or of like class he should be handed over to the civil authorities, to be prosecuted under the laws of the State or the ordinances of the convention, or the laws of the Confederate States. However, the military authorities will not be troubled to decide in such cases, being relieved by the surrender of the party to the civil magistrate.

If the party were an alien—that is not a citizen of Virginia or of one of the Confederate States—he may be tried by the civil courts or by court-martial, according to his offense. By court-martial if a spy under article 99, section 2, of the Rules and Articles of War; by the civil courts if guilty of any offense under law of Virginia or ordinance of the convention, or law of the Confederate States. A man though an alien if resident in the State may be guilty of treason, for he owes allegiance to the State which gives him protection, though not a natural allegiance.

In the case of Bryan, brought to your notice by General Huger, I would apply the general principles before stated thus: If Bryan was a soldier he must be tried for his offense by court-martial under the fifty-seventh article. If an alien and he was in and about the camp or within or about our lines obtaining information for the enemy he must be tried as a spy under article 99, section 2, of Articles of War; or he may be tried by the civil courts. It makes no difference that his letter was intercepted, for a man may be guilty of treason who writes and sends a letter to the enemy though it is intercepted, and so he may in like manner be guilty as a spy in such case. It would be better if Bryan was a spy to try him by court-martial as it is the proper tribunal for such an offense, and the criminal has thus forfeited his claim to the forms of civil courts in his case. If Bryan was not a spy, and was either a citizen of Virginia or of one of the Confederate States, then he should be given up to the civil authorities to be dealt with, and the same course should be pursued if he be an alien, resident in Virginia.

I should be glad to supply anything omitted in this letter necessarily general in its statement of the rules applicable to such cases.

I remain, with very high respect, your obedient servant,

J. R. TUCKER.

RICHMOND, July 10, 1861.

S. B. FRENCH, Esq.,

Aide-de-Camp to the Governor of Virginia:

The case of Travis Southall, referred to me by you, has been considered. The statement of the prisoner in itself is not unfavorable to him except in the following particulars:

First. He seems to be a resident of Washington City, and to have been so since last December at least. The ordinance of secession passed and was ratified, and yet he remained within the enemy's lines and at his capital until July 2, 1861, more than five weeks after the flagrant invasion of Virginia. Second. He is connected with the family of an officer of the Federal army in Washington. Third. His brother is in the Federal army as a volunteer, in whose family he lived and with whom he was in business.

These facts may be susceptible of proper explanation. The prisoner's coming to Virginia at all seems to be an indication of his purpose to abandon the enemy's country for his native State, and it is to be hoped such may prove to be the case. It is obvious, however, that the officer who examined the case is unfavorably impressed with it and he has been ordered to headquarters. It is a case of a person who probably had lost his citizenship in Virginia and had fixed it in Washington, and returns to Virginia. He says he came back to join the Confederate army, but he has not done so, and there is no evidence of any step being taken toward it. He may have come with an improper purpose. Whether he did so or not must depend upon a full examination of all the facts of the case.

I think it is a case of inquiry and examination by the Executive under the law and the ordinance of the convention, and as he is in custody upon arrest upon suspicion of improper motive and the governor has power to send for persons and papers I think the party should not be discharged until the examination is made. But I think it is not a case where harsh measures should be adopted, and he might be permitted until the return of the governor to go at large or be properly secured for his appearance before the executive.

J. R. TUCKER.

[RICHMOND,] July 15, 1861.

The PRESIDENT.

SIR: Humbly complaining it becomes my painful duty to inform you that I am under arrest without warrant or specification, and ordered to jail without a hearing by the military commandant of this post; and to beg your Excellency's interposition so far as to suspend the execution of the mittimus, and to take my parole of honor until I can obtain a writ of habeas corpus and have a hearing. I was born in the South. All my affinities and consanguinities are in the South. Every sympathy and impulse of my nature and my heart are enlisted in her cause. I returned to her bosom at the earliest moment in my power to devote the best energies I possess in sustaining her rights.

They have my baggage and passport.

Very truly, your friend,

HENRY L. MARTIN,
Of Mississippi.

[Indorsement.]

Secretary of War will please inquire into the case further, to determine whether it be necessary to confine this man.

J. D.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, July 27, 1861.

His Excellency HENRY T. CLARK,
Governor of North Carolina.

SIR: A letter from Dr. M. L. Rossvally,* of date July 22, has been received at this Department indorsed by a note from yourself requesting that answer should be returned through your office. In obedience therefore to your request I have the honor to inform you that Doctor Rossvally is under arrest as a spy.

Very respectfully,

L. P. WALKER,
Secretary of War.

LYNCHBURG, July 31, 1861.

His Excellency JOHN LETCHER, Governor of Virginia.

DEAR SIR: On the 18th of last June I sent to you Dr. George Gross, who had been kept in confinement here about five weeks upon suspicion of being a spy, and I wrote to you setting forth the circumstances of his arrest and the evidence elicited upon his trial. I refer you to my letter, I think written on the 18th of June. This man Gross as the officer who carried him before you informed me was required to take the oath of allegiance before the mayor of Richmond, and yet he was taken as a prisoner at the battle of Manassas and confessed to having piloted the Federal army to that place. Mr. William R. Scott, a highly respectable citizen who resides near this city and who knew him when here, heard him make the confession at Manassas. I advise you of these facts that the scoundrel may be dealt with as his infamous conduct demands.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. D. BRANCH,
Mayor.

P. S.—Gross claimed to be a resident of Fairfax County, Va.

*Not found.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, August 2, 1861.

His Excellency the PRESIDENT OF THE CONFEDERATE STATES.

MR. PRESIDENT: I have the honor to inclose for your information copies of two letters and one original from the mayor of Lynchburg in reference to a man by the name of Gross, who was arrested as a suspicious person by that officer and after confinement of some weeks was sent on to this Department. Upon examination had before the governor he was discharged upon taking the oath of fidelity to the Commonwealth of Virginia and to the Confederate Government. These oaths were administered by his honor the mayor of Richmond. The mayor of Lynchburg now writes (see original) that Gross was taken prisoner at Manassas. If such be the case I have deemed it proper that you should be furnished with this page of the prisoner's antecedents.

I am, Mr. President, your obedient servant,

S. BASSETT FRENCH,
Aide-de-Camp to Governor of Virginia.

[Inclosure No. 1.]

LYNCHBURG, May 26, 1861.

His Excellency JOHN LETCHER.

DEAR SIR: A man who calls himself George Gross, a millwright by profession, was arrested about ten days ago in the county of Bedford and brought before me as a suspicious character. Upon an investigation of the case it appeared that Gross was raised at the North, but resides at this time in the county of Fairfax, about twenty-four miles from Washington City, having purchased a farm there in December last. He has a patent right for certain machinery for mills and has done work for sundry persons in and near this city. He was here in January last and did some work for William Scott, who resides about ten miles above this city. When arrested he was on his way to Scott's walking. It appeared in evidence that whilst at Scott's in January he stated that he was a Republican, and contended that the party did not contemplate waging war against slavery where it existed but was bitterly opposed to its extension. He claims now to be a Republican. Having expressed such sentiments I thought that he ought not to be allowed to travel through the country and committed him to jail. I would take it as a favor to be advised by you as to the best course to be pursued with him.

With high regard, your obedient servant,

WM. D. BRANCH,
Mayor.

P. S.—For three years previous to settling in Fairfax Gross resided in the city of Washington.

W. D. B.

[Inclosure No. 2.]

LYNCHBURG, *June 18, 1861.*His Excellency JOHN LETCHER, Governor of Virginia.

DEAR SIR: Having to send one of our officers to Richmond on business I have thought it best to put under his charge George Gross (in relation to whom I wrote you some time since) to be carried before you that he may get a permit to go to Fairfax, his present place of residence. In my letter I advised you of the ground upon which he was arrested and detained. Mr. Gross may intend no harm, but I don't think any man professing to belong to the party to which he claims to belong ought to be permitted to travel through the country.

With assurances of high regard, I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. D. BRANCH,
Mayor.

[Indorsement.]

When the prisoner was brought before the Governor he stated that in order to show his fidelity to the South, the Confederate States, and Virginia, he was willing to take an oath of fidelity to each. The oath was administered in the governor's office by the mayor of the city of Richmond.

JOHN LETCHER.

[WILLIAMSBURG, VA.,] August 2, 1861.

MR. JEFFERSON DAVIS,
President of the Confederate States.

DEAR SIR: About four weeks ago my son, Mr. Travis Southall, arrived here from Washington where he had been for some months for the purpose of joining a volunteer company. Want of means together with other difficulties attending such a step alone prevented his getting here earlier. So soon as he reached this his home he was arrested, underwent a strict examination, and though the examining officer, Captain Werth, congratulated him on answering every question satisfactorily yet Mr. Southall was the next morning sent off to Richmond without previous notice. From Richmond he has been removed to Raleigh, N. C., and up to the present moment no action has been taken in the matter. What the charges are against him or who makes them we know not. All I ask, Mr. President, is that he may be heard, his case examined into. If he prove guilty, though his mother I can say let him be punished; if innocent let him be discharged at once and join his company. Colonel Ewell gave me permission to-day to say to you that had Mr. Travis Southall applied to him to join his regiment (and which Mr. Southall certainly would have done had time been allowed him) he would have received him without the slightest hesitation.

With this letter, Mr. President, I send some depositions. Please examine them, and if you will remember how guardedly all letters had to be worded to get them through Washington at all you must see that they are of some weight. I could send many more equally strong but feel sure that those will suffice to prove the loyalty of my son. May God bless you, Mr. President, and always lead you to do what is right.

Most respectfully,

MRS. V. F. T. SOUTHALL.

[Inclosure No. 1.]

The following are expressions made use of in the letters received from my son, Mr. Travis Southall, at various times since the 4th of March, 1861, the letters themselves having been burned at the time of the alarm and preparation to leave the place:

Look out, mother, we are coming and may be with you without a moment's warning. The ladies only will remain with you; we will of course join the volunteer company immediately.

Mother, fear nothing on my account. I can swim too well for them to shut me up in Washington.

I have been offered a situation here but could not think of accepting. Virginia's fate shall be mine; she needs every one of her sons to stand by her.

They came to our house last Saturday and in my absence took down my name on the militia roll. I'll die before I'll serve.

In a letter from Miss Jennie Johnston to me in April I think she says:

T.'s name is on the militia roll but he says he will see them at the devil before he serves. He is on the lookout to leave the first moment that he can. Any one sympathizing with the South is marked, and on the slightest pretense made prisoner. Spies are everywhere.

Again in a letter written to me during the month of April—about the 20th—Travis Southall says:

Last Saturday I started to Norfolk on my way home on the Government steamer Anacostia (that is the name I believe), a free passage having been given me by Captain Fillebrown, whom you know, mother. When some distance down the Potomac we were met by the Pawnee, the powder and marines were taken off, and we sent back to Washington, where I am now much to my disappointment.

V. F. T. SOUTHALL,

[Mother of Travis Southall.]

ELIZABETH B. BRIGHT.

CATHERINE M. MAUPIN.

JULIA S. ARMISTEAD.

CITY OF WILLIAMSBURG, TO WIT: This day V. F. T. Southall, E. B. Bright, C. M. Maupin and J. S. Armistead, whose names are subscribed to the deposition annexed, personally appeared before me, Robert M. Garrett, mayor of the city, and made oath that the facts and circumstances stated in this deposition are true.

Given under my hand this 2d August, 1861.

RO. M. GARRETT, Mayor.

[Inclosure No. 2.]

I, Samuel F. Bright, of the city of Williamsburg in the State of Virginia, certify as follows: Some time in May I think it was I was informed by my wife, who is the sister of Mrs. V. F. T. Southall, who is the mother of Travis Southall, that he, Southall, was in Washington City, D. C., very anxious to come on to Virginia to join the Virginia army, but that he did not have the means nor could he get the means to bring him on. I requested her to see Mrs. James Semple and ask of her to write to Purser Semple, her husband who was expected to pass through Washington about that time and to request him to bring Mr. Southall on with him and that I would pay him the amount he might advance for that purpose immediately on his arrival, but unfortunately Purser Semple arrived in this place the next morning and the mails were not considered safe after that time, and from the conversation in the family I was led to believe that the deficiency of means was the sole cause of his not coming sooner.

SAML. F. BRIGHT.

Sworn before me this day, August 2, 1861.

RO. M. GARRETT, Mayor.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, August 2, 1861.

MR. PRESIDENT: The inclosed letters* are from Travis Southall, arrested and sent prisoner to Raleigh, N. C., as a spy. They were addressed by him from Washington to a young lady in New Kent County, Va., Miss Octavia Christian, daughter of John D. Christian, esq., clerk of the superior and inferior courts of that county. They tell their own tale and show conclusively that the young man's heart beats in the right place. I have known all the parties since infancy and although differing politically from them can answer for the fact that they are no traitors. There exists in Williamsburg bitter feeling against the father of young Southall on the part of some citizens based on private griefs, and I have but little doubt that the father is struck at by these parties through the son. Having acted during the last canvass through this district as sub-electro of Breckinridge I know the complexion of them all.

* Omitted.

With high consideration, your obedient servant,

JOHN TYLER, JR.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, August 3, 1861.

His Excellency JEFFERSON DAVIS,
President Confederate States.

MR. PRESIDENT: I forgot to say in my note of yesterday that the letters of Travis Southall to Miss Christian were brought to the Secretary of War by Mr. Waring, of New Kent County, without the knowledge of the parents or relatives of young Southall, but on making the facts known to the father of Travis Southall last evening he immediately produced a letter from his son while in Washington to his sister in Williamsburg, signed like the others "McIvor," and fully confirmatory of the sentiments expressed to Miss Christian. The letter of Dr. John Galt, superintending physician to the lunatic asylum in Williamsburg, and one of the purest men of one of the purest families on earth, in itself is a voucher in behalf of young Southall of great weight. With entire respect,

Your friend and servant,

JOHN TYLER, JR.

FARMVILLE, VA., August 5, 1861.

SECRETARY OF WAR, Richmond, Va.

SIR: Yesterday I caused Samuel Thompson and James S. Wetherel to be arrested as alien enemies and spies. At the time of their arrest they were in the cars and professing to be on their way one to the city of Petersburg, Va., and the other to Richmond. The witnesses against them are L. C. Garland, Captain Randolph, John S. Lydnor, General Hugh McLand and J. A. Potter, who are now in Richmond, Va. Wetherel has obtained a writ of habeas corpus. Please have the necessary steps taken for the proper investigation of the case and cause the witnesses to be sent here to-morrow.

Very respectfully,

JAMES T. GRAY,

A Justice of the Peace for the County of Prince Edward.

This will be delivered by John V. Miller, a constable for the county of Prince Edward, Va.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, Raleigh, N. C., August 6, 1861.

Hon. L. P. WALKER, Secretary of War.

SIR: Allow me to call your attention to the situation of the prisoners of war sent here by Lieutenant Todd. They were all sent here in one company designated "prisoners of war," and no distinction made among them. Since then Dr. Rossvally has been reported here to be a spy, and I immediately ordered him to the public jail. Another whose name I think is Widgen says his confinement is for treasonable language, and demands a habeas corpus to show cause of detention. If these men are citizens they have a constitutional right to a trial, but I give them no answer till I hear from you. There are also some foreigners who are to enlist in our volunteer ranks, and the officers and men all are desirous of going home on their oath not to serve against the Confederacy. We have also here a Navy officer, a sailing master, who was captured by one of our vessels before we joined the Confederacy, who has been recognized and esteemed here as a gentleman, particularly by Captain Crossan, who captured him. He lives in Ohio, and is pressing me for a discharge on his oath to serve no more in any capacity against the Confederate States. Do you choose to give me any direction about these men, or shall I send them to Richmond, where the proof if any against them must exist?

Very respectfully,

HENRY T. CLARK,
Governor, &c.

An act respecting alien enemies, approved August 8, 1861.

The Congress of the Confederate States of America do enact, That when- ever there shall be a declared war between the Confederate States and any foreign nation or government, or any invasion or predatory incursion shall be perpetrated, attempted or threatened against the territory of the Confederate States by any foreign nation or government and the President of the Confederate States shall make public proclamation of the event, or the same shall be proclaimed by act of Congress, all natives, citizens, denizens or subjects of the hostile nation or government, being males of fourteen years of age and upward, who shall be within the Confederate States and not citizens thereof shall be liable to be apprehended, restrained or secured and removed as alien enemies:

Provided, That during the existing war citizens of the United States residing within the Confederate States with intent to become citizens thereof and who shall make a declaration of such intention in due form, and acknowledging the authority of the Government of the same, shall not become liable as aforesaid, nor shall this act extend to citizens of the States of Delaware, Maryland, Kentucky, Missouri and of the District of Columbia and the Territories of Arizona and New Mexico and the Indian Territory south of Kansas who shall not be chargeable with actual hostility or other crime against the public safety and who shall acknowledge the authority of the Government of the Confederate States.

SEC. 2. The President of the Confederate States shall be and he is hereby authorized by his proclamation or other public act, in case of existing or declared war as aforesaid, to provide for the removal of those who not being permitted to reside within the Confederate States shall refuse or neglect to depart therefrom; and to establish such regulations in the premises as the public safety may require.

SEC. 3. Immediately after the passage of this act the President of the Confederate States shall by proclamation require all citizens of the United States, being males of fourteen years and upward, within the Confederate States and adhering to the Government of the United States and acknowledging the authority of the same, and not being citizens of the Confederate States nor within the proviso of the first section of this act, to depart from the Confederate States within forty days from the date of said proclamation; and such persons remaining within the Confederate States after that time shall become liable to be treated as alien enemies; and in all cases of declared war as aforesaid aliens resident within the Confederate States who shall become liable as enemies as aforesaid, and who shall not be chargeable with actual hostility or other crime against the public safety, shall be allowed the time for the disposition of their effects and departure which may be stipulated by any treaty with such hostile nation or government; and when no such treaty may exist the President shall prescribe such time as may be consistent with the public safety and accord with the dictates of humanity and national hospitality.

SEC. 4. After any declared war or proclamation as aforesaid it shall be the duty of the several courts of the Confederate States and of each State having criminal jurisdiction, and of the several judges, justices of the courts of the Confederate States, and they are hereby authorized upon complaint against any alien or alien enemies as aforesaid or persons coming within the purview of this act, who shall be resident or remaining in the Confederate States and at large within the jurisdiction or district of such judge or court as aforesaid contrary to the intent of this act and of the proclamation of the President of the Confederate States or the regulations prescribed by him in pursuance of this act, to cause such alien or aliens, person or persons as aforesaid to be duly apprehended and conveyed before such court, judge or justice for examination; and after a full examination and hearing in such complaint, and sufficient cause therefor appearing, shall or may order such alien or aliens, person or persons to be removed out of the territory of the Confederate States or to be otherwise dealt with or restrained, conformably to the intent of this act and the proclamation or regulations which may be prescribed as aforesaid, and may imprison or otherwise secure such alien person until the order which shall be made shall be performed.

SEC. 5. It shall be the duty of the marshal of the district in which any alien enemy or person offending against the provisions of this act shall be apprehended, who by the President of the Confederate States or by order of any court, judge or justice as aforesaid shall be required to depart [or] to be removed as aforesaid, to execute such order by himself or deputy or other discreet person, and for such execution the marshal shall have the warrant of the President or the court or judge, as the case may be.

Proclamation.

Whereas the Congress of the Confederate States of America did by an act approved on the 8th day of August, 1861, entitled "An act respecting alien enemies," make provision that proclamation should be issued by the President in relation to alien enemies, and in conformity with the provision of said act—

Now therefore I, Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States of America, do issue this my proclamation; and I do hereby warn and require every male citizen of the United States of the age of fourteen years and upward now within the Confederate States and adhering to the Government of the United States and acknowledging the authority of the same, and not being a citizen of the Confederate States, to depart from the Confederate States within forty days from the date of this proclamation. And I do warn all persons above described who shall remain within the Confederate States after the expiration of said period of forty days that they will be treated as alien enemies.

Provided, however, That this proclamation shall not be considered as applicable during the existing war to citizens of the United States residing within the Confederate States with intent to become citizens thereof, and who shall make a declaration of such intention in due form, acknowledging the authority of this Government; nor shall this proclamation be considered as extending to the States of Delaware, Maryland, Kentucky, Missouri, the District of Columbia, the Territories of Arizona and New Mexico and the Indian Territory south of Kansas, who shall not be chargeable with actual hostility or other crime against the public safety, and who shall acknowledge the authority of the Government of the Confederate States.

And I do further proclaim and make known that I have established the rules and regulations hereto annexed in accordance with the provisions of said law.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Confederate States of America at the city of Richmond on this 14th day of August, A. D. 1861.

JEFFERSON DAVIS.

By the President:

R. M. T. HUNTER,
Secretary of State.

[Inclosure.]

Regulations respecting alien enemies.

The following regulations are hereby established respecting alien enemies, under the provisions of an act approved 8th of August, 1861, entitled "An act respecting alien enemies:"

1. Immediately after the expiration of the term of forty days from the date of the foregoing proclamation it shall be the duty of the several district attorneys, marshals and other officers of the Confederate States to make complaint against aliens or alien enemies coming within the purview of the act aforesaid, to the end that the several courts of the Confederate States and of each State having jurisdiction may order the removal of such aliens or alien enemies beyond the territory of the Confederate States or their restraint and confinement, according to the terms of said law.

2. The marshals of the Confederate States are hereby directed to apprehend all aliens against whom complaints may be made under said law and to hold them in strict custody until the final order of the court, taking special care that such aliens obtain no information that could possibly be made useful to the enemy.

3. Whenever the removal of any alien beyond the limits of the Confederate States is ordered by any competent authority under the provisions of said law the marshal shall proceed to execute the order in person or by deputy or other discreet person in such manner as to prevent the alien so removed from obtaining any information that could be used to the prejudice of the Confederate States.

4. Any alien who shall return to these States during the war after having been removed therefrom under the provisions of said law shall be regarded and treated as an alien enemy, and if made prisoner shall be at once delivered over to the nearest military authority to be dealt with as a spy or as a prisoner of war, as the case may require.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, August 9, 1861.

G. B. BOARD, Esq., Sheriff of Roanoke County, Va., or JAMES C. HUFF, Esq., Jailor, Salem, Va.:

A letter has been received at this Department from the sheriff of the county of Roanoke, Va., and a similar letter from the clerk of the same county, asking instructions with regard to the prisoners which have been lodged in the jail of Roanoke County by order of Brigadier-General Wise.

The prisoners of war must be sent to Richmond, and you are authorized to engage at the expense of this Government such a guard as may be necessary to bring them with safety. This order is limited, however, to those taken as prisoners of war, and does not include those arrested as spies over whom this Department has no control.

Respectfully,

L. P. WALKER,
Secretary of War.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, August 10, 1861.

His Excellency HENRY T. CLARK, Raleigh, N. C.

SIR: * * * Travis Southall, of Williamsburg, Va., having been arrested as a spy was sent to Raleigh for confinement. There appearing no evidence to justify his detention you will please order his immediate release. Your excellency's letter of August 6 relative to the prisoners now in confinement at Raleigh has been also received. This Department cannot authorize the release of any of the prisoners mentioned upon their oath not to serve against the Confederate States; nor could the foreigners among them whom you mention be admitted to join our volunteer ranks. Rossvally and Widgen having been arrested not as prisoners of war are certainly entitled to the writ of habeas corpus, but this Department takes the liberty of reminding your excellency that it has been the uniform practice of the courts in similar cases not to grant discharges except by the authority of the Government, or after full legal process. With regard to the sailing master who was captured by the authorities of North Carolina before that State became a member of the Confederacy this Department does not assume to exercise control. The Department begs leave, however, to suggest to your excellency a doubt as to the policy of discharging the prisoner unless the evidence in his favor is entirely convincing. It is desirable so far as possible that the Confederate and the State authorities should in similar cases be guided by like principles of action in this regard.

Very respectfully,

L. P. WALKER.
Secretary of War.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, Raleigh, N. C., August 15, 1861.

Hon. L. P. WALKER, Secretary of War.

SIR: When the prisoners were brought to Raleigh by Lieutenant Todd they were all called and receipted for as prisoners of war. Since then two of them (Widgen and Rossvally) have asserted that they were citizens of the Confederate States and demanded a habeas corpus.

Upon notification of this fact you informed me that they were not prisoners of war but arrested as spies and were entitled to the writ, but suggested that the judge ought not to interfere without the fullest legal investigation. These men still insist on their demand for a trial, and as all the evidence is I suppose in your hands or under your control, and might require the attendance of witnesses from Richmond, and I had no evidence against them here, I therefore concluded it would best subserve the ends of justice and perhaps the convenience of your witnesses to send them back to Richmond. I have accordingly directed the marshal of the district to proceed with them to Richmond and deliver them to the proper authorities.

Most respectfully, yours,

HENRY T. CLARK,
Governor of North Carolina.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, August 18, 1861.

MIERS W. FISHER.

SIR: Your letter of the 10th instant asking for the exchange of J. R. Burch and Jos. W. Paulin, citizens of Virginia now confined as prisoners of war at Fortress Monroe, has been received. In reply I have the honor to inform you that an exchange of cartels upon the terms usually recognized and practiced in civilized warfare has been already invited by our Government. No reply, however, has yet been received, and until that proposition shall have been accepted it would be manifestly inconsistent with the dignity of this Government to make any further effort in that direction and therefore impossible to effect the exchange proposed. It is needless to assure you, sir, that this Department regrets in common with the whole Confederate Government that the Government of the United States has seen fit to adopt a course so much at variance with the customs of civilized warfare as well as with every dictate of humanity; but such being the case self-respect requires that we should accept the terms which have been [put] upon us by our adversaries and adhere unflinchingly to the policy which is thus rendered necessary.

Very respectfully,

L. P. WALKER,
Secretary of War.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF THE CONGRESS,

August 23, 1861.

His Excellency JEFFERSON DAVIS.

SIR: I have the honor to inform Your Excellency officially that on the 22d day of August instant the Congress adopted the resolution of which the subjoined is a correct copy:

Resolved, That the President be requested, if in his opinion not incompatible with the public interests, to communicate to Congress the letter from General Bonham dated the 26th reporting the hanging of two sentinels of the South Carolina troops who were captured on the 17th July by the enemy near Centreville, and also any information he may possess relative to the facts stated therein.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,

J. J. HOOPER,
Secretary of the Congress.

NEW ORLEANS, August 23, 1861.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Richmond.

DEAR SIR: I see among the prisoners taken at Manassas and in Richmond the name of the Rev. Hiram Eddy, chaplain to the Second Connecticut Regiment. This Mr. Eddy, I have from undoubted authority (from a gentleman residing here that was in Connecticut when that regiment was preparing to leave for Washington), preached a sermon to them and told them to show no quarter, take sure aim and be sure to shoot to kill. I write this to you that the reverend gentleman may be properly understood and dealt by, and hope you will make these facts known.

With respect, yours, truly,

J. B. CONNER.

SALEM, ROANOKE COUNTY, VA., August 24, 1861.

His Excellency JOHN LETCHER, Governor of Virginia.

SIR: Sometime since thirty-nine prisoners from Northwestern Virginia, arrested I learn as suspicious persons, were sent here by General H. A. Wise. These persons have been committed to the jail of this county without any warrant or legal proceedings other than as I understand by the order of General Wise; at least no papers of such committal are in my possession. No evidence has as yet been obtained to justify any of our magistrates to make a committal. Nine of these prisoners were said to be prisoners of war and were by the order of your excellency taken to Richmond a short time since. One of those remaining has since that time been released by the order of General Wise. Several others it is thought are innocent, but the majority no doubt from all I can learn are traitors to their country.

Our circuit court commences on Wednesday next, and if these prisoners should be brought before the judge on a writ of habeas corpus they would under the present state of things be released. In view of an attempt of this kind possibly being made and in order to prevent their release I have thought proper to give your excellency the above information in order to have a warrant or order made out if deemed necessary, or some information on the subject which will enable me to act in the premises. Please let me hear from your excellency before the sitting of our court.

Very respectfully,

F. J. RIBBLE,
Acting Commonwealth's Attorney.

RICHMOND, August 26, 1861.

Hon. L. P. WALKER, Secretary of War.

SIR: There are many cases among the prisoners arrested as suspicious persons and for other causes which I feel satisfied would be released if their cases were examined. Knowing that your time is so much occupied that you cannot give them attention I take the liberty to ask you to consider the propriety of establishing a commission or of directing the C. S. commissioner to examine these cases and to prepare and digest them so that you can at once decide them without the labor of wading through the investigation. By this course justice would be done and a great saving of expense to the Confederate States. The case of the Howard family is peculiarly hard.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. H. WINDER,
Brigadier-General, &c.

RICHMOND, August 28, 1861.

Hon. L. P. WALKER, Secretary of War.

SIR: I have had the honor to receive your letter of the 23d instant inclosing a statement made by A. Judson Crane, esq., in the cases of the following prisoners, viz: Samuel Lumpkin, Joseph Rawlings, Simon Schermerhorn, B. Kimball and Bellville or Bellfield, with instructions to make inquiry and report in each case. I have the honor to state that I have searched the Adjutant-General's Office and the War Office and can find no documentary evidence in any of these cases. Yesterday, however, I saw General Magruder, from whose jurisdiction these prisoners were sent, and from him I learn that except Lumpkin these are all dangerous persons and ought not to be at large; that there can be no doubt but they would as two others have already done immediately go to the enemy with whatever information they might have to communicate. General Magruder will as soon as he returns to Yorktown send a full statement in each case. I will therefore withhold the report until General Magruder's communication is received.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. H. WINDER,
Brigadier-General.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, August 30, 1861.

Hon. J. RANDOLPH TUCKER and JAMES LYONS.

GENTLEMEN: Brig. Gen. John H. Winder, of the Confederate service, in charge of the prisons and prisoners of this Government, in a communication addressed to this Department on the 26th of August, says:

There are many cases among the prisoners arrested as suspicious persons and for other causes which I feel satisfied would be released if their cases were examined. Knowing that your time is so much occupied that you cannot give them attention I take the liberty to ask you to consider the propriety of establishing a commission or of directing the C. S. commissioner to examine these cases and to prepare and digest them so that you can at once decide them without the labor of wading through the investigation. By this course justice would be done and a great saving of expense to the Confederate States. The case of the Howard family is peculiarly hard.

It is desired by this Department to know whether you would undertake the commission indicated by General Winder. An early response is requested.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

L. P. WALKER,
Secretary of War.

RICHMOND, August 30, 1861.

Hon. L. P. WALKER, Secretary of War.

SIR: I respectfully beg leave to lay before you the case of the Howard family, arrested and sent from Manassas with the following remarks, viz:

William Howard, an Irishman. He has lived sixteen years in Maryland and five years in Virginia. He was sent here by Colonel Stuart without any evidence against him. I have examined the case, and I am under the impression that his arrest is the result of a persecution on account of his having killed a man named Monroe some time ago in self-defense.

CORNELIUS BOYLE,
Provost-Marshal.

The family seem to have been arrested because they were the family of Howard. The inclosed letter came with the prisoner. Respectfully submitted. If discharged shall I give them transportation home?

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. H. WINDER,
Brigadier-General.

[Inclosure.]

CAMP PICKENS, August 21, 1861.

Brigadier-General WINDER,

Inspector-General, C. S. Army, Richmond, Va.

GENERAL: From the statements made to me by reliable citizens of Fairfax County I am induced to believe that the case of William Howard and family, by order of General Johnston forwarded to you, is one of persecution resulting from the fact that the prisoner killed a man named Monroe in self-defense some time ago. Mr. Padgett, a reliable gentleman, the magistrate before whom the homicide case was tried, especially confirms this opinion, and says that he considers the prisoner to be a true man. Howard's family were arrested while on a visit to him at Fairfax Court-House for the purpose of bringing him clean clothes; at least such is the state of the case as represented to me by persons acquainted with the circumstances, no charges or specifications in the case having been made to me officially.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

CORNELIUS BOYLE,

Major Virginia Forces and Provost-Marshal at Camp Pickens.

C. S. MARSHAL'S OFFICE,
Charleston, S. C., August 30, 1861.

Hon. L. P. WALKER, Secretary of War, Richmond, Va.

SIR: I send to-day by Mr. J. J. Beasely, my special deputy, twenty-seven prisoners who have been taken from different vessels, prizes of war, not engaged in the service of the United States. Inclosed will be found a list of vessels and prisoners* and other relative papers.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. B. IRVING, JR.,
Deputy C. S. Marshal of South Carolina.

RICHMOND, August 31, 1861.

His Excellency JEFFERSON DAVIS,

President of the Confederate States.

SIR: Believing that if you were aware of my imprisonment here as a prisoner of war without a shadow of cause and without any charge having been preferred against me you would order my release, I beg leave very respectfully to place before you the following brief statement of the circumstances under which I was arrested: A hackman by profession and resident in the city of Washington, I was hired by a party to convey them in my coach to Fairfax. On arriving there the party who had employed me refused to pay me unless I carried them on to Centreville. Having no other means of obtaining my money I was forced to comply. At Centreville I had to remain all night and on Monday, July 22, while endeavoring to return, my horses took fright, ran away, throwing me from the box and injuring me very much. In this condition, having lost my coach and horses and badly injured by my fall, I was arrested by the Confederate troops while trying to find my way to Fairfax on foot. The above is a brief statement and a correct one of the manner in which I was captured, and fully believing that your sense of justice toward an innocent non-combatant and your humanity toward a widowed mother whose sole support I am will have the effect of procuring my release at your hands I now place it before you with the assurance that I am perfectly willing to take the oath of allegiance to the Southern Confederacy, where of right my sympathies and affections lie. I am informed that one Joseph Birch, also a hackman, who was arrested at Manassas under the same circumstances as I was, was released on the day following his arrest, as he had an opportunity which I had not of explaining his case to the officers in authority there. As mine is a precisely similar case the same rule, I may respectfully submit to Your Excellency, will apply to both. Hoping that Your Excellency will excuse the liberty I take in addressing you personally, and that my statement and the accompanying prayer will have your favorable consideration at an early day,

* Not found.

I have the honor to be, Your Excellency's obedient servant,

WM. SMITH,

Prisoner of War, Richmond, Va.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE FORCES,

Norfolk, September 4, 1861.

Hon. SECRETARY OF WAR.

SIR: I am applied to by many persons who state that by the law of Congress respecting aliens and the proclamation of the President thereon they are compelled to leave the country by a specified time. As this is the only route by which any number could go North these applications are increasing daily. I cannot be the judge of their claims to leave under the above act and proclamation and request instructions on the subject. I shall allow none to go without orders from you.

I remain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

BENJ. HUGER,

Brigadier-General, Commanding.

[Indorsement.]

All are to be allowed to go, but he may in his discretion refuse to permit them to pass by any other route than via Tennessee if he thinks it dangerous to the country.

RICHMOND, September 4, 1861.

Hon. L. P. WALKER, Secretary of War.

DEAR SIR: According to your suggestion this morning I beg leave to present in writing one or two considerations connected with the military arrests made and being made in the region of the lower Valley of Virginia, along the Potomac border.

A number of such cases were submitted to my examination by General Johnston while in command at Winchester, and the principle I acted upon was to arrest no one and to prosecute no one further who had been arrested when turned over to me for holding merely in the abstract disloyal opinions, nor even where they expressed them conscientiously and in a general way, but to seize only such as were actively engaged against us, in some mode giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

The effect of this policy has been as I am fully satisfied to improve greatly the popular sentiment, and to strengthen our cause in that part of Virginia where I regret to say it was much needed. Recently as I have reason to believe several arrests have been made by the military upon mere general suspicion of the party holding (and perhaps expressing in a general way merely) unsound opinions as to the great issue between us and the North, and I am satisfied evil consequences will result from it. Gentlemen of high character and social position I understand are under arrest now at Winchester without any opportunity or means whatever afforded them of having their cases examined and determined. Others also of like character I have reason to believe will soon be taken into custody.

Without troubling you therefore further in detail with the reasons which induce me to believe these arrests will be productive of much mischief I beg leave to suggest that something in the way of a commission, made in part at least of civilians of intelligence and undoubted loyalty, be constituted to examine into these cases promptly and make proper disposition of them by either remitting them to the civil authorities where prosecutions can be maintained or turning them over to the proper higher military authorities, or in proper cases discharging them from custody. The law of Virginia is very defective on this subject, and in these border counties with the enemy around them it is quite out of the question to pursue the ordinary slow course of prosecuting such cases.

A reply if addressed to Charlestown, Jefferson County, Va., will reach me, though it may not be important that I should have one if proper instructions be given to the military authorities.

Your obedient servant,

ANDREW HUNTER.

ADJUTANT AND INSPECTOR GENERAL'S OFFICE,

Richmond, September 7, 1861.

General R. E. LEE, Commanding Forces, &c., Staunton, Va.

GENERAL: A letter relative to the supposed execution by the enemy of two citizens of which a copy* is herewith transmitted to you has been received by the President, who instructs me to direct that you will send a flag to the general commanding the forces of the enemy in front of you, report to him the case and require that he deliver to you as criminals the persons who perpetrated the offense or avow his responsibility for the act; and in the latter case that you will retaliate, retaining in your possession for that purpose of the enemy twice the number of those of our citizens that were thus ignominiously executed.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. COOPER,

Adjutant and Inspector General.

* Not found.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF WILLIAMSBURG,
September 9, 1861.

General COOPER,

Adjutant and Inspector General, C. S. Army.

SIR: A man by the name of Clark, from Port Richmond, Staten Island, accompanied by his wife and son attempted to leave the mouth of York River in a sail vessel which was stopped by our guard-boat at that point. He has been living on York River since October last, and represents that he obtained the pass which he produced from the Secretary of War. This pass is signed by V. E. Shepherd, a gentleman I presume fully authorized by the Secretary; but as this man is a seafaring man, knows precisely our present situation both as to the number of our forces, their state of health, the strength of our works, &c., I have not permitted him to pass.

I think it highly important not to permit any one to pass our lines and out of the mouths of our rivers in whom we have not the most entire confidence. At this moment it would be particularly dangerous. I do not presume the proclamation of the President was intended to authorize the passage of any Northern people by such avenues to the North as could afford the enemy perfect information as to our strength or weakness at our most important points. Even in times of peace this might not be permitted. I respectfully request that no persons from the North be permitted to pass to the North in this direction.

I have ordered Clark to be detained at Gloucester Point by Colonel Crump for attempting to go out without reporting either there or at Yorktown, and that his wife and son should remain on board the vessel which it is not understood is included in the proclamation. I beg to request further instructions in this case. They can be sent with the vessel to the point on the river whence they came, and authority granted by the Secretary of War for them to go to New York by some other route, say Kentucky; or if the Secretary wishes it they will pass of course.

There are others, some ten or twelve, who desire to go to the North under the proclamation, but for these Mr. Eustis, of Williamsburg, and Mr. Sewall, of Gloucester County, say they will be responsible. I presume therefore these latter can be trusted to give no information, but I had rather have this exit stopped altogether. Clark I think has forfeited his right for attempting to pass without reporting. I understand also that he is intelligent, daring and unscrupulous.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. BANKHEAD MAGRUDER,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

SEPTEMBER 10, 1861.

His Excellency JEFFERSON DAVIS,

President of the Confederate States of America:

The undersigned, citizens of Hardy County, Va., desire to call your attention to the exposed and suffering condition of our county. We have been invaded for the past few months by Northern thieves; our houses have been forcibly entered and robbed; our horses, cattle and sheep in large numbers driven off; our citizens arrested, carried off and confined only because they are loyal citizens of Virginia and the Southern Confederacy; our cattle, sheep and horses to the amount of $30,000 have been forcibly taken from us and appropriated to the support of the Army of the United States.

Our county unfortunately is divided, the western portion being disloyal. The Union men as they call themselves have called upon Lincoln for protection. He in answer to their call has sent amongst us a set of base characters who not only protect the Union men but under their guidance are committing acts unheard of in any country claiming civilization. We have been wholly unprotected and unable to protect ourselves. Our enemies have met with no resistance. We do not complain, as it is perhaps impossible to give protection to all who are suffering like depredations; but we would suggest whether the interest of the Confederacy apart from the large private interest involved does not require the protection of our beef, our pork and our corn for the use of the Southern Army. General Lee is now drawing his supply of corn from us. There is perhaps no valley in America of the same extent that produces more fat cattle and hogs than the valley of the South Branch. Were we protected in the possession of our property we should be able to supply the army with several thousand cattle and hogs and at the season of the year when the supply from other sources fails; but if no protection should be given us and the present state of things suffered to go on we may well despair not only of feeding the army but of feeding ourselves. Our enemies not content with driving off our cattle and sheep by hundreds and our horses in numbers are to-day we are most reliably informed engaged in thrashing out the crops of wheat of some of the farmers of Hampshire.

We have been hoping for relief from General Lee's army in Western Virginia—that the necessities of General Rosecrans would compel him to withdraw his forces from us. In this we have been disappointed. We find still a force on our border acting with the Union men sufficient to rob us. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at New Creek Station is but about thirty miles from our county seat, and so long as that point is suffered to remain in the possession of the enemy we must be insecure. We placed ourselves under the protection of the Confederate States with a full knowledge of our exposed situation, being a border county, yet relying upon the ability and willingness of our more Southern brethren, who are less exposed, to defend us.

We now would most earnestly call upon you, the chosen head of the Confederacy, for relief and continued protection if not inconsistent with more important interests.

JACOB VAN METER.
[AND NINE OTHERS.]

HEADQUARTERS VALLEY RIVER, September 14, 1861.

General S. COOPER,

Adjutant and Inspector General, Richmond, Va.

GENERAL: In compliance with your letter of the 7th instant containing instructions from the President I addressed to the general commanding the forces of the enemy in my front the letter of the 13th instant of which I send you a copy, and received from him to-day the accompanying reply.

I have the honor to be, your obedient servant,

R. E. LEE,
General, Commanding.

[Inclosure No. 1.]

HEADQUARTERS CAMP ON VALLEY RIVER,

September 13, 1861.

The GENERAL COMMANDING U. S. TROOPS,

Huttonsville, Va.

GENERAL: It has been reported to the President of the Confederate States that Andrew J. Moore and Ellis Houchers, citizens of Pocahontas County, Va., were arrested about the 1st ultimo by a party of armed men and carried to your camp at the top of Cheat Mountain; that subsequently they were carried to your camp at Beverly; were there tried by a court-martial, condemned and executed. It is stated that the crime alleged against these men was the suspicion that they belonged to a party of eight who had two days before encountered a detachment of your troops on the banks of the Greenbrier River, when some of the latter were shot but in which encounter they had no participation. The reported execution of these men has been presented to the President in such a credible shape that I have been instructed by him to send to you under a flag a report of the case, and to require that you deliver to me as criminals the perpetrators of the act or avow your responsibility for the same.

R. E. LEE,
General, Commanding.

[Inclosure No. 2.]

HEADQUARTERS, September 14, 1861.

General R. E. LEE,

Commanding Confederate Forces in Tygart's Valley.

GENERAL: In answer to your inquiry relating to Messrs. Andrew J. Moore and Ellis Houchers (we have it Houchin) I have to say that the report of their trial and execution at Beverly is wholly unfounded. They were sent to Wheeling, Va., August 5.

I avail myself of this opportunity to state that the language of the latter part of your communication is exceptionable. "The perpetrators of the act" who carry out the sentence of a court-martial could not be regarded as criminals in any sense, and the avowal of responsibility referred to would be an act of superfluity.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, yours,

J. J. REYNOLDS,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

Proclamation.

BOWLING GREEN, September 18, 1861.

TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY:

The legislature of Kentucky have been faithless to the will of the people. They have endeavored to make your gallant State a fortress in which under the guise of neutrality the armed forces of the United States might secretly prepare to subjugate alike the people of Kentucky and the Southern States. It was not until after months of covert and open violation of your neutrality, with large encampments of national troops on your territory, and a recent official declaration of the President of the United States not to regard your neutral position, coupled with a well-prepared scheme to seize an additional point in your territory which was of vital importance to the safety and defense of Tennessee that the troops of the Southern Confederacy on the invitation of the people of Kentucky occupied a defensive post in your State. In doing so, the commander announced his purpose to evacuate your territory simultaneously with a similar movement on the part of the national forces, whenever the legislature of Kentucky shall undertake to enforce against both belligerents the strict neutrality which they have so often declared.

I return amongst you, citizens of Kentucky, at the head of a force the advance of which is composed entirely of Kentuckians. We do not come to molest any citizen whatever may be his political opinions. Unlike the agents of the Northern despotism who seek to reduce us to the condition of dependent vassals we believe that the recognition of the civil rights of citizens is the foundation of constitutional liberty, and that the claim of the President of the United States to declare martial law, to suspend the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus and to convert every barrack and prison in the land into a bastille is nothing but the claim which other tyrants have assumed to subjugate a free people.

The Confederate States occupy Bowling Green as a defensive position. I renew the pledges of commanders of other columns of Confederate troops to retire from the territory of Kentucky on the same conditions which will govern their movements. I further give you my own assurance that the force under my command will be used as an aid to the government of Kentucky in carrying out the strict neutrality desired by its people whenever they undertake to enforce it against the two belligerents alike.

S. B. BUCKNER,
Brigadier-General, C. S. Army.

MOOREFIELD, September 18, 1861.

Hon. L. P. WALKER, Secretary of War.

SIR: I went on business concerning some cattle that had been taken from this county by Northern troops to Cumberland. There I was arrested and required to take an oath not to take up arms against the United States Government. I have never and had not at the time of being arrested taken up arms against the United States Government, but have been up to this time merely a private citizen. What I want to know of your honor is, whether the oath taken by me will be respected by the Confederate States Government, or am I subject to be drafted with the militia of Hardy County? Please answer and direct to post-office at Moorefield, Hardy County, Va.

DANIEL SMITH.

FORK OF WATERS, HIGHLAND COUNTY,
September 21, 1861.

This letter has been handed to me as the officer commanding the line between Monterey and Petersburg. I forward it according to its address, and with it the following extracts from the report of Capt. George Jackson, former commandant of the post at Monterey:

John W. Overman; lives in Preston County, five miles west of West Union. Was arrested without arms and confined in the guard house August 23, 1861, on the charge of being a Union man. Says that he was a Union man until his arrest, but has since changed and is now willing to stand by the South.

It is proper to state here that all of those persons mentioned in the above list as arrested on the charge of disloyalty, other than those caught in arms against the South, were arrested upon representations of numbers of the most substantial, reliable and loyal citizens of Hardy County, to the effect that they were actively engaged in giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

These extracts give all the information I have about Overman, except that I was [informed] by two gentlemen from Hardy that he was taken up as a spy. He is sent to the Staunton jail by order of General H. R. Jackson.

Respectfully,

JOHN B. BALDWIN,
Colonel Fifty-second Virginia Regiment.

[Inclosure.]

MONTEREY, HIGHLAND COUNTY, VA.,
September 15, 1861.

Mr. JEFFERSON DAVIS.

HONORABLE SIR: I will say to you that I am held as a prisoner in this place. I was taken near Petersburg, Hardy County, Va. I live in Preston County, Va., and was on my way to Moorefield, Hardy County, on business and I had to go some thirty-five miles out of my way to get there in order to get around the Yankee camps, and then was taken by the Rockbridge Cavalry and brought here. I am charged with being a Union man, and I am not, and can prove that I have taken strong grounds in favor of the Confederacy, and was taken prisoner by the Yankees. This I can prove by the best of men in Tucker and Preston Counties if I could get any word to them. But I am cut off from any communication with them and I ask of you my release, for I am kept on the streets at work and digging graves Sundays as well as any other day. They have also taken a fine horse and saddle from me. I was taken on the 22d August, and I am at this time 130 or 140 miles from home, with the Yankees between me and my home. Therefore I can't get any assistance from there—not as much as a change of clothes. I ask your honor for my release, and also for my horse or his value. I understand that I am to be moved up to Staunton to-morrow; but as to this I cannot say whether they will or not. Sir, I am a Virginian, and am proud to say that I have always been loyal to my native State, and am still willing to remain so.

Your humble servant,

JOHN W. OVERMAN.

P. S.—I am well treated by your men generally. There are some few that curse me, and say they will shoot me before I leave the guard house.
J. W. O.

[RICHMOND,] September 21, 1861.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War:

I have examined the cases of Robert H. Kinney, Frank Smyth and Hezekiah Kelly and I see no cause whatever for their detention.

Respectfully submitted.

JAMES LYONS,
Commissioner.

NEW ORLEANS, September 21, 1861.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Richmond.

DEAR SIR: Among the prisoners at Richmond is Capt. G. W. Edge, sent from Fernandina. He was captain of the ship John Carver, loaded with coal for Key West. Captain Edge is quite a young man, and dependent entirely upon his wages for the support of a family. He either had to give up the command of the ship or obey the orders of his owners. Captain E[dge] had been trading for a long time with New Orleans, and is highly esteemed here by a large number of our shipping merchants. At the request of several of those friends I write you merely to ask that you will be kind enough to intercede so far as to see that Captain Edge is placed in as comfortable a position in his prison as the regulations of the Government will permit, and if there are any prisoners sent this way his friends would be glad to have him here, and they would provide for him in prison at their own expense.

Yours, very truly,

E. SALOMON.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, September 22, 1861.

MR. JOHN J. BYRD, Augusta, Ga.

SIR: I am instructed by the President to make a reply to your letter to him of the 13th instant. I exceedingly regret to inform you as a father that an examination of your son's case* has taken place through a commissioner specially appointed for that purpose, a gentleman of the highest character and reputation, Hon. James Lyons, of Richmond, and has reported unfavorably to your son. Mr. Lyons reports his belief that your unfortunate son is guilty; that he is an agent and a spy of Lincoln. Under these circumstances justice and a regard to the safety of this people demand that he should be held in the closest confinement, and with the deepest sympathy for you we are compelled to perform this duty and to refuse his discharge.

Respectfully,

J. P. BENJAMIN,
Acting Secretary of War.

PRISONERS' QUARTERS,
Richmond, Va., September 26, 1861.

HON. J. P. BENJAMIN, Acting Secretary of War.

SIR: I have been a prisoner of war at Richmond in close confinement now for more than two months without asking the privilege of once leaving my quarters. So far as I am aware there are no charges against me, unless it be that I am a member of the U. S. Congress. If, however, I am mistaken in this regard I desire to ask the reasonable courtesy of a hearing before yourself, or such other officer as you may please to designate for that purpose.

I am, sir, with great respect,

ALFRED ELY.

RICHMOND, September 26, 1861.

I, Clark Rodman,† from Wakefield, Washington County, R. I., respectfully beg to state that during the month of May last a friend of mine in Buckland, Prince William County, Va., informed me by letter that J. B. and R. H. Hunton, of that place, engaged in the manufacture of woolen clothes were desirous of procuring the services of a man acquainted with the business; that he (my friend) had recommended me as competent and advised me to accept the situation which I did, and on the 1st June arrived at Buckland and commenced to work. I kept on working until about the 24th July when, hearing that my son Isaac Clark Rodman, had come from the North as a private in the Second Rhode Island Regiment; that he had been present at the battle of Manassas on the 21st of July and was wounded, I immediately stated the case to my employers, upon which they informed me that I might go in quest of him and advised me to do so. I found him amongst the wounded at Sudley Church on the 27th of July, on which day I was arrested. I was brought on to Richmond on the 30th, and after the lapse of a few days was appointed nurse in the prison hospital under the superintendence of Dr. Higginbotham, C. S. Army. I have acted in that capacity up to the present time, bestowing all the while every possible care and attention on my son, who died yesterday, September 25, of typhoid fever.

* See pp. 1432-1434 for report in case of W. H. Byrd.

† See p. 1465 for report in case of Rodman.

CLARK RODMAN.

RICHMOND, September 27, 1861.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN.

DEAR SIR: The governor has referred to me a letter from Hon. R. M. Hudson, judge of the circuit court of Roanoke County. In that letter the judge states that there are twenty prisoners in the Roanoke jail who have applied to him for discharge on writs of habeas corpus returnable to the 4th of October next. He states that they were arrested as Union men by Governor Wise. All are citizens of Virginia, except one who had removed to Ohio but had returned here to settle up his former business. They state they took no part in the military movements nor had they aided the enemy. Some state that though originally Union men they acquiesced in the ordinance adopted by the State and are willing to act as loyal citizens. There is no warrant for their custody nor any writing authorizing it. The sheriff holds them under the verbal order of a military man who stated they were arrested and sent on by General Wise. If there be any evidence to hold them for treason to the State of course the State authorities will take them in charge.

What I desire is to know what course should be pursued in case nothing appears against them except their being held under the order of a Confederate general. I would suggest that as the district attorney of the Confederate States lives (near Roanoke County) in Fincastle, Botetourt County, I might at your instance write to him to attend the trial, or without any intervention of mine you might have the cases attended to by Mr. Miller. The attorney for the Commonwealth is in the military service and is thus absent from Roanoke County.

I am, with high respect, yours, &c.,

J. R. TUCKER.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, September 28, 1861.

Hon. J. R. TUCKER,

Attorney-General of Virginia, Richmond.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of 27th instant in regard to certain prisoners held in Roanoke County jail, Virginia, who have applied for discharge on writs of habeas corpus, &c. Such of these prisoners as will take the oath of allegiance to the Confederate States may be released at once, and in pursuance of your suggestion the honorable district attorney for the district in question will be requested to attend the trial of the others.

Very respectfully,

J. P. BENJAMIN,
Acting Secretary of War.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, September 28, 1861.

Hon. FLEMING B. MILLER,

District Attorney, Fincastle, Botetourt County, Va.

SIR: I am informed by the Hon. J. R. Tucker, attorney-general of Virginia, that certain prisoners held on charges of disloyalty in the jail of Roanoke County under and by Brigadier-General Wise have applied for discharge on writs of habeas corpus returnable to the 4th of October next. I have replied that such of these prisoners as would take the oath of allegiance to the Confederate States might be released at once. I have now the honor to request you, as suggested by Mr. Tucker, to attend the trial of the others on behalf of the Confederate Government.

Respectfully,

J. P. BENJAMIN,
Acting Secretary of War.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, September 28, 1861.

ALFRED ELY, Esq.,* Prisoners' Quarters, Richmond, Va.

SIR: In reply to your letter of the 26th instant I am directed by the Secretary of War to say that there is no charge against you and therefore no reason why your request for a hearing should be granted. You are simply held as a prisoner of war.

Respectfully,

A. T. BLEDSOE,
Chief of Bureau of War.

CULPEPER COURT-HOUSE, VA., September 28, 1861.

R. S. HAMILTON, Esq.

DEAR SIR: I address you, both to thank you for your kind efforts in my behalf and to comply with your advice. I inclose you one of my letters† to the Citizen, Frederick, Md., also three† to the Morning News, Savannah, Ga., and one† addressed in manuscript to the governor of Massachusetts, a copy of which was sent by request to the Savannah News for publication. They are among my most carelessly written printed communications, of which I have but very few with me. I would refer you to my speech at the Union meeting in Lowell on the 29th of December, 1859, and published in the Lowell Advertiser, from which it was copied into the Argus (Norfolk, Va.) of May 19, 1860. It is probable that it is also in the weekly edition of that paper, and possibly may be found among some of your friends. I would refer you to the following gentlemen of the South with some of whom I have the honor of an acquaintance both personal and by correspondence, with others only by correspondence: Messrs. Richardson, editors News,

* Ely was a Member of the U. S. Congress, captured at Bull Run.

† Not found.

Galveston, Tex.; W. L. Thompson, editor News, Savannah, Ga.; James P. Hambleton, editor of Southern Confederacy, Atlanta, Ga. I had a slight acquaintance with Mr. H[ambleton] in New York a year ago last March, and wrote a few communications for his paper, but discontinued writing for it because it supported Douglas for the Presidency, Breckinridge being my choice. I have also written occasionally to the Charleston Mercury during the last five years, but am not personally acquainted with its present editors. I would also refer you to Hon. W. W. Boyce, Winnsborough, S. C., Hon. John H. Reagan, Postmaster-General, from whom I have received letters the past winter. Mr. R[eagan] I am not personally acquainted with; Mr. B[oyce] I am. There are many other prominent Southern gentlemen with whom I was acquainted in Washington in the spring and summer of 1856, among them Toombs and Stephens, of Georgia; Messrs. Keitt and Orr, of South Carolina, and J. P. Benjamin, the present Attorney-General. Whether they would recollect me or not I can not say. The editor of the Norfolk Argus, Captain Lamb, who is referred to in the blackguard notice of the New York Tribune, I should not hesitate to refer to; but whether he is in Norfolk or the army I do not know. His father was mayor of Norfolk last year, and a letter would probably reach him if directed to his father's care. John Heart, esq., former editor of the Charleston Mercury, and J. D. B. De Bow, esq., of De Bow's Review, I am acquainted with, but do not know the post-office address of either at this time. E. D. Ryan, esq., of Waco, Tex., I am acquainted with personally and by correspondence. W. H. Parsons, esq., also of Waco, who is a prominent lawyer in Texas, and also an able writer, I have a corresponding acquaintance with, which grew out of our both writing for the Galveston News. I saw by the papers some six weeks ago that he had raised a regiment and is probably now in the service. Should you or any of your friends write to Captain Lamb, of the Argus (Norfolk), please inclose to him the notice from the New York Tribune. Take such steps as you and your friends see fit, but do not involve yourself in any manner on my account. I am amusing myself by writing an address, "The present revolution and its causes." Whether I shall ever deliver it or not is very doubtful; but if I were at liberty and thought it would afford either instruction or pastime I would like to deliver it, and would appropriate the entire proceeds to the fund for sick and wounded soldiers.

It was my most ardent desire when I came to Virginia in May last to enter the army, but if I should get released from imprisonment this fall it would be foolish for me to undertake the hardships of camp life at this season of the year with my system in the condition that my long confinement has placed it, for it would not be two weeks till I should be in the hospital; but my desire to aid the cause of Southern independence which is de facto the cause of American liberty is as strong as ever. The Rev. Mr. Cole (Heaven bless him) has called to see me twice and has given me some undergarments which I very much needed, for I was in fact compelled to leave Lowell by an abolition mob and had only the clothes that I had on, and a rainy-day suit at that. It is now five and one-half months since, and you must conclude that my wardrobe is getting very low.

I don't know that there is any news here that would interest you. The jail has been full of deserters for the last ten days, which is not much to the comfort of us who are regular boarders. There are several men in the vicinity who desire the services of Mr. Sanford, but whether he will get out at present I do not know. He sends regards.

Hoping that the time may come when I can reciprocate the kindness that you and those good people who are unknown to me have manifested in my behalf, I remain, most respectfully, your friend and servant,

M. B. WHITE.

P. S.—The communications and notices inclosed use at your own discretion. If you think it advisable to send any of them away, do so. If not, please return them when you are through with them.

M. B. W.

PAULDING, MISS., September 30, 1861.

His Excellency the PRESIDENT OF THE CONFEDERATE STATES:

The undersigned have learned with great surprise that Henry L. Martin, esq., late of Jasper County, Miss., is imprisoned at Richmond on charges affecting his loyalty to the South. Mr. Martin is a native of the South; has spent most of his life in this community; his children are here, and we his old friends and acquaintances find it impossible to believe that his feelings and sympathies are other than Southern. The object of this petition is to pray Your Excellency to have his case examined into, and to extend to him that justice to which a citizen of a free country is entitled, and we feel assured that with a proper understanding of his case he will be found to be above suspicion, and a true Southern man.

L. B. LASSITER,
Sheriff of Jasper County.
BENJ. THIGPEN,
Judge of Probate.
W. T. POWER,
Deputy Sheriff.
[AND 21 OTHERS.]

HEADQUARTERS WESTERN DEPARTMENT,
Columbus, Ky., October 1, 1861.

Capt. J. W. HAWKINS,
Commanding Stevenson Guards, Nashville.

SIR: Your letter of September 29 has been received and I am instructed by General Johnston to say that he wishes you to continue to perform the duties heretofore assigned.

If summoned by writ of habeas corpus you will appear and state fully to the judge the grounds on which you made the arrest and on which you detain the prisoner. If he is then discharged you will release him. Should it appear to you in any particular case that serious injury to the service may arise from the release of the prisoner you will immediately state the case to a judge of the Confederate States and ask for his authority to arrest.

You are as heretofore authorized to stop and turn back any suspicious person traveling on the cars. The discharge of the judge will not suffice as a passport.

I am, very respectfully, &c.,

W. W. MACKALL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[RICHMOND, VA.,] *October 2, 1861.*Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War:

I would respectfully submit whether in cases free from doubt in favor of the prisoner it would not be well to give the commissioner authority to discharge without troubling the honorable Secretary with a report.

Respectfully,

JAMES LYONS

REDWOOD, October 4, 1861.

His Excellency Governor LETCHER.

DEAR SIR: A man by the name of White is in confinement at this place in the county jail, and has been for several months, against whom as I understand from most reliable persons there has been at no time a particle of evidence. He was brought before Judge Field and promptly discharged, but recommitted, I presume by some mistake or misunderstanding—certainly by no form of legal proceeding. I am so informed by the judge of the court, by the Rev. Mr. Cole (the minister of this parish) and by Colonel Taylor, in command of the post. What he wants is to be tried. These gentlemen can't or won't relieve him and I do not know how to proceed, as I understand the judge to suppose his jurisdiction exhausted. If the man is innocent it is a most cruel oppression. If guilty, it's time to have his case disposed of, as I believe his incarceration antedates the establishment of Forts McHenry and Lafayette as penitentiaries. If this duty is with the Confederate authorities will you, my dear sir, forward this note to Mr. Benjamin, Acting Secretary of War? The precise name I will have given below.

I am, very truly, your friend and obedient servant,

JNO. PENDLETON.

P. S.—The full name is Moses Bradford White.

CLARKSVILLE, TENN., October 4, 1861.

General POLK:

We send you in charge of Lieutenant Wilday a man named Petty who we have grounds to think may not be after any good. We attach but little consequence to him except he is known to be quite familiar with both Cumberland and Tennessee Rivers as a pilot, having acted in that capacity for many years.

As the Cumberland River is now rising quite rapidly we think it advisable to watch such characters as could pilot the Lincoln boats up our river. He is represented as a great liar and entirely unreliable, which we find is true from the statements which he makes of things at and about Paducah. He gives no satisfactory account of why he is here, and from the fact of his familiarity with the rivers as above stated we send him to you. We refer you to Lieutenant Wilday for his statements to us, who heard it all.

Yours, most respectfully,

FISHER A. HANNUM,
President of the Military Board.

OXFORD, MISS., October 8, 1861.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War.

DEAR SIR: You have incarcerated in Richmond Henry L. Martin, esq., formerly of this State but for several years a clerk in the Department of the Interior at Washington while I was Secretary of the Interior. I considered Mr. Martin a true man. After I left Washington he remained and I am not familiar with his course of conduct since that time. All those ordinary influences which make men turn would seem to be so strong in our direction that his old friends in this State cannot and do not doubt him. Born South, with an extensive and influential family South, with sons in the Confederate service, abused and persecuted as he has been by the abolitionists it must be strange indeed if he can prove untrue to the South. I hope you will cause his case to be examined into. I believe you will be satisfied that he ought to have his liberty.

Yours, truly,

J. THOMPSON.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, October 11, 1861.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War.

SIR: In the case of the application of Moses Bradford White I submit as you direct the following report:

It appears from numerous publications in Northern papers that he was a warm friend of the South and wrote various articles in Southern newspapers by which Northern journals were greatly incensed. This is seen from scraps.* Though a native of the North his feelings, speeches and acts seem to have been with the South. We may then well believe his statement when he says he had to fly from Lowell, Mass., and come to the South to seek a place in our army. He seems to have been imprisoned simply because he was a Yankee from Lowell, Mass., and has been confined in a loathsome jail for nearly four months. He has obtained one hearing, having been brought before Judge Field on a writ of habeas corpus, when he was discharged. But still distrusted by a military commander who only knew that he was a Yankee he was again taken by him, with the assurance that he (the commander) would attend to his case. This commander put him in jail, went to Manassas and seems to have forgotten all about the poor prisoner. I learn these facts from the Rev. William Cole, an Episcopal clergyman at Culpeper Court-House, who has interested himself in the case of Mr. White. Since his trial and imprisonment he has not been able to get a rehearing, though a discharge was ordered on his first trial. In his well-written letter to the Rev. Mr. Cole he gives a touching account of the privileges that were denied him, and which if granted could only have led to an investigation of his case. The only possible reason that can be assigned why he should not be discharged is that he may not be the person whom the Northern papers speak of as Moses Bradford White, the name under which he has gone ever since he came to this State. The want of identity is possible, but is it right that he should be kept in prison on the ground of this bare possibility?

Very respectfully,

A. T. BLEDSOE,
Chief of Bureau of War.

* Omitted.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE PENINSULA,
Yorktown, October 13, 1861.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War:

I am instructed by Major-General Magruder to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 7th instant and to say in reply that Colonel Crump reports that—

C. G. Clark and his wife attempted to pass without showing their passports and were captured by the guard boat below all our batteries. All the facts in the case were immediately reported by me through the Adjutant-General's Department to the War Department and instructions asked, and from the vindictive spirit exhibited by himself and wife since their capture I deem it extremely imprudent, indeed dangerous, to permit their leaving the country at all.

C. G. Clark and wife have been sent to Richmond.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. JONES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORFOLK,
Norfolk, October 14, 1861.

General S. COOPER, Adjutant and Inspector General.

SIR: I inclose an advertisement which I propose publishing. My object is to get rid of a disaffected and troublesome population, most of whom are idle and would be liable to turn against us if we were in any danger of a defeat. They are sending up to Richmond from day to day and getting passes, thus keeping up a continued communication with the enemy. I propose letting them all go and tell all their tales at once, and after that to allow none to leave. I beg it may be submitted to the Secretary of War for his approval or disapproval.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

BENJ. HUGER,
Major-General, Commanding.

[Inclosure.]

As many persons residing in this locality are from time to time making application to these headquarters to be permitted to go North under a flag of truce, and as the time allowed by an act of Congress and the proclamation of the President for all alien enemies to leave the Confederate States or take the oath of allegiance has expired, notice is hereby given to all alien enemies and other disaffected persons that upon a day hereafter to be named a flag of truce will leave for the purpose of conveying them beyond these military lines, and all who desire so to depart will within one week from this date register their names at the offices of W. W. Lamb, esq., mayor of Norfolk, and Capt. George W. Grice, assistant quartermaster at Portsmouth. This steamer will be the last that will convey residents of this locality under a flag of truce, and all alien enemies or other suspected persons found within these military lines after her departure will be arrested and imprisoned as the law directs.

AUDITOR'S OFFICE, Richmond, October 25, 1861.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN.

SIR: Many of the best men of Virginia whose names I can furnish are now confined in cow-sheds near Columbus, Ohio, for the utterance of their political opinions in their native State. They number over 100, and no efforts appear to have been made by the Government for their exchange or release. While such a great wrong remains unredressed there has been a "general jail delivery" of Union defenders who have committed treason against Virginia by giving aid and comfort to the Peirpoint government. An exchange between the military authorities of the two Governments of all political offenders is certainly legitimate, and I merely state the facts that your better judgment may suggest the remedy. The sufferings of our citizens taken from Virginia unarmed and only because of their political opinions are too great to escape the immediate attention of all who have the means of redress, and I enter an earnest request that no further releases such as the "Salem jail delivery" referred to shall be made until our friends held as hostages and for the purpose of exchange shall also be given up or released.

Yours, truly,

J. M. BENNETT,
First Auditor, Virginia.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF KANAWHA,
Camp Dickinson, October 25, 1861.

His Excellency the SECRETARY OF WAR.

SIR: General Floyd has been informed by the officer in charge of the post at White Sulphur Springs that one John B. [Felix S.] Odell, a Union man and traitor, who was arrested by his orders and sent with others to Richmond as a prisoner has been released and sent back to his home. Said Odell is notorious in Western Virginia as a man very dangerous to the Southern Confederacy and as one who has whenever he could do so given aid and comfort to the enemy. If evidence sufficient to convict him was not produced this is attributable to the fact that the general was not apprised of his trial, to the difficulty of collecting and sending witnesses at so great a distance, and not to his innocence. He begs leave to submit to your excellency that the discharge of such persons is attended not only with great danger to the cause in this portion of the State but renders the officers who arrest them liable to be shot down as an act of revenge and of retaliation. The general has exercised great caution in arresting citizens of the State upon the ground of alleged disloyalty to the cause and has done so only upon well-sustained charges. He feels confident that it is only necessary to call the attention of your excellency to the above facts in order to secure great care in the treatment of citizens sent to Richmond as unsound and dangerous to the public safety.

By order of Brig. Gen. John B. Floyd:

WM. E. PETERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. SECOND REGIMENT TEXAS MOUNTED RIFLES,
Fort Brown, October 25, 1861.

DON ANDRES TREVIÑO,

Commanding Tamaulipas Troops in Reynosa.

SIR: I have been informed that you, or the forces with which you are acting, have in your possession and power the person of Col. Peter Nickles, a citizen of the Confederate States of America, and that you contemplate having him hung. If he was taken with arms in his hands he is a prisoner of war and entitled to be treated in accordance with the usages of civilized nations. It is represented to me that he was only a spectator and took no part in the contest; in that event there is no cause or justification for his detention. I am confident that you will permit no indignity or outrage to be perpetrated upon the person of Colonel Nickles which would constitute a just cause of complaint on the part of the Confederate States, and thus endanger the amicable relations existing between them and Mexico.

I have the honor to be, your obedient servant,

JOHN S. FORD,
Colonel, Commanding.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, October 26, 1861.

J. M. BENNETT, Esq., State Auditor, Richmond.

SIR: In answer to your letter of yesterday I can only say that none can more deeply regret than I do the condition of all those not only of Virginia but of other States who have been seized by a despotic and unscrupulous power and incarcerated whether in cow-sheds or in dungeons. It is, however, a well-known fact that this Government has spared no effort to introduce a system of exchange of prisoners of war and that its efforts have been hitherto unsuccessful.

The prisoners of whom you speak are not prisoners of war. They are men not taken in arms. They are political prisoners, and your proposal seems to be that we shall hold in jail men convicted of no crime as political prisoners also; that we shall imitate the loathsome practices of which you complain, and shall within our own Confederacy hold men in prison who are citizens of Virginia by mere arbitrary military power for the purpose of exchanging them against those held under like circumstances by the enemy.

Pardon me for suggesting that I do not think you have reflected on the true nature of the course of action you advise, and for stating that this Government can enter into no such contest of evil-doing as is proposed. Prisoners held in jail are examined, and if guilty or believed to be guilty of treason or other crime against the State or Confederacy are handed over to the civil power, because ours is a Government of law, and it is our highest and proudest boast so to maintain it. Numerous prisoners have been thus transferred by this Department to the courts of justice. All others are released for our citizens cannot be held in jail on suspicion, and let us thank Providence that this exemption from violence to personal liberty is one of the legitimate as it is the most precious fruit of the struggle in which we are engaged.

The "general jail delivery" of which you seem to complain was if I am rightly informed an examination into the causes of the imprisonment of many citizens of Virginia who had been placed in confinement by military commanders, who were taken unarmed and against whom no evidence could be produced. Surely you would not have desired in the interests of your own liberty and that of those most dear to you that the violent hand of military power should have been laid on these men.

The convention of Virginia authorized your governor to arrest on suspicion aliens believed to be dangerous, but no lawgiver of these Confederate States has ever yet dreamed of conferring on any public functionary the power of holding our own citizens in jail on suspicion.

I am therefore compelled respectfully to decline your proposal to hold Virginians in prison until the enemy shall release other Virginians that he holds in prison. At the same time I will cheerfully aid to the amount of my power in bringing to due punishment all traitors and other criminals, and will most heartily co-operate in any legitimate effort to relieve our fellow-citizens imprisoned in this or other States whose wrongs and sufferings I deplore but am powerless to remedy.

I am, respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. P. BENJAMIN,
Acting Secretary of War.

CHARLESTOWN, VA., October 29, 1861.

Hon. Mr. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War.

DEAR SIR: Having had Mr. Herr, a resident of Harper's Ferry, arrested because of his alleged intercourse with the enemy, which intercourse he admits but pleads as not treasonable, it having been in every instance advised by his counsel, Mr. A. Hunter, how far Mr. Herr's intercourse with the enemy (which has consisted in his receiving pay for flour and wheat used by them from his mill) [sic.] I have preferred under the circumstances to refer to you for decision, as I want some guide in treating similar cases which are frequent upon the border. I considered Mr. Herr's case aggravated by the fact of Federal troops taking possession of Harper's Ferry, as the Federal newspaper report says, for the purpose of removing wheat from his mill which I am led to believe Mr. Herr expects pay for from the Federal Government. My men found Federal guards around his mill which still contained wheat, upon which they fired it and burned it to ashes, arresting Mr. Herr as a party to their transactions in violation of the Confederate law.

Upon offering Mr. Herr the option to take the oath of allegiance or leave the State Mr. Herr declined taking the oath for reasons which he will state to you, but expressed a desire to remain a citizen of the Confederate States without giving such evidence of his loyalty. I do not feel at liberty to release him without such evidence and consequently send him on parole, accompanied by his friend, Mr. A. Hunter, to you for your decision. I beg of you to give me some guide in similar cases of which I have not a few. I am satisfied that Mr. Herr is a conscientious man and would not deliberately be traitorous to our cause, but think that such intercourse has already and would likely continue to result in evil to us.

Respectfully,

TURNER ASHBY,
Lieutenant-Colonel, C. S. Army.

RICHMOND, VA., November 1, 1861.

His Excellency JEFFERSON DAVIS,
President Confederate States of America.

SIR: You are no doubt acquainted with the circumstances of my capture and detention. The Secretary of War has informed me that there are no charges against me and am held simply as a prisoner of war. I have now been imprisoned in close confinement between three and four months and will not deny that I am anxious to be liberated. My fellow-prisoners for good reasons which will be explained to you are equally anxious that I should be. I cannot of course anticipate the action of my Government, but believing that common humanity demands an exchange of prisoners I should not hesitate at any honorable action to bring about so desirable a result.

I am, sir, with great respect,

ALFRED ELY.

AUDITOR'S OFFICE, Richmond, November 4, 1861.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Acting Secretary of War.

SIR: A few days' absence from the city has prevented me from noticing your letter of the 26th ultimo until now. One brother-in-law more than sixty years of age and eight or nine nephews and cousins held in custody by authority of the governor of Ohio, charged with no offense, must be my apology for again intruding myself upon your time and attention in their behalf, as well as in behalf of all those whom fortune has thrown in the power of the Federal Government.

It must be admitted that that Government together with those State governments adhering to its authority appears to have divested itself of all the milder feelings which naturally belong to men, and that it delights in increasing the sufferings of those who are already wretched enough by being placed in their power. Those acknowledged rights between equals in power which go to mitigate the horrors of war and diminish the sufferings of the wretched have all been ignored by our enemies. Those upon the contrary who go to war and are prepared to defend and support by the sword principles they believe to be right will admit of no departure from established usage to their prejudice, and may be expected if they have the power (in the language of General Washington) to "endeavor by retaliating the injuries inflicted on them to compel the observance of a more just and humane system of warfare." The history of the Revolutionary war shows us that a disposition by some of the States to discriminate between those who were loyalists and deemed traitors to their country from the British soldier taken in arms unfortunately protracted the sufferings of both to an unusual length. This discrimination was never recognized by the Federal authority at that time or since.

Retaliation and struggling humanity have gradually ingrafted in the rules of war the practices which meliorate the condition of prisoners. And while I admit that a violation of the acknowledged principles governing civilized nations in this respect should expose the national character to reproach, yet I deny that such reproach would attach to this manner of retaliation which has existed since the days of Moses, its severity only being moderated by the advancement of Christianity. General Washington admitted it as a rule of law in respect to prisoners, and the Congress of that day required its enforcement. President Davis in his recent message to Congress in respect to the Savannah prisoners distinctly avows and indorses it. I think it will be difficult for any of us to draw the distinction between political or military prisoners in like relations in respect to retaliation. Even the death of a soldier who for aught we know may have been drafted into the service of the U. S. Army and compelled in opposition to his will to fight against the Confederacy comes within the rule laid down by President Davis for retaliation. Is it humanity in such case to take the life of the soldier in consequence of any act of Lincoln's Government? General Washington and President Davis may be accepted by us as good authority, and while we may be horrified at the mere idea of shedding innocent blood yet upon the authority of these high names we must conclude that the ultimate good resulting from the law of retaliation will justify it. Numerous horrid acts and the wailing grief that must otherwise be entailed upon a whole country by the same authority calls for retaliation even if it presents the appearance of erring resentment.

The right of an exchange of political prisoners has been acknowledged by the governor of Ohio, who at the instance of General Wise released about thirty such for the release of Mr. Waggener, of Mason County, a member of the Wheeling convention.

In directing your attention to the matters which induced my former letter it is not necessary to allude to the dead, as in the case of poor Riffle, of Braxton County. He was a man about sixty years of age and as it was supposed without an enemy, but had voted for secession. For this act he was arrested, handcuffed with his hands behind his back, and with a rope securely tied around his neck, he was tied to a wagon and compelled to walk in its rear for ten miles in the direction of the prison designed for his incarceration, until the Ohio lieutenant without resistance on the part of Riffle shot and killed him. From the horrors of this act which is well authenticated I am constrained to turn in sympathy to the condition of the living now confined in cow-sheds near Columbus, Ohio, in all the wretchedness which hunger, nakedness and the neglect of their own Government can inflict. They too may share the fate of Riffle. They number about 100 and are of the highest respectability.

The Confederate Government had many political prisoners and has several yet. These self-styled Union men cannot be found guilty of any overt act of treason by reason of the impracticability of obtaining witnesses from beyond the enemy's lines competent to establish their guilt. The case of Roberts, of Roane County, recently discharged by your order, is a striking illustration of the impolicy of indiscriminate discharges without seeking for information. Roberts it is stated upon good authority had passed into our lines as a witness for his son in a criminal prosecution, and by perjury attempted to acquit him of a rape upon the wife of a soldier in our army. The son was found guilty and imprisoned, from which imprisonment he has been rescued by the Federal army. The father because of his sympathy with Black Republicanism and of his having taken a seat as a member of the Wheeling convention and voted to divide the State was arrested and sent here. Witnesses could not from the very nature of things be procured, and as far as I am informed were not sought for; and with all this black cloud of guilt upon his skirts he is set at liberty without condition upon the score of humanity I presume, and because ours is a Government of law. He was a Northern adventurer engaging in the politics of Virginia, and has now returned with a quasi indorsement of the Government. Does not the safety of the country require that such a man should be kept in custody, law or no law?

The case of C. Mollohan, a resident of the State of Ohio, is another illustration of the fallacy of your doctrine. He had formerly been a preacher and resident of Virginia, preaching Abolitionism wherever he went. Such was his boldness in that respect that he was arrested under our laws against insurrection upon complaint of his own brother. After his release he moved to Ohio, and upon the breaking out of the war he returned as a spy upon our movements, and was arrested by the military authority and confined in the jail of Roanoke, from which he was released upon your orders because no witnesses appeared to testify against his crimes. Did humanity forbid his retention?

Other cases might be named about which I have written of equal or greater atrocity and would seem to call for the interposition of the Government, even though redress be effected by application of the lex talionis.

Suppose Minister Adams by chance or otherwise to be placed in our possession would you return him with a safe permit to his field of labor in France or to his home in Massachusetts, or would you demand as a condition precedent to his release the release of Mr. Faulkner from Fort Lafayette?

Suppose the wife of President Lincoln was enjoying the gayeties and hospitalities of a Southern life would you not force those enjoyments upon her until ladies of more patriotism and perhaps more refinement now detained in Washington and Wheeling should be released, or would you restore her to the embrace of her husband and the surroundings of family affection, or to a people who do not act upon principles of humanity or acknowledge any law, and suffer those angel spirits held in durance to shiver and weep in prison over the neglect of their Government?

Take a case more directly parallel. Suppose the amiable and accomplished wife of President Davis was one of the prisoners at Wheeling or Washington and Mrs. Lincoln should by following the "Grand Army" in its march "On to Richmond" fall into our power. While she might be treated with all the attention and courtesy of polite life does any one believe she would be transferred from her Southern enjoyments without the unconditional release of Mrs. Davis?

It is not necessary to remind one who all admit is attentive to the public history and necessities of our affairs that there are ladies in Wheeling if not in Washington indicted and detained as prisoners for no other offense than because with their own needles they made clothing for the brave young men who have since bravely and nobly fallen in our defense. Are they cared for by the Government? What steps have been taken for their relief? Have those things occupied the attention of the Government at all? These existing cases are evidences pointing to the actual feeling with which a generous mind may contemplate the calamities of an enemy and should call for every effort, retaliation included, for their relief. At least such is my opinion, and I trust will upon mature reflection be the opinion of your Department, and a vigorous policy inaugurated in pursuance thereof.

Trusting that I may be excused for trespassing at so much length upon your time I will close by merely suggesting that Governor Dennison has exchanged prisoners whom he affects to believe guilty of a crime for Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia political prisoners who are alike our enemies and seeking to subvert the sovereignty of the State, and that I cannot see that harm would grow out of an effort to make further exchanges.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. BENNETT.

HEADQUARTERS BRIGADE,
Cumberland Gap, November 6, 1861.

Lieutenant-Colonel MACKALL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Bowling Green, Ky.

SIR: Inclosed you will find a list* of the prisoners we still have under our charge and the circumstances under which they were taken as well as we can learn. Twenty-five of them are citizens of the State of Kentucky; six citizens of the State of Tennessee, and one a slave taken with his master at Wild Cat. All of them so far as we can ascertain were either taken in arms against the Confederate States or giving aid and comfort to our enemies. The Kentuckians we of course regard as prisoners of war, but can the Tennesseans be looked upon in the same light? The general commanding desires to be informed as to the disposition he shall make of both classes of these prisoners.

* Not found.

Very respectfully,

POLLOK B. LEE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

OFFICE OF THE PROVOST-MARSHAL,
Manassas, November 14, 1861.

Brig. Gen. J. H. WINDER,
Inspector-General, C. S. Army.

GENERAL: I send five civilians (prisoners) who have been in confinement at this post by order of the general commanding the Army of the Potomac—Peyton Hall, Isaac Hall, Elibeck Hall, George Bayless and W. H. Hamet[mute]. The order received from Colonel Lay, inspector-general Army of the Potomac, says:

Major Boyle will forward the five men to Richmond, noting Bayless as a dangerous character, understood to have been specially active in communicating with the enemy, and the other four as persons whom it is not considered safe to have about our lines.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

CORNELIUS BOYLE,
Major and Provost-Marshal, Army of the Potomac.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., November 16, 1861.

JEFFERSON DAVIS,
President of the Confederate States of America, Richmond.

SIR: The European Governments generally have by proclamation forewarned their respective subjects from participating in the war now in progress between the Confederate States of America and the United States, informing them if they do so it will be at their own peril; that their Government will consider all such subjects out of their protection, &c., and liable to such punishment as may be inflicted upon them by those against whom they take up arms.

Now, sir, as the Army of the United States is being recruited and is already to a great extent composed of citizens of other Governments (not having been in the country long enough to be naturalized) I respectfully suggest to Your Excellency that an effectual way to stop this augmentation and prevent those Germans and other foreigners from aiding our enemies is to declare by proclamation that all foreign-born persons not legally naturalized in the United States found in arms aiding the said United States in the present war against the Confederate States will be considered as interlopers, and if taken will not be treated as legitimate prisoners of war but be subject to such punishment as the Congress of the Confederate Government may prescribe which should be death.

These suggestions are made and Your Excellency's better judgment can determine the policy of adopting them or no.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

D. G. McRAE.

OFFICE OF THE PROVOST-MARSHAL,
Manassas, November 19, 1861.

Brig. Gen. J. H. WINDER, Inspector-General, C. S. Army.

GENERAL: I am directed by the commanding general to forward you the two disloyal citizens, Samuel Dentz (represented as an unsafe person to be at large, Colonel Robertson, commanding Fourth Virginia Cavalry, representing him as a notorious traitor, he having recently taken license to furnish the Federal Government with wood) and Forrest Olden, a citizen of Colchester. The general says: "Olden must be sent to Richmond as a person whom it is supposed to be unsafe to leave at large."

I remain, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

CORNELIUS BOYLE,

Major and Provost-Marshal, Army of the Potomac.

FAIRFAX COUNTY, VA., November 24, 1861.

Maj. H. W. THOMAS.

DEAR SIR: At the request of Mrs. Bowman I write to you to make some effort to have Josiah B. Bowman released from prison who is now held in Richmond by the Southern Confederacy on a charge of piloting the Federal army to Bull Run last summer, which was not the case. The evidence against him was taken from a Northern paper thanking him for his attention to them. The fact was this as I understood it: On Sunday morning of the Bull Run fight while the troops were at Vienna two reporters for Northern papers and a chaplain in the army wanted a conveyance to go to Centerville. They told Bowman that they must have his wagon whether he went or not, and he did go to Centerville to bring his horses and wagon back. He did what I would have done under similar circumstances.

I know three Virginians that were pressed to carry the tired-out soldiers down on their retreat from Bull Run; still no arrest made. I have always found Bowman to be a very quiet man on the war question, taking no part either way. I think I know him and know him to be a good citizen. He has a wife and five children depending on him for a support. The citizens in the neighborhood think it a very hard case that he should be held a prisoner so long, he being arrested about the 1st of August. Go and see Bowman and have him released if possible so he can come home to his family. The Federal troops have taken Bowman's two teams and the most of his cattle. His wife will have to depend on her neighbors to haul her wood. Doctor Hunter has been released by the Federal army. They still hold A. B. Williams, George Gunnell, Hugh Adams, Withers Smith, John McDaniel and Sam Anderson, Doctor Hunter thinks for the want of some one to bring their cases up before the authorities at Washington. The Federal army have made no advance yet. The troops scout up this far but seldom leave the big road.

Yours, very respectfully,

JERE. MOORE.

HEADQUARTERS WESTERN DEPARTMENT,
Bowling Green, November 25, 1861.

A board is hereby constituted, to be formed of Judge Burnham and Maj. J. J. Williams, provost-marshal. Its duties will be to hear and determine all cases of persons not in the military service who may be in arrest by military authority. The board will hold its sittings at such convenient place as it may select, and meet for the transaction of its business on Tuesdays and Fridays of each week.

By command of General Johnston:

W. W. MACKALL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

LITTLE ROCK, November 28, 1861.

JEFFERSON DAVIS:

A conspiracy has been discovered in the northern part of this State against the Confederate Government. Secret oaths, signs and passwords adopted. The intention seems to be to join Lincoln's army if it gets into Arkansas. Twenty-seven men have been arrested and brought here to-day and are now in prison. A hundred more will doubtless be brought in in a day or so. They say there are 1,700 in the State. What shall be done with them? I ask your advice in the premises. The district judge is not here. He ought to be at his post.

H. M. RECTOR,
Governor of Arkansas.

C. S. MARSHAL'S OFFICE,
Monticello, Fla., November 28, 1861.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War, Richmond, Va.

SIR: I beg leave to make a few suggestions to you in reference to alien enemies and prisoners of war captured at sea. I think an arrangement might be made with the military for them to take charge of all such prisoners, feed them and transport them to the frontier. It certainly would cost the Government much less to have such men guarded by those who are now or may be on military service. The regular rations of the army would not cost so much as the present mode of boarding at a jail. Under the present arrangements each man that is employed as a guard before the prisoners leave and on the road to Richmond and back expects to be paid high wages. I find no law for the payment of anything to such guards and have refused to pay any such charges, and await your instructions. All this expense to the Government and trouble and vexation to me might be saved by turning all such prisoners over to the military.

Hoping to hear from you soon, I remain, your obedient servant,

E. E. BLACKBURN,
C. S. Marshal, District of Florida.

RICHMOND, VA., November 29, 1861.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War.

HONORED SIR: Since the authorities of the United States will not exchange prisoners may it not be well to compel an exchange in so far as we are able? Many of our citizens long to participate in defense of their homes yet are restrained by an oath forced upon them by the Federal authorities. It has struck me that our Congress is able to release such from this duress by special enactment ordaining that each such citizen should upon enlistment or appointment into our army be thenceforth absolved from his oath, provided that the President or other authority of the Confederate States should thereupon recompense the enemy by releasing one of the prisoners then in our possession. And might it not be well to provide that in selecting for such release preference be given, first, to the disabled, and secondly, to those of our prisoners whose term of enlistment has expired or is most near expiration?

Respectfully, yours,

A. G. STALEY,
Of Mississippi and District of Columbia.

RICHMOND, December 1, 1861.

HON. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War.

SIR: I beg to call your attention to the inclosed letter from Mr. E. W. McGinnis, of Mobile. I know nothing of the case of Mr. Horatio Eagle to which it refers. Mr. McGinnis is a respectable merchant of Mobile of many years' standing. I hope the case will receive early consideration.

I have the honor to be, your obedient servant,

R. H. SMITH.

[Inclosure.]

MOBILE, ALA., November 27, 1861.

HON. ROBT. H. SMITH, Richmond, Va.

DEAR SIR: Will you do me the favor to call Mr. Benjamin's (Secretary of War) attention to the case of Horatio Eagle, who is now a prisoner in the county jail at Richmond. Mr. Eagle has had his examination before the commissioner, and from what the commissioner told Mr. Eagle I have no doubt Mr. Benjamin would order his release at once if his attention was called to the case by yourself. Mr. Eagle was taken prisoner some two months ago while attending to some business connected with the coal oil company. If he had been taken in arms against us or aided in any way our enemies I would be the last man to raise my voice for his release. But I have known this man for ten years, and know that he has spent his money and used his influence at all times against the Black Republican party of New York; that he voted against them last fall, and has always done so. Marmaduke Johnson, esq., was his counsel at his examination before the commissioner, and Dr. Barney, formerly of Mobile now living in Richmond, has been assisting in his case. But I learn the order for his release must come from the Secretary of War or President Davis.

As Mr. Eagle's health is being seriously affected by his long confinement in jail you will very much oblige me by bringing his case at once to the notice of Mr. Benjamin; and as the examination has been taken and the evidence all before him it would not probably take fifteen minutes for the Secretary of War to satisfy himself and order his (Eagle's) discharge. Please attend to this, as an innocent man ought not to be confined one moment longer than possible. * * *

Again asking your attention to Mr. Eagle's [case] before the Secretary of War for which I shall feel greatly obliged, I remain, yours, very truly,

E. W. MCGINNIS.

RICHMOND, VA., December 2, 1861.

To the PRESIDENT OF THE CONFEDERATE STATES.

SIR: We desire to call the attention of the President to the case of Horatio Eagle, a political prisoner, confined in the jail of Henrico County. We are induced to interfere in his behalf because we are satisfied that he was induced to visit the neighborhood of Brady's Gate, in Hampshire County, where he was arrested, for the sole purpose of bringing to us a communication on important business in which we are deeply interested, and having no desire to interfere with the present difficulties. We understand that Mr. Eagle has been examined by the Confederate commissioner, and suggest if no evidence was introduced to show that he was acting in the matter referred to from improper motives that he be released upon a pledge to procure the exchange of one of our prisoners in the possession of the Federal authorities; or if it is not considered proper to do so that he be allowed the limits of the city upon his parole not to leave which we feel confident will not be violated.

Very respectfully, your obedient servants,

G. D. CAMDEN.

WM. L. JACKSON.

RALEIGH, N. C., December 2, 1861.

Hon. THOMAS BRAGG.

MY DEAR SIR: I am sure you will permit an old friend and admirer to mingle his sincere congratulations with those of thousands of others on your call to the cabinet of President Davis. Long life and abundant honors and happiness be yours. You have won your honors nobly, and will wear them well everywhere and to the end and add another to the stars in the cluster of North Carolina's diadem.

I am informed that some 250 of the Hatteras prisoners are on their way to Richmond for exchange. Pray let me interest you in favor of a most worthy man now and for many months being a prisoner of war at the State Fair Grounds, whose case is a very hard one, so as to get him released in the exchange. One word, one wish expressed by you in the better quarter will obtain his release. In fact he was wrongfully taken and improperly detained as a prisoner of war. I allude to Manuel C. Causten, M. D.,* of the city of Washington, an educated and polished Christian gentleman. Doctor Causten is the sole surviving son of an old acquaintance of yours, James H. Causten, the French spoliation agent there resident. I here inclose a letter received from his father. I learn from it and the doctor that he is not and never was a soldier, nor bore arms in this or any other war; that he had for some years been the surgeon of the Washington, commonly called the President's, Mounted Guard, long before Abe Lincoln came there as President, and he was attached to the hospital, lately burnt down. About the commencement of this war he married a young wife, about fourteen miles from Washington, in Maryland, where he left her with her friends for a short time. On the night of his capture he paid her a visit alone, unarmed and unsuspecting danger. But a scouting party of Confederates visited the house, and finding him there tore him from the arms of his young wife, [took him] to Manassas; thence he was carried to Richmond where he was confined in jail, and afterwards in a tobacco factory, and thence he was sent here. At the camp here he has been useful to the sick soldiers, and only a few days ago but for him one of the North Carolina volunteers would have lost his life. By an incautious handling of his musket the gun was fired and shot him through the body, and before Doctor Johnson could have been got there for his relief he would have bled to death. Doctor Causten promptly volunteered his aid and saved the man's life, desperately wounded as he was. If rightfully captured at first and detained as a prisoner of war he is among the earliest of the prisoners taken in this war, and his gentlemanly bearing which has won for him very general respect as well as the circumstances of his case entitle him to the favor I implore for him through your kindness. He will, and his old father will, and so will I, be everlastingly grateful to you for anything you can do for him.

* See report of E. J. Allen, p. 171 et seq.

One word concerning my poor old self. I am dying by inches, and we shall probably never meet again in this world, but I hope we shall in endless life and blessedness. My best wishes for your lady and family.

Ever truly, your obedient servant,

JOSEPH B. HINTON.

[Inclosure.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 18, 1861.

JOSEPH B. HINTON, Esq., Raleigh.

MY DEAR FRIEND: I have received a letter from my son, Manuel C. Causten, dated at Raleigh, August 1. He was a member of the President's Mounted Guard, and was made a prisoner at Seneca, Md., by a Virginia scouting party about the 1st of June last and sent to Richmond. At the time of his capture he was on a visit to his young wife, and betrayed by a false friend. He was taken from her house at night and not in arms, nor is there any special accusation against him. It now appears that he has been removed from Richmond to Raleigh, and is now there sick, and I suppose in want, and having no channel to send him supplies, I have concluded to request my old and fast friend J. B. Hinton to see him and supply all his wants in money, clothing, &c., and to favor me with a report of case and of the expenditures for his use, so that I may promptly reimburse you for the same.

A fond father's heart dictates this hastily written letter, and offers to you in advance his profound thanks.

God bless you, my dear friend.

JAMES H. CAUSTEN.

LITTLE ROCK, December 3, 1861.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War:

I dispatched the President recently (November 28) advising him of the arrest of citizens of Arkansas who had entered into a conspiracy against the South. No answer. Twenty-seven of them are in jail here awaiting trial. Sixty have been arrested in Searcy County and 47 in Izard. The citizens have permitted them to volunteer. A portion sent to McCulloch, others to Colonel Borland, commanding at Pochontas.

The authorities of Arkansas are asked to approve this course. We decline unless sanctioned by yourself or the President. If sent to the army at all our opinion is they should go South.

H. M. RECTOR,
Governor and President.

RICHMOND, VA., December 5, 1861.

Governor H. M. RECTOR, Little Rock:

It is not possible at this distance and with imperfect knowledge of the facts to give directions about the parties arrested. You must use your best judgment in acting on the information before you.

J. P. BENJAMIN,
Secretary of War.

Resolutions of confidence in our cause of war, and in the President, and in the Army.

Resolved, That we, the delegates of the people of North Carolina in convention assembled, entertain an undiminished confidence in the justice of the cause in which we have taken up arms, and we hold it to be the duty of the people of the Southern States to maintain and uphold that cause with all the means they can command.

Resolved, That in behalf of the people of North Carolina we declare to our sister States of this Confederacy and to the world that no measure of loss, no sacrifice of life or property, no privation or want shall cause us to shrink from the performance of our whole duty in the achievement of our independence.

Resolved, That from the cruel and barbarous manner in which our enemies have carried on this war—a war in which aged and dignified men and helpless women have been seized and without accusation or warrant or authority cast into prison; in which private property has been wantonly destroyed; in which robbery and arson are principal means of aggression, and in which servile insurrection has been proclaimed, we are convinced that there is a “radical incompatibility” between such people and ourselves; and from them our separation is final, and for the independence we have asserted we will accept no alternative.

Resolved, That we have full confidence in the wisdom, integrity and patriotism of the President of the Confederate States, and we congratulate him and our whole country upon the success with which he has administered the Government.

Resolved, That to the officers and soldiers who have gone forth to meet the dangers of this war we are under a deep debt of gratitude for the valor and fortitude with which they have defended us from the assaults of our enemies and illustrated the glory of our arms.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to our Representatives in Congress with a request that they be communicated to His Excellency the President of the Confederate States of America, and to Congress.

Passed and ratified in open convention the 6th day of December, A. D. 1861.

W. H. EDWARDS,
President of the Convention.
JAMES H. MOORE,
Secretary of the Convention.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, December 10, 1861.

SYDNEY S. BAXTER, Esq., Richmond.

DEAR SIR: In pursuance of our conversation of last evening I now address you with the request that you will give your services to the Government in the examination of the cases of the prisoners sent to the various prisons in Richmond on charges of being spies, enemies, traitors, &c., with a view of discharging all such as ought not to be held in custody and bringing to trial and punishment such as seem to be guilty of the charges. Please make your reports to me as promptly as possible. Thanking you in advance for your tender of services in a matter for which the Government has made no provision for compensation and which you undertake on purely patriotic grounds,

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. P. BENJAMIN.

HEADQUARTERS BRIGADE,
Camp Recovery, One Mile from Prestonburg, Ky.,
December 10, 1861.

S. COOPER, Adjutant and Inspector General, Richmond.

GENERAL: I have the pleasure to inform you that I have been located here for several days. * * * I think I have established friends for the Confederate States on a sound basis wherever I have been. My effort has been to conciliate the people and to teach them by example that the Army of the Confederate States comes not to maraud and oppress, but to protect and to respect the constitutional rights of the people. The Army of the United States invited here to defend this people halted at no excess. They burned and ravaged the towns, insulted females and violated their persons, stole wearing apparel and killed stock and frequently deprived poor people of the means of subsistence. I have sought to impress all this course on their part as a true representation of the despotic principles their master seeks to establish on a permanent basis, while the respect I and my men pay to persons and property without regard to mere opinion is thereflex of the principles we represent. The effect has been exceedingly favorable, for the contrast is striking and visible to the commonest man in the community.

I found prisoners at Pound Gap arrested for their active pursuit of their opinions. I released them and sent them home after explaining to them the principles I advocate. They said the veil had been removed from their eyes and I afterwards found them well disposed and active in getting recruits for my command. * * *

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

HUMPHREY MARSHALL,
Brigadier-General, C. S. Army.

HEADQUARTERS, Pocahontas, Ark., December 11, 1861.
 General A. SIDNEY JOHNSTON,
Commanding Western Department, Bowling Green, Ky.

GENERAL: * * * Besides these my returning force received the surrender of fifty-seven prisoners and brought them to this place for my disposal. Upon inquiring into the character and antecedents of these fifty-seven men I do not find that any of them have been guilty of such overt acts of disloyalty as would warrant any severity of punishment. The most of them are ignorant men, and although they have continued to be ever since the accession of Arkansas to the Southern Confederacy Union men in their associations at least if not in their real sentiments and decided connections, yet they are not found to have engaged in any act of open disloyalty to our Government. The most of them moreover declare their innocence of any such intentions, alleging that if they have done wrong at all in this respect they had been misled by others who have made their escape from the country; and in evidence of their present sincerity and their desire to prove their loyalty to the South they have all voluntarily taken the oath of allegiance and earnestly insist upon being permitted to enter the military service in some of our companies. * * *

SOLON BORLAND,
Colonel, Commanding.

NEW ORLEANS, December 13, 1861.

MR. BENJAMIN.

DEAR SIR: I have already written a few lines to you in behalf of my husband, M. L. Rossvally, and as I thought they may be lost I would write to you again begging of you to release my unfortunate husband. Mr. Benjamin, please take his case in consideration and you will see that my husband is innocently imprisoned. These false and scandalous articles that have been in the papers—this was all done by his personal enemies, who for these last three and four years have been trying very hard to ruin him. My husband is not such as the false papers have stated. My husband is a gentleman and a true and kind-hearted one. On the 2d day of May my husband left me with my three children trying to do good for his country, but as it seems he gets ill-treated for it. As for my husband's loyalty to the South there is not a better Southern citizen to be found. He would be willing to die at any moment if by so doing he could serve his country. I will ask the question, How could my husband be untrue to the South? Was it not the Southern soil that gave birth to his wife? Was it not the land that gave birth to his three children that he loves dearer than his own soul? And yet the people are so wicked as to say he is untrue to his country. I will say no more upon this subject. Please, Mr. Benjamin, release my husband. Please, sir, do it for my sake and the sake of my little children. Consider, Mr. Benjamin, I have no husband at home, no money to support me, and besides I am sick all the time and have been under Doctor Lemonier's treatment these last four months and perhaps may have to be under his treatment six months longer, as the doctor thinks himself. I shall beg of you once more, Mr. Benjamin, to release him and I shall be very thankful and obliged to you for it.

Yours, respectfully,

CATHARINE ROSSVALLY.

RICHMOND, December 13, 1861.

Hon. H. W. THOMAS, Senate of Virginia.

DEAR SIR: The few moments' conversation with you yesterday induces me to address you this time, for I feel assured from the short acquaintance I have had with you that although we may differ politically yet an instinct of honor would govern your actions irrespective of those differences usually engendered by diversion of opinion.

The circumstances antecedent and attending my arrest are no doubt well known to you and it is only necessary to say to you that at no time was I nearer than seven miles of the Bull Run battle-field and had not at any time the remotest idea of molestation from either party, supposing my character as a non-combatant would be ample protection. One week after my arrest I was brought here and exactly three months after my captivity I was favored with a hearing before the Hon. James Lyons, commissioner, by whom not one solitary charge was brought against me and I left his office with the confident and as I thought well-grounded impression that my release was nigh at hand. How these anticipations have been realized my present imprisonment proves. Some weeks since I learned semi-officially that I was held here by the influence and at the instance of a brother, now an officer in the Confederate service, and one too who owes his character and the escape from ruin to himself and family to my interposition, which facts I suppose are not without the cognizance of the authorities. Men see the same objects through different media and no blame should be imputed for an ordinary difference of opinion, yet it forcibly strikes me that the fact of one brother taking so unnatural a stand against another should have caused the authorities to hesitate before they gave any heed to his efforts. I cannot in justice to my own feelings pursue this, to me, revolting subject, but leave you, sir, as an honorable man to draw your own conclusions.

When the difficulties that now overshadow our country first presented themselves, as a citizen of Ohio ardently attached to the institutions under which we had prospered for near one century previous I labored hard for a peaceful solution of the vexed questions that agitated and indeed convulsed our country. In common with thousands of Northern men I looked upon the movement of the South as a mere insurrectionary act that would be easily quelled and our common country soon be restored to its usual quietude and prosperity. Viewing the matter in this light and from the stand-point I occupied, when I learned the defection of my brother from the service of the United States I wrote to him most strongly and emphatically condemning his course, and stating to him in very plain terms what I thought would be the result of the course he had elected to pursue. When I reached Washington in the month of June an interview with one of his wife's family convinced me that I had in some respects misunderstood his motives. I immediately wrote him recalling all that might be in my letter personally offensive, but from the interruption of postal facilities I suppose the letter never reached him. I did not, however, recall any expression condemning his course. Receiving a letter from a friend in New York giving his views upon the agitating subjects of the day in response I spoke of the acts of men in the South in such language as I thought then and still think they deserve. As an evidence of my feeling upon the subject I inclosed to my brother an extract from one of my letters, which extract together with my first letter to him I understand he has placed in the hands of the authorities as evidence of my hostility to the South. How these matters can with the slightest regard to law or equity be used against me I am at loss to imagine. As a citizen of Ohio, owing no allegiance either absolute or implied to the South I had a perfect right to give utterance to my sentiments, whether palatable or otherwise to any section of the country.

I am called upon to answer by a long and painful imprisonment for words spoken or thoughts expressed where neither Virginia nor any other member of the Confederacy ever had or pretended to have jurisdiction. I violated no law that I know of in coming into Virginia. From my earliest recollection I have been opposed to the doctrine of States' Rights, looking upon their exercise as nothing more nor less than treason against the General Government, and if I am in error I owe it to the teaching of my late venerable father, and I must certainly say that the impressions of early life confirmed as they were by the reflections of maturer years have not been effaced by the experience of age. You, sir, may rest assured that whatever may be the personal consequences these sentiments will only end with my life, for I should basely betray my own convictions to give utterance to opposite ones. Cannot you call and see me? A visit would be very acceptable. If you can please do so at your earliest convenience.

Respectfully,

EDWARD TAYLOR.

RICHMOND, December 16, 1861.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War.

DEAR SIR: A man by the name of L. M. Rowley, late a resident of Florida, was taken up about a month since on suspicion of being disloyal and sent to Montgomery where he is now confined in jail. He has appealed to me to have his case investigated, denying as I understand him the allegation. I most respectfully ask of you the appointment of some person to act as commissioner in his case.

Your obedient servant,

JACKSON MORTON.

[Indorsement.]

JOYNES: Write to Governor Shorter to do me the favor to have this case investigated by some discreet person, &c.

J. P. B.

RICHMOND, VA., December 17, 1861.

Capt. R. P. ARCHER,
Assistant Quartermaster, West Point, Va.

SIR: You will have to provide fuel for the disaffected persons held in custody at West Point. The regulation allowance has strictly no application to them, and if from the tender age of some of the children accompanying adult persons or from the exposed character of the building in which they are confined you find it necessary to exceed the usual allowance of fuel you have authority to do so.

A. C. MYERS,
Quartermaster-General.

HDQES. THIRD REGT. TEXAS INFY., PROVISIONAL ARMY,
Fort Brown, December 18, 1861.

Maj. SAMUEL BOYER DAVIS,
Actg. Asst. Adj. Gen., Department of Texas, Galveston, Tex.

SIR: It is with mortification that I find it my duty to report the escape of the prisoner—against whom I forwarded by the last mail charges and specifications for desertion—from the guard house of this garrison last night, together with another prisoner confined for theft. An opening was made through the weather-boarding of the inner guard room where they were confined, and it is stated that they escaped through this opening.

But, sir, they were both Mexicans. The principal portion of the guard were also Mexicans, necessarily so, and I entertain in my own mind no shadow of doubt of their having walked out of the front door through the connivance and with the consent of the guard. Charges will be preferred and forwarded against the sergeant and corporal of the guard and the three sentinels posted in the vicinity of the guard house, but that more can be proven than that they escaped while these men were on duty I very seriously doubt.

I have repeatedly called attention to the wholly unreliable character of the Mexicans enlisted on this frontier, so far as our cause is concerned. Company C (Captain Parker's), of this regiment is composed entirely of Mexicans. Scarcely a night passes that one or more of them do not desert. This will continue to be the case so long as the civil war continues in Mexico. The company has already been reduced nearly one-half, and in a short time scarcely a corporal's guard will remain. That it will be refilled so soon as the troubles in Tamaulipas are ended I entertain no doubt, but it will only be until other difficulties break out (and they are constantly recurring) when we will have a repetition of the same reduction from desertions. I am thoroughly satisfied that they would desert in a body and cross the river should the enemy attack this post, even if they did no worse. They have no sympathy in our cause, do not understand it, and enlist simply for the subsistence, pay and clothing. They change their allegiance with the utmost facility to whichever party offers the largest inducements.

I believe they might be made good soldiers if removed from this frontier and stationed where there are not so many temptations and inducements to desert, and where the facilities for doing so are not so great. Here they are decidedly detrimental to the service and of no manner of advantage. I should much prefer to be without them though much in need of more troops. Under these circumstances I would respectfully suggest if I may be permitted to do so that if transferred to some regiment in the interior and another company sent here in their place the interests of the service would be very greatly promoted.

I have the honor to be, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. BUCHEL,

Lieutenant-Colonel, Commanding.

OGLETHORPE BARRACK,
Savannah, Ga., December 19, 1861.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War.

SIR: A man calling himself Mr. Alvin Lloyd was arrested and brought to this post some days since as a spy. There is abundant evidence here to show that he has told several contradictory stories about his antecedents and I am satisfied that he is an imposter. He had in his possession two passes from the War Department, one I think to visit Norfolk, and he acknowledged to me that he had been to Craney Island. From his conversation I incline to the opinion that he may be connected in some way with the information said to be published in the New York papers in relation to the strength and stations of the Confederate troops. I am unwilling to trust this matter to the telegraph, and General Lawton as well as his assistant adjutant-general being temporarily absent, I venture to ask unofficially if anything is known of this man Lloyd in the Department. Should you desire it I will forward such of his statements here to me and others which subject him to grave suspicion. If he be a spy and in communication with the enemy it is obvious that the less publicity given to measures to insure his detection the more certain will be the result.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, &c.,

WM. S. ROCKWELL,
Lieutenant-Colonel First Georgia Volunteer Regiment, C. S. Army, Commanding Post.

[First indorsement.]

General WINDER:

Do you know anything of this man?

[J. P. BENJAMIN.]

[Second indorsement.]

Mr. Alvin Lloyd is on record in the police book as a suspicious person and was under observation while here at the Exchange Hotel. He left here for New Orleans. I am satisfied he ought to be viewed with great suspicion. He is supposed to be a reporter for newspapers.

JNO. H. WINDER,
Brigadier-General.

[Third indorsement.]

Respectfully submitted to the President in answer to his call. The War Department has taken no other action in the case.

G. W. RANDOLPH,
Secretary of War.

[Fourth indorsement.]

Let the prisoner be informed of the report of his case as presented within.

J. D.

PRISON No. 3, December 20, 1861.

SIR: I and my sons are prisoners here at Richmond. We were taken the 1st of September in Fairfax County. I had a good property in Fairfax. The Southern troops have taken all my personal property and I am left desolate. I am formerly from New York. I have friends and relations there that will supply my wants and I and my sons wish to be released as aliens.

Yours,

JOHN TURNER.

LEESBURG, VA., December 27, 1861.

General WINDER:

I send you six tories with the affidavits against them. The names of the men are: Joseph L. Grubb, Armstead Magaha, William Smith, Isaac Slater, Emanuel Rouse and William Working. As the evidence is against them I trust that they may not be allowed to return home. The people of Loudoun are afraid of them and much mischief would result from their release. The two Yankee prisoners, August Williams and Thomas Pryor, were taken with stolen property—horses and poultry—in their possession. I hope they will be dealt with as marauders and not as prisoners of war. Our party report the killing of six besides the capture of these seven.

With great respect,

D. H. HILL,
Brigadier-General.

P. S.—It may be proper to except Working from the class of those who are regarded as dangerous. He is thought to be a harmless but timid man. He has, however, incurred the penalty of disloyalty by going over to the enemy.

D. H. H.

CAMP THREE MILES FROM PAINTSVILLE, KY.,
December 30, 1861.

General S. COOPER, Adjutant and Inspector General.

GENERAL: * * * I have directed civic administration to be instituted in the counties along this frontier upon the basis of allegiance to the Confederate States. This must force an issue at once or will transfer the people, for it is impossible that when magistrates, constables, sheriffs, clerks, recorders and judges are sworn in under the provisional government and revenues are collected by our officers another system can occupy the same space at the same time.

I sent to Pound Gap as a prisoner one Doctor Chilton and have him there in custody. He ought to have been shot, for he is one of the very worst men in this country and has been a scourge to our friends. I propose to send my prisoners to Pound Gap, where the battalion stationed there can easily guard them and the winds of the Cumberland Heights can ventilate them properly. I have a log house erected there for their especial accommodation. Mr. Chilton is the only tenant as yet. Mr. Diltz would have been better there I fear than at large. One Mr. Filson (a deputy U. S. marshal) ventured to Paintsville yesterday and I had him arrested last night but have not seen him yet. He is represented as bold and sagacious, and is probably here as a spy from the interior. I shall look to his case after daybreak. * * *

I am, your obedient servant,

H. MARSHALL,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

CAMP HAGAR,
Three Miles from Paintsville, Johnson County, Ky.,
January 3, 1862.

General A. SIDNEY JOHNSTON, C. S. Army.

GENERAL: * * * The people hereabouts are perfectly terrified or apparently apathetic. I imagine most of them are Unionists, but so ignorant they do not understand the question at issue. I suggest through you to Governor Johnson to send me blank commissions for magistrates, sheriffs and constables, clerks and county judges so that civic order may be reinstituted; also to send a commission of circuit judge to Harvey Burns that courts may be holden at proper times.

The people should learn that they belong to the Southern Confederacy, and the State provisional government by its operations should be seen and not merely heard of.

I am, truly, &c.,

H. MARSHALL,
Brigadier-General, C. S. Army.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE MISSISSIPPI,*

Grenada, January 3, 1863.

Lieut. JOHN F. LUMPKIN, Judge-Advocate.

LIEUTENANT: In preparing record of the proceedings of the courts the following facts should be stated: Each case should be complete in itself preceded by copy of order convening the court; the number of members present stated, those absent accounted for; court to be sworn by judge-advocate, judge-advocate by courts in presence of the accused; prisoner called upon to plead; each witness, his name, &c., designation fully stated; name, rank, regiment and company of prisoner particularly stated in specification, finding and sentence of court; each case to be numbered on left-hand margin of page, and pages in each case also numbered on left-hand margin. Adjournment from day to day should be signed by judge-advocate; each case signed by judge-advocate and president of court; final adjournment by judge-advocate and president of court. The judge-advocate is authorized to rectify every irregularity which may occur in the charges and specification.

I am, respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. W. MEMMINGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, Va., January 5, 1862.

General JOSEPH E. JOHNSTON, Centerville, Va.:

* * * * *

I beg also to call your attention to a practice that is becoming too prevalent of sending here prisoners arrested on suspicion of being disloyal. I have no means of enforcing their confinement and am compelled to discharge them as fast as they come, or the judges would certainly do it by habeas corpus. But military commanders have the right to arrest and keep in confinement all dangerous or suspected persons prowling about their camps. It is I know a little troublesome to be burdened with this class of prisoners in camp, but I see nothing else that can be done with them. They come here without definite charges against them; without any proof or witnesses and I am utterly powerless to hold them for you. I can only therefore urge upon you a stricter and less lenient application of military law as the sole resource I see for repressing this growing mischief.

I am, your obedient servant,

J. P. BENJAMIN,
Secretary of War.

* This document is out of place.

HEADQUARTERS, Knoxville, Tenn., January 7, 1862.

General S. COOPER,

Adjutant and Inspector General, Richmond, Va.

SIR: General Carroll having left this post yesterday I deem it my duty to take charge of the political prisoners now in confinement here. Their number is understood to be 130; has lately been increasing, and with others expected to be captured soon I do not see how the court-martial is to keep pace with the exigencies of the occasion. Besides that mode of proceeding is very expensive, and in my opinion an equally just and more summary disposition of those cases would be attended with happier results to the Government. Under this conviction and acting in the spirit of the orders hitherto received by me I shall dissolve the court-martial convened by General Carroll on its determination of the few purely military cases yet to be tried, and shall proceed with the political offenses as I have heretofore done at Greeneville. If this course be not approved by the Department I beg to be promptly advised to that effect by telegraph. Captain Monsarrat who seems to be an excellent officer is the immediate commander of the post, and I judge that there will be little occasion for interference with his functions as such. Can any more prisoners be received at Tuscaloosa?

Very respectfully, sir, your obedient servant,

D. LEADBETTER,
Colonel, Commanding.

BLOUNTVILLE, TENN., January 10, 1862.

His Excellency JEFFERSON DAVIS,

President of the Southern Confederacy.

SIR: I am charged with treason toward the Government of the Confederate States for which I make an appeal to Your Excellency for pardon. I will give you the details of my case in full. At the time of the gathering up of the Union men in Eastern Tennessee I went into camp and took the office of issuing commissary. I staid in camp two days when the regiment left for Kentucky, and I being unwilling to go with them started home, and on my way home I learned that some soldiers were lying in wait for me to kill me. On receiving this information I left in search of refuge. I went to Kentucky. On arriving there and finding out Lincoln's policy in full it became so obnoxious to me that I returned to Tennessee though not to my home.

I have turned aside to await an answer from Your Excellency. I have given you the case in full. You can examine it and see whether I am guilty of a crime worthy of death or not. If it please you to pardon me, I am then willing to take a position in your army; and if not I will again return to the North but I much prefer the South to the North. I await your answer with patience.

Your humble servant,

J. LOONEY TAYLOR,
Hilton's Post-Office, Sullivan County, Tenn.

[Indorsement.]

SECRETARY OF WAR:

It may be well to consider the propriety of a general order or proclamation to cover such cases as this.

J. DAVIS.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF THE CONGRESS,

January 13, 1862.

His Excellency JEFFERSON DAVIS.

SIR: I have the honor to inform you officially that the Congress on this day (to wit, January 13) adopted the resolution a certified copy of which is herewith transmitted:

Resolved, That the President be requested to communicate to Congress by what authority and under what law citizens of Tennessee are imprisoned at Tuscaloosa or other points in the State of Alabama, and whether said prisoners or any portion of them have been transported beyond the limits of their own State without a trial, and whether in any instance the writ of habeas corpus has been suspended.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. J. HOOPER,
Secretary of the Congress.

[Indorsement.]

Secretary of War for report.

J. D.

Special report on case of W. H. Krantz.

[RICHMOND, VA.,] January 16, 1862.

Prisoner says he was born in Frederick County, Md.; lived there till about 1851 when he moved to Loudoun County, Va., to take charge of the mill of J. B. T. Caldwell. In 1853 moved to the neighborhood of Fillmore, six miles from Middleburg. Says he did not vote on the question of secession; intended to vote for secession, but was absent on a visit to his mother in Maryland. Says he is a secessionist. Is exempt from military duty by ill-health; was exempted by order of court-martial. Says when the militia was called out he was absent on a visit to a cousin in Jefferson County whose name is Henry Dixon. Says during the summer he has been principally at home. Went to Maryland he thinks in August; went by Harper's Ferry. Forded the river at Harper's Ferry. Found no enemy there. Went to Frederick; no force of the enemy there; saw some scattering ones. On his return was stopped by the enemy's pickets, who would not permit him to cross the river. He went to several places and could not get across. He says those Southern men told him to wait, the Southern troops would soon be in Maryland. He waited three, four, or six weeks; then he ran the blockade. Crossed the river below Harper's Ferry. Met a friend who brought him over. Does not remember the name of that friend. He was complaining of being stopped. This man took him aside, told him to wait till night and he would take him over. He took him over in a skiff. Says he left his horse with his mother. Says when he was at Frederick General Banks was once pointed out to him. Had no communication with any of the authorities of the enemy, civil or military. Denies he sent dispatches to Knoxville. In answer to questions he said Doctor Galleher represented himself to be a Northern man. Prisoner did not like to be bothered with Yankees. Does not remember what he told Galleher. Told him many stories to decoy him and have him arrested. Says he (prisoner) returned home in the latter part of September. Did not leave home to go any distance till he was arrested. Refers to the families of Benjamin Walker and Beaver to prove truth of this statement. Had no communication with anybody on the other side. On being asked if he had been offered a good place on the other side he said such an offer was made him in Jefferson. It was when Patterson's command was in Jefferson. When he was at his cousin's in Jefferson, Patterson's army passed by. A man whose name he does not recollect offered him a good place. The offer was made at Halltown, above Harper's Ferry. His cousin, Henry Dixon, lived in Halltown; another cousin, Joseph Dixon, lived three miles above there. Another man, Edmund Allen, a relation of his wife, lived in another part of the county. Says he was several days in Jefferson. Says the offer of a place in the army was made on the road. He passed a tent in which some officers of the enemy were. Some one told an officer to call him. This was on the way from Harper's Ferry. The enemy's army was camped all the way. Prisoner says he was on horseback in company with a man he did not know who was looking for a negro he had lost. Prisoner asked the officer if he did not want the man who was looking for the negro. The officer asked prisoner if he did not belong to Carter's Loudoun Cavalry. Prisoner said he had belonged to it. Officer then asked him to go with them and prisoner refused. Says this was on his way home from Jefferson. It was in July, after his grain was stacked. Says he staid at home all the time after he was in Jefferson except one trip to Maryland. Went in latter part of July same route by Harper's Ferry; forded the river; some troops at Frederick; cannot tell who commanded them. Passed the pickets at Harper's Ferry. Told them he wanted to see his old mother. They let him pass through. Had no communication with them or any person connected with them. Staid five or six days. Came back the same way. This was after harvest and after militia came back home. Says he was in Maryland once before harvest, twice since; was twice in Jefferson, once when he visited his relations, once when he went to Maryland; then he stopped at his cousin's. On this occasion says he met the Henderson home guard. They did not stop him; they did not know him; he knew some of them; had seen them at Halltown; does not remember any of their names; knew the mother and sister of one of the men; cannot remember their names. Says on his last trip to Maryland met an Irishman going to join the Southern army. Told him what road to take; cannot remember his name. As to Carter's company says he was discharged at the time of the John Brown raid. The discharge was confirmed by the court-martial. Had Galleher's affidavit shown him. He denied its truth. Says Galleher came twice to see him, and would not see him. Galleher conversed with Krantz's wife. The third night he did see Galleher. Says he designed to have him arrested. He proposed to him to go to Circleville, but designed to take him through Fetterman where he could have [him] arrested. Galleher had prisoner arrested before he got to Fetterman. Prisoner says when he was in Maryland he was looked on as a Southern spy. Says he wrote to President Davis offering to procure information if a pass was given him. Says a party of Mead's cavalry came to his house to arrest him, but he was from home; he had gone to buy shingles. He then wrote to General Evans offering to surrender himself if a pass was given him. Evans told Caldwell he had given him a pass. Says some men from Virginia formed a home guard in Maryland. Says Working did not join it and prisoner would not.

I have given this long statement of Krantz's* examination, as it shows his inconsistencies and prevarications, and as the circumstances of his arrest were peculiar I think he should not be discharged.

S. S. BAXTER,
Commissioner.

P. S.—I submit herewith a letter received from Krantz this morning.

S. S. B.

* See p. 1418 for supplemental report in case of Krantz.

RICHMOND, VA., January 20, 1862.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War, Richmond, Va.

SIR: Early in May, 1861, I heard of the action of the Confederate States on the coast of Africa where I was then doing duty in the U. S. Navy. I immediately on hearing of the stand taken by the South resigned my commission in the Navy, but was not able to leave the station. July 16 being afraid that my former resignation had not been received I sent it in for the second time. On arriving in New York October 12, 1861, I received the official communication from the Secretary of the U. S. Navy that my name had been stricken from the rolls of the Navy. An oath of allegiance to the United States was then offered, on refusal of which I was sent to Fort Lafayette, thence to Fort Warren. On the 10th of January I was offered a parole of thirty days to come south and endeavor to effect an exchange with a designated person, namely, D. Connelly, of New York Volunteers. It was also stipulated that if said exchange was not procured I should return to Fort Warren. I think it proper to state that I am not willing to accept this parole, and only did it after advice of many other older officers now prisoners in the fort. I am perfectly willing sooner than be an instrument of unfair exchange on part of the North to return to prison, however much I wish to do what is in my power for the good of the South.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

W. M. PAGE.

RICHMOND, VA., January 20, 1862.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War, Richmond, Va.

SIR: In consequence of the action of the Confederate States I resigned July 16, 1861, my commission as assistant surgeon in the U. S. Navy, at that time being on duty on board the U. S. sloop of war Saratoga, African Squadron. On arriving at New York October 12, 1861, I received a communication from the U. S. Navy Department informing me that my name had been stricken from the rolls of the U. S. Navy. I was then confined in Fort Lafayette, and thence transferred October 30, 1861, to Fort Warren, from which place I was released January 10, 1862, on parole for thirty days to be exchanged for Asst. Surg. C. S. De Graw, New York Volunteers [Eighth New York State Militia], captured July 21 at Manassas, and now on parole in New York City. I respectfully request that Asst. Surg. C. S. De Graw be released from his parole in order that I may be placed in a position to offer my services to the Confederate States.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAS. E. LINDSAY,
Of Greensborough, N. C.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, January 21, 1862.

Capt. H. M. BELL, Staunton, Va.

SIR: Your letter of the 15th instant concerning the two prisoners, Brooks and Smith, has been received. If those men are not citizens of any one of the Confederate States they had better be tried before a military court. If on the other hand they are citizens of the Confederate States they ought to be brought before the civil tribunals. Of course the necessary steps will be taken to have the attendance of the witnesses at the time of trial.

Your obedient servant,

J. P. BENJAMIN,
Secretary of War.

RICHMOND, January 21, 1862.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War.

SIR: The letter of Colonel Harness of the 12th January has been submitted to me and I have the honor to say that the examination of all the Hardy [County] prisoners able to appear had been conducted before its reception.

If injury has been done by discharging persons who ought to have been retained no one will regret it more than I will. It is true that no testimony except Willhite's was sent here, and no one stated by Willhite to belong to the home guards was discharged. Willhite standing in the place of a deserter who had joined the enemy in the piratical raid on Petersburg had on him the double guilt of perjury and robbery. His testimony was therefore received with much caution. But in every case in which he stated a man was a member of the home guard evidence was found either in the admissions of the prisoners or the statements of other prisoners to hold the parties.

In the course of the trials I called on Colonel Barber as a witness. Four messages were sent by me for Colonel Barber before he was found. He came before me on my call and as far as I could judge testified with candor and fairness. He certainly seemed to feel the injuries done him by Union men in driving him from his home, but gave his evidence as far as I could judge fairly and properly.

I know well the great value of Colonel Harness' services to our cause in this region of the State, and therefore will say that in future I hope these services will continue to be rendered. But in all cases of suspected persons sent on here he will make his services more valuable if he sends on the charges on which they were arrested and affidavits of witnesses who are relied on to sustain the charges. This I think will be sufficient to authorize detention (when the causes of arrest are sufficient) without the delay and expense of sending witnesses. If prosecutions are ordered witnesses must be sent after the Secretary determines to prosecute.

I hope this expression of my opinions will be excused.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. S. BAXTER.

[Inclosure.]

HDQRS. FOURTEENTH REGIMENT VIRGINIA MILITIA,
Moorefield, January 12, 1862.

SECRETARY OF WAR, Richmond, Va.

SIR: Some time ago I arrested several Union men whom I sent to General Boggs who as I have learned were sent on to Richmond. I have recently learned that some of those sent by me and others arrested by other persons and sent to Richmond have been through the instrumentality of G. S. Barber released. We have been negligent in sundry evidence against those arrested by me, supposing that summonses would be sent here for witnesses. If subpoenas are sent witnesses can be sent on to prove the guilt of most of them. I merely suggest that before a discharge be made of any of the prisoners that means be taken to prove their guilt. We have no one to come forward as prosecutor and prosecute. * * *

Most respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. H. HARNESSE,
Colonel Fourteenth Regiment Virginia Militia.

CONGRESS HALL, January 25, 1862.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN.

DEAR SIR: A case of much difficulty has recently arisen in Arkansas, and one I fear without remedy, but its importance demands that I should confer with you upon it. Some seventy-five men have been taken up and brought before the Confederate camp at Little Rock for treason. Before an investigation the judge and attorney believe a case can not be made out against them and they must be discharged, or on trial acquitted. While every one believes and feels and almost knows they are guilty yet the overt act can not be made out or proved. To turn them back upon the country thus would encourage them and their friends and dispirit all our own true and loyal citizens. The judge of the court suggests they had better be turned over to the military authorities. There is no law for this that I know of, and there can be no concert of action between the civil and military authorities that I know of, and besides this the civil law still prevails and not the martial. On consultation with the Attorney-General he suggests the War Department alone can act on this matter. I called to-day to see you in relation to it but found your office closed, and I concluded to write to you so that you might give the matter its full and careful consideration due the subject; and I hope the magnitude of the subject will justify me in thus troubling you for it is of no small moment to our people in Arkansas. I should be glad to hear from you in full at an early day.

Yours, very truly, &c.,

A. H. GARLAND.

NAVY DEPARTMENT, Richmond, January 28, 1862.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War.

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of the parole of Mr. W. H. Ward, late a lieutenant in U. S. Navy, who resigned, was arrested and imprisoned for five months. Mr. Ward will take charge of any letters or dispatches you may have to forward to General Huger on the subject, and perform any other duty which you may require of him upon the subject of his exchange.

I am, respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. R. MALLORY,
Secretary of the Navy.

[Inclosure.]

FORT WARREN, Boston Harbor, January 20, 1862.

I, W. H. Ward, a prisoner at Fort Warren, do pledge my word of honor that I will proceed without any unreasonable delay to Fort Monroe, Va., and thence by flag of truce to Norfolk, and that I will do no act hostile to the United States or convey any correspondence or information beneficial to the insurgents, and that I will return and surrender myself to the commanding officer at Fort Warren at the expiration of thirty days unless within that time Frederick E. Prime, captain of engineers, U. S. Army, be unconditionally released and put at liberty at Fort Monroe, in which event I may consider myself discharged from my parole.

W. H. WARD.

Report of S. S. Baxter on cases referred back to him.

[RICHMOND, VA.,] January 29, 1862.

William H. Krantz.—I return the letter of H. W. Thomas and the letter of Krantz to President Davis, and the safe-conduct of General Evans given to Krantz. I also send in a letter received from Krantz and testimonials of his good conduct in prison. After examining and reflecting on these papers I cannot perceive they throw any new light on the case. In his examination Krantz stated he had written to President Davis asking a protection to go into Maryland, and stated Mr. Caldwell said General Evans had given Mr. Caldwell a letter of protection for him. These papers shed no new light on character and objects of Krantz's visit to Maryland, or his communication with persons there, or on his conduct in Jefferson County while Patterson's army was there. The conversations with Doctor Galleher took place after the date of General Evans' protection. As well as I can recollect Doctor Galleher's testimony is with the first. After anxious reflection I do not see that these papers seem to change my views of Krantz's conduct as to justify any other recommendation than I have already made.*

In the case of William Working, heretofore examined, I submit a letter of Col. J. L. Davis and two letters, one from Judge Ward, judge of the Virginia judicial circuit in which Working lives, and one from Mr. McDonald. Colonel Davis says he can exhibit proof sufficient to execute Working as a spy. These proofs have not been exhibited to me and I cannot therefore report them. I believe Working was deeply involved in the efforts to induce the enemy to invade that part of Virginia, and I think Augustus Pach can give testimony which will be material; but what other witnesses might be summoned I cannot say. I regret Colonel Davis' letter which was placed in the post-office only reached me last week. In reference to the letters of Judge Ward and Mr. McDonald I have to say they have not changed my opinion of the course that ought to be pursued with Working. But as it appears from Judge Ward's letter that Working promises full disclosures if his statements will not be used to his prejudice, and as he may give valuable information of the mode of the enemy's operations in that part of Virginia and in Eastern Kentucky, I will if approved by the Secretary examine him on condition that nothing stated by him on this examination and not stated before shall be used to his injury.

In the Pancoast case† I send a letter written to the Hon. C. J. Faulkner by George L. Pancoast, and sent to me by Mr. Faulkner. I do not see that this letter throws any light on the case.

S. S. BAXTER,
Commissioner.

* See p. 1413 for Baxter's report on Krantz.

† See case of Pancoast, p. 1530 et seq.

RICHMOND, February 3, 1862.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War.

SIR: Some four or five weeks ago I had the honor of communicating to you a memorial of sundry persons now held at West Point as prisoners of war. That memorial set forth certain grievances and asked relief. Having heard nothing from the Department over which you preside in reference to that communication I respectfully request to be informed what action if any has been had on the said memorial and what expectation the said memorialists may longer indulge of having their condition corrected, and I have the honor to be,

Your most obedient servant,

A. JUDSON CRANE.

[Indorsement.]

Have inquired into the matter and find that they have been communicating with the enemy and cannot safely be discharged while our troops occupy the Peninsula.

[J. P. BENJAMIN.]

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, February 3, 1862.

A. J. CRANE, Esq., Richmond, Va.

SIR: In reply to your letter of the 3d instant the Secretary of War directs me to say that he has inquired into the matter to which you refer and finds that the persons held as prisoners at West Point have been communicating with the enemy and cannot safely be discharged while our troops occupy the Peninsula.

Respectfully,

A. T. BLEDSOE,
Chief of Bureau of War.

RICHMOND, February 5, 1862.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War.

SIR: I have the pleasure to inform you that all the citizen prisoners now confined here have been examined except three waiting further proof and three who are to be exchanged. In the course of these examinations matters have come to my knowledge in relation to matters in Western Virginia which make me desire a brief conversation with the Secretary at such time as he may appoint.

Very respectfully,

S. S. BAXTER.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORFOLK,
Norfolk, Va., February 8, 1862.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Secretary of War.

SIR: Mr. W. H. Ward, late lieutenant, U. S. Navy, was released on parole for thirty days from Fort Warren on condition that within that time Capt. F. E. Prime, U. S. Army, be sent to Fort Monroe. As Capt. J. T. Drew, Second Vermont Regiment, had been offered for Mr. Ward this proposal was declined. I now find that the condition upon which Mr. Ward was released was made several days before my offer of Captain Drew and therefore he ought to return to Fort Warren unless Captain Prime is sent in his stead. As the exchange of Captain Prime for Mr. Ward is a fair one I will inform General Wool that Captain Prime will be sent to him as soon as he can arrive at this place, and I beg that you will direct Captain Prime to be sent here. Captain Drew will be exchanged for one of the captains now on their way here from Fort Warren.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

BENJ. HUGER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FORTY-FIFTH VIRGINIA REGIMENT,
Mercer County, Va., February 17, 1862.

General S. COOPER, Adjutant and Inspector General.

GENERAL: Your attention is called to the fact that in Raleigh, Fayette and the neighboring counties the U. S. forces are carrying off citizens in large numbers as prisoners of war; not only those who sympathize with and are loyal to the Confederacy but also many of the Union men.

I am of the opinion that these men are taken prisoners with a view to their being exchanged for their prisoners of war now in the custody of the Confederate Government. This opinion is strengthened by the late action of the Federal Government in seeking an exchange of prisoners in greater numbers than heretofore.

I deem this subject of sufficient importance to call your attention to the matter in order to guard the Confederate Government from having the men thus taken imposed on them in exchange for prisoners of war taken in arms against the Confederacy.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. E. PETERS,
Lieutenant-Colonel, Commanding Forty-fifth Virginia Regiment.

PROCLAMATION.

Whereas the Congress of the Confederate States has by law vested in the President the power to suspend the writ of habeas corpus in cities in danger of attack by the enemy:

Now therefore I, Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States of America, do hereby proclaim that martial law is extended over the cities of Norfolk and Portsmouth and the surrounding country to the distance of ten miles from said cities, and all civil jurisdiction and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus are hereby declared to be suspended within the limits aforesaid.

This proclamation will remain in force until otherwise ordered.

In faith whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal at the city of Richmond on this 27th day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two.

JEFFERSON DAVIS.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, Va., March 5, 1862.

Maj. Gen. B. HUGER, Norfolk, Va.

SIR: Martial law having been declared in Norfolk under the President's proclamation he desires me to call your attention to the various measures which he hopes will at once be vigorously executed:

First. Some leading and reliable citizen to be appointed provost-marshal in Norfolk and another in Portsmouth. In the former city he suggests the mayor, said to be a zealous friend of our cause.

Second. All arms to be required to be given up by the citizens; private arms to be paid for.

Third. The whole male population to be enrolled for military service; all stores and shops to be closed at 12 or 1 o'clock and the whole of the citizens forced to drill and undergo instructions.

Fourth. The citizens so enrolled to be armed with the arms given up and with those of infantry now in service at batteries.

Fifth. Send away as rapidly as can be done without exciting panic all women and children and reduce your population to such as can aid in defense.

Sixth. Give notice that all merchandise, cotton, tobacco, &c., not wanted for military use be sent away within the given time or it will be destroyed.

Seventh. Imprison all persons against whom there is well-grounded suspicion of disloyalty.

Eighth. Purchase all supplies in the district that can be made useful for your army, allowing none to be carried away that you might want in the event that the city is beleaguered.

In executing these orders you will of course use your own discretion so to act as to avoid creating panic as far as possible.

Your obedient servant,

J. P. BENJAMIN,
Secretary of War.

[For various proclamations and orders suspending civil jurisdiction and the writ of habeas corpus, see Series I, Vol. X, Part II, pp. 298, 402, 484, and Vol. XI, Part III, p. 386.]

NEW ORLEANS, LA., March 12, 1862.

JEFFERSON DAVIS, President:

In our opinion the writ of habeas corpus should be suspended immediately in New Orleans. We beg that you will declare martial law here at once, or authorize General Lovell to do so. Answer.

THOMAS O. MOORE,
Governor.

E. W. MOISE,
E. Judge.

M. LOVELL,
Major-General.

RICHMOND, VA., March 13, 1862.

Governor THOMAS O. MOORE,
New Orleans, La.:

You are requested to proclaim martial law in my name over the parishes of Orleans, Jefferson, Saint Bernard and Plaquemine.

JEFFERSON DAVIS.

AUDITOR'S OFFICE, April 10, 1862.

S. S. BAXTER, Esq.

SIR: At your instance I commit to writing my knowledge of the remaining prisoners from Fairfax County who are to undergo an examination:

James O. Wren is a native of that county and has lived all his life in that and the adjoining counties, the most of the time in Fairfax. I have known him upward of twenty-five years. He is a very respectable man and a good citizen, free from difficulties and reliable. He voted for the ordinance of secession and I should suppose is as loyal and true as any man in the country.

Cornelius White is from the North. He has been living in Virginia for some twelve or fifteen years. He is the owner of a farm near the Court-House and is regarded by all who know him as a harmless, inoffensive man. He has frequently spoken to me of his position in reference to our present difficulties and he has uniformly declared that he regarded himself as identified with the South and that he would share its destiny. I remember that last summer whilst the army was in the neighborhood there was a general suspicion of the Northern men and this old man at my instance, with a view of releasing himself from suspicion, took the oath of allegiance to the Confederate States. I do not think that he would violate that obligation.

Mr. I. Wybert is from the North. He is the owner of a farm. Is a steady, industrious man and since he has been in Virginia, near some ten or twelve years, he has always borne the reputation of a good citizen and a reliable man.

I am, sir, very respectfully,

H. W. THOMAS.

[Indorsement.]

I have known the persons referred to by Mr. Thomas in the foregoing statement for some years. They all reside in the county of Fairfax and are owners of property there and are respectable men and good citizens. I had a conversation with Mr. Wybert last summer in which he stated that all his interests were in Virginia and that he would stand by the South. I concur generally in the statement of Mr. Thomas.

O. W. HUNTT.

ORDERS, } HDQRS. LOUISIANA MILITIA, ADJT. GEN.'S OFFICE,
No. 530. } New Orleans, April 12, 1862.

I. Information having been given to the governor and commander-in-chief that secret meetings of disloyal men in the parishes of Natchitoches and Sabine, and that societies and clubs exist composed of citizens of those parishes who deny any complicity in our present revolution but assert a desire to restore the Union and commit sundry other acts of disaffection and disloyalty to the present Government, Brig. Gen. John B. Smith, commanding the Tenth Brigade, will ascertain the chiefs among these men—those who have been conspicuous and diligent in enticing others into the snare and leading them on to the avowal of these treasonable schemes. He will cause the arrest of the ringleaders and send them to these headquarters under a sufficient guard, and will if deemed necessary try and properly punish those who have been less active.

II. Maj. Gen. John L. Lewis, commanding State militia, will issue an order to Brig. Gen. John B. Smith without delay.

By order of Thos. O. Moore, governor and commander-in-chief:

M. GRIVOT,
Adjutant and Inspector General.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, April 16, 1862.
Brig. Gen. JOHN H. WINDER,
Commanding, &c., Richmond, Va.

SIR: You will cause the three French officers, De Beaumont, Cypreini and Viguerin, to be carried before the court of inquiry now in session under an order obtained if necessary from the Adjutant-General. The inquiry with respect to them may be the same as in the case of political prisoners.

Very respectfully,

GEO. W. RANDOLPH.
Secretary of War.

HEADQUARTERS, Knoxville, Tenn., May 2, 1862.

J. R. TAYLOR, Esq.,

Deputy Provost-Marshal for Bradley and Polk Counties.

SIR: Your favor of the 30th ultimo has been received. I sent you some blank passports yesterday. In reference to parties visiting the near towns or border counties of Georgia for a few days you can issue them upon your own responsibility, but would advise you to be very rigid in questioning such applicants. When application is made for passports to visit any other State they must be referred to these headquarters. If you find parties from other districts you must demand their passports. If they have none they must satisfy you of their standing. If they know no one in your district and are suspicious characters they must refer you to some party in their own district to identify them. Make no arrests unless you are forced to do so by urgent necessity. Use your power with delicacy yet firmness; keep yourself well posted as regards the movements of suspicious Union men, and any important event transpiring communicate to these headquarters. If you should need any assistants report to me the names of efficient soldiers stationed or in your district on furlough. The salary of your office has not as yet been determined. Your rank is deputy provost-marshal. Allow no soldiers to be in your district (unless on duty) without a furlough. If you find any arrest and report to this office. In no case grant passports to persons desiring to pass toward the enemy's line. Keep an account of your postage till we get fully organized.

Respectfully,

W. M. CHURCHWELL,
Colonel and Provost-Marshal.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF EAST TENNESSEE,
OFFICE PROVOST-MARSHAL,
Knoxville, May 7, 1862.

J. R. TAYLOR, Deputy Provost-Marshal, Cleveland, Tenn.:

Yours of the 6th instant by Captain Jones is to hand. You will call on the captain of cavalry at Cleveland to assist Captain Jones to arrest any of his own men and to arrest any citizen that is endeavoring to persuade soldiers to desert their companies and join the enemy when the proof shows that they are doing it. You will not allow men that have been to Kentucky to return home for the purpose of getting men to return there with them. As regards whisky I refer you to the proclamation of General Smith.

Respectfully,

W. M. CHURCHWELL,
Colonel and Provost-Marshal.
By R. M. BEARDEN,
Assistant Provost-Marshal.

HEADQUARTERS, Knorrville, Tenn., May 8, 1862.

MR. JOHN L. M. FRENCH, Chattanooga, Tenn.

SIR: Your favor of the 5th instant is to hand. The political prisoners you mention can be released under the consideration that they will each give a bond (a copy* of which I inclose you) signed by a good Southern man, provided such prisoner or prisoners have not heretofore taken the oath of allegiance to the Southern Confederacy. Of course you must require good Southern men to indorse the bonds and return same to these headquarters.

Respectfully,

W. M. CHURCHWELL,
Colonel and Provost-Marshal.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF EAST TENNESSEE,
Office Provost-Marshal, May 11, 1862.

Hon. R. M. BARTON.

DEAR SIR: I shall issue a circular in a few days to deputy provost-marshals by order of the major-general commanding suspending the operation of the conscript bill in East Tennessee. I have an idea to order the deputy provost-marshal in every county or district to have a deputy in every civil district to administer the oath of allegiance at the coming judicial election. What do you think of it? Will not this enable us to see really who are with us and who against us?

Respectfully, your friend,

W. M. CHURCHWELL,
Colonel and Provost-Marshal.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, May 13, 1862.

Brig. Gen. JOHN H. WINDER, Richmond, Va.

SIR: You will dispose of the prisoners named as follows: J. W. Butler, to be turned over to Governor Letcher as a prisoner of the State of Virginia; J. Murphy, to be retained as a prisoner; William Follyn, to be discharged upon taking the oath of allegiance and volunteering; William Marsh, to be discharged upon taking oath of allegiance and volunteering; Coleman R. Brown, to be confided to his daughter on taking the oath of allegiance and on giving his parole not to go within the lines of the enemy, and transportation be furnished to his daughter and himself to his son's family; W. H. Churchill, to be permitted to volunteer; W. H. Hooper, to be permitted to volunteer; J. P. Mitchell, to be permitted to volunteer; A. Norton is a wagon maker, to be put to work as you or the Ordnance Bureau may approve; Matthias Spoo, to be permitted to volunteer; P. C. Staffey, to be permitted to volunteer; J. Wilson, to be permitted to volunteer; Evan Wilhill, inquiry to be made to ascertain his sentence; Charles Parrington, to be held as a prisoner of war; William Sherry, to be held as a prisoner; William Cruikshanks, to be discharged upon taking the oath of allegiance; John W. Cruikshanks, to be discharged, but he is subject to the conscription act; William Martin, to be discharged upon taking the oath of allegiance; Austin A. Rine, to be discharged upon taking the oath of allegiance; J. F. Cutlip, to be discharged upon taking the oath of allegiance; S. B. Cutlip, to be discharged upon taking the oath of allegiance and volunteering; S. W. Cutler, to be discharged upon taking the oath of allegiance; J. Douglas, to be discharged; John Davis, to be discharged upon taking the oath of allegiance; G. W. Miller, to be sent to General Lee; Wickham Dixon, to be discharged upon taking the oath of allegiance and to be employed as a shipbuilder; J. Owen, to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance and to be employed as a shipbuilder; Samuel Trader, to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance and to be employed as a shipbuilder; J. W. Dixon, to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance and to be employed as a shipbuilder; Michael Dixon, to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance; William Gladstone, to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance and to be employed as a carpenter or to volunteer; John Monroe, to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance; Samuel Gordon, to be turned over to Governor Letcher as a State prisoner; George Ryan, to be held as a prisoner; Joseph Snapp, to be permitted to volunteer; Peter Couse, to be held as a prisoner; Thomas N. Fisher, to be permitted to volunteer in the Eighth Virginia Regiment, where he has relations; William Stallins, to be permitted to volunteer; Daniel Hunt, to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance; Elias Love, to be held as a prisoner; John Rowzie, to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance; Samuel T. Walker, to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance; Daniel Watkins, to be held as a prisoner; William P. Speer, to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance and agreeing not to go to our lines or encampments; Isaac Wybert, to be held as a prisoner; James Oscar Wren, to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance and agreeing not to go to any place in the vicinity of our camps; C. White, to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance; W. P. Flood, to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance; James E. McCabe, to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance; William Ayres, to be held as a prisoner of war; E. Githen, to be held as a prisoner of war; Daniel Paterson, to be held as a prisoner of war; B. F. Copeland, to be held as a prisoner of war; F. B. Coburn, to be held as a prisoner of war; John Hale, to be permitted to volunteer and to be turned over to Colonel Baldwin of Fifty second Regiment Virginia Volunteers; John Beary, to be permitted to volunteer and turned over to Colonel Baldwin, &c.; John Swank, to be permitted to volunteer and to be turned over to Colonel Baldwin of Fifty-second Regiment Virginia Volunteers; Samuel Berry, George W. Swisher, Albert Michael, James Jacobs, Charles Rodgers, J. Showalter, D. H. Myers, Samuel W. Hale, Jacob Neuwander, Manasseh Heatwoh, Henry M. Wanger, Jacob Quick, John Huff, Daniel Frame, S. Sawger, Rush Rhodes, John Swisher, John McCulley, Jacob F. Semmes, James W. Pullen, Preston S. Humbert, Jacob Sinter, Jacob Wanger, to be permitted to volunteer and to be turned over to Colonel Baldwin of Fifty-second Regiment Virginia Volunteers; C. H. Kellogg, to be placed on his parole not to give information of any kind of anything he may see here, to be permitted to have the liberty of the city under police surveillance.

* Not found.

Your obedient servant,

A. T. BLEDSOE,
Assistant Secretary of War.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF EAST TENNESSEE,
OFFICE PROVOST MARSHAL,
Knoxville, Tenn., May 13, 1862.

J. H. HUFF, Depot Agent, Red Clay, Ga.:

Citizens of your State wishing to visit any station on the East Tennessee and Georgia Railroad south of this place can do so upon your written certificate of their loyalty to the Confederate Government.

W. M. CHURCHWELL,
Colonel and Provost-Marshal.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, May 15, 1862.

Brig. Gen. JOHN H. WINDER,
Commanding Department of Henrico, Richmond, Va.

SIR: You will dispose of the prisoners named below as follows: Burnham Davis, to be discharged upon taking the oath of allegiance; L. Garing, to be held as a prisoner; A. Heflin, to be discharged and employed as a carpenter if there be work for him; J. Light, to be held as a prisoner; E. Lambert, to be discharged and sent to Colonel Baldwin on taking the oath of allegiance and be permitted to join some regiment in Jackson's brigade; James B. Lambert to be discharged upon taking the oath of allegiance; S. Morris, to be retained; Thomas Meeks, to be held as a prisoner of war; H. Powell, to be permitted to volunteer in the Tenth Virginia Regiment on taking the oath of allegiance; William C. Smith, to be held as a prisoner; George Young, to be held as a prisoner; Henry Yancey, to be discharged upon taking the oath of allegiance and pledging upon his parole of honor not to visit our frontier until the conflict is over; L. C. Mains, to be held as a prisoner.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. T. BLEDSOE,
Assistant Secretary of War.

KNOXVILLE, May 19, 1862.

Col. W. M. CHURCHWELL, Provost-Marshal.

SIR: As per your order of the 13th instant I proceeded to Madison, Ga., and released the prisoners whose signatures are appended to the oath I herein* hand you. My instructions were to "release no man who had before taken the oath;" and to discriminate between those that had or had not taken the oath, I had this oath administered to them:

That you shall make true answers to the questions I shall ask you in reference to your having taken an oath to support the constitution of the Confederate States of America. So help you God.

I then asked them if they had taken said oath and in every case was answered in the negative. As soon as they had all taken and signed the oath as per orders I turned them all over to Mr. T. J. Jarnagin. In looking over my list I found that several were never there, several are dead, and some have volunteered; and I would advise that a statement be made by Captain Calhoun of all the prisoners that are or have been there—when released and by whose order. I find also their sanitary condition to be extremely bad. There are a great many sick and no physician to attend them that is at all skilled. My expenditures on the road amounted to $8. I consulted with the prisoners before their release but could find out nothing important enough to include in this report.

* Not found.

The above report, colonel, is respectfully submitted.

H. M. BEARDEN,
Lieutenant, Company D, Thirty-ninth North Carolina Troops.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, May 21, 1862.

Brig. Gen. J. H. WINDER, Richmond, Va.

SIR: You will dispose of the prisoners named below as follows: Henry Yancey to be retained as a prisoner; Wyatt, Romines and Levins to be released in exchange for the following citizens of Kanawha County who are now on parole and threatened to be rearrested if Wyatt, &c., are not discharged: Alexander T. Laidly, J. D. W. Clarkson, R. W. Clarkson, John P. Anderson, Perry A. Groves.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. T. BLEDSOE,
Assistant Secretary of War.

Memoranda of Various Political Arrests—From Reports of Confederate Commissioners.

J. Allison Eyster.—He is a Pennsylvanian and a resident of Chambersburg. He is a wealthy merchant, well known in Baltimore; addicted sometimes to intemperance. He voted for Lincoln, but declares that he was entirely opposed to the war. He acted as a sutler in some sort to Patterson's army, selling it a large amount of goods on account of which there is still due to him he says about $11,000, to collect which he says he followed that army into Virginia, where he was arrested at the instance of his connection, Jonas Chamberlin, of Frederick County, whose affidavit is herewith returned. Chamberlin says that Eyster came to his house very drunk, and came into Virginia in a drunken frolic under Patterson's pass. I see no reason to detain Eyster unless as a hostage for the safety of our people who are in the hands of the enemy.

Thomas Roberts.—He was a member of the Wheeling Convention of May, 1861. He is impenitent, and says that he will not now take the oath of allegiance to the Confederate States. He ought to be turned over to the State authorities to be tried for treason against Virginia, or indicted in the Confederate court at Richmond for treason against the Confederate Government. The first would perhaps be the safest course.

A. H. Lee.—He was arrested in Maryland as a spy and sent over at Mathias Point. He is by birth a Northern man. His wife he says was born in Virginia near Occoquan. After much cross-examination and evasion on his part he finally confessed that he was in the pay of the Lincoln Government as a painter in the navy-yard at $40, and was sent by Captain Dahlgren down to Port Tobacco, in Maryland, to look around and report as to persons and things crossing at Mathias Point to Virginia. He ought to be detained.

Solomon Banks.—A free negro of very light complexion; was arrested near Bethel on the day of the battle. He says that he just returned from Pig's Point where he had been at work on the fortifications; denies all complicity with and sympathy with the enemy, and says that he supposes he was taken for a white man. There is nothing before me to attach any suspicion to him except the mere fact of his arrest and commitment, and I recommend his discharge unless some further evidence be adduced against him.

Arnold Harris.—The Government is in possession of the main facts of his case. Nothing new appeared before me except some testimony confirmatory of the truth of the declarations of Harris that he is entirely loyal to the South in which he was born. His family and connections are in Kentucky. Upon the evidence before me I recommend his discharge as an act of justice as well as policy.

II. Magraw.—The Government is in possession of the facts of his case also for the most part. The additional testimony before me consisted, first, of the statements and declarations of the prisoner that he is now and always has been a Democrat of the Southern school; always opposed to Lincoln and his party and their principles; a justifier of the right of secession and of the exercise of it by the Southern States, and the opponent at all times of coercion. The Hon. Howell Cobb, ——— Clayton and Robert Tyler, esqrs., were summoned before me and examined at the instance of the prisoner, and they all testified strongly and without qualification in favor of the high personal character of the prisoner and in confirmation of his statements. Mr. Tyler's testimony came down to a very late period before he was driven from Pennsylvania. The prisoner now declares that it was his purpose to return to his native State of Maryland to reside and that he will not live under the Northern Government, and adds that if his imprisonment can in any manner benefit the Southern cause is willing to continue in confinement. He was a contractor for transportation under Mr. Buchanan, and his contract was renewed by General Joseph E. Johnston while he was acting as Quartermaster-General of the United States after the election of Lincoln. I recommend the discharge of Mr. Magraw.

Ruel Thomas and Leander Mank.—Common laborers who have been employed for several years in getting timber on the Pamunkey and Mattapony Rivers in Virginia for Yankee employers. They are Yankees from Maine and were arrested on the Rappahannock on the way home, as they say. One of them seems to be a shrewd fellow. Their employer has been permitted to go home, they say, by way of Nashville since they have been in prison, but he was ignorant of their confinement. No act of impropriety is alleged [against] the prisoners, and I see no reason for their detention unless the Government chooses to detain them as hostages. If discharged they should be paroled.

O. C. Staunton.—A deserter from Mott's U. S. artillery which he says he joined in Baltimore because he heard it was coming into Virginia, and he could thus cross the lines and then desert. That company was stationed, however, at the north end of the Chain Bridge and did not come into Virginia, and he deserted across the Eastern Branch of the Potomac and got to Mathias Point, where he crossed into Virginia and delivered himself to General Holmes, by whom he was permitted to go to Fredericksburg where he joined a volunteer company then being raised. He has been a skipper on the Southern coast. Says he married in North Carolina and has a child now living there, his wife being dead. There is nothing before me showing any charge against him, and I recommend that inquiry be made of General Holmes why he was sent to Richmond, and unless something be shown against him that he be discharged unless it be deemed proper to detain him as a hostage.

L. L. Wigen.—Says that he is a New Yorker by birth but a resident of Richmond, where he enlisted in Peyton's artillery, now under General Magruder. He says he has been tried and punished for resisting his captain, but he does not know and there is nothing before me to show cause why he has been imprisoned. It seems to me that his captain ought to be required to account satisfactorily for his imprisonment or take him back to duty.

Thomas Alexander.—A native of Hampshire County, Va. Says that he was a member of Capt. E. M. Armstrong's company and was taken prisoner at Romney and paroled. He went to the army at Winchester and was told he had better come to Richmond to get employment as he could not fight. He knows no reason for his imprisonment and there is no charge against him. I recommend that he be liberated and employed.

Benjamin Gemeny.—A Virginian professing to reside in Baltimore. He was arrested as a dangerous and traitorous person. See Mr. Beale's statement herewith filed. The examination of the prisoner satisfied me that he was a spy and ought to be detained therefor.

Allen Leonard.—Says that he is a New Yorker by birth but a resident engraver of Richmond. He is a fool. A crazy Union man who was arrested and committed for expressing a strong desire for reunion. He says that he is utterly opposed to war and equally opposed to disunion; that he was [for] reunion but he cannot conceive how it is to be accomplished. He says that Major Tomlin arrested him at West Point. It may be well to inquire of Major Tomlin why he arrested him. I think the man more fit for a lunatic asylum than a jail.

Jonathan T. Bingham.—By birth a Pennsylvanian; resides near Vienna; sixty-four years old; professes entire loyalty. Colonel Cash, of the [Eighth] Regiment South Carolina, testifies strongly in his behalf as to his kindness to his regiment. I see no reason to detain him. Col. H. W. Thomas also certifies in his favor. Took the oath of allegiance to the Confederate States.

William Woodworth.—By birth a New Yorker; fifty-seven years old; resides near Lewinsville; owns 100 acres of land; professes entire loyalty; took the oath of allegiance. I see no reason to detain him.

Abraham Lydecker.—Forty-eight years old; native of New Jersey; has been a resident at Vienna; is keeping a store; not prepared to say that he will remain in Virginia or to take the oath of allegiance. He is charged with improper dealing with the enemy. He denies it, but I think he is an alien enemy. He owns some personalty but no realty.

William Hurst.—Twenty years of age; a native of Fairfax where his father resides. No proof of anything to justify his detention.

Henry Kernoll.—Sixty-nine years of age; native of New York; has resided twelve years in Fairfax County; owns 223 acres of land; has a pass from S. S. Tompkins, Army of the Potomac, which I inclose. He says that Tompkins is one of our officers. If so, I think he ought to be discharged.

Dwight J. Partello.—Native of New Jersey; twenty years of age; was engaged selling newspapers from Richmond at Manassas when he was arrested. His father lives in Maryland, but is, he says, from New Orleans. He has two sisters married and residing in Richmond, one of whom was before me. No charge against him. He was at one time employed in the laboratory here, under ——— Smith, and honorably discharged. Took the oath of allegiance. I see no reason to detain him.

Simon Schermerhorn.—Native of New York; forty-five years of age; a cripple; for aught that appears before me his arrest and confinement were cruel. He was arrested near Yorktown by a guard and never examined. He has some children here and some in New York, and some property there. Prefers to remain in Virginia if he can do so without losing his property at the North.

William Belvin.—Native of Virginia; of Gloucester; oysterman, twenty-seven years old; has three brothers in our army at Gloucester Point; a married man; no charge against him. He ought to be discharged.

Benjamin Kimball.—Fifty-five years of age; native of Maine; resident of New Market, Elizabeth City County; married and has four children. His wife was a widow with children, and one of her sons, a Virginian, in our army. Belvin married his daughter; an oysterman; took the oath of allegiance; no charge against him. I think he ought to be discharged.

Joseph Rollins.—A native of York County. No charge against him. He ought to be discharged.

Ludwig Hesse.—A German; forty-one years of age; came to America in 1849; naturalized citizen. Took the oath of allegiance to the Confederate States. Has been confined six weeks. A resident of Martinsburg, where he has property. I think he is a fair man, and was arrested in part because of a personal quarrel and in part because of the prejudice against foreigners. I think he should be discharged.

George W. Pracher.—A native of Jefferson County, Va. I think he is a knave. The evidence against him if true convicts him of actual treason, and if it be false there is no legal cause for his detention. He should be turned over to the proper tribunal for trial for treason against the Confederate Government.

John Fleming.—A native of Berkeley County, Va.; thirty-seven years old. There is no specific charge against him, and no proof of any kind.

He professes entire loyalty and denies that he ever had any communication with the enemy directly or indirectly.

John H. Larlhorne.—Native of Berkeley; poor; nearly blind; was educated by the State; charged with abusing a pass and carrying a letter to some person in Maryland. He says that the letter was from his sister to her husband, a mechanic in Maryland. He professes entire loyalty; says that he is grateful to Virginia for his education, and would join the army if he was not blind.

Charles Walker.—A native of England; twenty-two years old; arrived in New York in May and went to Old Point as the groom of Colonel Allen. Upon the Queen's proclamation asked to be discharged; was refused, and escaped. He was arrested, brought to Richmond, and discharged; went to work in Crenshaw's factory; broke his arm, and when well went to Gloucester Point to join the Fayette Artillery, and was arrested; wishes now to join the army.

Peter L. Anderson.—Forty years of age; native of Greenbrier County, Va.; a married man; farmer, with four children; owns 336 acres of land; arrested at his home in Fayette County. No charge; no proof. Professes entire loyalty, and if guilty of anything, it was desertion from the militia under Colonel Beckley.

William Warkup.—Native of Greenbrier County, Va.; married man; farmer, owns 100 acres of land. No charge; no proof; professes entire loyalty; says he was arrested because he expressed the opinion that the Confederate troops then in the Valley of the Kanawha would be driven out (as they were).

Jesse Fuller and Alexander Fuller.—Brothers; twenty-four and twenty-two years old; native of Montgomery County; were arrested in Fayette, where they reside. Have a wounded brother in the hospital at Charleston, Va., and had been to see him, and were returning home when arrested. They profess entire loyalty. No charge; no proof of anything.

Hardman Dickens.—Native of Raleigh County; no charge; no proof; professes loyalty. The foregoing nine men ought in my opinion to be discharged, and I respectfully suggest that a general order be issued forbidding suspected persons to be brought to Richmond until they have been examined by a colonel at least, who, if he sends them on, shall certify the charge and the evidence. At present the practice is for any scouting party or other party of soldiers to take a man from his home, very often without telling him, and without examination he is sent to Richmond, in some cases a distance of 350 miles, without even a change of clothing, and when the poor creatures are discharged here they are utterly penniless. Such a practice is as it seems to me wholly unjustifiable. It subjects the Government to great unnecessary expense and tends to produce dissatisfaction among the people. I would further suggest that the order should also apprise these people that giving or selling supplies to the enemy or giving them information is treason, and when one is arrested on such a charge and there is proof of it let him be sent to the jail in the district in which he is to be tried. The War Department will thus be saved much trouble, the Government much expense and the people protected from oppression.

H. H. Smith.—Native of New York; twenty-seven years of age; a printer; a smart knave, and an alien enemy of bad intent.

Thomas Williams.—Native of Ohio; fifty-seven years old; Union man; professes loyalty; arrested in Boone County, Va.; has resided in Virginia since he was fifteen months old. Boat builder and lumber getter; took the oath of allegiance. No charge; no proof; owns 269 acres of land.

David Williams.—Son of Thomas; twenty-two years of age; Union man; cultivates rented land; married man; has a brother serving under General Floyd; took the oath of allegiance.

J. W. Cole.—Native of Floyd County; twenty-four years of age; blacksmith; Union man; has a brother serving under General Floyd; took the oath of allegiance; no charge.

James Cantley.—Native of Monroe County; resides in Boone; farms his own land; 100 acres; Union man; took the oath of allegiance; no charge; no proof. I respectfully recommend that these men be discharged.

Henry B. Bagby.—A lad seventeen years old; a Virginian, having relations and property here. His relations are highly respectable. His father is a claim agent residing in Alexandria County, about four miles from Washington. He was on a visit to his father when the Federal picket retreated, and he was captured by our picket. I see no reason for detaining him.

John S. Bower.—The Adjutant-General has directed him to be discharged upon taking the oath of allegiance. I had previously examined the prisoner and think the discharge correct, and have caused the prisoner to take the oath, which is herewith returned, but I can find no law for it.

W. H. Byrd.—He is a native of Georgia; his wife a Philadelphian. Up to the 31st of August last he was Auditor of the War Department in the Railroad Department of Lincoln's Government. I have examined him very carefully, and my present impression is that he is a very bad person and a spy. Further evidence which will throw much evidence upon his status can be had from Augusta, and I recommend that he be detained for further examination, when I will report in detail upon his case.

M. A. McClung, Alexander McClung, John W. O'Dell, Thomas A. Ramsay, Anthony Rader, Thomas Haywood.—Can find nothing in my opinion to justify their detention. The first two were sent down from General Floyd's brigade, but as they allege without his knowledge and without any specific charge against them, and none is made here except that they are suspected of disloyalty. The first, M. A. McClung, says that he is a secessionist and was arrested only because he was passing through General Floyd's camp to visit his brother in General Wise's camp the day before the battle of Cross Lanes, because as he was told no one could be allowed to leave that camp until after the battle which was then expected, and when after the battle the prisoners were sent down he was sent along without examination. The other four were Union men but all deny any complicity with the enemy; profess the utmost loyalty to the Confederate Government and their readiness to take the oath of allegiance if required to do so. They all reside near Summerville, and two of them, A. McClung and J. W. O'Dell, say that they passed once through the enemy's camp because it lay on the path of their avocations, and they were moreover curious to see the enemy's army under Tyler, and one of them, A. McClung, says that he exchanged some butter for coffee, giving eighteen pounds of butter for nine pounds of coffee. They are all Virginians, ignorant, illiterate and very simple-minded. The sixth person, Haywood, says that he is a sailor who was caught in Norfolk by the blockade, and crossed in an open boat to Warwick where his father resides with a view to join the army, and on his way home after landing he was caught and imprisoned. There is no charge against him.

Dr. M. S. Rossvally.—He appeared to have been arrested under the representations of persons who were strongly excited against him in consequence of imputed personal delinquencies and a mistake or misapprehension of facts. He appeared to have been an assistant surgeon of the Confederate army and to have been authorized by the Government to visit Washington for purposes of information. He went under the assumed name of Lewis, and with the aid of a connection then in the Federal army he visited all the fortifications on the Potomac, bringing with him in disguise the son of Mr. Thomas Green, now in our army. He professes the utmost loyalty and there is nothing before me to impeach it. On the contrary he has taken the oath of allegiance and everything tends to sustain him. I think he ought to be discharged.

Felix S. O'Dell.—He is a native of Nicholas County, Va. He says that he is twenty-six years of age. Is a farmer owning 200 acres of land. That he went to General Floyd's camp to carry clothes to his father (who had been examined and discharged) when he was arrested. He denies all connection or communication with the enemy; professes entire loyalty and took the oath of allegiance. There is no testimony against him. Think he ought to be discharged.

Augustus Tappin.—A native of York County, Va.; thirty-eight years old; a married man; owns no land; farms upon rented land and gets oysters. Arrested at his own home on the 13th or 14th of June in Elizabeth City County, where he resided. Professes extreme loyalty and took the oath of allegiance.

Charles G. Clarke and Harriet M., his wife.—Natives of Rhode Island and Massachusetts. They are alien enemies who had settled in Gloucester County. They had a passport to go North via Nashville, but all their property was at Gloucester Point and they returned to get it and were arrested by order of Colonel Crump, who seems to think the woman dangerous and inferred wrong from their return to Gloucester Point, but they had a passport which authorized them to return. They have one child and a house in New York, and I have no reason to treat them otherwise than other alien enemies are treated, except that as they obtained a passport in proper time and have been prevented by their arrest from using it they ought now to be permitted to obtain their goods from Gloucester Point and made to return and leave the Confederacy via Nashville. I recommend this order as to their mode of departure, because the officer commanding at Gloucester Point requests that they should not be allowed to depart via Fortress Monroe and it is possible there is good reason for it. At least I would pay so much respect to his request, and to make the execution of the order sure I recommend that the man only be allowed to return to Gloucester for his goods.

W. H. Byrd.—I have finally considered this case most carefully and I am satisfied that Byrd is a wholly unreliable person who would dispose of himself to the best advantage to either Government. Since the war and as late as the 21st of August last he held the office of Auditor of the Railroad Department of the War Department of the Lincoln Government, which seems to have been a confidential and lucrative office. This was treason in a native of Georgia, who does not profess to have expatriated himself. He came to the South under a Lincolnite pass, with a similar pass to carry him back (to and from Louisville) describing him as detailed on special service by Secretary Cameron. He seeks to repel the conclusion made by these facts by the allegation that he held the office in order to get money to come to the South; that he fled secretly and fraudulently from Washington and came here with a view to communicate important information to the Government. The President informs me that he communicated nothing of importance to him, and a doubt is suggested as to the identity of Byrd with the Auditor Byrd. I do not think that he has capacity enough to do much mischief, but if he is the man he represents himself to be the enemy entertained a much higher idea of his capacity and may therefore have made use of him. The question presented by his case is one of bona fides or not. If he makes out the bona fides of course he is exculpated, but if he fails his case is a bad one. I am not satisfied of the bona fides. I recommend therefore that Byrd be sent back to Augusta, Ga., with directions to the district attorney to submit his case to the next grand jury, sending with him the evidence now here. He will there have the benefit of a "jury of the vicinage," while the Government will have the guaranty of a fair hearing before a Southern community, although Byrd's father formerly resided there. If he is innocent he will be ignored by the grand jury, and if guilty fairly tried and punished. If not actually guilty but justly suspected those people will drive him out.

Edward Taylor.—He is a native of Fairfax County, Va. Resident at the commencement of the war in Cincinnati. He went from his home to Washington, and from Washington he came out to the field of Manassas and was captured at Centreville. He says that he came to look at the fortifications on the Potomac, and see his relations near Alexandria. But the testimony before me ascertains that in Cincinnati he was one of the most violent and apparently vindictive of our assailants, giving in every way that he could aid and comfort to the enemy. His brother, Colonel Taylor, who commands at Culpeper Court-House, repudiated him last summer shortly after his capture. His case is like that of Ely's or worse. If he has never expatriated himself he is a traitor; if he has he is another Ely.

Julius Fridle.—Of Cabell County, Va.; arrested by Colonel Clarkson. Prisoner was born in Germany. Has lived in Cabell since 1854. Is a Union man. Voted against the secession ordinance but has not voted for or sustained the United States Government since. Desired to be neutral and quiet; did not vote at any election held by authority of the Peirpoint government. Believes the old government to be the true government of Virginia and is willing to support it as such. Is willing to take the oath of allegiance to the State of Virginia and the Confederate Government. Has never borne arms or been in any way connected with the U. S. Army. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance. Witnesses examined, William L. Peters, M. Beekman, Mr. A. L. Wilson.

T. Moory.—Union man; voted against secession, but has never voted for or sustained the Peirpoint organization. Had no connection or communication with the Federal army. Has been a quiet, peaceable citizen, desiring to be neutral; is willing to take the oath of allegiance to the State of Virginia and the Confederate States. I recommend his discharge on taking these oaths. William L. Peters, Lewis Beekman, A. L. Wilson, H. C. Poteet, witnesses examined.

H. Paine.—Arrested in Cabell; a quiet, peaceable citizen; Union man; never voted at the Peirpoint elections. His father's wagon was impressed by the Federal troops; he was sent along with it, and returned home with it. This compulsory service was the only connection he ever had with the enemy, and regards the Government at Richmond as the true Government of Virginia. Is willing to adhere to it and support the secession cause. I recommend he be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance. Witnesses examined same as above.

Thomas Kyle.—Born in Frederick, Va.; has lived several years in Cabell. Had no connection with the Federal army; never furnished them with supplies. Voted for a member of the Wheeling congress and convention but is willing now to take the oath of allegiance. Two of his sons-in-law are in the Lincoln army. I am at a loss what to recommend here. The vote to sustain the western revolutionary government I consider treason against Virginia, and the State authorities ought to decide whether they will prosecute him for this act. Mr. Kyle is an old man seventy-two years of age. He is willing to take the oath of allegiance. So far as the Government of the Confederate States is concerned I think he ought not to be detained, but he should be turned over to the State of Virginia. Witnesses examined same as above. I ought to add that after the Yankees passed through Barboursville, it is proved that Kyle said Yankee bullets were the best pills for secessionists; that he took a musket to guard the court-house from secessionists, but Kyle says this was done on compulsion.

John Douthit.—Aged nineteen; has never been in the Federal army. Was a Union man in his sentiments. Refused to join the Union army; has never aided them. Is willing to take the oath of allegiance to the State of Virginia and to the Confederate States. I recommend on doing so he be discharged. Same witnesses.

Dr. J. H. Rouse.—Born in Ohio; says he was in favor of the Union till Virginia seceded. Was willing to abide by her action and to remain neutral if he could. He is willing to take the oath of allegiance. Seems to have been arrested on account of rumors. He was commissioner of the United States and postmaster. From the testimony of the witnesses it appears that a young man living in Doctor Rouse's drug store went to Ohio to visit his father and brought over the mails without reference to the political sentiments of persons to whom the letters and documents were addressed. This was repeatedly done after the mails were stopped in Cabell County, but Rouse seems to have permitted this as a matter of kindness to his neighbors and not as an officer of the Government or as a partisan. He denies he was commissioner, and it is proved that J. C. Wheeler was commissioner and tried all the political cases in the county. Is proved to be a man of good character and a quiet peaceable citizen. I recommend he be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance.

Stephen Eades.—Born in Albemarle County, Va.; has lived in Fayette County seven or eight years; voted against secession, but declared his willingness to abide by and support the result in the State; joined the Southern militia called out by authority of Governor Letcher, but after being one day in camp he was sent home to await further orders; proved to be a peaceable, quiet citizen; says he never had anything to do with the Northern Army or Government. Witnesses examined, Mr. Coleman, delegate in Virginia Legislature from Fayette and Nicholas; Mr. Alderson, of State Senate. I recommend he be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance.

William H. Jones.—Born in Fluvanna; has lived in Fayette three years; is a slave owner, opposed to abolition; keeps a tavern near Dogwood Camp; some of the enemy in passing got their dinners at his house; he says he avoided communication with them and has never had communication with the Northern Army; was a Union man but willing to go out of the Union if Virginia seceded; is willing to take the oath of allegiance to Virginia and the Confederate States. I recommend his discharge on taking these oaths. Same witnesses examined as in the above cases.

Samuel Short.—Born in Halifax County, Va.; raised in Franklin; has lived in Fayette ten years; is a secessionist; was arrested by independent scouts (a species of force not belonging to any military organization) who took from him two horses that have never been returned to him or delivered to the military authorities; was bitterly hostile to the abolition feeling in Fayette; is a quiet, peaceable, industrious man; has had no connection with the Northern Army; has furnished supplies to our army; supposed to be arrested in consequence of rumors started by the men who took his horses. I recommend his discharge. Witnesses examined, Mr. Coleman, Mr. Alderson.

Henry Worrall.—Born in Rhode Island; has lived in Wayne three or four years; voted against secession; had had no connection with the Peirpoint government. Recognizes the government of Virginia and the Confederate Government as his government. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance. Witness, Beekman.

George Hunt.—Born in Massachusetts; has lived in Fayette County for ten years; has taken no part in the contest; voted against secession but considered himself bound by the act of secession to support the constitution and laws of Virginia and of the Confederate States. Man of good character and an orderly, quiet citizen. He had no connection with the Federal army and has given it no aid. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance. Witnesses, Mr. Coleman, Mr. Alderson.

R. A. Flanagan.—Born in Fluvanna, Va.; age fifty-five; has lived several years in Fayette; voted against the ordinance of secession but supports the laws and constitution of Virginia and the Confederate States. Was arrested on a visit to a son who was sick in our army. A man of good general character. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance to the State of Virginia and the Confederate States. Witnesses, Colonel Coleman, Mr. Alderson.

Albert Fuller.—Native of Cabell County, Va.; aged eighteen; an unruly boy. His father and brothers Unionists. Albert Fuller was passing the house of Henry Shelton, a secessionist, armed with a musket and bayonet going in the direction of the Federal forces at Barboursville in company with another youth. W. Ward is the other youth. Shelton took the gun from him. Fuller went on to Barboursville, and a company of Ziegler's U. S. cavalry were sent to arrest Shelton. The boy who was with him went back to Fuller's father. Fuller's father and brother came on to Shelton's and killed him before Ziegler's cavalry arrived. Fuller's brother went to Ziegler's camp and thence to Ohio. His father was killed by a son of Shelton. I think Fuller ought not to be discharged but from the imperfection of the testimony I cannot advise where he should be sent for trial. I think he was the cause of Shelton's death and ought in some way to be brought to justice either by the State or Confederate authorities; but the seat of justice of the Confederate States for this district (Charleston, Kanawha County) and the committing of the offense are both in the possession of the enemy. I would suggest the propriety of an act of the Legislature of Virginia authorizing the trial in some other county. Witnesses examined, Peters, Poteet, Beekman, Wilson.

William Henchman.—Sixty years old; born in Monroe County, Va.; has lived in Cabell; has been a magistrate and commissioner of the revenue. Union man; voted against secession; voted for a member of the Wheeling convention and the Northern Congress. Professes to have done it through ignorance and compulsion of the enemy. Says he thought the election for members of the Wheeling convention was ordered by the proper authorities of Virginia. Professes a willingness to support the constitution and laws of Virginia and the Confederate States. Is willing to take the oath of allegiance. [In this case I think as Henchman has voted for establishing the revolutionary government of Virginia he ought to be turned over to the State authorities to be tried for treason against the State. He does not seem to have had any connection with the army or the military authorities of the United States. His offense is civil and political, and as it is immediately directed against the State of Virginia he ought to be brought to justice by that State; or if suffered to go at large it should be by the Virginia authorities. His general character is good.] Witnesses, Peters, Beekman, Wilson, Albert Laidly.

Alexander Williams.—A native of Nicholas County, Va.; did not vote on the question of secession; was willing to abide by the action of the State; is willing to take the oath of allegiance to the State of Virginia and the Confederate States. No cause of arrest known to me. Was probably arrested on suspicion. His general character is good. I recommend he be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance. Witness examined, Mr Alderson

Robert Miller.—Born in Randolph County, Va.; says he is one of Captain Tyree's company in the Wise Legion; on Wise's retreat from Kanawha went home for two reasons—first, his wife was sick; second, he was himself crippled. Before he entirely recovered he started to join Captain Tyree's company. Applied at Floyd's camp on his way for a pass to join Tyree, and was arrested and sent here. Captain Tyree tried to get him released that he might join his company and failed. Mr. Coleman proves he is a man of good character. I recommend he be sent here to Tyree's company.

A. B. Gesh (Buck Mason).—Was born in Botetourt County, Va.; removed to Fayette several years since. Has borne a good character as an honest, industrious man; arrested by the militia. Was a Union man up to the passage of the ordinance of secession by Virginia; desirous now to go with the State of Virginia. No cause for his arrest stated; probably on mere suspicion. Colonel Coleman proves he was at General Beckley's camp immediately after the arrest, when the question whether Gesh ought to have been arrested was discussed, and no cause of arrest was then alleged. I recommend he be discharged on taking oath of allegiance. Witnesses examined, Colonel Coleman, Mr. Alderson.

Addison Neff.—Born in Greenbrier; age twenty-one; lives in Fayette; no cause for arrest assigned; says his brother was stabbed and expected to die. As soon as the enemy left Dogwood Camp he started to Greenbrier to see his brother. Applied for a pass at Meadow Bluff; was arrested. He voted against secession but will abide by the action of the State. Mr. Snider proves Neff's brother was of a family faithful to the Southern cause and he believes Neff himself was faithful. Proves his brother was stabbed, and for a long time it was believed he would die, and that while the armies were not in the country the families passed to visit each other frequently. I recommend that he be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance.

Dr. P. Lawrence.—Was born in Montgomery County, Va.; removed to Fayette near two years since. He was arrested going to join the camp of the Virginia militia. One Light had received a letter from Colonel Coleman requesting all the men from his vicinity to join the militia who could do so, and in consequence of this letter he started and was arrested on his way. Colonel Coleman proves that while he considered it dangerous to send a draft for the militia in that vicinity he did write such a letter, and that after his removal to Fayette he has conducted himself as a peaceable citizen. Mr. W. Staples proves that while he lived in Montgomery County Lawrence was faithful to the South. He voted against secession, but is opposed to the Wheeling government and supports the Confederate Government. I recommend he be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance.

Samuel Ramsay.—Seems to have been arrested on suspicion. He was in Fayette County. His uncle and one of his cousins who lived in Nicholas County are active in supporting the invasion of Western Virginia by the United States. The prisoner has had no connection with the army of the United States or with the Peirpoint government. He professes to adhere to the Confederate States and to the State of Virginia, and is willing to take the oath of allegiance. I recommend his discharge on doing so. Witnesses examined, Coleman and Alderson.

Charles Clay.—Aged sixty-three. Born in Virginia; has lived in Raleigh County twelve years. Says he is a secessionist and on the Southern side. Has two sons in Floyd's brigade, in Captains Pate's or Adams' companies. Has done all in his power for the families of volunteers in the Southern army. Does not know for what he is arrested. Says he went to hunt up some cattle and hogs driven by the wife of a volunteer into the mountains when the Northern troops went to Raleigh Court-House. Did not expect them to return so soon, but they met him in the road on his return home, took him prisoner, and compelled him to show them where they could cross the creek, and then discharged him. Says he never had anything to do with the Northern army or with the Union men, except in this instance. Says he has slept out in the mountains at night to avoid them. I examined Colonel Coleman, the member of the legislature of Virginia from Fayette [and] Raleigh, and Mr. McDonald, the member from Wyoming, and they neither knew enough of this man to say whether he was worthy of credit. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

Greenville Clay.—Son of Charles Clay; does not know for what he was arrested. Never had any connection with the Northern army or the Union men. Once met a squad of Yankees on the road. They asked him the condition of the bridges and passed. He had nothing to do with the Northern army or the Union men. Has two brothers in the Southern army, one in Captain Adams', the other in Captain Pate's company, Floyd's brigade. In the spring put in a crop in partnership with one of his brothers. It was afterwards agreed one of them should volunteer. His brother being unmarried, volunteered in Captain Pate's company. Has aided the families of the Southern volunteers by cutting their grain in harvest, and by other labor. I have examined Colonel Coleman and Mr. McDonald. They can throw no light on this case. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

R. Clay.—A boy sixteen years of age, son of Charles Clay. Says he never had anything to do with the Northern army or with the Union men. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

George Caully.—Son-in-law of Charles Clay. Says he is a secessionist. Has a brother in Adams' company in Floyd's brigade. Takes care of both families. Has had nothing to do with the Northern army or the Union men. Colonel Coleman and Mr. McDonald have no other knowledge of this man than that he lives in this neighborhood. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

Jeremiah Combs.—Born in Raleigh County. Says he is a secessionist. Never had any connection with the Northern army or the Union men. No charge sent on with him that I have seen. Colonel Coleman and Mr. McDonald know he lived in Raleigh but can throw no light on his case. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

Maben Jackson.—Born in Orange County, Va. Joined the Virginia militia under General Beckley. Received information of the sickness of his wife and was permitted to go home. The permission signed by H. C. Richmore is herewith filed.* Says he was at home when the Yankees went to Raleigh Court-House. The militia were ordered to work on the roads. He remained at home working on the roads until arrested. No cause for his arrest is known to him. Examined Coleman and Mr. McDonald, but they do not know him well enough to throw any light on his case. They do not know what character he bears. The prisoner in his examination seemed to be frank and candid and his statement is corroborated by the permission signed by Captain Richmore. I recommend his discharge.

* Not found.

William Wills.—Says he has lived in Raleigh eighteen years. Does not know for what he is arrested. Had nothing to do with the Northern army or the Union men. Says he has always been a secessionist. Says he was a member of the Methodist Church, but when the rupture of that church took place he quit the church because the preachers all adhered to the North. Colonel Coleman and Mr. McDonald can give no information about him. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

J. Massey.—I have nothing to act on but this man's statement. He says he is a Southern man; never had anything to do with the Northern army or the Union men. He appears to be a fair and candid man. Colonel Coleman and Mr. McDonald can give no information about him. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

Peter Miller.—Was born in Canton, State of New York; removed to Ohio when young. Came to Virginia first as a volunteer last spring with the Northern army. Says he was only a three months' volunteer. At the expiration of his time went back to Ohio and returned to Virginia to avoid being called into service. Came to Point Pleasant, and went up to Charleston, Kanawha, while Lee's army was there. Staid there a week. Boarded part of the time with one Snyder; the rest of the time with a man whose name he does not know. Paid no board. No bill was asked for or presented. Did nothing there. From Charleston he says he went to Peytona in Boone County. Staid there two weeks. Boarded with a man named Sam Allie; did nothing; paid no board. Says no, there were no Northern troops at Peytona. From Peytona went with the Northern troops to Raleigh. From Raleigh went to Wyoming County. Staid there some time with Jasper Workman. Did nothing there; paid no board; was not charged any. There he borrowed a horse to go to Peytona to get a pair of boots and was arrested by a party of militia on the road going there. Does not know for what. I examined Colonel Coleman and Mr. McDonald. They testified Peytona was a town in Boone County settled by Yankees and Germans in which a company was raised for the Northern army just before the Northern troops went to Raleigh, and that Jasper Workman had the character of a disaffected and dangerous man. Mr. McDonald further testified that he was informed by Captain Pach that he had arrested a Captain or Lieutenant Miller. Miller was raising a company of volunteers for the Northern [army], and they were surprised while forming. Miller attempted to escape up a mountain and was shot while making this attempt. Was captured, and a valuable pistol taken from him, [and] a very valuable black horse borrowed in Wyoming. A quantity of letter paper and envelopes were found on his person. On re-examination Miller admitted he was wounded in the side, and admitted some envelopes and paper and a black horse were taken from him. Colonel Coleman and Mr. McDonald have both heard that while in Wyoming Miller was attempting to find out the position and strength of our forces. I think this man is certainly a Northern emissary and spy. His manner under examination was confused and his statements contradictory. I recommend he be tried by the military authorities as a spy, and as the testimony can be most easily procured at General Floyd's camp I suggest he be sent there for trial. If not tried or if acquitted I advise he be held as a prisoner.

Charles Arundel.—Prisoner says he was born in Fairfax County, Va. Was arrested by orders of Colonel Robinson. Prisoner keeps tavern. Has a blacksmith shop and is a farmer. Never was in enemy's lines. Has had no communication with them. Was in Washington last January. Has not been there since. Did not know for what he was arrested. Was told by ex-Governor Smith who interested himself in his case that he was charged with selling whisky to our soldiers. Says he never did so. Picket was stationed, the officer and men took their meals with him, but he never sold spirits to the men. He was an original secessionist. Voted for secession from the beginning. At the last election of Confederate States went to Prince William to vote for Davis as President and for William Smith for Confederate Congress. Has a son in the Confederate army. Colonel Brawner and Mr. Thomas state prisoner is a man of good character, and was always a secessionist. I recommend the discharge of this man. H. W. Thomas, senator, and Colonel Brawner, representative from Fairfax, Prince William County, proves he is a secessionist. Always voted the Southern ticket and voted for secession. Has procured provisions and forage for our troops, and has done blacksmith work for them. I recommend his discharge.

Samuel Bays.—Born in Fayette County, Va. Lived some time in Boone County, and returned to Fayette last spring. Offered to vote for secession in May last, but his vote was rejected because he had not been in the county twelve months. Has always been a Southern rights man. Was probably arrested because there was a general removal of the citizens in the rear of General Floyd's army. Bays' brother-in-law was in the army. He is a man of good character, and of a family sound in the Confederate cause. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance. Witnesses, Colonel Coleman, W. Atchison.

Isaac Williams.—Aged fifty-one. Born in Giles County, moved to Fayette. Says he was arrested by Caskie Rangers when he was going to mill. Does not know for what cause. Says he supposes he was charged with being a Union man. Denies he was a Union man. Admits he voted against secession but says he did not know then the Union was broken. Says as soon as he understood the Union was broken he stood by the State of Virginia and the South. Man of good character. Opposed Peirpoint's government. Witness, Coleman. I recommend Williams' discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

Stewart Armstrong.—Born in Greenbrier. Moved to Fayette when he was a boy. Twenty-five years old now. Voted against secession, but turned when he heard the Union was broken; supported the South. Is opposed to the Federalist. Never saw the Yankee army or had any communication with them. Willing to take the oath of allegiance. Fair character. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

John Hanaher.—Boy of sixteen. Lives with his father and was arrested at home in the absence of his parents. Says his father is a Methodist connected with the Southern Church. Has had no connection with the enemy in any way. Mr. Coleman says the general impression is his father is connected with the Northern Church, but since secession may have changed. This boy's examination is not satisfactory, but as no connection with the enemy appears I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance. Witness, Coleman.

John Deekens.—Says he was born in Grayson County, Va. Has lived in Raleigh since he was ten years old; now forty-nine. Does not know for what he is arrested. Thinks it was from malice of his enemies. Never saw a Yankee. When he heard they were going to Raleigh he took to the woods. Helped to support the families of the Southern volunteers. Worked for them and divided his grain with them. Was not called on to do more. Voted against secession, but says it was an ignorant vote and that he repented and stuck to the State of Virginia when she went out of the Union. I recommend this man to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance.

Isaac Motes.—Born in Rockingham County, Va. Says he does not know for what he is arrested. Was arrested when going to get salt. Staid all night on Cahna at Jack Pear's. Was arrested next morning. Saw the Yankees on the road from Raleigh. Voted against secession, but says he holds to the disunion party. Admits he has two sons in the Northern army. Two others went to Ohio this summer. I cannot recommend the discharge of this man. I think he is a dangerous man and ought not to be released while the country is in possession of the enemy.

Isaac Motes, jr.—Fifteen years old, son of the above. Talks very indistinctly; so badly that I could not understand him without the aid of his father. He was arrested at the same time with his father. He is dressed in a U. S. uniform which he says his brother gave him. I cannot recommend his discharge. His father and himself may be hostages for the good conduct of his brothers who are now in arms against us.

F. Stover.—Aged sixteen. Born in Raleigh. Says he is Southern. Does not know why he was arrested. Has two brothers in Captain Adams' company, Floyd's brigade. Captain Adams recruited several men in his neighborhood beside his brothers. Saw Captain Caskie's Rangers several times in his neighborhood. Never saw the Yankees. Says his father voted the secession ticket. Colonel Coleman proves his father was a man of good character and reputed to be Southern. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

William McKinney.—Says he was born in South Carolina and came to Richmond with the soldiers. He was reported to me as deranged, and on examination I find him to be so. I am satisfied he is unable to take care of himself. He is nearly naked and in every respect an object of charity. I recommend he be sent to some of the asylums for the insane in Virginia as soon as it can be done and in the meantime he be properly clothed and taken care of.

Samuel Pach.—Prisoner says he was born in Lawrence County, Ky., and moved to Wayne County, Va. He says he was arrested by Captain Witcher on suspicion of being a Union man. Denies he is a Union man.

Says he is with the South. Affirms he never had any connection with the Northern army or the Union men of Kentucky or his own neighborhood. He lives near the Kentucky line on the Sandy River. I can procure no information about him and judging from his conduct under examination I should think he was an honest man. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

George Pach.—Prisoner says he was born in Giles County, Va. Removed to Lawrence County, Ky., and then to Wayne County, Va. Is the uncle of Samuel Pach. Lives near Sandy, across from Louisa, Ky., and about twenty-eight miles distant on Twelve Pole River from that town. Says he voted for members of the convention held at Richmond and never voted since. Is a Southern man. Never had anything to do with the Union men of Kentucky or of his neighborhood. Says some of his neighbors went to Ceredo and got arms from Zelgler. He remonstrated against it at the beginning of bloody times at home. Took the part of the South. I have no information in reference to this man except from his own examination and his manner creates some doubt in my mind of his sincerity. But he is a very old man (near seventy) and his health much broken by his confinement. He is willing to take the oath of allegiance. I recommend he be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance.

Robert White.—Citizen of Fayette. A feeble old man of seventy, incapable of doing mischief. Says he is a Southern man. Never had anything to do with the Yankees or the Union men. Willing to take the oath of allegiance. I recommend his discharge. Proved to be a man of good character.

George W. Fox.—Born in Nelson County, Va. Lived in Fayette for twenty-five years. Says he does not know for what he was arrested. Taken to Floyd's camp at Gauley just before the battle of Carnifex Ferry. Was under guard across the river during the battle. Voted for secession and says he is a secession man. Never had anything to do with Yankees or Union men. Mr. Alderson proves he is a man of good character. All the votes at Fox precinct were for secession, but does not know whether Fox voted. Mr. McLaughlin proves Fox a man of good character and was understood to be a secessionist. Says May, a noted scout in that country, told him Fox had agreed to give him thirty bushels of corn if he would kill fifteen Yankees. I recommend his discharge.

James Kincaid.—Born in Fayette; moved to Nicholas last March. Arrested by some of the Wise Legion who called him a Union man. Says he is a volunteer in Captain Newman's company, Floyd's brigade, Colonel McCausland's regiment. Says he was taken sick and permitted to go home. On his recovery he went with the militia to Cotton Hill and remained there eighteen days. He then started to join Floyd's brigade; was arrested on his way. He is now hoarse from his sickness but expresses a desire to join his company. Mr. Robinson, the prosecuting attorney at Nicholas, proves him to be a man of good character, and he knows he volunteered in Newman's company. The man appears to be honest and candid. I suggest he be released from prison and be sent to his company.

James C. Kelly.—The only paper accompanying this prisoner is here-with submitted marked A,* in which the charge stated against him is infidelity. It does not appear by what authority this paper is made out or that any investigation of the cases stated in it has been made. Prisoner says he was born in Maryland. Has lived nine years in Prince William County, three miles and a half from Occoquan and this side of our lines. Was arrested by orders of Captain Nelson of the Quantico Guards. Has had no communication with the enemy. On the 9th of May he carried to Washington the goods of one Safford, a Northern man who left the country. He has never been since to Washington or inside of the enemy's lines. No person from the inside of the enemy's lines has ever visited him or held communication with him or his family. Thinks the war unjust on the part of the North. Stands by the South. Gave the Prince William cavalry two loads of hay. Has since sold hay to the Southern troops. Voted for Davis for President and William Smith for the Confederate Congress. Colonel Brawner proves Kelly to be an honest man. Has never heard any reason for distrusting his fidelity to the South. Has heard some individuals speak of Kelly as suspicious, but assigned no reasons for the suspicions. Others placed entire confidence in his fidelity. While Kelly was under arrest at Dumfries he voted for Davis as President of the Confederate States and William Smith for Congress. On the evening of Kelly's arrest Colonel Brawner saw Captain Nelson, who told him the arrest was made as a precautionary measure, an advance of the army in that direction being expected, and not for any specific charge. Mr. Lynn, the delegate from Prince William, says that Kelly's general character is good, and he believes him to be faithful to the South. When Underwood was trying to raise a Northern party in that neighborhood Kelly was opposed to him. I recommend the discharge of this man inasmuch as no specific charge is preferred against him and there is no evidence that any competent military authority has adjudged his removal from our military lines. The testimony before me shows him to be a faithful Southern man.

Robert Allen.—Sent on in the same manner with Kelly. Prisoner says he was born in Prince William County. Lives at Occoquan Mills. Says he does not know the cause of his arrest. Has not been in Washington or across the Potomac for twelve months. Has not been four miles from home since the war began. Never has been inside of the enemy's lines. Never saw a Yankee soldier since he came to Richmond. Never, that he knew, saw anyone from the inside of the enemy's lines after communication was prohibited. His sympathies are with the South. Voted for the President of the Confederate States and member of Confederate Congress. Colonel Brawner proves prisoner is a man of good character. Has never heard his fidelity to the South questioned. Prisoner lives in a village in which many Republicans lived and this has affected the reputation of all its inhabitants, but he says the impression of the neighborhood is the prisoner is faithful to the South. The prisoner did not act with the Republican party. Mr. Lynn proves the prisoner is a man of good character and faithful to the South. I recommend the discharge of Allen for the same reasons I recommended Kelly. Both these men should take the oath of allegiance.

Matthew Milstead.—Sent with the two persons above named. This man is in the hospital, extremely sick, and his examination was consequently very imperfect. He represented himself to be a secessionist and firmly friendly to our cause. Colonel Brawner proves he was a man of good character, friendly to the South, and who voted for the President of the Confederate States and member of the Confederate Congress. This man is in such feeble health that his longer confinement will endanger his life. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

* Not found.

William Weston.—Sent with the three above-named men. Says he was born in Fairfax County, Va. Is twenty-seven years old. In June last went to Washington as a hand on board the Lady of the Lake, a boat owned either by Samuel Dentz or Silas Dentz. Silas Dentz, son of Samuel Dentz, was captain. The boat was loaded with wood, twenty-six or twenty-seven cords, a full load. The prisoner says the boat was loaded at Accotink Mills. He was there and went up to see his sister who was married to James Water, of Washington, intending to bring her back. Dentz said it was the last trip he would make. Prisoner says he was taken sick and remained in Washington two months. He then left in company with F. Magruder. Magruder bought a skiff in which he and Magruder escaped from Washington. In nine days after his return he was arrested. Daniel Regan was a hand on board the boat. Prisoner says he had mustered in Pohick Church in May with some of the home guards, Burk commanding. In this case the trip of the prisoner to Washington in the latter part of June and his remaining there for two months properly subjected him to suspicion and I cannot at present recommend his discharge. But the subsequent examination of F. Magruder satisfies me Weston was sick, and anxious to escape from Washington and I therefore recommend his discharge.

Joseph Plaskett.—Born in England. Lived in Fairfax nearly eight years. Has remained closely at home since the war began. Has only once in ten weeks been to mill. Says he is friendly to the Southern cause. Gave one valuable horse to a Fairfax company of cavalry; another impressed for the Southern army. Has had no communication of any kind with the enemy. Mr. Huntt and Mr. Thomas proved him to be a man of good character. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

Elias Beach.—Says he was born in Fairfax. Lives two miles and a half from Occoquan within our lines. Passed our lines once to go to mill at Accotink. Has had no communication with the enemy. Has not been to Alexandria since the middle of June, when he went to bring from Alexandria the cousin of his wife, Alfred Beach. Alfred Beach was a soldier in the Confederate service. Messrs. Huntt and Thomas proved him to be a man of good character. I recommend his discharge.

Fielding Magruder.—Prisoner says he was born in Charles County, Md. Removed to the city of Washington in the year 1830. Was engaged there in keeping a wood and lumber yard. Twelve years ago he purchased land in Virginia on Occoquan Bay. Three years ago he started a steam saw-mill on this land and fixed his own residence there, going up to Washington every three or four weeks on Saturday night and returning on Monday. His wife and his son reside in Washington. His son keeps a wood yard there. Prisoner considers himself now a citizen of Virginia. His place was within the Federal lines when he was taken. Says he went to Washington a day or two after Alexandria was taken. The Federal provost-marshal gave him a general pass to go up and return at pleasure. Went up to Washington once or twice after Alexandria was taken and before his last trip. Prisoner says he was taken sick at his residence at Occoquan and called in Doctor Whitehead. The doctor remained with him several days and advised him to go to Washington where he could have the attention of his wife and be better nursed. He went to Washington, where he was sick three weeks, and after his recovery remained some weeks. He says he found the state of things in Washington so much worse and distasteful to him than it had formerly been that he did not apply for a passport, but determined to make his escape. He applied to several longboatmen to bring him down, but they told him they had been required to give bond and security in $500 not to touch on the Virginia shore and would not take him. He met William Weston (mentioned above), who had been sick in Washington, who agreed to escape with him. He purchased a skiff and in the night went down the river on the Maryland side until after they passed Alexandria, when they went over to the Virginia side. On the Monday after his return he went to the picket at Mrs. Wiley's and reported himself and was permitted to return home. Subsequently he was arrested with others, taken to Dumfries where he lay several weeks in jail and thence was sent here. Is a slave-owner. I knew Mr. Magruder in Washington before he started his steam mill in Virginia. His general character for veracity was good. He was considered an honest man. I was satisfied from his general character and from conversation with him he was a Southern man in his political feelings and opinions. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance. (NOTE: On the statement he makes of Weston's sickness and desire to escape from Washington I recommend the discharge of Weston.)

Clinton Buskirk.—Born in Pennsylvania, at Johnstown; has lived in Pennsylvania and Ohio and Logan County, Va., until the spring of 1859, when he removed to Piketon, Ky. Was arrested by Colonel Williams. Says two of his brothers are in Floyd's brigade. On his examination was confused, and I had great difficulty in extracting anything from him. Refused to take the oath of allegiance. General Johnson, of Kentucky, knows nothing of him. Mr. Wilton knows nothing of him except that he has heard he has two brothers in Floyd's brigade. Mr. McDonald, delegate from Logan, proves while in Logan he bore a good character and has one brother in Floyd's brigade. I cannot recommend his discharge, but think he ought to be held as a prisoner to be exchanged for some of our men taken in Kentucky.

William Ferguson.—Born in Montgomery County, Ky.; arrested by Colonel Williams' command while attempting to serve process issued by Apperson, commissioner of the United States, for two witnesses in Magoffin County, Ky., summoned to testify in the cases of two men arrested as friends of the South. Says he sustains the present Government of the United States although he detests Lincoln; sustains the old government of Kentucky. Will not take the oath of allegiance to the Confederate States, but will take an oath to be neutral, and that he will not take part in the war or give any information to the enemy. General Johnston proves him to be a man of good character, who will stand by his oath. I cannot recommend his discharge, but think he should be held to be exchanged for our friends arrested in Kentucky.

Andrew Tennison.—Says he was born in Fairfax; believes he was arrested from a malicious charge preferred by Henry Sartain. Says when the Federal troops were going to Bull Run they took him and Joseph Lyles prisoners, destroyed his garden, and used his parlor as an office. Afterwards, when the confinement of his wife was approaching, she begged him to go to the store and get her some rice and other articles. On his way met Horace Edsall guiding a party of Federal soldiers under command of Colonel Taylor. Edsall said prisoner was a good secessionist and could guide part of them and he would go with the others. Colonel Taylor with part of the men told him to go to the brick house. He tried to beg off, saying if Sartain saw him he would be sure to report him. Taylor then drew his pistol and threatened to shoot him if he did not guide them. He submitted and went with them to the brick house. They brought him back to the railroad and discharged him. Sartain saw him on the way and told General Stuart prisoner was guiding the enemy. Says he is a Southern man in his feelings and went with Virginia. Refers to Capt. Murray Mason, of the Navy, as a man who knew he was a Southern man. Says he is a Southern Methodist and never agreed with the Northern men. Mr. Huntt gives him a good character. I think this case cannot properly be investigated here. If evidence exists to fix improper intercourse with the enemy on the prisoner it must be found at Manassas. No specific charge is made against him. If the prisoner is to be judged on his own statement then all that statement must be taken and on his statement his guidance of the enemy was compulsory. I advise he be returned to Manassas with direction if there be other proof against him to have it taken and the facts on which he is detained ascertained. If there be no specific charge against him of criminal connection with the enemy he ought to be discharged on the ground that his long imprisonment is a sufficient punishment for a venial offense. If there be criminal conduct which amounts to an offense against military law he ought to be turned over to a military tribunal for trial. If the offense be against the civil laws he ought to be turned over to the civil tribunals for trial. I would suggest that in every case in which a prisoner is hereafter sent to headquarters at Richmond a statement of the facts and names of the witnesses be sent with him.

Wilson Arthur.—Born in Randolph; moved in 1819 to the place he now lives in Webster County. Says he does not know for what he was arrested; supposes it was because he had been against secession, but he says when the State went out he went with it. Has never had anything to do with the Yankees or their friends in Virginia. Says he never fought the Yankees because they did not come to his neighborhood. He is too old to go after them, but he lent his gun twice to young men to go after them. He is fifty-five years old. Mr. McLaughlin proves him to be a man of good character. Says he was arrested because of malicious charges preferred by a man he sued for killing a dog. Some persons doubted his fidelity. Mr. McLaughlin did not. Mr. Alderson gives him a good character. Says he voted for a secessionist to represent him. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

John O'Brien.—An old man; says he was born in Harrison County; moved to the head of the Little Kanawha, thence to the Sandy Fork of Elk, thence to Webster. The old man has spent his life in the woods hunting and seems to be very ignorant of what is going on in the settlements. Has a great respect for the old Commonwealth of Virginia and great contempt and hatred for the attempted government at Wheeling. Does not seem to know much of the difference between the United States and Confederate States, but is willing to take the oath of allegiance to the old State of Virginia and any government she belongs to. Mr. McLaughlin proves he is a man of good character ignorant of all things going on in the settlements. He lives remote from settlements in the woods, and makes his living by hunting and digging ginseng. Mr. Robinson, prosecuting attorney of Nicholas, proves his general character is good. Has a son in Swann's company, Tompkins' regiment, Wise Legion. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

Miles O'Brien.—Son of John O'Brien; does not know for what he is arrested; has had nothing to do with the Union men or Yankees except to go with some of his neighbors to Sutton to fight them when he heard they were coming here, but they did not come; lives with his father; does not know much of what is going on in the settlements; stands for the old government of Virginia; is a cooper and farmer; hunts and digs ginseng. Is willing to take the oath of allegiance.

Sampson Stover.—Born in Franklin; moved to Lawrence County, Ky., where he was separated from his wife; moved back to Raleigh, where he has lived several years. Says his children left him several years ago and went to Ohio. Has heard nothing from them. Says he has had nothing to do with the Yankees or Union men. Is willing to take the oath of allegiance. I have no evidence about this man, and from his examination I can find no cause for detaining him. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

J. Wills.—Aged thirty; born in Grayson; went to Raleigh twelve years ago and bought land there. Does not [know] for what he was arrested. Thinks it was from a malicious charge of Jasper Cole that he was a Union man. Says he is a Southern man. Is a Methodist. When the church divided he went with the Southern Methodists. Has never had anything to do with the Yankees since. Voted against secession, but when the State went out he went with it. Willing to take the oath of allegiance. I have no evidence about this man. His examination shows no cause for detaining him. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

William Deekins.—Of Raleigh; says he is a Southern man in his feelings and action. Had nothing to do with the Yankees or Union men. Saw some of the Yankees passing to Raleigh. Had no communication with them. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

Isaac Scarborough.—Fifty-one years old; says he was born in Monroe; moved to Fayette, near Raleigh; when arrested was within two miles of home going with a load of beeswax and ginseng down toward Kanawha to sell. Does not know to whom he expected to sell it. Had heard a man named Levens bought ginseng. Heard he kept a store; cannot say who told him so. Thinks Mr. Guss' people told him so. Denies he had any connection with the Northern or Union men. Arrested by the Caskie Rangers. They took his horse; told him they had orders to take back all the ——. Said there was no charge against him. Says he voted against the ordinance of secession, but supports the South. Gave Caskie Rangers a horse worth $100 and fine beef-cattle. His arrest was just before the Northern men went to Raleigh. Willing to take the oath of allegiance. I have no evidence about this man except his own examination. His conduct in starting to Kanawha just before the Yankees went to Raleigh is very suspicious, and justifies his arrest. But it amounts to no more than suspicion, and after his long imprisonment I think he may be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance.

Isaac Bays.—Says he was born in Fayette; moved to Boone, and moved back to Fayette last spring. Does not know for what he was arrested; was told all the men from that end of the county were to be moved. Says he had nothing to do with the Northern men or the Union men. Says he always held to the Southern side. Says he agreed to take care of the family and property of his brother-in-law if he would volunteer, which he did. Has now the family and property of his brother-in-law under his charge. Wanted to vote for secession, but his vote was counted out because since his return from Boone he had not lived long enough in Fayette to enable him to vote. I have no evidence about this man except his own. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

Isaac Williams.—Says he was born in Giles, near Fayette. Lives in Fayette; arrested because it was reported he was a Union man. Says he voted against secession, but did not know then the Union was broken; has no learning. As soon as he heard the Union was broken he stuck to the South. Has not seen the Northern army. Was opposed to the formation of a home guard. I have no evidence about this man other than his own examination, and if that be true he ought to be discharged. I therefore recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

Stewart Armstrong.—Born in Greenbrier; moved to Fayette. Does not know for what he is arrested. Voted against secession, but when the State went out felt bound to sustain it. Opposed to the formation of a home guard. Had nothing to do with Northern army or Union men. Prisoner was proved by Mr. Alderson to be a man of good character. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

John Honaker.—A youth. Born in Fayette. Says he was always a secessionist. His father voted for secession. His father and mother were from home when he was arrested. Says his horse was taken. He went to get him and was arrested. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

William A. Kelley.—Says he was born in Giles County, Va. Lives on Lyle Creek, in Fayette County, near Cotton Hill. Says when he was arrested he had been to Anderson Wilson's to look for a young steer. Was told he was arrested because the army wanted neither friend nor foe to pass. Says he is a secessionist but did not vote. Let the secession party have some oats and grain. Has several times seen the Yankee army at Fall's Mills (Fall's Mills are opposite the mouth of Gauley, on New River). Says he went to Fall's Mills because all the other mills were dry. Had no communication with the Yankees. Colonel Coleman proved the prisoner was a man of bad character, both for veracity and integrity. He further proved the streams were unusually high in that vicinity this summer, so high that the mills were washed away. Prisoner then said he went to Fall's Mills because the mills were washed away. The examination of the prisoner created the impression on my mind that he was a spy for the enemy, and that such a man remaining in the vicinity of the enemy would be dangerous. I think he ought not to be discharged.

William Workman.—Aged forty; born in Boone and now lives there. Says no great division in his county on the Union and secession question until recently. Some men in his neighborhood made a stir, six or seven gathered together, filled a part of the road; never heard of a fortification until he was brought out; saw it then about two miles from where the road was obstructed. He says he has not been to Kanawha; has been to Peytona. Says after Boone Court-House was burned Mrs. Smoot wished him to get her husband released from confinement as a prisoner taken by the Federals at Boone Court-House. Says he went to Peytona, where he saw a captain of the Federal army, who went to Charleston and informed him on his return Smoot would be exchanged. Says afterward he heard Smoot and Miller, who was taken with him, had got back and he left home to see if he could do anything for them. He went over to Coal and turned up a small creek to get his breakfast. After breakfast he saw two companies of the Federal troops passing down the road and the cavalry was immediately behind them. He galloped on and saw Augustus Pach, who had been taken prisoner by them with his cattle. Some salutations passed and he told Pach the cavalry would be on him in a minute. He galloped on and went to Peytona. He says the Federals did not go to Peytona. Declares he does not know what became of the troops engaged in the battles. Says he saw some at Peytona who might have been there. Says the Federal troops he passed when Pach was released were all strangers to him. Says he returned from Peytona home Friday morning and was arrested on Sunday morning at home. States there were men passing through the neighborhood not belonging to either army who would press horses in the name of the army and take them for their own use. To put down these thieves and protect their property he says a company was formed in the neighborhood to which he belonged. Says his brothers, Floyd Cook, four Gunnoes, William Walker and others belonged to it. This man's examination impressed me with the belief he was a very cautious and cunning man; but his account of himself was very confused and unsatisfactory. I examined Mr. McDonald, who states he has no personal knowledge of Workman's conduct since the secession question arose, but says immediately after General Wise withdrew from the Kanawha River it was generally believed Workman had gone to Kanawha and opened communications with the Federalists. The neighborhood was an unsound one. A company was formed there that placed obstructions in the road, fortified themselves on the head of Coal River and threatened to burn the town of Oceana. They took prisoners two of the militia scouts sent out to ascertain the state of things; took them inside of their breast-works and swore them. The scouts were Morris Cook and Henry Clay. One of these scouts professed to be a Union man and learned they expected the arrival of a regiment of Union men and that Workman had gone after them. I think this man ought not to be discharged, but if on further inquiry the evidence of Pach and the scouts can be obtained he should be brought to trial in the C. S. court at Wythe, or in county of Wyoming, Va.

Floyd Cook.—Born in Giles County, now Boone, near where he now lives; living near William Workman. Says a company was organized to protect their property from horse-thieves. Was arrested one mile and a half from home. Had gone to Amos Workman's to persuade the men assembled there to disperse. Saw some men there; saw John Gunnoe (not the one in prison), B. F. Perry and some men from Raleigh he did not know. Saw another Perry and Micajah White. These men had assembled because they were informed a horse-stealing party would be in their neighborhood in a few days. This party had Morris Cook and Clay in custody as prisoners. Does not know what party left Amos Workman's and was arrested on the road home. William Workman was arrested immediately afterward. The party then proceeded to Amos Workman's. He does not recollect who he saw there at that time except his son who had just gone in from the mountains. Says the Gerald boys were arrested soon after he was. They had been out hunting cattle. Says he saw where some trees had been cut across the road and he saw some brush thrown up on the side of the mountain which was called a fortification. He did not go near enough to see if there were any logs and stones in it. Says he was a member of the company organized in the neighborhood to keep off the horse-thieves. Says his son, William Workman, Amos, James and Lawson Workman were members; also M. G. White and his two sons; the Gunnoes, W. Walker, B. F. Perry and Benj. Workman; does not remember the others. Had nothing to do with the Southern or Northern army or the Union men. Is willing to take the oath of allegiance. Mr. McDonald knows nothing of his own knowledge of Floyd Cook's course since the act of secession, but says it was understood in the neighborhood Cook was a member of the company which obstructed the road, fortified it, threatened Wyoming with invasion. Says Morris Cook and Henry Clay, the militia scouts who were arrested and disarmed by this party, say Floyd Cook was the principal actor and that it was done within the breast-works. I think this man ought not to be released. His examination compared with Workman's satisfies me he was a member of a most dangerous and treasonable organization. They were attempting to take possession of mountain passes at the head of Coal River on the most direct route from Kanawha to East Tennessee. If this organization is not broken up it may give the Federal army most important aid in any movement toward Tennessee. I think inquiry ought to be made if testimony of the facts stated by McDonald can be procured, and if it can be procured the man ought to be put on his trial.

Parris Gerrold.—Says he was with three others, his cousins, hunting some cattle when he was arrested by Pate's company. He was stated by Workman and Floyd Cook to be a member of that company and was arrested when the party at the fortifications was taken, and was probably one of the persons taken in the fortifications and was armed. I recommend he should be held as a prisoner of war.

Samuel Dentz.—Born in Fairfax County, Va. Prisoner says when he was arrested he was told it was for furnishing the enemy with wood. Denies he did so. Says he is a farmer and sold wood to the long-boatmen. Says he did not own a boat, and did not sell wood after the boats ceased to run to Washington when the governor's proclamation issued. Says he did not hold communication with the enemy in any way. Says he is thoroughly Southern; voted for and supported the secession movement. Says his son, Silas Dentz, twenty-nine years of age and who is independent of him, owned a boat for which he (Silas) paid about $1,500. To prevent this boat being destroyed Silas took it to Washington. Prisoner says he remonstrated with him and urged on him it was better to lose the boat, but Silas would not regard his remonstrances. Does not know what became of Silas after he went to Washington. Mr. Huntt proves prisoner to be a man of good character, a man of honesty and veracity. He owns land and slaves; has always been on the Southern side and voted for secession. Witness thinks the boat belonged to Silas Dentz and not to the prisoner. Colonel Brawner and Mr. Thomas prove the prisoner is a man of good character. Dr. Richard C. Mason (who was for some time a practicing physician in this neighborhood and has been for many years a justice of the peace) proves prisoner was a man of excellent character, a Southern man and a secessionist. He proves that in February or March last prisoner was present in a meeting held to expel from the country a man who was suspected to entertain incendiary opinions. Dentz is sent here by an order of the provost-marshal at Manassas on the 19th of November, 1861, which states he is represented as an unsafe man to go at large. Colonel Robertson, commanding the Fourth Virginia Cavalry, represents him as a notorious traitor, he having recently taken license to furnish the Federal Government with wood. The evidence satisfies me that up to the ratification of the secession ordinance by Virginia Dentz was a true Southern man, voting for sustaining the secession movement. Since then I have no evidence of his conduct except such as is afforded by his examination. On what evidence Colonel Robertson believed he had taken license to furnish the Federal Government with wood I do not know. I think it probable the offense of the son was charged on the parent. But the charge if there be evidence to support it ought to be tried in a criminal court instead of sending him here. He ought to have been sent to a justice of the peace to institute a prosecution against him. I have no evidence to justify the institution of a prosecution against him. If such evidence should exist a discharge now will be no bar to a legal prosecution. I recommend his discharge.

Forest Olden.—Born in Alexandria; lived near Colchester eighteen years; longboatman by profession. This spring made three trips to Washington in a boat belonging to Mr. Trice. Stopped running when the governor's proclamation issued. When he stopped boating worked his garden until harvest. After harvest marketed to our camp; never had any intercourse with the enemy. Says the Southern pickets ate at his house and got fodder. Says he often helped Marylanders who came over to join the Maryland regiment. Mr. Huntt and Mr. Thomas testify to his good character. Sent here with the order of the 19th of November. Colonel Robertson says must be sent to Richmond as a person whom it is not safe to have at large. No charge is made against him. A large discretion must be vested in our military officers, yet when they arrest citizens and send them to Richmond they ought to send some evidence on which they may be lawfully detained. As there is no evidence on which this man may be lawfully detained I must recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

William H. Williamson.—Citizen of Fairfax County; resides where he was born two and half miles south of Burke's Station, Orange and Alexandria Railroad, and four miles from Occoquan; place called Williamson's Cross-Roads, two and a half miles from Marshall's (vidette post) where he was taken. He came over to Marshall's to bring him some meat which he had sold him. He has not seen a Federal since the 22d of August, when he went to Alexandria after his horse which had been taken from him on the advance. He was taken prisoner by the enemy on the 16th or 17th of August and released same day. He gave them no information during his imprisonment. His wife has not been to Alexandria since its occupation nor has she been more than a mile from home in twelve months. His daughter married in Baltimore. Has not heard from her since the war began. His other children are small. His oldest son is in the C. S. army. He has one or two nephews also. His wife and three small children are now at home with no one to look after or protect them. He protests that he is true to the South and is willing to leave it to his neighbors. He was taken Wednesday, 20th instant, and brought to Colonel Robertson. I file the papers sent with this man. His examination concurs with the statement in the papers. He says he went through the pickets to deliver some beef he had sold to one Martin. Whether he ever passed them at other times does not appear. He has a son and two nephews in the army. Mr. Huntt says his character for veracity is not very good. He voted for secession. A large discretion must be vested in our commanding officers. It is necessary to the safety of the army. In this case there is a specific offense which if overlooked might result in great mischief to our forces. I am not sufficiently acquainted with the minute details of our position or with the facts alleged against this man to form an opinion on the questions: (1) Whether this man's confinement has been a sufficient punishment for his offense? (2) Whether he might now be released without endangering the safety of our operations? I would advise that the military authorities at Manassas be written to for information on these questions.

Isaac Hall.—Born in Fairfax County; lives near Occoquan; was always a Southern man; voted for secession; owns a farm and slaves. Never had any communication with the enemy. Yankees once stole one of his slaves but the boy escaped and returned home. Mr. Huntt, Mr. Thomas and Doctor Mason proved his character is good, and he has seven nephews in our army. He was sent here from Manassas with an order dated November 14, in which it is said Major Boyle will forward the five men to Richmond, noting Bayless as a dangerous character, understood to have been specially active in communicating with the enemy. The other four persons it is not considered safe to have about our lines. No specific charge is made against Hall. I am satisfied he is a Southern man of good character, and his feelings are with our cause. On what grounds he has become an object of suspicion to our officers I do not know. From the evidence before me I do not see anything charged against him which would prevent his immediate discharge on a writ of habeas corpus. While I feel a large discretion must be vested in our officers, yet that discretion must be reconciled to the rights of the citizen, and I know of no mode of doing so but to require with each prisoner sent here there should be a statement of some fact which justifies the arrest and detention, with the evidence to sustain it. In this mode each case may be reached and the proper prosecutions be instituted. In the present case the continuance of this man's confinement for anything I can see would be simply an exercise of arbitrary power on suspicion. I recommend his discharge.

Peyton Hall.—Nephew of Isaac Hall; a young man who has been trading to our camp this summer. Has a brother and several cousins in the Southern army. Has had no intercourse of any kind with the enemy; proved to be a man of good character. He is included in the same order with Isaac Hall. No specific charge made. I recommend his discharge on the same grounds I recommend Isaac Hall's. To take the oath of allegiance.

Elibeck Hall.—Nephew of Isaac Hall; this young man's character is good. His feelings and associations are with the South. Included in the same order with Isaac and Peyton Hall. For reasons given in Isaac Hall's case I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

George Bayless.—Born in Alexandria; farmer and overseer. Says he never has been inclined to the North; always a Southern man. This year he is overseer for Mrs. Lemoine. Says the scouts of the enemy often came onto the plantation of which he is overseer, but he always kept out of their way when he could. Never gave them information or aid. Believes he was arrested on the information of one Milstead, who was a tenant of Mrs. Lemoine's, and with whom Bayless had some difficulty about a field, which Mrs. Lemoine told Bayless that Milstead had not rented, but which Milstead claimed. Proved by Mr. Hunt and Mr. Thomas to bear a good character. Doctor Mason says he has known him for many years, and his character is as good as can be. Says his impression, founded on conversations with Bayless, is, he was a Southern man. Says Mrs. Lemoine is in Louisiana and all her property is in Bayless' care. The charge against Bayless is active communication with the enemy. It is not directly made. It is said he was understood to be active in communicating with the enemy. No proof is before me. If any exists, Bayless as a citizen is entitled to its production, and to have the charge tried before the proper tribunal. No evidence has been furnished me to institute proceedings in any form. A prosecution in the proper forum for this charge will not be barred by his discharge now. For want of evidence, I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

A. Abott.—Prisoner says he was born in England. His father moved when prisoner was four years old to Andover, Mass., and eight years afterward to Concord, N. H., where prisoner lived eight years. From there he went to Camden County, Ga., and engaged in the lumber business, which he has followed since. Has three partners, two in Maine, one in Nova Scotia. His lumber was shipped to the North from Charleston, but afterward sent from Satilla River, Ga. Says his last cargo was shipped the 16th of June last consigned to a New York house. He went on with it to get an advance on it. He failed to do so and after staying in New York four or five days returned to Charleston and Savannah; thence went to Camden County, in Georgia. Then he took care of his teams, placing them with Taylor; then took passage in a lumber sloop to Baltimore. Staid there three or four days and came to Virginia. He assigns the following reasons for coming to Virginia. He says a year ago last spring he purchased from one Wilson, then and now a clerk in the Treasury Department, one-fourth of 400 acres of land in Fairfax County, Va. For this he paid $2,000. He does not know whether Wilson ever made him a deed. The other three-fourths were owned by Snow, Smith and by Wilson. Snow lived on the land, but paid no rent. Money was advanced to improve the land.

Wilson called on prisoner to advance money for this purpose. When he arrived in Baltimore he met Wilson who informed him Snow was a prisoner, and offered to pay him $50 a month to go on the land and take care of it. Prisoner accepted the offer; left Baltimore, came across the Patuxent, and crossed the Potomac above Aquia Creek. There he was arrested by a part of General Holmes' command and taken to Fredericksburg, where he was imprisoned. After some days he says he was examined by General Holmes and the mayor and permitted to go to his farm in Fairfax. The day after he got to the farm Snow returned home. He says he then went to find Chester Avery on business of Lant & Harris, of Baltimore. Was arrested and taken to Manassas. Says his memorandum book and papers were taken from him at Manassas. From this man's statement and from his manner under examination I am satisfied he is a spy, and it was obvious to me that he was giving false accounts of his conduct in South Carolina and Georgia and Virginia. I think he ought to be held in custody as a spy until evidence sufficient to try him can be procured.

E. Birch.—Says he was born in Alexandria County; is twenty-seven years old; lives with his father near Falls Church. His father went regularly to Washington under a general pass until August last. Prisoner has not been to Washington since 1st of August, then he got a pass from General Sumner, who he says told him he would not give him another unless he moved within the lines. General Stuart's pickets were stationed at his father's house from the middle of August to last September, when prisoner was taken and brought away. He refuses to take the oath of allegiance but is willing to take an oath of neutrality. I think he should be retained as a prisoner of war.

George W. Cook.—Son of Floyd Cook, one of the Union company formed in Boone County, who fortified the pass at Little Coal River. He was taken when the fortifications there were taken. I suggest he be held as a prisoner of war.

J. McDonald.—Born in Hardy County, Va.; lives six miles from Moorefield, on Looney Creek; age twenty-eight. Says after State went out of the Union he wanted to go with the State, but was persuaded by leading men to join the home guard. Was advised by others not to join it. Joined the home guard at Greenland. Says he was four days with them at Shell's Gap. He received a musket and bayonet. The evening before his arrest he went home to get his supper. Returned and stood guard at Rhinehart's Mill. Was arrested next morning by the Rock-bridge Cavalry. Was arrested on Saturday, the 6th of September, he thinks. On Monday afterward the first raid was made on Petersburg. Had not heard anything since about this attack on Petersburg before he was arrested. Says the home guard had some beef-cattle, which he was informed were taken from one of the Weltons, a secessionist. The muskets issued to the company came from Wheeling. I think this man should be held as a prisoner of war.

George W. Mangold.—Born in Hardy County, Va.; is twenty-eight years of age. Says he is a secessionist and goes with Virginia and the Confederate States. Says his brother Henry joined the home guard. Prisoner says he never did. He was urged by his father-in-law and others to do so and to satisfy his father-in-law he went one day to the camp of the guard at Shell's. He found they were a rascally set, committing thefts and robberies on the citizens opposed to them, and intended to support the Northern army. He made his escape. Says he is willing to take the oath of allegiance to the Confederate States. Says he wishes to go into service in Harness' regiment. Wilhite says in his deposition: Mangold was with them eight or ten days, when he returned home dissatisfied with his captain for threatening to punish him for leaving without permission. I recommend this man be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance, and as he has expressed the wish to serve in Harness' regiment, now with General Jackson, near Winchester, I recommend he be sent there.

Noah Getz, Hardy County.—Says he voted for the Union but is willing to abide by the decision of Virginia to secede. Supports the State. Has never joined the home guard. Says he had intended to move to Ohio since he was married. He started to go there and was stopped by the home guard at Shell's Gap and turned back. Staid a day with his family at Shell's Gap. Served with the militia and fought against the Yankees at Petersburg. Says he will support the South and is willing to take the oath of allegiance. Of this man Wilhite in his deposition says: Was with them several days at Shell's Gap. Wanted to move his family to Ohio, but could not get through. Had been in a fight in Petersburg on the side of the South. Was with them at Mill Creek and has drilled with them. He seems to be an ignorant man not acquainted with the condition of the country, but I think is with the South. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

J. B. Bowman.—Says he was born in Montgomery County, N. Y. Has lived in Fairfax twelve years. Lives at Vienna Station, near Falls Church. Says his employment for the last five or six years was getting timber for the Loudoun and Hampshire Railroad. Says he goes with the South in this war. Furnished a horse to get up Ball's cavalry. Would have volunteered himself, but for a defective ankle which unfits him for military service. Says his teams have been employed for the Southern army. Is willing to take the oath of allegiance. Thinks he was arrested on an [article] printed in the Dispatch taken from some Northern newspaper, but says he does not know anything about it. No charge is sent against this man. Having no evidence I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

M. L. Kendrick.—Born in Loudoun County, Va.; lives eight miles from Leesburg in the direction of Fairfax Court-House. Arrested 3d August. Marketed to our camp at Fairfax Court-House. Was well acquainted with themen in Rogers' artillery. Had a brother in that company who had been sick with the measles. Says the soldiers requested him to bring them some whisky. He bought four gallons; sold to two men each one pint. General Stuart ordered his whisky to be seized and arrested him. Before it was seized he gave two gallons to a man named Connell. The whisky was poured out. Says he is a Southern man. Would have volunteered, but when his brother left home he was the only person to take care of an aged and infirm mother and his sisters. No charge has been sent against this man. His long confinement here is a severe punishment for his offense. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

John A. Sites.—Born in Hardy County. Says he never belonged to home guard; was solicited to join them and refused. Says he was over with them at Shell's Gap. Got there in the evening; left the next morning; was taken sick and remained within two miles for several days. Says he never was with the guard at Alleghany. Says he never belonged to the home guard. Is willing to take the oath of allegiance. Wilhite in his deposition says: John A. Sites joined their company; did the duty of a soldier; was in the first raid on Petersburg and sick at the time of the second raid. I think this man ought not to be discharged. During his examination he affected deafness. When a question was asked him it was difficult to get a direct answer and his whole manner impressed me with the belief he was studiously withholding the truth.

William Sites.—Was a member of the home guard; received a Northern musket and did duty with the company he says eight or ten days. I recommend he be held as a prisoner of war.

Polycarp Sites.—Says he never joined the home guard; never was asked to do so. Wilhite says he was at Shell's Gap once. Does not know what he was doing. Says he thinks he mustered with them once. Prisoner is very young and in bad health. Says he never joined the home guard. I recommend he be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance.

Josiah Sites.—Denies he ever joined the home guard. No proof against him or that he was ever concerned with the Northern troops. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

D. Shears.—A boy of seventeen years of age; joined the home guard; had a musket given him; stood guard at Rhinehart's Mill; was taken prisoner there. I think this boy must for the present be held as prisoner of war.

J. Keplinger.—Another youth; joined the home guard; taken prisoner at Rhinehart's Mill. Says he received his musket from Daniel Shell. I think this boy should be held as prisoner of war.

T. R. Connell.—Sixty-two years of age; miller at Rhinehart's Mill. Denies he had anything to do with the home guard. Says he saw some of them on the turnpike a mile from the mill. Next morning they brought their breakfast to his house, and his wife permitted them to eat it on the porch. Says all he heard of the guard was from May, a millwright, who was repairing the mill. Other prisoners say the mill was guarded at Connell's request, and that he permitted them to eat their breakfast on his porch. He says he has twelve children, one of them an idiot and helpless; some in the West. I cannot think this old man was candid in his examination, but as he is very infirm and sickly and offers to take the oath of allegiance I recommend his discharge on taking the oath.

William Connell.—A boy of seventeen; hardy. Taken with the home guard at Rhinehart's Mill. Says he had left his father and was in Kellar's store when he joined the home guard. Says he was persuaded by Daniel Shell. Says his father was much distressed when he heard it. Is the son of T. R. Connell. As this youth was taken with arms in his hands I suggest he be held as a prisoner of war.

L. Kurtz.—Arrested July 18. Born in Maryland; has lived for twenty-five years in Pennsylvania. Lives now in Waynesborough, ten miles from Hagerstown. Brought four officers of the U. S. Army from Waynesborough to Hagerstown. Says he then sold a load of bacon to one Hurst in Smithfield, Va., and agreed to deliver it. Went home for it and came with it to Hagerstown. Says he went from Hagerstown to Martinsburg. Accounts for going to Martinsburg by saying he had trusted some business to a lawyer in Hagerstown, who went West and left his business with one Luster. He heard Luster was in Martinsburg, and went to see him. He was not there. Then went to Smithfield to deliver his bacon and was taken. Does not know that the purchaser of the bacon lived in Smithfield, but he told him he did. Denies all connection with the U. S. Army. Owes allegiance to Pennsylvania. I suspect this man was a spy, but do not find evidence to try him. I suggest he be held as a prisoner of war.

Joshua McCumpsey.—This man went with Kurtz; was arrested with him the 18th July. Says he is a canal boatman carrying coal for the Borden Mining Company. Owes allegiance to United States. I think he ought to be held as a prisoner of war.

James R. Connell.—Born and lives in Loudoun County, Va. Has two brothers and one brother-in-law in our army in the Loudoun Artillery. Went with Kendrick in his market wagon to see his brothers. When Kendrick's whisky was condemned by General Stuart he claimed what Kendrick gave him. Was arrested and sent on here. Is a Southern man. Desired to volunteer, but was rejected because he was disabled. I think this man ought to be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance.

Thomas Cooper.—Born in Ireland; came to New York in the fall of 1853; staid there two weeks, then came to Washington. Became a citizen of the United States. Remained in Washington until July last, when he became servant to Captain Franklin, of the U. S. Army. Was taken after the battle of Manassas between Manassas and Centreville. Says he did not join U. S. Army. Disabled for military duty by an injury to his hand. Says he never has taken part in the war in any way. Wishes to go home on parole of honor. Was groom in Mr. Buchanan's stables; thinks President Davis knows him. I cannot on the information I have recommend his discharge. I think as he was the servant of an officer, and taken on the battle-field, he should be treated as a prisoner of war.

Thomas James Martin.—Born in King George or Westmoreland County, Va. Has lived at his mother's in Washington. Says he is a kind of sailor; sailed in Chesapeake Bay, and made a voyage from Baltimore to Rio Janeiro. Says this summer he has been out of employment. Came down to his brothers in King George. Started to go to Washington two or three times and was turned back by our pickets. Fourth time he was arrested. I think this man's intellect is unsettled. He is badly clad, and seems to be suffering for want of clothing. He is not a suitable person to be permitted to go at large about our lines. I recommend he be held as a prisoner until it is ascertained whether he is deranged, and then some humane disposition be made of him.

Thompson Moulding.—Born in Fairfax County, Va.; has lived in Washington since December, 1858. Boatman. Was taken in November or early in December on a wood boat at Accotink, seeking a load of wood to take to Washington. His second trip. The captain and another hand escaped. Says he could not make a living in any other way. Says he holds up for the South. He hesitates much about taking the oath of allegiance, unless he can be sent to his sister's in Fairfax. He is ignorant, and something of his reluctance may be from ignorance. He says he will be forty five the 21st February. He looks like a man of from thirty to thirty-five. As this man was taken in an illicit commerce with the enemy, and he does not clearly show an attachment to our cause, I think he should be held as a prisoner of war.

Albert Peacock.—Says he was born near Baltimore; was taken when a child to Fairfax County. Lives about three miles from Great Falls. Is a farmer; two years previous to the last worked on Danville railroad in Charlotte County, Va. Last year lived at home. On the 26th September was taken prisoner by Northern army; taken to Washington; was discharged fourth day, then took the measles. Remained a month in Washington. Said he was not sick all the time, but going about the streets. Went across the river to Virginia. Stopped at Mr. Croker's, within the Northern lines, until he got well. Started for home and was stopped by Northern pickets. Had a pass to go to the pickets, not through them. A skirmish took place. During the skirmish he passed the pickets with Mr. Croker's son, who had a pass to go through. Was arrested by our scouts before he got home. Declines taking the oath of allegiance because his property would be endangered. Says he is willing to serve with the militia. I think this man ought not to be discharged.

J. Visser or Wisser.—Born in France. Came to United States twenty-five years ago. Is a naturalized citizen of the United States; has lived in Washington fifteen years. Keeps a fancy store No. 301 Pennsylvania avenue, near old market. Says he owns an interest in a farm near Dranesville. Between 3d and 10th April last went to his farm. Overseer left him and he was compelled to remain. Has not heard from his wife nor any one in Washington since. Knows nothing of the Northern army. Has had no communication with it. Was arrested at his farm. Says he is friendly to the South, but will not take the oath of allegiance. I think he should be held as an alien enemy.

G. Pollock.—Born in Ohio. Came to Guyandotte to join a regiment which Wheeler was raising for the U. S. service. Was captured at Guyandotte by Colonel Clarkson. This man should I think be held as a prisoner of war.

S. Gosnell.—Says he was born in Maryland. Is a blacksmith. Came to Virginia twelve years ago. Worked in Petersburg and Richmond. For five years past has carried on his business in Fairfax County near Accotink. Was arrested by a party of [the] South Carolina Legion. Says he is true to the South, rather against secession, but goes with Virginia. Has had no communication with the enemy. Willing to take the oath of allegiance. Has lost the sight of one eye. Mr. Clemens testifies Gosnell worked in Richmond five or six years ago. Was a good, quiet man of good behavior, but not a good workman. Has seen him work in Baltimore. He is proved by J. Weller to be a Baltimorean, but has been absent from that place ten or twelve years. No charge was made against this man. He says if released he will go up to Manassas to get his tools and return to Richmond or some other place to work. He is willing to take the oath of allegiance. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

Abe Hamilton.—Born in Washington. For seventeen years has been a fisherman and boatman on the Potomac. Last summer was fishing in Saul Gibson's boat about Freestone Point, Chopawamsic and Evansport. The fish were taken to the Washington market. Ran one trip from Blackiston's Island to Washington in John Gibson's boat. After the fishing season was over worked in Mason's Neck. Was taken there gathering fodder. Says he is friendly to the South and opposed to the North. Could have joined the Northern army, but would not fight against the South. Wishes to have nothing to do with the war, but if he goes in the army will go into the Southern army. Says he is unwell, suffering from cold and a cough, but if permitted to go to his father's near Stafford Court-House will volunteer when he gets well. Willing to take oath of allegiance. This young man seems to be candid and has excited my sympathies. I can get no information about him except his own examination. From his examination it appears he has spent the summer in fishing for the enemy and in the vicinity of points important to us to keep the enemy from. I will if I can inquire further into his case. At present I must advise he be retained as a prisoner.

W. Randle.—Born in New York, Madison County. Married Miss Jones, a Welch woman. Moved to Wisconsin on the solicitation of E. R. Jones, his brother-in-law. Moved in the year 1859 to Loudoun County near Fairfax line and near Dranesville. Has not been from home except to go to Dranesville for a year. Has not in any way communicated with the enemy. Is ready to take the oath of allegiance. There is no charge against this man. I have no evidence about him. From his examination I think there is no reason to suspect him, except that he was born in New York and lives in Wisconsin. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

E. R. Jones.—Born in Wales. Came to New York in 1850. Married a girl of Welch and German parentage. Settled in Madison County, N. Y. Remained there three years. Did not like the people and came to Virginia in 1856. Settled in Loudoun near the Fairfax line, about two miles from Dranesville. Has kept close at home. Knew nothing of the Northern army. Had no communication with it, direct or indirect. Was arrested and taken to Dranesville. Was there three nights and two days. Was permitted to go about without a guard until several of his neighbors were arrested. Then they were sent to Fairfax, thence to Manassas, thence to Richmond. Does not know for what he was arrested. Says he took the incipient steps to become a citizen of the United States while in New York. Never took the final oaths. Says he is willing to take the oath of allegiance to the Confederate States and the State of Virginia. Says as Virginia could not get her rights she ought to have seceded, though he wished in his heart peace could have been preserved. Says he served in the militia when the Loudoun and Hampshire Railroad was destroyed and aided in taking up the rails. Says William Randle married his sister. Was an easy kind of man and persuaded him to leave Wisconsin and come to Virginia. I recommend Jones be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance.

Thomas McDonough.—Born in Philadelphia; lived in Boston seven years; returned to Philadelphia. In October, 1860, he came South. Worked in Wilmington, N. C., eight months. Left Wilmington in July last. Says he traveled on foot. Went to Raleigh; thence he came to Petersburg and Richmond; thence attempted to go to Baltimore. Was arrested and imprisoned at Frederick and was released. He then attempted to get to Baltimore and was taken at Dumfries and sent here. Says he was in search of work. Will not take the oath of allegiance. I think he should be held as a prisoner.

F. Fillmer.—Born in Germany; came to America three years since. Lived in Baltimore. Came to Alexandria 19th or 20th April. On the 23d April volunteered in the Virginia volunteers. Was regularly and honorably discharged for disability last fall. Says he went from Richmond to Fauquier to get his clothes. Was arrested and sent here. Says if discharged he will go to work in Richmond. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance, but that no transportation be furnished him.

J. M. Smith.—Says he was born in Alabama; moved when seven years old to Indiana. Came to Pocahontas, Va., to see an uncle and was arrested. After a long examination admitted his uncle was commissary in the Indiana brigade on Cheat Mountain; that he had traveled in a United States Government wagon. He was arrested within the lines of the U. S. Army. Owes his allegiance to the United States. Although I think this man was not candid in his statement as he was not in our lines I do not see how he can be treated as a spy. I recommend he be held as a prisoner of war.

Daniel Scully.—Born in Ireland; came to Canada 1842. Returned to Ireland and came to New York about 1848. Lived in New York and Canada about ten years. Four years ago was in Virginia and worked for the Loudoun and Hampshire road. Worked at Louisa Court-House. Went to Moore County, N. C., and worked for Sowers. Came to Richmond and worked near here. Last spring went back to North Carolina; then started to go back to New York and Canada. Is a wagon maker. Says he is still a British subject and not a citizen of the United States or Confederate States. Seems reluctant to go to work unless he can be better clothed than he now is. Desires to get to Canada. This man seems to be a harmless wanderer. Perhaps he had better remain in prison until something more can be learned about him.

Floyd Gerrold.—Aged twenty-one; arrested by Pate's company on the day the fortifications on Coal River near Amos Workman's were taken by Pate's company. Prisoner says that Simon Gerrold, Parris Gerrold, Jackson Gerrold, Irvine Gerrold, Harrison Wall and himself had been hunting cattle in the mountains the day before their arrest. Night came on them near Amos Workman's. They lay down in the woods and slept. In the morning they got breakfast at Amos Workman's. His party each had his hunting rifle. Says several men he did not know breakfasted at Amos Workman's. After breakfast his party started home and were arrested seven or eight miles from Workman's near Gunnoe's. Says he never was a member of the home guard. Never knew of such an organization. Says he and his companions carried their rifles because it was their habit to do so whenever they went into the mountains. Knew nothing of the fortifications. Had no intention to resist any authorities civil or military. In his examination before me William Workman stated the Gerrolts belonged to the home guard. Of the five Gerrolts, three, Simeon, Jackson and Irvine have died in prison. They are all youths related to each other and from seventeen to twenty-one years of age. I cannot help believing they were part of the force dispersed at Amos Workman's fortifications by Pate's company. But I believe they were dupes of older men engaged in this treacherous rebellion, all of whom except William Workman and Floyd Cook have escaped. I think the boys may hereafter be proper subjects of mercy; but at present, as this country is in possession of the enemy, I cannot recommend their discharge.

Harrison Wall.—Aged twenty. Another youth arrested with the Gerrolts. His case is similar to Floyd Gerrold and the remarks made on that case apply to this case.

Samuel Clothier.—Born in Winchester, Va., and lived in that vicinity till he was twenty-one. Went to Lewis County, Va. Was taken at foot of Powell's Mountain, in Nicholas County. Says he went from home to the post-office. While from home a company of Northern troops on the way to Cross-Lanes impressed his wagon and team and his son as driver. Says his son was in bad health, and he could not procure his release except by taking his place. He was promised his release at Sutton. Was taken on to Cross-Lanes and Gauley. There he was discharged on the urgent solicitation of friends from his county, whose teams had also been impressed. On his return a party of scouts from Meadow Bluff arrested him. His team was confiscated and he was sent here as a prisoner. Says he had always been a Democrat, but voted against secession. Never had had anything to do with the Wheeling government. Voted for Jackson Arnold to come to the legislature in Richmond. Arnold was not elected, but went to Wheeling. He is willing to take the oath of allegiance, and as far as he can support the South. Belongs to the old Methodist Church. Did not see cause to quit it when it split. James Bennett, surveyor of Lewis County, former member of the legislature, testifies: Clothier has always been a man of good character for veracity. Had the character of a Union man. His sons, who were of age, were acting as guides and pilots for the Northern troops. Has no doubt if Mr. Clothier takes the oath of allegiance he will firmly adhere to it. He thinks in the present condition of that county Mr. Clothier's discharge on taking the oath will be beneficial. His connection is large and divided. He thinks Mr. Clothier if discharged will procure the release of several secessionists who are prisoners. Has known Clothier thirty years. Mr. J. M. Bennett, auditor of Virginia, has known Clothier near twenty-five years. Says he is a man of truth and honor. If he takes the oath of allegiance will adhere to it. Says he thinks his release will have a good effect. Concurs in the reasons assigned by James Bennett. Mr. Brannon, State senator, has known Clothier twenty years. Says as a man he stood high in society. Is a man of truth. Says when our difficulties occurred he was considered from his associates identified with the Union party. Says Clothier belongs to a church which has created most of the difficulties in that county. Mr. Brannon concurs with Messrs. Bennett in the opinion that Clothier's release now will be beneficial. Rev. Mr. Crooks, a Southern Methodist preacher, who was two years ago preaching in Lewis County, concurs in the opinions of Clothier's character expressed by the other witnesses. He and Clothier belonged to different churches. Has been absent from Lewis County two years, and can express no opinion on the effect of his release. Believes if he takes the oath of allegiance he will firmly adhere to it. In this case the circumstances under which Clothier was arrested make him clearly liable to be held as a prisoner. The question of his release is therefore one of mercy and policy. Of this question I am not able to judge from information before me; but as the three gentlemen who recommend his release are all leading men in this region, men of character, intelligence, influence and actively identified with our cause in that county, in deference to their judgment and as a matter of mercy and good policy I recommend his release on taking the oath of allegiance.

Simeon Nelker.—Born in Kalisch, Russian Poland. Educated in part in Kalisch; completed his studies at Berlin; Jewish rabbi. In pursuance of the arrangements of his church traveled before he could assume the full functions of his order. Traveled through Great Britain and in May, 1860, came to New York; staid there two or three weeks, then went through several other cities to New Orleans; went from New Orleans to visit Solomon Franklin of Richland, Ark., who he says is his cousin. Returned to New Orleans; thence to Mobile; traveled through Alabama; went back to New Orleans; then to Saint Louis and through to Canada. Visited the cities of Canada as far as Quebec. Then back through Detroit, Chicago, Saint Louis to New Orleans; then came to Tennessee and through Lynchburg to Warrenton, Fauquier. On his return from Fauquier he was arrested on the cars and sent to Richmond. Says he wishes to go to Solomon Franklin's, in Arkansas, and remain there until the war is over or until he can return to his own country. Says his father is a man of great wealth. Says he never inquired into the condition of our armies, or gave any information, directly or indirectly, to the enemy. I inclose with this examination Provost-Marshal Boyle's order sending him here. Jacob Peck, of Richmond, tailor, testifies: He knew the prisoner in Kalisch. They went to the same school. He is the son of a rich merchant in Kalisch, and was educated as a rabbi. Witness came to the United States several years ago, and has lived in Richmond two years. Samuel H. Rich testifies that he (witness) came to Richmond two years ago. Was to have come to the United States when Nelker left Kalisch but could not get off. Says he knew Nelker. He was educated as a rabbi and traveled according to the regulations of the church before he was fully inducted into his position. Col. Robert Johnson, member of Congress from Arkansas, informs me Solomon Franklin is a firm friend of the South. I recommend Nelker be discharged and be furnished when he requests it with a passport to go by Memphis and Napoleon to Richland, in Arkansas.

Leonard Noyes.—Born in Connecticut. Went at twelve years of age to New York to learn a trade. Left his master at sixteen. Lived several years in various places in Connecticut. Then went to Key West in a fishing smack. Lived there, fishing, wrecking and working at his trade. Returned to New York. Went to California in a sailing vessel. Returned in another vessel by way of Sandwich Islands. Afterward went to Key West, where he remained as a fisherman, wrecker, &c. Was taken prisoner in a Northern fishing vessel by one of our privateers. Says he owes his allegiance to the United States. I suggest this man be held as a prisoner of war.

Hamilton Smith.—Born in Ohio. Says he came to Guyandotte to bake for a man who had the contract to bake for the regiment Whaley was raising for the United States. Was taken prisoner by Jenkins' men before he commenced baking or concluded a contract to do so. Says he owes his allegiance to Ohio and the United States. I suggest he be held prisoner as an alien enemy.

Thomas Wauldron.—Born in Ireland; came to Philadelphia in 1851. Has lived in Philadelphia and New Jersey, and a short time in Maryland. Came to Prince William to live with Mr. Cutts. Was arrested at Mr. Cutts'. Says he is a naturalized citizen of the United States and cannot take the oath of allegiance. I suggest he be held as a prisoner.

Sanford Thomas.—Born in Breckinridge County, Ky. When twelve years old removed to Cass County, Ind. Has for twelve years roved about the country. Lived the last three years in Brown County, Ohio. Was promised the appointment of sutler to Whaley's regiment. Went to Guyandotte to make his arrangements; was taken prisoner before the regiment was raised. I suggest he be held as a prisoner of war.

G. Thornton, alias Thornton Gunnoe—This man was examined before me on the 7th of January and then stated: He was born in Morgan County, Va.; was raised in Morgan. Lives on Sir John's Run; shoemaker by trade, but sickly and unable to follow his trade. Has worked for several years for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad repairing track, &c.; quit work when the bridges were destroyed. After he quit work on railroad went to Berkeley County to work in the harvest field for Pitzer and for Sybert. Says he never had anything to do with the Northern men or their friends. Says he went to see his sister-in-law in Frederick, Md., and in so doing passed through the Northern army at Williamsport. Says he was recommended by Richard Gregory, of Hancock, to Mr. Kennedy who gave him a written pass. The men who arrested him destroyed Gregory's letter. On his return came through Middleton, cut off from Hagerstown and Williamsport, and crossed the river way below; does not remember where. Came up through Hancock and around home. His brother, one of the company raised by General Carson's orders, was shot by Rector, a Union man. Says he voted for Michael to go to the legislature and Kennedy to go to Congress. On the 10th (to-day) he was called up again for examination in the presence of Mr. Sherrard, the delegate from Morgan. He had previously passed in prison by the name of G. Thornton. Mr. Sherrard recognized him as Thornton Gunnoe, of Morgan County. Prisoner said he had told the clerk of the prison several times his name was Gunnoe. He said he forgot when examined to tell me so. Gave the same account of his birth and residence he gave on his first examination. Said his brother was killed by Cornelius Spriggs and Henry Rector. Says he got over the river by a pass procured by Gregory. Says Shanks was with him when he was arrested, but Shanks made his escape. Denied he belonged to Dykes' Union company. Had not seen Dykes for four days before his arrest. Says he ran when he was arrested, but did so because he was scared. Admits he was one of the party guarding Capon bridge to prevent it being burned by a parcel of rowdies; but says John B. Stuart, the superintendent, ordered them not to resist if the Confederate troops came to burn it. Mr. Sherrard says Gunnoe is an ignorant man led by the employés of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and others. Says he is a thorough Union man. Says Gunnoe's brother who was killed by Spriggs and Rector was a Union man and was supposed to be killed by mistake, the design being to kill Hunter, a secessionist. Says Gregory who procured the pass for Gunnoe to go to Maryland is now provost marshal of the United States at Hancock. Says Gunnoe was regarded as a harmless, inoffensive man before these difficulties, and his chief fault is his devotion to the Stars and Stripes and being the dupe of the mischievous men who have brought the enemy into that country. I think this man ought not to be released.

E. E. Hughes.—Born in Rockbridge County, Va.; learned the carpenter's trade; lived two years in the South; visited his mother and removed to Iowa in 1850. Owns a farm which with the stock is worth $7,000; deeded it to his mother. Having heard the people in Virginia were in great want he came to Virginia to take care of his mother. Crossed the Ohio into Cabell County. Got directions from Southern men how to get through the country. Started to go through but was arrested in Logan County. Says he is unwilling to take the oath of allegiance because he might lose his property. This man is candid and honest. If he had taken the oath I would have recommended his release. I must advise he be held as an alien enemy prisoner.

U. Rodman.—Born in Rhode Island; came to Virginia in May last. His examination corresponds closely with a letter herewith inclosed.* He refuses to take the oath of allegiance. I think this man liable to be held as a prisoner and I do not see how mercy can be extended to him. But in consideration of his good conduct I should be pleased to see him exchanged as soon as the enemy will exchange.

Caleb N. Stevenson.—Born in Cabell County, Va., now Wayne; lives six miles and a half from Guyandotte. Was arrested by Capt. Vincent Witcher's company; for what he does not know. Voted for the Union because he was told it would keep war out of Virginia, but when Virginia went out of the Union he went with her. Had nothing to do with the Northern army or their friends. Staid close at home to keep out of their way. Ready to take the oath of allegiance. Mr. Laidly, delegate from Cabell, says prisoner is an ignorant, obscure man, but honest, and has kept himself very quiet in the disturbances in that county. Says Captain Witcher's company is one of independent scouts and are supposed to be indiscriminate in their arrests. I recommend this man be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance.

William A. Dolby.—Eighteen years old; born in Hardy County; lives on Patterson's Creek. Says his father is a Union man. He is a secessionist. A man named Michael, his cousin, was killed by the militia of Hardy. His father was much enraged and compelled him to join the Union guard under D. Shell. Says his father threatened to turn him away from home if he did not join. He is crippled in his left hip and shoulder, and feared he could not make a living. He joined the guard and had a musket given him. The article signed by him only bound him to defend property from marauders not belonging to either army. Would not have joined the guard if he had been required to make war on the South. He is just out of the hospital and has a bad cough. I believe this young man's story, but as he was taken with arms in his hands he is properly a prisoner of war. I would recommend him to further mercy if I saw how it could be properly extended. For the present I must advise he be held as a prisoner.

* See p. 1383 for Rodman's statement.

Oliver Jarrett.—Lives on Cabin Creek, Kanawha County, six miles above its mouth. Voted against secession, but when State seceded went with it. Has never had anything to do with Northern troops. Once saw a party passing down the creek, but he kept out of their way. Has been from home once to buy groceries. Went to Malden; saw no Northern troops there. Willing to take the oath of allegiance. I recommend this man be discharged on taking the oath.

Seth Jarrett.—Brother of the above; makes the same statement with his brother, except he says when Wise's Legion was on the Kanawha he worked to fix guns and swords for Slusher Brady, Augustus Manser and other persons who were going to join the Southern army. Will take the oath of allegiance. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath. Note that these men were in the hospital when the other Paint and Cabin Creek men were examined, and the general remarks I made as to those men apply to the two now under consideration, viz, I think all these men were removed as a measure of precaution when our army was on the Kanawha.

James M. Cornan.—Born in Greenbrier County; removed to Nicholas County; is a farmer. Says he did not vote on the question of secession. Was a Union man until Virginia seceded; now he is for the Confederacy. Says he was arrested at home. When the enemy took possession of the county they camped near his house. He says they came to his house in search of corn. He could not resist them and permitted them to take what they wanted, and they told him if he would go to their camp they would give him coffee for the corn they had taken. He went to the camp and got coffee. Says he served in the militia till he was honorably discharged by his commanding officer. He has a brother serving in the Wise Legion. He is willing to take the oath of allegiance. Mr. Alderson, senator in the State legislature, and Mr. Robinson, prosecuting attorney, both give this man a high character for integrity and veracity and say he has the character of a Southern man. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

W. L. Watson.—On prison books D. Wartrous. Was born and raised in New York. Left there early in July last. Came through Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore to Washington. Says he swam across the river between Chain Bridge and the Aqueduct. Went to our pickets. Was taken to General Bonham's camp with a view of coming to Richmond to work. Was a member of the workingmen's committee. Was opposed to the policy of Lincoln. Sustained the course of South Carolina and was compelled to flee from New York because of his political opinions. Says he was master mechanic on the Panama Railroad. Was in Cuba as a steam-boat architect and in Mexico building lighters for the Pacific steam-boats. In each of these places he was involved in political troubles and made his escape from prisons. His last employment in New York was as engine dispatcher on the New York and Erie Railroad. Says he was a voluntary contributor to the New York Daily News. Thinks it probable General Smith would know him. Says he has a plan for steam-boats which he thinks might put an end to the war. Says he left the plan in Washington with a friend with directions to send it to Richmond if he heard from him in two weeks. If not to return it to New York. Expresses an unwillingness to submit his plan to navy officers because of their prejudices. Prefers submitting it to merchants in Charleston and Savannah, but says he will submit it to naval men if relieved of suspicion and from confinement. He will not take the oath of allegiance to the Confederate States but desires to be released on his parole of honor. In this case it is clear the prisoner is an alien enemy, and as such may be rightfully held. It is not clear he is not a spy, but as General Smith's testimony may show him to be a political refugee I hope he will be written to on the subject. I cannot recommend his discharge, and for the present I recommend he be held as a prisoner.

James Kincaid.—Boy of sixteen; born in Fayette County; son of James Kincaid; lives on head of Loop Creek. Says he never had anything to do with the enemy or the home guard. Was arrested in August; has been in jail since. Willing to take the oath of allegiance. Colonel Coleman says this boy lives in a disaffected neighborhood. His father is a quiet man, and it is understood he and his family are not of the disaffected party. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

Thomas H. Duke.—Born in Shepherdstown; raised there, and worked in the mill of Alexander Boteler until July, 1860; then went to Antietam Mills, in Maryland. Staid there till Christmas, 1860; then returned to Shepherdstown and worked for two months for William Sherrard; then went back to Antietam Mills and worked off and on there until harvest; then went back to Antietam and worked until he came over to see his mother, when he was arrested. Says he got there on Thursday and was taken on Friday, and taken to Colonel Ashby's camp. This boy is strongly suspected to have guided the party that seized Capt. Alexander Boteler when he (Captain Boteler) was taken by the Massachusetts men. Duke acknowledges he came over that night and returned the next morning. He denies all connection with the affair, and says the party was led by one Kezer, a deserter. He is also suspected to have come over when he was taken as a guide to a party intending to attack Colonel Ashby's camp. He admits he was with the party, and escaped them by promising to return; but says he gave information to prevent Ashby's surprise. Says he was with the same party when they crossed the river some nights before; that he was compelled to go with them but pretended he did not know the road and they turned back. I do not like this boy's manner, and strongly suspect him to be in complicity with the enemy in these two affairs. He is near twenty-one years old. Is willing to take the oath of allegiance and is desirous to enlist. I think the best disposition that can be made of him is to permit him to enlist provided he is sent to the South.

George W. Smith.—Born in Albemarle County, Va.; lived in Augusta and Rockingham; volunteered; was sent to Harper's Ferry; was discharged by the surgeon of his regiment; went home and worked as a hand till the corn crop was laid by, and then went to hunt the soldiers; was taken up by some wagoners and brought here. This is the account this young man gives of himself. He is I think of feeble and deranged intellect. I would advise he be examined by a medical board, and if it be proper to do so, he be sent back to Augusta County.

Edward Barnes.—Says he was born and raised in Upper Canada. Left Canada a year ago last summer. Worked two weeks in New York. Came through Pennsylvania by way of Pittsburg to Virginia. Gives no account of the route he traveled. Professes great ignorance of his route. Evades every question asked. Says he worked ten months for Mr. McLaughlin, in Pocahontas, on Tygart's Valley River. Says he was arrested in Pocahontas, and afterward said he was arrested near Meadow Bluff. I believe this man is a spy, but I have no information of the time or place of his arrest or of the charges against him. My conclusion is formed from his examination. I must express a regret that officers in command send citizen prisoners here without any evidence or reports that may aid in ascertaining their true character. I would advise this man be held as a prisoner.

Joseph F. Griffin.—Says he was born in Eaton, Ohio. Was arrested at Gauley Bridge. Pretends to be stupid. I think he is acting a part. I have no return or information about him. I recommend he be held as a prisoner and further inquiry be made about him.

Armstead Magaha.—Born in Loudoun County, Va. Lives a mile and a half from Lovettsville, between that and the river. Says he carries on a blacksmith shop at Berlin, in Maryland. Has done so for five years. Rents the shop from year to year. His lease expired last Christmas. Before the bridge was burned at Berlin he crossed every day. Says after the bridge was burned he boarded in Berlin and crossed frequently until the enemy's pickets were placed on the river. Says since the 1st of July he never crossed until the night he was taken. Says he got a skiff and evaded pickets. Afterward he said on the night he was taken was permitted by the captain in command of the pickets to cross in company with Rouse, Smith and Slater. They got a skiff and crossed. They promised the captain to return that night. Says they had nothing to do with the gondola boat. Were going to their skiff when arrested. Says he had about $2,000 due him for work on the Maryland side of the river and his object in remaining there was to secure it. I submit the report of General Hill and the affidavits of S. Price and S. Crumbaker. I recommend this man to be held as a prisoner.

E. Rouse.—Lives in Lovettsville, Loudoun County, Va. Says for thirty years he has worked as a carpenter in Berlin at times. This spring did some work for C. F. Weimer, and early in July went to finish a house for him and worked until within a month past. The enemy would not permit him to return. Says on the night he returned he, Magaha, Slater and Smith were permitted to come over on promise to return that night. They got a skiff and came over and on their return were arrested. Denies they had anything to do with the gondola boat. I refer to General Hill's report and the affidavits of Price and Crumbaker filed with it. I recommend this man be held as a prisoner.

W. J. Working.—Born in Adams County, Pa. Lived there till he was twenty-one; then his father moved to Frederick County, Md. Says he lived in Hamilton, west of Leesburg. Went to Maryland some time in July. Was sick two weeks and when he desired to return could not get permission to pass the pickets. At last a corporal put him secretly over the river. Says he has forgotten the corporal's name. I file the affidavit of Elijah White and refer to General Hill's report. I think this man ought not to be discharged.

[Indorsement.]

JANUARY 16, 1862.

Acted on and James M. Cornan and James Kincaid ordered to be discharged.

R. O[ULD].

JANUARY 19.—George W. Smith ordered to be discharged.

R. O.

Miles Johnson.—Was born on Loop Creek; son of William Johnson. Was arrested at Light's Mill on Loop Creek. Had gone to get corn ground. Never had anything to do with the home guard. Never saw the paper or had anything to do with it. Did not know who were in it except from reports. Is Southern and willing to take the oath of allegiance. Went to Paint Creek to his uncle's, Jesse Jarrett, to help him in his work. Was there the first time the Caskie Rangers were in his neighborhood. Says the Southern soldiers have been at his house. He boarded the men. Sold them all his potatoes and gave them his apples. Says the Northern soldiers passed up the creek on which he lives once. Did not serve in the militia when called out because he did not get notice. Witness A. C. Bailey, captain of militia in Fayette County, says Miles Johnson is a man of good character; knows little of his position. The neighborhood is disloyal and Johnson has to keep very quiet. His father-in-law is a firm Southern man and his father is also Southern. Captain Caskie, of Caskie Rangers, by whose troops he was arrested, has heard of no act of disloyalty and thinks he might properly be discharged. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

James Morris Fayette.—Says he was born in Patrick County, Va. When he was twelve years old his father moved to Marsh Fork of Coal River. Prisoner says he now lives on Sand Lick Creek, a fork of Coal River. Says he was arrested at home by a part of Phelps' company. They stated he was a deserter from Captain Adams' company. Says he was with Adams' company awhile, perhaps a month. Mustered with them but never signed a paper or was sworn in. Says he was never regularly mustered into service. He says when Wise retreated from Kanawha his captain gave his company leave to go home, but to meet again to go to Greenbrier. Says only twenty-four met at place of rendezvous. He was sent by the captain to get fifteen of the men to return. Names eight only of them. He represents he was riding about the county hunting for these men until he was arrested. Says he was three times at Jacob Petries'. Was on Paint Creek the 15th of October; cannot tell why. Was at Brownstown purchasing goods for his family. Does not remember from whom he bought them or whether it was from an old store or one newly established. Will not tell where he was the day before his arrest. (Note.—He was arrested on the 25th of October; the 24th, the day before, was the day of the election held by the usurping government of Wheeling.) Captain Bailey says he knew the prisoner as a citizen and a soldier. As a citizen he was generally regarded as a dissipated man. As a soldier all he knows was stated by Captain Adams before a court-martial in which this man's case was heard. He was regarded as a faithful soldier until his desertion. Says the case was postponed by the court until further evidence. After the prisoner was sent to the guard room Doctor Moss, who had been requested to appear as a witness, appeared. Doctor Moss said he came to the prisoner's house immediately after his arrest and the soldiers who arrested him found an Enfield musket and a Northern uniform in his house. The prisoner was re-examined and stated the musket and uniform were left the night before in his absence by one William Workman, a cousin of the man now in prison. What they were left at his house for he does not know. I called at the adjutant-general's office but the adjutant-general and Colonel Chilton were out and I was informed there were no returns of Adams' company in the office, but the clerk made no examination. In this case I am satisfied that Morris is a deserter from Adams' [company], Floyd's brigade, and that after his desertion he was actively going about the country and among the disaffected Tories and was on the Kanawha near the enemy. He does not account for the uniform and Enfield musket found in his possession. I think he should be held and further inquiries be made to bring him to justice as a deserter who joined the enemy.

Isaac Slater.—Aged eighteen; born in Loudoun County. For the past five years lived in Lovettsville as a clerk for Stoneburner. Soon after the 19th of April says he went to Washington to stay with his father, who is a clerk with A. & T. A. Richards, brickmakers. Says his father is poor and he had been in the habit of sending him his wages, and fearing trouble he went to his father to aid him. Says he staid in Washington till 14th of August when he went to Berlin, in Maryland. Was a clerk there for Hoffman & Howell; then for C. F. Weimer, and lived with him till he was taken. Came over with three other persons to see his friends and acquaintances the night he was captured. They got permission from a Northern captain to come. Came in a skiff; knew nothing of the gondola boat. Was taken going past it to the skiff. Says he came across two or three times before. Denies any participation in taking Stoneburner's horse. Says he was in Berlin when it was taken. Says he never thought of citizenship. Was willing to take the oath of allegiance if I would advise him to do so. Says William Smith who was taken with him is his cousin. Refers for his good character to H. M. Fellers, Jacob Stoneburner and various other citizens of Loudoun. Is much subdued and anxious to be released. I file the affidavit of Cruzen. I refer to General Hill's report and deposition. I think favorably of this young man's deportment and apparent candor on his trial. If I could see how with propriety he could be discharged from prison I would suggest it; but although my sympathy for him is strong no mode of extending mercy to him occurs to me. I must suggest that he be held as a prisoner.

William Smith.—Born in Loudoun; went to Maryland 17th of June. Says he staid below Fredericktown working on the farm of his step-mother's brother. Several times came to Berlin. Crossed over 2d of August; returned 4th of August. Was not interrupted by the pickets. Crossed again when he was arrested. This is one of the men sent by General Hill. I refer to his letter and the affidavits filed with my last report, especially Crumbaker's. The impression of this man's character made on me by his examination is that he is a bold, artful, unscrupulous man who went over to the enemy when the militia were called out. I think he is able to play the part of a spy. I recommend he be held as a prisoner.

Robert Power.—Born in Loudoun County. His father lives six miles from Leesburg. For more than a year prisoner has lived at his uncle's,

Thomas Gheen, four miles from Centreville, working on his farm. Says before Christmas he went up to his aunt's, Mrs. Rose, of Loudoun, to get some money. His aunt gave him some eggs which he took to the post nearest to him to sell. He was arrested and taken to Colonel O'Neal, of the Ninth Alabama Regiment. Was told they were in search of Shelton Ambler, who had passed Indiana money on some of the soldiers. Suspected him to be a partner of Ambler's; thought he had given notice to Ambler, and suspected him to be a spy. Declares he is innocent of the charges. Says he has never had anything to do with the enemy. Says last summer he was at his brother-in-law's, Bodine, and saw the tents across the river. He was at Leesburg and saw the Yankee prisoners brought in after the battle. These are the only times he has seen Yankees. Has a brother and several brothers-in-law in the Southern army. His brother is in Mead's Loudoun Cavalry. Two of his brothers-in-law are in the Loudoun Artillery. Is willing to take the oath of allegiance. Mr. Hunt, delegate from Fairfax, says he does not know this young man, but he knows Gheen, his uncle with whom he worked the last year, is true to the South. Colonel Ball, of the senate, from Loudoun, says his brother and several of his brothers-in-law are in the Southern army. His whole connections are faithful Southern people. Does not know him. Colonel Ball handed me the petition of Power's brother for his release and the petition of officers and men of the Eighth Virginia Regiment for his release, herewith sent. This young man is modest, and I think true and honest from his examination before me. No charge has been sent on with him. I unhesitatingly recommend his release.

Charles Holland.—Born in Saratoga, N. Y.; his father is an Englishman; came to Prince William County, Va., when prisoner was a child; prisoner is now twenty-six years old; lives five miles from Occoquan. Says he was arrested under a charge of selling spirits to men in Hampton's Legion. Says he was imprisoned and afterward acquitted of that charge, and when he was about to be dismissed he was accused of disloyalty and sent on on that charge. He says he fell under bad influences about Occoquan, and under false information he voted for Lincoln and against secession. Says he has repented sorely of these votes and goes cordially and earnestly with the South. Says his brother is a volunteer in the Southern army. He (prisoner) offered to volunteer but was rejected because his leg is so injured he cannot perform military duty. Is willing to take the oath of allegiance. Says he lives within our lines and has never crossed them. Since the war began he has never been two miles from home. Capt. Aylett Nichol, of the Prince William Militia, examined as a witness, says Holland has a brother in the Southern army who stands high as a soldier. Says prisoner's general character is good; has seen him rarely since the war commenced; has heard reports unfavorable to his political character; has heard that before the war he was involved with the Underwood party. Mr. William E. Goodwin, sheriff of Prince William, says Holland has a brother in the army who is a good and faithful soldier; says he conversed with the prisoner last spring and summer and reprimanded him for his votes. Prisoner said he had been misled and was very sorry for what he had done; said he wished to go into the army with his brother but his disabled leg prevented his doing so. Witness says he has heard frequently in the prisoner's neighborhood and has kept his eye on him in consequence of his vote, and he believes Holland has staid quietly at home and has not been connected with the Northern army or with its friends. Says the prisoner is a man of good general character. Mr. Lynn, delegate from Prince William, says prisoner acted with the Underwood party up to the secession vote. After the course of Virginia was known prisoner declared he had been misled; expressed his sorrow for his course and his determination to stand by the South. He says in consequence of prisoner's votes witness watched his course. He says Holland separated from his Union associates; remained quietly at home; most of his associates ran off; he believes Holland has behaved quietly and properly since the war. All three of these gentlemen think if Holland takes the oath of allegiance he will keep it faithfully. They say he is a man of truth. There is no charge filed against Holland. His vote for Lincoln indicates a state of political feeling when it was given which subjects him to suspicion then and ever afterward, but it is not an offense for which he can be legally punished. It certainly would give an unfavorable color to any subsequent offense; but the man expresses penitence. He has been closely watched and nothing wrong observed in his conduct. Under the circumstances before me I do not see how he can be held as a prisoner without trampling on the constitutional rights of citizens. I recommend his discharge.

NOTE.—After this report was prepared I received the papers sent me herewith in an envelope. I have examined these papers and they have not materially affected my opinion. The omission of Slater's name in Stoneburner's affidavit is unfavorable to him. Magaha's statement that he had rented a shop in Berlin is confirmed, but it was to say the least a serious error in him if he was true to the South to attempt to carry on business in the enemy's lines. His crossing back and forward afforded opportunities for communication with the enemy that might seriously endanger our interests. In the affidavits submitted some revengeful expressions are proved to have been made by him. I think it probable if the enemy had arrested him in Berlin he could have made a much stronger case of fidelity to them than he has to us.

[Indorsement.]

JANUARY 19, 1862.

Acted on, and Miles Johnson, Robert Power and Charles Holland ordered to be released.

R[OBERT] O[ULD].

Samuel Reeves.—Cripple; age twenty-four; born in Prince William, at Occoquan; arrested by Prince William Cavalry. Says he was told he was arrested on suspicion of infidelity. Voted for Lincoln; expressed penitence for his vote. Voted for reference to the people of the action of the convention. Did not vote on question of secession because he found he was going wrong and wanted to separate from the persons who had deceived him. Says his father is a shoemaker, and he (prisoner) has been a cripple since he was two years old. Depends on his father for his support. Usually voted with his father, but got to drinking with Gould and other Northern men. They persuaded him Lincoln was the best man for the Presidency and would make money plenty and give him good employment. His only occupation has been on wood boats and fishing. Has not been on a wood boat for a year. Has been fishing since the difficulties commenced with Captain Gray and Marshal Davis. Did not go out of Occoquan Bay but once, and then went only three-fourths of a mile out. Caught nothing but white perch. Met no boats except boats from Occoquan. Had no communication of any kind with the enemy or persons connected with them. Had no communication with Mr. Abe Lincoln associates. Has completely separated himself from them, and goes with the South. Is willing to take the oath of allegiance. Mr. Lynn, delegate from Prince William, says he knows the father of this man well. He knew his brother well. They are all men of truth and true Southern men. He knew less of the prisoner. He has always been a cripple. He was led off by the Underwood party. They had plenty of money and prisoner was led to frolic and associate with them. He voted with them until the troubles began. He then separated from them and has since continued separate from them. He knows when that party left prisoner could have left with them, but he chose to separate himself from them. He says prisoner in consequence of his vote and association with the Underwood party has been watched, and is satisfied he has behaved with propriety since our troubles began. He says the village of Occoquan is purified from the Tories and the prisoner could not communicate with the enemy if he wished, but thinks he does not wish. He thinks this man is a man of truth and integrity. In this case there are no charges against the prisoner. There is no evidence he has committed any offense either against Virginia since secession or against the Confederate Government. He is too much crippled to be a soldier, and from Mr. Lynn's testimony cannot do injury as a spy if he were so disposed. He seems to be honest and truthful. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

[Indorsement.]

JANUARY 21, 1862.

Acted on and Samuel Reeves ordered to be discharged.

ROBT. OULD,

Assistant Secretary of War.

Robert Scott.—Born in Monongalia County, Va. Went to Maryland. Enlisted in the Regular Army of the United States. Served in the Mexican war in Company F, Third Artillery. Was discharged in California in 1849. Has lived in California until March last, then came through Texas to Fort Smith. At Fort Smith found General McCulloch's courier was sick. Carried dispatches back to Texas. From Fort Smith came to Tazewell County, Va. There for a month he drove cattle from Tazewell to Chapman's army. Hansbarger employed him from Chapman. Says he was discharged from this service at the Salt Sulphur Springs, in Monroe. Went to Lewisburg, Greenbrier County, where he was arrested and discharged. Then he went to Frankford, Greenbrier County, where he was arrested by citizens; his horse, saddle, bridle, revolver and bowie-knife taken from him and he was sent on here. General Chapman says this man was employed by Hansbarger to drive cattle from Tazewell to Monroe for General C.'s brigade. Says he was mounted on a mustang and he had a Mexican saddle. He did not suspect anything wrong. General Haymond informs me the Scott family of Monongalia are Southern in their feeling. Two Scotts were in the Regular Army in Mexico. He was not present at the examination, and did not know whether this man was one of them. Scott is willing to take the oath of allegiance. Says if his horse, saddle and bowie-knife and pistol are returned he would be willing to volunteer in a cavalry company; but he is forty-two years old, and would not be willing to serve in an artillery or infantry company. Assuming this man's statement to be true as far as it goes he is a citizen of California. Has traversed the whole extent of the Confederacy. Has not disclosed his purposes and intentions to any one. He ought therefore to be dealt with as an alien enemy passing through the country improperly. But I am not satisfied his statement is true. His account of his trip from California through Texas to Fort Smith and from Fort Smith to Tazewell is too meager to be satisfactory. I cannot avoid the suspicion he is a spy. For the present I recommend he be held as a prisoner of war.

Caleb Wriston.—Born in Fayette County. Raised on the Clear Fork of Coal River. Now lives on Johnson's Branch of Loop Creek, near its head. Says he has been at home all summer except to go to mill and to go twice to his father's on the Clear Fork of Coal. Says he moved last spring from Paint Creek and this spring has had part of his crop on the place from which he moved, four or five miles from where he now lives. Does not know who were members of the home guard except from report. Saw the Northern troops the day he was arrested. They were stationed on Loop Creek. William Johnson, prisoner's brother, John Wriston, prisoner and another neighbor came down the branch going to mill. They were stopped by the pickets and on request of William Johnson were suffered to pass. Did not hear the conversation between Johnson and the officers. Does not know what Johnson said. They went to the mill and were arrested by Caskie Rangers. He says this was the only time he ever saw the Northern troops. Another time they came up Loop Creek but he did not see them. He says when Caskie Rangers before this came up Loop Creek all the men on the creek ran off. The men on Johnson's Branch remained at home. Says when Jenkins' cavalry came up the branch he sold them his grain and gave them his apples. The Northern men afterward threatened the men on the branch with destruction because they were "secesh." Captain Caskie and Mr. Ticknor, private in the Caskie Rangers, aided me in this examination. Both of them say they know nothing against this man. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

John Wriston.—Born on Clear Fork of Coal River. Lives on Johnson's Branch of Loop Creek. Says [he] voted against the ordinance of secession but when the State went out he went with it. Says he has not been from home this summer except to go to places in the neighborhood. Had nothing to do with the home guards; knows only from report who belong to it. Says he saw the Northern troops the day he was arrested. Says he went with his brother Caleb and Mr. Johnson to mill. Does not know what Johnson said to induce the pickets to let them pass. Denies there was any concerted story. Says he went to mill because he was out of meal. He was arrested at the mill by Caskie Rangers. Says he saw the Northern troops at another time. They came up the creek. He had gone to a neighbor's to get some snap beans and saw them pass. Never gave information in any way to the enemy. Captain Caskie and Mr. Ticknor, private in Caskie Rangers, know nothing against this man. There is another John Wriston, the uncle of this man, living on Paint Creek who has been active in aiding the enemy, and another man of the name of Wriston whom it was desired to arrest. I think it probable these two men have been supposed to be the two dangerous men. I have no information which justifies holding this man a prisoner. I therefore recommend his discharge on taking oath of allegiance.

J. B. Bowman (re-examined).—After using all exertions to get newspaper article in reference to Bowman I re-examined him without it. The letter of Mr. Moore was shown him. He said on the Wednesday preceding the battle of the 21st the First and Second New Jersey Regiments were stationed at his house. On Sunday morning the colonel of the Second New Jersey Regiment impressed his team to take a surgeon to Centreville. He could not resist because he says as he said before his team had been used in the service of the Confederate Government. He says his negro driver ran off on the day the New Jersey regiment came to his house. He was told if he did not go they would find a driver for his team. He feared he would lose his team if this was done. He hitched up his Jersey wagon to go. While he was doing this the surgeon asked him to take two gentlemen along who would pay him well. He agreed to do so. They turned out to be reporters. He says on the way Mr. Moore fell in behind them on horseback and went to a relation's. Prisoner says he went to Centreville and immediately returned, getting home to dinner. He further says he told me he had gone with this party to Centreville that day. I asked him if he was willing to move his family back into the interior of the county and remain in the Confederacy. He replied he could not get his family out of the enemy's lines. Said his father-in law is an Englishman, living in New York and taking no part in this war, and able and willing to give him and his family the means of support. Says he wishes to be discharged on his parole not to aid in this war. He expresses now reluctance to take the oath of allegiance. Says the enemy have taken his property. If he takes the oath he will not be paid for it. Expresses a wish to go to New York. Says two of his neighbors are prisoners in Washington. If released on his parole he will procure the release of one of them.

Case: On this examination I must say I do not recollect his stating to me he was at Centreville the day of the battle. He did tell me the First and Second New Jersey Regiments were at his house and impressed his team for the service of the enemy. I remember he told me the negro had run off. But I do not remember his telling me this in connection with the battle at Centreville. His account of that matter now is clear and distinct, and on it I might have recommended his release on condition of removing into the interior of the State if he had manifested now the same interest in the Confederacy that he did on his former examination. But when tested with this proposition his heart appears to be with the North. I cannot with my present views recommend his discharge.

William H. Williamson (heretofore examined).—I return herewith a pencil note received from Williamson. He expresses a desire to go to work here as a shoemaker if he cannot return home. I recommend his release on condition he does not go within our lines on the Potomac without special permission of the commanding general to go there and remove his family. If it would not be improper I would suggest whenever this can be done it is the best disposition which can be made of all persons on the theater of action who may have incurred the suspicion of the commanding officers.

[Indorsement.]

JANUARY 25, 1862.

Acted on, and Caleb Wriston, John Wriston and W. H. Williamson ordered to be released.

ROBT. OULD,
Assistant Secretary of War.

James Mayner.—Says he was born in Raleigh [County], on Clear Fork of Coal River. Raised where he was born. Was arrested half a mile from home at John Stover's. Two men were with him, Sampson Stover and Creed Mayner. Creed Mayner ran and was shot. Sampson Stover was arrested with prisoner but afterward discharged. Says for the last year he lived with his brother on the Pound Fork of Sandy, in Wise County. There are no Union men there. Says he is not a Union man—is a Southern man. Never had anything to do with the home quarrel. Had not been at home two weeks when he was arrested. Heard Captain Dunbar, who lives on Coal River, was trying to get up a Union company, but he, prisoner, had nothing to do with it. Heard this from some men who had been down on Coal, but he would have nothing to do with it. Says he saw Dunbar once after he came home but had no conversation with him. Is willing to take the oath of allegiance. Heard an election for the Wheeling government was to be held on Coal River but he did not have anything to do with it. Captain Linkons of his neighborhood says this boy was away from home, he supposes in Wise County, when the Union company was formed. As there is no charge against this youth and I can find no one who makes any charge and as he seems to be fair and truthful I recommend his discharge.

Jasper Melum.—Not sixteen years old. Had on a Northern fatigue uniform. Says Captain Dunbar gave him this uniform and a gun. Says he had not volunteered or joined Dunbar's company. Says Dunbar was recruiting for the Northern army and his company had been stationed at Charleston. Says he was arrested at Jacob Harper's, on marshes of Coal River. Says part of the company had been on Coal River and he had been with them. He was taken up by two citizens. Captain Linkons testifies this boy was suspected to be one of a company Capt. William Dunbar was raising for the U. S. army on Coal River. This boy seems to be truthful and honest and well disposed, but I do not see how he can be discharged. I recommend he be held as a prisoner of war.

Otey Fellows.—Born in Patrick County, Va. Lived in Montgomery County. Married a Cassidy. Moved to Fayette. Lives on Laurel Creek. Says Kennedy Cassidy and James Cassidy, his brothers-in-law, were decidedly for the United States and against the Confederate States. Says he did not agree with them in opinion, but wanted to be neutral between the United States and Confederate States. Says a home guard under command of James Cassidy, his brother-in-law, was gotten up in his neighborhood. Was asked by Kennedy Cassidy and others to join it. Says he told them they might put his name down. Says he sent three sons to the Southern army. They were volunteers in Captain Adams' company, Wise's brigade. One was wounded at the battle of Scary[town] and died from his wounds. Of the other two he first said he did not know what had become of them. Afterward he admitted they came to his home. Said Captain Adams had permitted him to go home to rejoin his company and go to the White Sulphur Springs. Said the enemy took possession of Fayette Court-House and his sons could not join the army. It afterward appeared from the examination of the prisoner by Captain Caskie that the enemy remained only one day at Fayette Court-House and his sons had remained in the county, making prisoner's house their home, but had visited the enemy and had piloted them in their invasions of this part of the country, and on one occasion when the Yankees took a double-barreled shotgun his son James got it, and this gun was taken to his house. Capt. Robert Caskie, of Caskie Rangers, says he heard a Union company had been formed in this neighborhood. Sent a detachment composed of militia and some men from his rangers to disperse them. They were fired on near Fellows' blacksmith shop; returned the fire, took some prisoners and returned next day. He sent a detachment to arrest the men suspected to have been at the shop. The prisoner was arrested by them. Mr. Ticknor, private in Captain Caskie's rangers, says he was one of the party that arrested Fellows. They went to Fellows' house. Ticknor was born in New York. When they entered the house the females asked him who he was. He told them he was from the North. Was told prisoner was in the yard. He was found there on his way down to Lieutenant Woods' party. Witness asked prisoner if he was one of those who was firing last night. Prisoner told him he was asleep in his blacksmith shop. That he came out and had a good chance to fire with his barrels, but did not know who the parties were. If he had known it was Sam Woods and his damned rebels he would have let them have both barrels. Says Spragg Laurence was a noted Union man acting as a scout for the Northern army, and made Fellows' house his headquarters. Prisoner on this statement said he was at his shop near Cassidy mill that night. Some of James Cassidy's home guard were there. Says his two sons were there, Spragg Laurence was there, and Kennedy Cassidy and his son James Arthur and one of his sons. Ben Mallory and his son were there. Denies he had a double-barreled gun. Says when he told Ticknor if he had thought it was Woods and his damned rebels he would have fired both barrels he did not know Ticknor was a Southerner; he thought he was a Yankee. If he had thought he was a Southern man he never would have called them rebels. Says he was in a hard place. Had to make fair weather with both parties. Says he could not fight either army and had to do the best he could. Says when the firing began he was in the shop. It was so dark he could not find his gun, and got out and went home without it. I think this old man desires to hold with both sides, but the influence of his brothers-in-law, the Cassidys, made him go over to the enemy. He has joined the home guard and was found with them in arms. I recommend he be held as a prisoner of war.

Kennedy Cassidy.—Is a local preacher of the Northern Methodist Church. Says a man named Gregg was the circuit rider in 1859-60. Says he was from Pennsylvania; spent much of his time in trading in lumber at Point Pleasant and much in geologizing. Says he did not fill Gregg's appointments when he was geologizing, but says he did when he was at Point Pleasant selling lumber. (Note.—From several prisoners and citizens I learn Gregg had made minute and accurate maps of this portion of the State which are in the hands of the enemy, and this man Cassidy filled his appointments while he was doing this.) Cassidy denies he knew anything of Gregg's making maps. Denies he was a member of James Cassidy's home guards. Denies all connection with the Union troops or Northern army. He says he went to Montgomery in Kanawha County about the middle of August. Arthur, Spragg Laurence and James Cassidy were with him. Went to hear Colonel Ruffner speak. (Note.—Colonel Ruffner was an active officer of the Wheeling government.) Ruffner did not speak. They were stopped by Yankee pickets. A man they called Cop appeared. Says it is likely some of the party had some conversation with him. It is likely they had some conversation about arms left by Governor Wise when he retreated from Kanawha. They all were permitted to pass through the pickets and return. Says the night he was taken he was in James Cassidy's mill grinding corn. There was a swell in the creek and they had to take advantage of it. There had been a long drought previously. He heard some firing. Says he does not know by whom. Got a musket which was hid in the mill; started home. Heard somebody making a noise first like a whippoorwill, then like an owl. Thought it was some of the Fellows boys trying his nerves. Went to them and was taken prisoner. Captain Caskie proves he sent out this party composed of militia and some of his rangers, under command of Lieutenant Woods of the militia. The party reported they had been fired on and returned the fire and took two prisoners. Cassidy was one of the prisoners. Mr. Ticknor says he was of the party. They were fired on near the mill and blacksmith shop. Some of the party gave the signal of the tories by imitating the whip-poor-will and owl. Kennedy Cassidy came across the bridge to them and was taken. He was armed with a Virginia musket marked "Princess Anne." Cassidy, being examined, said the musket was left in the mill by James Fellows. It might be the musket he had when he left the army or one gotten from deserters after Wise's retreat, or one gotten at Gauley out of the muskets left there by General Wise. This man is obviously in part a negro. He is a man of fine natural intellect, self-possessed, artful and insensible to the obligations of an oath. I recommend he be held as a prisoner.

Tallison Stover.—Belonged to Captain Adams' company. Left it in August. Says he asked Captain Adams for a furlough. The captain refused it and he went home. Says he only volunteered to go to Charleston. He was raised in the woods; had never been so far from home and so long from home in his life. Says he wishes to go back to his company; says he staid quietly at home. I can find no evidence that this young man had any connection with the tories. He denies all connection with the Union men and the Northern men. Captain Adams' company is now I understand attached to McCausland's regiment, Floyd's brigade. It seems to me his case is more within military jurisdiction than the commissioner's. I suggest the rolls of Adams' company be examined. If he is a deserter, as I believe, that he be handed over to the military authorities.

Isaac Siers (on the book Sias).—Born in Monroe. Removed to Braxton, then to Nicholas County. Was a volunteer in Captain Chilton's company, in the regiment of Colonel Tompkins, now Colonel Jackson's. Says he was wounded in the right arm in a skirmish near Charleston. Was permitted to go home till his wound was healed. Says before his wound was healed he was arrested on suspicion and sent on here. Says he never was sworn in. Mr. Alderson, senator from this district, and Mr. Robinson, prosecuting attorney of Nicholas County, both say Siers is a man of bad character. Has been prosecuted for passing counterfeit bank notes and for other offenses. They say when he volunteered he was in jail in Nicholas on a charge of petit larceny. He is a good-natured man, but it is said he deserted from cowardice. Reference to the muster-rolls of his regiment ought to show whether he is a deserter. No political offense is charged against him. I recommend he be turned over to the military department.

[Indorsement.]

JANUARY 28, 1862.

Acted on, and James Mayner ordered to be released and Stover and Siers to be turned over to the military.

ROBT. OULD,
Assistant Secretary of War.

William Working.—Re-examined. I return the petition of citizens of Loudoun for the release of William Working with the indorsements of Captain Ball of the senate and Mr. Harrison of the house of delegates. I have re-examined my note in this case and think this man may lawfully and properly be held as a prisoner. But I know some of the signers of the petition and the two gentlemen who indorse it. They are citizens of Loudoun, well acquainted with the prisoner and the state of things in their county. On the question whether mercy should be extended to the prisoner they are better judges than I can be. General Hill's report excepts him from the class of prisoners who were sent on with him. I recommend that as an act of mercy he may be released on taking the oath of allegiance.

J. L. Grubb.—Born in Loudoun County. Lives between Lovettsville and Harper's Ferry. A Virginia constable. Says he spent the principal part of the summer at home. Has gone over to Maryland at various times to get his goods and groceries. Once in the summer he went over to testify before Captain Stedman, of the U. S. Army, on behalf of Samuel W. George and Gideon Householder, citizens of Loudoun, who were charged with riding with secession soldiers and pointing out persons to be arrested. George was accused of dining with secession soldiers at his uncle's and going with them in the evening. Prisoner proved George could not have been there. Was asked by Stedman how he voted and replied he voted against secession. Says he was once arrested in Maryland as a secessionist. Says the citizens of Virginia going to Maryland usually went in skiffs. Were arrested by the pickets; taken to headquarters and got passes. He says he got a pass when he testified in favor of George and on some other occasions. Does not remember what they were. Says passes were so difficult to be procured that he did not go even for what he needed. He says he went over in September. Several men had left Virginia on whom he had claims. He went over to collect them and to collect the debts due George Wright & Co. A. J. Everhart was trustee and made him agent. Staid among the relations of his father. Says he was taken sick; was sick for several weeks. Before he was in condition to travel dragged himself home. Says he came to the river and the picket would not let him pass. He was informed several Virginians would go over that night and if he was smart enough to manage it he could go over with them. A party of whom he names A. J. Everhart and six others went over. He went with them. Does not know by what means they got permission to go over. He went over with them; parted with them on this side of the river. Was sick with chills and fever and remained at his father's and at home until he was arrested. Says when persons were permitted to come over they promised to go back. All who came with him returned. He gave no promise but was informed a party of soldiers would be sent to take him back. Did not know any of the men who came over with him. Does not know whether they belonged to a company of Virginia refugees raised by Means. Says while he was in Maryland he was informed White and Smith Read wished some friend in Maryland to get back some runaway slaves. He went to Colonel Geary to get them back. Was not acquainted with Geary. Failed to get them. Geary said the owners must make personal application and give assurance of fidelity to the Union before they could get them back. Says he owned property in Virginia and had debts due him; some coming through Hindman. The citizens of Virginia in Maryland heard their property was to be confiscated. They were much enraged and determined if it were so they would do something desperate. All the men who came over with him partook of this feeling. In this state of feeling he heard Hindman had attached his property. Supposed it was the beginning and wrote to Hindman. Had Hindman's affidavit shown him. Says he was much excited at the time. Does not remember what he wrote, but thinks the letter will not sustain Hindman's statement. Says he stood to the Union as long as he hoped it would be saved, but now the North and South are so divided that they can never unite and he goes with the South. I refer to the report of General Hill, returned with the cases of A. Magaha, E. Rouse, William Smith and William Working, and to the affidavits of S. H. Price therewith returned. I return now the certificate of Mr. M. Harrison, delegate from Loudoun, and several affidavits sent on by General Hill, noting especially Hindman's. I think the letter of Grubb referred to by Hindman should be written for. I think Grubb should be held as a prisoner.

H. Dane.—Aged sixty-seven. Born in New Hampshire. Staid there till he was twenty-three years old. Lived in New York till he was forty-eight. Now lives in Prince William County, six and a half miles from Occoquan. Farmer; sells wood to longboatmen. Has sold none since last spring. Trades to Occoquan. Was an acquaintance and political associate of J. C. Underwood. His sentiments similar to Underwood's. Did not vote at the last election. As to allegiance he says he is inclined to the Government of the United States. Was not able to alter his mind when the State went out of the Union. Hoped to keep along and take sides with neither party. Went to look for his cows. Went up to the pickets and was arrested he believes on the information of A. D. Rowe. Mr. Lynn, delegate from Prince William, says he cannot say for this prisoner what he said for Holland and Reeves. Says prisoner was an abolitionist and of the Underwood party and has given no evidence of change of opinion. I think this man should be held as a prisoner.

Henry Stone.—Aged nineteen. Born in New York. His father died when prisoner was four years old. He has lived in Cincinnati. Says he belongs to Second Kentucky Regiment; joined it at Gauley. Was sent by General Cox to find where the militia were in Fayette. Went in citizen's dress; says he had no uniform. Spent first night at Huddleston's. Does not know whether Huddleston is a Union man. Did not disclose his objects. Went next night to McCoy's. Was arrested next day in Fayette. I cannot learn from him by whom he was arrested. He has passed in the prison as a citizen until to-day. I am satisfied this man is a spy, but as there is not now sufficient proof I can only suggest that he be held as a prisoner under suspicion of being a spy.

Spencer Lloyd.—Born near Great Falls of Potomac, on Virginia side. Raised there. Lives one mile north of Dranesville. Was not told for what he was arrested till he came to Richmond. Was then told he was arrested because he had been in the camp of the enemy. He says he never was in their camp. He says on one occasion they passed up through Dranesville Saturday evening and returned that night. Sunday morning he went out to look for his cattle. He passed through some cedars and saw where they had cut off the twigs and laid them out for beds, but they were all gone. Another time he was gathering corn one cold frosty morning near the river on some ground he had rented. A negro man in another part of the field had brought some fire in a pot and had it burning. Some Northern soldiers came into the field and asked him if he was not late getting his corn. He said he was, that he had been delayed by the frequent firing over the field. They asked him if he had heard any bullets that morning. He told them he had not. They then said they were firing at the fire, supposing it to be our pickets. They said they supposed their bullets fell short, and went away. This was the only time he had ever seen them nearer than across the river. Colonel Thomas testifies Lloyd is a man honest, industrious; stays at home and attends to his own business. Mr. Hunt testifies that Lloyd is a man of integrity and veracity. Says since the war commenced he has rarely been in that part of the country and knows nothing of Lloyd's course. Mr. Harrison says Lloyd had a suit in Fairfax in which he (Mr. Harrison) was his counsel. He saw Lloyd quite frequently and thinks him an honest, straightforward but ignorant man. Lloyd says he had no communication direct or indirect with the enemy except as above mentioned. I have seen no charges against Lloyd, and my only means of forming an opinion are from his examination and the testimony of his character. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

[Indorsement.]

FEBRUARY 10, 1862.

Acted on, and Working and Lloyd ordered to be released.

ROBT. OULD,

Assistant Secretary of War.

A. C. Staunton.—Born in Augusta County, Va., and raised there. Shoemaker by trade. When he was of age he removed to Alleghany County, where he engaged in business. His business was in Alleghany and Pocahontas Counties. Says he quit business there and returned to Augusta. Last summer he went to Alleghany and Pocahontas to collect money due him and get any jobs of work he could. From Pocahontas he went to join the Wise Legion. He says he volunteered in Captain Pollock's company, Wise's Legion. He had a pair of pistols he offered for sale soon after he got to the camp and before he was regularly mustered into service. A man who wished to purchase his pistols was examining them with him. While prisoner had one of the pistols in his hand it went off and wounded a man in another tent. He was arrested and sent on here. Says he is a Southern man. Wishes to support the Confederacy and is anxious to volunteer. Mr. William Tate, delegate from Augusta, says he has known the father and family of the prisoner for a good many years. They are very much respected in their position in life and are true to the Southern cause. Some years since Mr. Tate removed from the neighborhood in which Staunton lived to another part of the county and has not since seen much of the prisoner and heard he had gone to some [sic]. Is a respectable man and his statements may be relied on. Mr. H. W. Sheffey, delegate, and Colonel Christian, senator from Augusta, both say Staunton's family are respectable and on the Southern side. They have no particular knowledge of Staunton. If this man is here as a military prisoner there ought to be some notice of him in the War Department. He is returned to me as a citizen prisoner. If he be a citizen prisoner I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance and that he be permitted to join some company.

Nicholas King.—Claims to be a citizen of California but desires to join the Confederate service. Sent here from Manassas by an order dated November 7, herewith inclosed. I inclose with it a letter from King. King swears his statement in this letter is true. He says he was born in Fairfax County, Va., and was taken to Washington when young. Lived there till he was thirteen, then lived in Virginia till his father was appointed surveyor-general. Prisoner was then seventeen or eighteen years of age. He remained in the office of the surveyor-general as a draftsman until his father was removed, and one year with Captain Hays, his father's successor. Was then connected with surveys of public lands. In the spring of 1858 went with Captain Stone, now General Stone, of the U. S. Army, into the northern provinces of Mexico on a surveying contract. They were driven away by the Mexican authorities and came to Washington to settle their accounts and prosecute their claims for damages against Mexico. Refers to his written statement for his course since this war commenced. Says he did not see his Virginia relations until October, 1861, when he paid them a visit of a day or two. Says H. T. Pairo, broker, of Richmond, married his mother's sister. Says he never heard his father was accused of embezzling funds or being a defaulter. Says his father could not have been either, because the funds were in bank and could only be drawn on checks. Denies he ever made checks in his father's name or drew money wrongfully. Says he never heard he was suspected of doing so. Says he never went from Fairfax Court-House or did anything to cause suspicion against him. H. T. Pairo, who was summoned as a witness, testifies Nicholas King is the son of a sister of Mr. Pairo's wife, and witness has known him nearly all his (King's) life. When King was sixteen or seventeen years old his father placed him in the revenue service. King soon left it, Mr. Pairo heard, as a deserter. King's father had influence sufficient to have the matter passed over. A few years afterward King's father was appointed surveyor-general of California. The reports from there were King had forged his father's name and caused his father's defalcation, but witness does not know these reports were true. Says King came to Richmond before the battle of Manassas and staid two or three weeks. Owing to the trouble he had got his father into Mrs. Pairo, his aunt, took no notice of him, but witness saw him quite frequently while he was here. When King was in Richmond he represented he was in the employment of General Beauregard in the engineer service. King was very anxious to visit Yorktown and Norfolk. Witness did not countenance him in these efforts and thinks he did not go. From his impression of King's character witness cautioned his own sons, who were at Manassas, to have nothing to do with King unless they found he (witness) was mistaken. He thinks King a man of fine talents and address, and if so disposed he could be very useful to the Confederacy; but if his disposition were not good he could do much mischief. I think King under the law of Virginia must be regarded as a citizen of California and not of Virginia. He is therefore an alien enemy. He professes great friendship for our cause, but from his bad character, his connection with General Stene and the suspicions excited in the minds of our officers I do not think he ought to be permitted to take the oath of allegiance or be treated as a citizen. I recommend he be held as an alien enemy prisoner.

[Indorsement.]

FEBRUARY 10, 1862.

Acted on, and A. C. Staunton ordered to be released.

ROBT. OULD,
Assistant Secretary of War.

A. Bailey.—Says his name is A. Lincoln Bailey. Says he was elected President of the United States and went to Washington to discharge the duties of that office. Does not tell me how he got to Virginia. Says he was born in Pennsylvania; has lived in New York and New Hampshire. He says he was in Richmond some years since in the store of J. Winston Jones, who he says is now dead. Says he was once a watchman and timekeeper in Joseph R. Anderson's works. He says he was arrested near Charlottesville attempting to make his way to Washington through the Valley. I examined this man carefully and can discover no symptoms of derangement. I think he is feigning derangement to conceal his true character. His own statement makes him an alien enemy and I think he is a very suspicious one. I recommend he be held as an alien enemy under suspicion of being a spy.

James Dutton.—This man is stated on the return of the clerk of the prison to me to be deranged and he probably is. He says he was born in Nova Scotia and went to Mobile in 1858. He joined the Dan Boone Rifles of Mobile. Says he came to Lynchburg with his company. They were mustered into service of the Confederate States. He was taken sick. Went into the hospital at Lynchburg. Was for some time an attendant on the hospital under charge of Doctor Owens. Says he left his papers with a clerk of Doctor Owens. Says he has never received either money or clothing. He is now without a shirt or stockings and is in want of clothing. I return with this report the letter of Capt. J. Taylor committing him. I think this man is probably deranged, but his case ought to be inquired into at Lynchburg. Doctor Owens can say whether such a man was there. I would also respectfully ask that the rolls of his company may be examined and if anything is due him that it may be applied to his use. I would also respectfully suggest some provision be made for his comfort.

C. R. Branch.—Says he was born in Sumter County, Ala. Was first a printer. Was in the office of the Mobile Register in 1848, 1849 and 1850. His health gave way and he turned sailor. Was on oyster boats in Mobile Bay and in schooners trading in lumber to New Orleans. In 1859 went as a sailor on the brig American to Liverpool. Was on the oyster boats in Mobile Bay till 1860 when he went to Baltimore on the schooner Adair; then went on the schooner Sun Flower from Baltimore to Boston. Sailed several times between Boston and Baltimore. Says when the war broke out he desired to come to the Confederate States but could not. Was making money and did not leave till the schooner on which he sailed was laid up in Baltimore. He then came from Baltimore. Came in an oyster boat of Captain Fallon to Northumberland County, Va.; landed at Wicomico; went up to Heathsville; came to Union Wharf and came to Fredericksburg. Says he is not in the habit of drinking too much, but when he got safe in Dixie he took a frolic, became noisy and was arrested. The only paper sent to me is his letter to General Winder herewith inclosed.* I recommend this man be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance and that he be permitted to join a volunteer company.

Solomon Van Meler.—Born in Pendleton County on South Branch. Lives in Pendleton County on North Fork, about two miles from the mouth of Seneca. Has never seen the Northern army or any of their allies. Has no acquaintance on the Dry Fork of Cheat. Heard Snyder was gallanting the Yankees about on the Dry Fork of Cheat and in Randolph. Does not believe anybody went from his neighborhood to join them. Has not been in Hardy County for two or three years. Says he was for the Union until the State went out, and he goes with the State and for the Government at Richmond. Is a poor laboring man. Rents land and his family is dependent on his labor. Stays at home and attends to his business. There is no charge or evidence against this man. He is in feeble health and has suffered much in prison. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance. I would further as a matter of humanity recommend he be permitted to remain until able to travel home.

Henry Henderson.—Eighteen years old. Prisoner says he was born in Iroquois County, Ill. His father and his mother died in his childhood. He then went to Columbus, Ohio, to live with an uncle who, he says was librarian of the State and died two years since. Says he volunteered in the Twenty-third Ohio Regiment, Colonel Scammon. Went to Clarksburg, Va. From there with Rosecrans. Was in the battle of Carnifax. Then was sent to Raleigh Court-House. Says he acted as scout in Fayette and Mercer Counties. Was once in Monroe at Sandcroft's. Says he never got to the railroad. In relation to the papers found on him, he says No. 1 is a copy of a memorandum given him by a man in Raleigh. Will not tell who the man was. No. 2. He says when passing by the post-office at Shady Springs, in Raleigh, he saw the door open; he went in and found a basket of letters, near 200. He carried them off and this paper was among them. No. 3 he says was given him by Aden Thompson. The names on it are names of bushwhackers. He explains this one thus: Men who were brought in by the U. S. troops and took the oath of allegiance; afterward they violated their oaths by shooting at their trains. These men were to be shot when found and his business was to hunt them up. He says he was taken with a scouting party when in pursuit of such men. No. 4. This paper contains the certificates of several men that Henderson was a spy. The signers are said to be men worthy of credit on oath. I recommend this young man be held as a spy.

George W. Walker.—Says he was born in Waynesborough, Franklin County, Pa., and was raised there. Had several friends who were three-months' volunteers in Patterson's army. He expected they would be discharged. He wanted to see the army. Went with a friend, William H. Brotherton, to Martinsburg to see them. At Martinsburg he was informed the army had gone to Bunker Hill. They went to Bunker Hill and were informed the army had gone to Charlestown.

* Not found.

They were arrested by a scouting party on the 16th of July. Says he is a citizen of the United States, opposed to the present administration of that Government and determined to give no aid to the war. He says he has relations in the South and before the war commenced he promised them not to take up arms. Names the Rev. Mr. Bittinger as the person to whom he first made the promise. His conduct in prison I am informed has been uniformly correct. I recommend he be held as a prisoner of war, and as he has been here six months I respectfully recommend he be placed in the first exchanges.

George Ryan.—Born in Abingdon, Va.; raised in Carter County, Tenn. Was working in Wytheville when arrested. Says he was against secession, but afterward wished to be neutral. When the rebellion* occurred in East Tennessee he opposed it and desired to prevent it. Expected to be neutral. Says if Northern troops came to kill his neighbors he would be with the South. Admits Tennessee had the right to secede. When pressed to decide his position says if compelled to decide now he must go with the North. I recommend he be held as a prisoner.

Joseph Snapp.—Born in Woodstock. When fourteen years old taken to Augusta County; then to Greenbrier; thence to Monroe; thence he moved to Mercer County, where he was arrested and sent here. He says he was arrested by the Yankees and compelled to take the oath of allegiance. On his return he was trying to get his family out of Mercer to take them to his father's in East Tennessee when he was arrested. Says he is entirely Southern in his feelings and does not regard the forced oath of allegiance to the United States binding. Says he intended to volunteer as soon as his family were placed in safety. Is willing now to volunteer. I have learned from persons I have examined, particularly from Northern soldiers I have examined that the U. S. troops in Western Virginia compel citizens unfriendly to them to take the oath of allegiance, and very often the persons thus compelled to take the oath become the most deadly and dangerous enemies of the Northern army. I recommend he be permitted to volunteer.

Peter Couse.—Born and raised in New Jersey; in May, 1840, came to Virginia and settled in Spottsylvania. Was negotiating with Doctor Grinnan to exchange his land in Virginia for property in Iowa, Kansas and Missouri and was arrested before the negotiation closed. Is a farmer and gets lumber for market in Fredericksburg. Says he had a Government contract to get ship timber. His contract was under one Peleg Clark. Does not know what Government Clark's contract was with. Clark is a Northern man. Has taken no part on the secession question. Wishes to be neutral. Has done militia duty but will not go into the army. Will not take the oath of allegiance to the Confederacy but wishes to take an oath not to interfere. I recommend this man be held as a prisoner.

Thomas N. Fisher.—Aged seventeen. Born in Loudoun; moved to Fairfax. Says when arrested he was coming in to volunteer in Bob Radford's cavalry. Passed our lines (not knowing it) in the night; was arrested. It appeared on evidence before me this boy is warm in the Southern cause. On two occasions he borrowed a gun from a neighbor and scouted on the Potomac to get a shot at the Yankees who were expected to cross. He wishes to go either into a cavalry company or the Eighth Virginia, as his relations are in that regiment. He is a brave and true Southern boy and I hope his wishes will be gratified.

* See Volume I, this series, p. 824, et seq., for "Union Rebellion in East Tennessee."

William Stallins.—Aged nineteen. Born in Loudoun; moved to Fairfax and volunteered in the Seventeenth Regiment Virginia Volunteers. At Lewinsville he got scared and went to his home and was turned out of his regiment, dishonored and branded with cowardice. This boy is proved to be faithful to the South and seems penitent for his conduct. He admits he behaved badly and was scared, but he is very anxious to volunteer and redeem his character for courage and good conduct. He was going with Fisher to volunteer when arrested. I recommend an opportunity be given him to redeem himself and that he be permitted to volunteer again.

Daniel Hunt.—Born in Lowell, Mass.; lived in Boston; moved to Richmond twenty years ago; has lived here since and never been farther north than Baltimore. Prisoner married the daughter of Mr. Rixey, of Fauquier. He owned two houses in Richmond and some negro on which he owed money, and when he closed business five or six years ago Mr. Rixey paid the balance due on them and they were secured to Mrs. Hunt, and all Mrs. Hunt's interest in her father's estate is in slaves. In his old age Mr. Rixey married a Yankee woman. Eighteen months ago Mr. Rixey was taken sick and after lingering nearly a year died. When he was taken sick he sent for Hunt and his daughter. They went up to see him and remained with him till his death. When they went up they closed housekeeping and had their furniture stored away. Since his death they have been trying to get a house in Richmond. When our army fell back from Centreville Mrs. Rixey, the stepmother, prepared a flag which indicated her wish to make peace with the Yankees and showed it to Hunt. Hunt did not object until he went to Warrenton and saw young Mr. Rixey, who sent him a message disapproving it and refusing to consent to it. This message was delivered by Hunt, who also expressed then his disapprobation of the proceeding. Hunt is willing to take the oath of allegiance but his health does not permit him to enter the army. He is now over forty-five. I have inquired carefully into Hunt's character and course in Richmond and find he was always a good citizen; for a long time a Whig but for the last seven or eight years acting with the Democratic party and with the secession wing of this party. I am satisfied he is a good citizen and entirely Southern in his feeling. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

Elias Love.—Born in Loudoun. Says he does not know for what he was arrested, but says his son left him in December and denies he knew where he went. Says he does not know now. Passed the pickets returning home from Leesburg without permission. Says his son was a teamster in our army; returned home, and on close examination says he thinks he intended going to the West. Says he has taken no part in this contest except to vote for the Union. Is willing to support the laws of his country but cannot tell whether he is for the Union or the Confederacy. Wishes to take the oath of allegiance to the country where he lives but cannot tell whether it is the Confederacy or the Union. He is obviously an intelligent man and quibbling about his allegiance. I recommend he be held as a prisoner.

John Rowzie.—Arrested February 10, 1862, for getting drunk and fighting at Herndon; aged fifty-seven; born in Loudoun, Va.; lives near Great Falls, one mile from the river. Commenced life an overseer; now owns a plantation and negroes. His three negro men are hired to officers in the Confederate Army. Says all his dealings have been with the Confederate Army. He has refused to deal with the U. S. Army. He is represented to me by several highly respectable witnesses as a true Southern man. I hand in with this a letter of Lieutenant Emack, who was aided to cross the Potomac by Rowzie, and General Stuart's order sending him here. I think Rowzie is a true Southern man and has been sufficiently punished for his offense. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance. I think although he is too old to be a soldier he would be a valuable man as a manager of hands.

Samuel T. Walker.—Born in Fairfax; lives near Great Falls. Was in our service as a wagon-master from 1st of September to Christmas, when the transportation was turned over to Major Barbour. Walker continued at Centreville with a Mr. Hubbell, going with his teams to Gainesville and Manassas. In February he received a letter from his wife informing him of the death of one of their children and her own sickness and asking him to remove her within our lines. He procured a pass to go out by Picket No. 5, but finding this would delay him too long he procured the officer in charge to alter it to No. 7. On his return he was arrested for this offense. I am satisfied from the testimony of various witnesses that Walker is faithful to the South and is a truthful and respectable man. He is the same man mentioned in Lieutenant Emack's letter returned with Rowzie's case. I think he has been sufficiently punished for his offense. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

William P. Spear.—Age fifty-two. Born in Essex County, N. J.; moved to Virginia in 1840; carpenter. Owns a farm but no negroes; hires negroes. Was a Breckinridge Democrat and a secessionist. Arrested by order of General Stuart. Says he had no communication with the enemy. Has fed the pickets without charge and nursed the sick Confederates at his house. He is proved to be a man of good character. General Winder informs me he can employ this man as a carpenter. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance and agreeing not to go to our lines or encampments.

David Watkins.—Born in Accomack County; lived there till he was twenty-one, then moved to Staten Island where he lived for seven years; then he came to Gloucester County and about four years ago went to Philadelphia. Has been engaged in the oyster and lumber business. Quibbles about the oath of allegiance. Says he wishes to live in the Union in peace. I recommend he be held as a prisoner.

Isaac Wybert.—Born in Saratoga, N. Y.; lived in Virginia fifteen years. Denies all communication with the enemy. Would rather not take the oath of allegiance. Calculates to abide by the laws of the place in which he lives. I cannot recommend his discharge.

James Oscar Wren.—Born in Fairfax. I submit with this case General Stuart's order and the statement of Messrs. Thomas and Hunt.

He says he never passed our pickets knowingly. Never was a dealer in liquor. Says he kept liquors and sold some to his neighbors as medicine. Says when the army fell back last October he took a negro woman and his other movable property to Prince William and staid there till Christmas. He then returned, got his negro man and took him back to Fauquier out of reach of the enemy. Owns only two negroes and he has placed them in our lines to save them from the Yankees. He says on his return from Fauquier he heard he had been charged with selling whisky and thinks the reports were got up by Thompson to injure him. He voted for secession. This man is said by Messrs. Thomas and Hunt to be a man of good character. It is difficult to reconcile his statement with General Stuart's order, but as General Stuart says he is regarded as a dangerous man to be beyond the outposts and is faithful to the South, I recommend he be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance and promising not to go to any place in the vicinity of our camps.

C. White.—Born in Columbia, N. Y.; left there young; came to Virginia; lives in Fairfax. Voted the Union ticket but adheres to the South. Renounces allegiance to the United States, and is willing to take the oath of allegiance to the Confederate States. Has done all in his power for the South. I submit the letters of Mr. Word and Messrs. Hunt and Thomas in relation to this man. I recommend his release on taking the oath of allegiance.

William P. Flood.—Born in King George; raised in Jefferson County, Va.; lived in Winchester. Agent for several Virginia insurance companies. When General Jackson retreated from Winchester prisoner promised Colonel Ashby to procure a horse in Culpeper. He had some claims due his societies to collect in Culpeper. He made his escape from Winchester. He had a letter for one of Colonel Radford's men and rode through his lines to deliver it. Prisoner says he did not know he was acting improperly. He was arrested by Colonel Radford and sent on here. Lieutenant Turner testifies he has known prisoner for several years and he is a man of good character. I submit the letter received from Mr. Boteler in relation to this man. I have no doubt he is faithful to the South and recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

James E. McCabe.—Born in Leesburg, Va.; was engaged as overseer of negro hands employed on works for the army. These negroes were always placed under a guard. When our troops moved to the Plains Lieutenant Atkinson selected the quarters and placed the negroes in it under guard. Afterward Colonel Chancellor arrived with some militia and ordered prisoner to give up the quarters to the militia. Prisoner remonstrated on the ground the negroes were placed there by direction of the provost-marshal and if they were turned loose some of them might run off, and asked him to refer the matter to General Hill. Chancellor refused to refer it to General Hill, saying he would take the quarters by force. Prisoner went to find General Hill and did not find him, but found his aide, Mr. Rodgers. Mr. Rodgers told him not to give up the quarters without General Hill's orders, and gave him two more negroes to put under guard. Prisoner returned with them. Chancellor had forced the quarters and the negroes were under guard in the yard. Prisoner opened the gate to put the two additional negroes under care of the guard. Chancellor resisted him and struck him with the hilt of his sword and continued to press on him. It was dark and from the noise of the sword prisoner thought Chancellor was drawing it to strike with the edge. Several of the bystanders called on him to fire. He believed it was necessary to preserve his life and did fire. Chancellor was wounded. Prisoner was arrested and General Hill considering it was a case proper for investigation by the civil tribunals declined investigating it. I submit the written statement of Mr. Thomas L. Edwards, who I know is a gentleman of as much character as any in Loudoun. I have learned from many sources that McCabe is an honest, good man. His bearing and demeanor under examination were that of a gentleman. He is faithful to the South. McCabe is not under the Articles of War and the writ of habeas corpus had not been suspended then. General Hill therefore properly considered his case one for examination by the civil authorities; but an examination by the proper authorities cannot now be had. The discharge from custody will not exempt him from prosecution if hereafter one should be instituted. I do not think his case one which requires confinement indefinitely. If discharged he may be useful to our cause. I recommend his discharge on taking the oath of allegiance.

William Ayres.—Merchant of Philadelphia. Says he was not connected with the army. Had business in Washington with Colonel Irvin, of Pennsylvania regiment. Came over to see battle-field of Manassas. Was taken prisoner. I recommend this man be held as a prisoner of war.

E. Githen.—Railroad contractor, New Jersey. Had been working on the railroads near Washington. Went over to Manassas to get a contract to repair roads from Alexandria into Virginia; was taken prisoner. I recommend he be held as a prisoner of war.

Daniel Paterson.—Dentist; from Boston. Says he was seeking an office in the Treasury Department at Washington. Came out to see battle-field of Manassas; was taken prisoner. I recommend he be held as prisoner of war.

B. F. Copeland.—Born in Maine; has lived in Missouri, Iowa and Illinois. Is a carpenter. Says he was working at Washington last winter. Was promised a job at Alexandria. Went up to see Bull Run; was taken prisoner. Citizen of United States, but manifests a desire to take the oath of allegiance to Confederate States if he can thereby get work and get back to the North. I recommend he be held as a prisoner of war.

F.B. Coburn.—Born in Preston County, Va.; learned his trade in Uniontown, Pa. Was in Kansas during the revolution; says he took no part in it. Returned to Virginia; stole a horse; was in the penitentiary two years and a half; was discharged in March. Arrested passing our lines on suspicion of being a spy. He says he has lost his citizenship in the State of Virginia by being sent to the penitentiary, but wants to claim citizenship in the United States. I recommend he be held as a prisoner of war.

S. S. BAXTER.

[Indorsement.]

WAR DEPARTMENT, April 23, 1862.

Examined and approved. Respectfully referred to General Winder to be carried out as recommended within.

GEO. W. RANDOLPH,
Secretary of War.

Case of William Henry Hurlbert.*

RICHMOND, June 24, 1861.

General R. E. LEE.

GENERAL: Nothing but the pressure of a weight of misrepresentation which is too hard for me to bear moves me to intrude my personal troubles upon you in the midst of all your official troubles. But I met you once in circumstances so agreeable that I venture to hope you may not have utterly forgotten me, and in the name of our dead friend, Mr. Vernon Childs, as well as of his daughter who charged me with kindly messages for you at her house in Baltimore, I write to you to ask you to grant me but half an hour in which to tell you how it is that I find myself in the hands of the sheriff, charged with playing the spy in a country to save which from the horrors of war has been my sole aim and passion for long months past.

I saw the Hoffmans in Baltimore on the 4th. I passed the Confederate lines at the Ferry with a note of introduction from Robert McLane to General Johnston. I went on to my sister in Charleston, and was denounced by newspapers because I once was an editor of the New York Times in the days when your brother-in-law respected and aided my efforts to make that journal a journal of decency and truth. I am subjected to this unnameable disgrace. Once more let me beg you to spare time for such explanations of all this wretchedness as I cannot here inflict upon you, and believe me, with sincere respect,

Your most faithful friend,

WM. HENRY HURLBERT.

RICHMOND, July 6, 1861.

General R. E. LEE.

GENERAL: I refer you to my letter to you (in regard to the case of Bryan† submitted to you by General Huger) upon the subject of General Holmes' communication.‡ Unless he can be arrested as a spy or proceeded against by the civil authorities according to the opinion given by me in Bryan's case his case should be submitted to the governor, who if the party be a citizen of a State not in the Confederate Government may apprehend and secure him under the code of Virginia, chapter 17, section 6, page 118. This is the clause under which Hurlbert has been arrested, and the habeas corpus has been denied by the judge of this circuit. If the charge against a party be for a legal offense and the arrest is by legal authority the habeas corpus will not release the party where he is detained for the prosecution which is

* Throughout these papers the compiler has spelled this name "Hurlbert," which is proper, except in the report of James Lyons, at p. 1497, where his use of the name "Hurlbut" is allowed to stand for obvious reasons. The family name was Hurlbut, but for reasons of his own the prisoner, long previous to this event, changed his name to Hurlbert.—COMPILER.

† See p. 1361.

‡ Not found.

pending. That writ only authorizes an inquiry into the legality of arrest and detention. Where the authority is sufficient to apprehend and detain and a prosecution for a legal offense by military or civil authority is pending the party will not be discharged.

I would advise wherever the party is suspected of being a spy that the proceeding be by military authority, arresting and prosecuting; where for any other offense that the party be delivered to the civil authorities, unless it be the case of a citizen of the United States, when the case should be reported to the Executive for his action under the provision of the code before referred to. In all cases of suspicion the general in command would have full power to remove such parties from his encampment and to forbid them from coming within his lines, and I suppose under the laws of war to punish disobedience of such orders.

I am, very respectfully,

J. R. TUCKER.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Richmond, Va., July 8, 1861.

Mr. Toombs presents his respects to Mr. Crane and begs leave to say that after an interview with the President he declines interfering in any way with the case of Mr. Hurlbert, it not being within his jurisdiction.

CHARLESTON, July 17, 1861.

MY DEAR MR. MORTON: From my sense of the qualities of humanity and conscientiousness that enter into your character I feel confident of having you on my side whenever a question as to what is becoming and what is right is to be discussed; and it is in such circumstances that I appeal to you to interfere in releasing a poor creature from durance vile who is the mere victim of clamor.

It is William H. Hurlbert of whom I speak. He has been guilty of no offense that human laws have a right to punish. Early in life he became a writer on political and literary subjects, and embraced Northern views of slavery. One of his lucubrations was admitted into the Edinburgh Review, which gave great offense at the time. I confess I was rather disappointed in it as below the importance of the subject, and leaning on popular prejudices. Since that time he has changed his tone so much as to lose the confidence of the Republican party and his place in the editorial corps of the New York Times. In these circumstances he came to Charleston in my absence, and finding that he was the object of great suspicion left it suddenly. There are always shallow people ready to join in running down a popular idea and one man made an affidavit that he was an alien enemy, which in legal parlance he may be on account of his New York domicile; and another telegraphed to Atlanta to arrest him. One mob of that very excitable place got hold of him, and the best that men of sense it seems could do was to send him to Richmond for the benefit of habeas corpus, a thing which the patriots of Atlanta had very little idea of. In Richmond the effusions of the Charleston Mercury had the effect of causing him to be turned over to the governor under the law of 1793 allowing alien enemies to be sent out of the country by the executive. The executive having little time to bestow on the case which the courts have nothing to do with has not interfered. So the poor man remains a prisoner indefinitely.

If he is an alien enemy he ought to be gone but cannot go if the door is closed upon him. There is not the slightest reason for believing him a spy, and the only pretense for detaining him now is that it is to protect him from violence. It may be the best thing for him to keep him in jail, but it certainly is not the best thing for the State to trample on principles and inflict hard imprisonment on an innocent man because he is helpless. If the intention was to assassinate I could see how that might gratify revenge, but if they ever intend to let him out alive they ought not to send him out with an authentic story of lawless imprisonment to amuse the world.

Now, my dear sir, my only interest beyond the common sentiment of indignation against wrong in this individual is that his father was my friend, and I think that a word from one who has the manliness to speak out would not fail to procure the assent of so good a man as Mr. Letcher to the evident justice of his claim to be discharged from custody, and I beg of you to let Mr. Letcher know what I say and that I am responsible for the truth of it.

Yours, truly,

J. L. PETIGRU.

—
RICHMOND, VA., July 26, 1861.

TO THE HONORABLE MEMBERS OF THE CONGRESS OF THE CONFEDERATE STATES OF AMERICA.

SIRS: I beg leave respectfully to invite your attention to the following statement of facts connected with my arrest at Atlanta, Ga., on the 18th ultimo; my journey to Richmond on the 21st ultimo; my rearrest in this city on the 24th ultimo and my imprisonment continued up to the present date without a hearing on the merits of my case; without the appearance of any responsible accuser against me and with no definite charge offered to account for or to justify my confinement. I crave your patience then for a brief recital of matters which it seems to be impossible for me in any other way to bring to the effective cognizance of any regularly constituted authority in the Confederate States.

A native of Charleston, my relatives reside mainly in the Southern States. June 3, 1861, I left New York for Richmond with the intention of visiting my friends at Richmond and in Charleston, S. C., and of enabling myself better to prosecute a course of opposition to the existing war policy of the United States Government which I had independently pursued ever since the beginning of the movement of secession. I had not then nor have I had for many months past any connection whatever with any journal in New York or elsewhere, having dissolved my editorial relations with the New York Times, the only salaried relations which I have ever sustained with any newspaper, when that journal gave itself to the support of Mr. Lincoln. I advocated the election of Mr. Douglas down to the autumn of 1860 when I acceded to what was known as the "Fusion Ticket" in New York. I was a delegate from New York to the Conservative Convention at Albany in February, 1861, and drew up in great part the anti-coercive resolutions there offered by the Tammany delegation. In the end of May I published at my own expense a pamphlet on the "financial aspects of the war," of which I deposited several copies with my friend, Mr. Robert McLane, of Baltimore, for transmission to a high functionary in this city.

From Mr. McLane I received, June 4, a long verbal communication for the President of the Confederate States and a note of introduction to General Johnston at Harper's Ferry. From this officer I came with a pass to Richmond, arriving here Saturday, June 8. I that day called on the Assistant Secretary of State, with whom I had long been in familiar correspondence, and in the evening related to Mr. Toombs in his own rooms the substance of Mr. McLane's communication to myself. I remained in Richmond at the hotel, constantly seeing Mr. Browne, Mr. Attorney-General Benjamin and other personal friends until Tuesday, when I left for Charleston. I there went to my sister's house and remained several days, calling on various friends and publishing in the Courier of Saturday, June 15, nearly a column of comments upon the financial and other aspects of the war at the North.

On Monday, June 17, my brother-in-law, a citizen of Charleston, coming home advised me to hasten my departure North, as he had learned that certain persons calling themselves a vigilance committee had determined to annoy me if I should stay. I was indisposed to accept this advice, but my sister being in delicate health earnestly deprecated my remaining any longer and I accordingly consented to leave via Louisville the next morning. I did so, explaining the reason of my departure to some of my friends, and taking with me two communications from his Imperial Majesty's consul at Charleston to the French minister and chancellor at Washington. These were confided to me as a personal friend but bore the official seal of the consulate.

At Augusta stopping only to dine I did not register my name at the hotel until I was requested by one Mr. Evans, calling himself a councilman, so to do. I then did so, stating to this person who I was, and exhibiting to him my address and letters in my possession. I reached Atlanta at midnight and was there arrested by the marshal, who exhibited a telegram from the mayor of Augusta describing my baggage, giving my name as Hilt, and denouncing me as a suspicious person. I at once demanded an examination. This was accorded to me by the Hon. B. C. Yancey, who pronounced the charge unfounded and recommended my immediate release. I voluntarily proposed to await replies to telegrams which I dispatched to friends in Charleston, and to Messrs. Browne and Benjamin at Richmond.

On Wednesday, June 19, Mr. Browne and Mr. Benjamin replied that I "was unjustly accused and should be immediately released." Mr. Yancey having also of his own motion telegraphed to Mr. Toombs (a note from whom lay among my papers), that officer replied that he had no personal knowledge of me. This circumstance, taken in connection with the arrival on the same day of a violent personal attack made on me in the Richmond Examiner of June 17, excited so much popular feeling against me that Mr. Yancey advised my waiting a day or two at the hotel in Atlanta. The next day brought another article denouncing me as a spy in the Charleston Mercury, with telegrams to the same effect from several persons, none of them personally known to me. My cousin, Rev. E. P. Palmer, of Marietta, Ga., coming over on this day to see me, joined with Mr. Yancey in advising me not to face the populace thus excited or to pursue my journey through Middle Tennessee. My brother-in-law and sister coming to Atlanta the next day, Friday, took the same view. Mr. Yancey receiving telegrams demanding me from Augusta and from Charleston replied that while I sought justice in Atlanta I should not be surrendered to any other authority.

I then proposed to leave for Richmond, asking an escort of the mayor and offering to pay the expenses of any intelligent person who would go with me to relate the true state of the case to the authorities here. This offer of mine was accepted by one Mr. W. S. Bassford, and Mr.

Yancey and the mayor finally coincided in my proposition. The marshal was detailed to accompany me, and one or two citizens of Atlanta going to Richmond joined the party. We left Atlanta June 21 in the midst of a tumult excited by ill-disposed persons, who profited by the presence on the train of an Alabama regiment, commanded by Hon. Colonel Hale, a member of your body. This gentleman soon reduced his troops to order and entering my car rode with me to his destination, Dalton.

I reached Richmond June 24; went to the Spotswood, took a room myself and sent Mr. Bassford to the President. Mr. Browne soon after came to me with Mr. Bassford and stated to me that Mr. Toombs having gone by request of the President to the governor of Virginia that gentleman had ordered me to be at once committed to jail. They both assured me that I should be released at once, the Confederate Government merely wishing to avoid any conflict with the Virginia authorities. For two days I remained in jail, having no communication with any one and my baggage lying at the hotel.

On the third day Mr. Crane visiting the jail on business I engaged his services at once as my counsel. He put himself in communication with my friends in Charleston and in this place and took steps to sue out for me a writ of habeas corpus. This writ was granted me by Judge Meredith, who appointed July 4 for the hearing. On the hearing the judge ruled out all inquiry into the causes or justification of my arrest and confined my counsel to setting aside the jurisdiction of the governor of Virginia under the ordinance of April, 1861. The judge July 6 decided in favor of the governor's jurisdiction and remanded me to jail, but after seeing the evidence only in part recommended an application to the governor.

This I made on the same day through Mr. Attorney-General Benjamin. The governor promptly declared that he had no charge against me; that he had committed me at the request of the Confederate Government and would discharge me at once, "if they would state that they had no charge against me." Mr. Crane took this declaration to Mr. Toombs, who in his presence stated that I had been committed merely to take me out of the hands of a rabble; that he had not and never had had any charge against me, and that he condemned all the proceedings against me as illegal and disgraceful. Mr. Crane's statement to this effect will be found hereto appended. I have reason also to know that Mr. Toombs had expressed himself to the same effect in a letter written July 3 to a distinguished citizen of South Carolina. He said further to Mr. Crane that he must see the President as a matter of form before stating in writing what he had stated in words.

Tuesday, July 9, my counsel succeeded in obtaining from Mr. Toombs a statement to the effect that the Confederate Government had "no jurisdiction" in my case. Governor Letcher maintaining his point first taken declined to act on this, but leaving town soon after he deposited with one of his aides an order for my release to be executed immediately on the receipt of a more explicit statement from Mr. Toombs. My counsel notified Mr. Toombs' chief clerk of this, and I have myself addressed a brief sketch of the facts through Mr. Crane to the President.

But I still remain here incarcerated in the jail appropriated to felons. On the face of Governor Letcher's committal I was held to await a requisition from the authorities in Charleston. No such requisition has been made, and I have reason to know that the acting attorney-general of South Carolina and his honor Judge Magrath refused to have anything to do with any such requisition.

Born in Charleston in 1827, I removed thence with my parents in 1831, returned there on the death of my father in 1843 and remained there till July 1, 1845. Since that date I have visited the city twice—once in June, 1853, for a few days on my return from the West Indies, and recently when I remained there from Saturday, June 15, to Tuesday, June 18, 1861. It is not easy therefore to conceive what crime committed in Charleston can be laid to my charge or how I can have rendered myself in any way a suspicious character in that city. I have abundant evidence from persons officially connected with the Confederate Government to show that my whole course since my native State seceded has been one of friendship to and sympathy with her, and I have challenged the severest scrutiny.

I have made this statement because I cannot think it right that in any country at any time a citizen traveling on his lawful occasions and willing to render an account of himself to any proper authority should submit in silence to the treatment which has been inflicted upon me.

I have the honor to be, your most obedient servant,

WILLIAM HENRY HURLBERT.

[Inclosure.]

RICHMOND, July 23, 1861.

WILLIAM H. HURLBERT, Esq., City Jail.

DEAR SIR: You ask of me a brief statement of my interview with Mr. Toombs. I do not feel that I am at liberty to decline it. After securing a short note from Mr. Benjamin (who was kind and courteous, to whom I had explained the position of your case and the decision of Judge Meredith, viz, that he had no jurisdiction) to Governor Letcher I sent it under inclosure to the governor with all the documentary evidence which had been secured for your hearing before Judge M. Governor L. very promptly returned the papers and a note addressed to Mr. Benjamin which stated substantially that "he had committed you only at the instance of the President and Mr. Toombs, and that if they would say (in writing) that they had no charge against you he would order your release."

Mr. Benjamin (as I think very justly) declined to go further, and I begged of him Governor Letcher's note, and accompanied casually by my friend Dr. T. H. Fisher, of Fauquier, I called on Mr. Toombs at the office of the Secretary of State. Mr. Toombs received me kindly, and I proceeded to state the object of my call and handed him Governor L.'s note. (I left the note with him.) He read it and then in a free manner spoke of your case and at considerable length. He disclaimed having had anything to do with your commitment except going at the President's request with Mr. Bassford to the governor and carrying the papers which Bassford brought. He declaimed strongly against the law under which you were committed; said he saw nothing in the papers forwarded to require (or justify) your imprisonment, and generally stated that the Confederate Government had nothing to do with your arrest or confinement and knew no reason for its continuance.

I give only the purport of his remarks. I could not undertake to report with verbal accuracy a conversation chiefly on his part lasting perhaps twenty minutes. I replied to him: "Be good enough, sir, just to say in writing one-tenth of what you have assured me of and it is all I desire." He replied that he felt it due as an act of courtesy to the President to see him first, he would endeavor to do so as early as possible. On Monday (this was on Saturday) in reply to a note from me he sent the note* which is hereto appended. Finding that the reply of Mr. Toombs was not satisfactory to the governor (rather as I supposed on account of its form or mode of expression than any substantial deficiency) I sent another note to Mr. T. politely asking (if possible) a modification of his note to suit the governor's views. To this note I received no reply.

I ceased to trouble Mr. Toombs, though (as counsel for you anxious to discharge my duty) I have not ceased to endeavor to secure your release or an avowal somewhere beyond newspaper articles that there were grounds patent or latent for your confinement. So far I have been unable to get any anchorage beyond what the bare fact of your imprisonment and the circumstances I have detailed afford.

Ah, yes! It has been alleged in private circles that in 1856 while in Europe you wrote an article for the Edinburgh Review in which you gave an unfavorable view of slavery. Now, Mr. Hurlbert, I have not read it but it was wrong of you and I do not doubt you regret it, but I could not think it a sufficient ground for your arrest when I remember how many Southern men have at some period done the same or worse; and they are not confined.

Permit me to add on my personal account that in an acquaintance formed under circumstances eliciting necessarily confidential interviews and communications I have found you always frank, open and honorable. I have seen some of your private correspondence with Southern men and others, and any man may be proud of the position which they assign you. After all that has transpired within my knowledge your confinement in a felon's cell for more than a month has been to me something of a puzzle, as I have not on the one hand been able to conceive that the Government is so much wanting in strength as to fear to avow the causes of your detention, or so unjust as to protract it without cause on the other.

Very truly, &c., yours,

A. JUDSON CRANE.

RICHMOND, August 31, 1861.

Hon. R. M. T. HUNTER.

SIR: It is now some weeks since I invited your attention to the part played by the Confederate Government in my detention at this place. I have received no reply from yourself, but I have been unofficially informed that you did not feel at liberty to reopen a "case closed by your predecessor in the Department of State." This I was sorry to learn, since a decided difference of opinion as to the finality of Mr. R. Toombs' action in the case seems to exist between yourself and the governor of Virginia, of which difference I remain here the innocent victim.

But I now learn from the Hon. T. R. R. Cobb that "indisputable evidence now is in the possession of the authorities to prove me a secret correspondent of the New York Times traveling in this country to convey information as opportunity should offer." As Mr. Toombs never made nor pretended to make such a charge or any charge against me, openly at least, and as no such evidence was ever heard of under his administration I respectfully submit that if your Department or any Department of the Confederate Government now possesses such evidence it is my right to insist upon open prosecution of the charge and the production of the evidence, which truly does of itself reopen the case most emphatically.

* Not found.

As I cannot for a moment suppose that the Confederate Government wishes to inflict inquisitorial injustice upon any man I can conceive of no reason why I should not most fearlessly advance and the Government most readily grant this claim of a citizen who has already suffered the extremity of "illegal and disgraceful" oppression. I borrow the language of your predecessor in relation to my case addressed to a conspicuous citizen of South Carolina.

And I have the honor to be, your obedient servant,
WM. HENRY HURLBERT.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, Richmond, September 5, 1861.

Hon. WILLIAM M. BROWNE, Acting Secretary of State.

SIR: I have received your letter dated yesterday inclosing for my examination certain papers relating to W. H. Hurlbert, now in confinement at the instance of Hon. Robert Toombs, late Secretary of State. The papers having been perused by me are herewith returned. In a note addressed to the honorable Mr. Benjamin I stated the manner in which I became connected with this case, and stated what would be my future action respecting Mr. Hurlbert. If Mr. Hunter, the Secretary of State, will inform me that he is satisfied of Hurlbert's innocence and will request his discharge in writing he will be released at once. Until this is done his imprisonment will continue.

I am, truly,

JOHN LETCHER.

LABURNUM, September 27, 1861.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN.

DEAR SIR: I have received this morning the inclosed letter* from Mr. Hurlbert. Will you have the kindness to say whether I am to examine him or not, and may I ask the favor of you to return me the copies of Mines' letter† to me and my reply to it and to say whether it meets your approbation that I should send that or any other reply to it. The originals are on file in the War Department, having been sent to the honorable Secretary of War for his examination because I did not feel at liberty or willing to send any reply without the authority and approval of the Department of War.

With great respect, I am, very truly, yours,

JAMES LYONS.

Report of the Confederate Commissioner on the case of William Henry Hurlbert.

[RICHMOND,] November 1, 1861.

This case has caused me much trouble and solicitude and I have considered it very carefully. Hurlbut is a young man about thirty-five years of age; well educated; of considerable literary attainments and polished manners. He is a native of Charleston, S. C., where he still has relations, but was educated at the North and has passed most of his time at the North and in England. In 1856 he wrote an article in the Edinburgh Review against slavery which fully justified the Southern people in regarding him as their enemy. Subsequently he became co-editor of the New York Times and is said to be the writer of the famous "Elbows of the Mincio" article. At the last Presidential election Raymond agreed with him to oppose Lincoln, but Lincoln bought Raymond off, and Hurlbut withdrew from the Times and united with Captain (now General) Lovell and others to oppose Lincoln and the war policy, and finally came to the South for the purpose of visiting his relations in Charleston, and tendering his pen and other services in England to the Confederate Government, when he was arrested at Atlanta and sent here, himself as he says soliciting that destination and paying the expenses of the escort.

* Not found.

† See case of Mines, p. 1508, et seq.

The testimony up to this point is very high and conclusive in his favor, showing what he now upon his oath affirms to be true; that the sentiments expressed in the article in the Edinburgh Review have been entirely renounced upon conviction; and if the case had rested here I should have recommended his discharge without hesitation.

But it takes here a new and very remarkable aspect, viz: After the battle of Manassas a man named Windsor was captured upon whom a letter was found addressed to "William H. Hurlburt, British subject, traveling for his health in the South, Richmond, Va., to be called for." The letter is dated Park Row, New York, July, 1861. It was written before the 1st of July because it alludes to the meeting of the approaching Congress of the 4th of July. The letter is of the most offensive kind to us, and refers to and seems to be in reply to letters previously written by Mr. Hurlbut to the writer.

Mr. Hurlbut admits that he knew a person named Windsor as an employé in the Times Office when he was one of its editors, and Park Row is the locality of the Times Office; but he denies all knowledge of the letter and its writer and protests that he has not written a letter to or for the Times since his separation from it. He denies that the letter is in the handwriting of Raymond, and there is some conflict in the testimony upon that point, though it preponderates very decidedly against the identity of the writing with Raymond's.

Upon these facts the question is is the prisoner Hurlbut the Mr. Hurlbut to whom the letter is addressed? The difference in the spelling of the name amounts to nothing. The insertion of the "r" might be a trick or an accident, and the English address rather strengthens than weakens the case because the prisoner had the word London on his trunk and the English address was the best disguise, and notwithstanding all the delay and notoriety of the case no other person of the name of Hurlbut or Hurlburt has been heard of, and it is moreover exceedingly improbable that there were in the country two men whose names differed from each other only in a single letter; that there was a William H. Hurlbut and a William H. Hurlburt. I do not doubt therefore that the letter was intended for the prisoner.

But the question arises was there any authority for writing it? Is there any truth in its statements that it is a reply to letters written by Hurlbut? The letter is no proof of its contents; it is but the operation of an anonymous writer, which is opposed by the oath of the prisoner and much testimony showing that he did not entertain the sentiments supposed to be ascribed to him by the letter; for the letter is not explicit by any means as to those sentiments. In fact it is conjecture only that they were inimical to the South. The answers to these questions must be in my opinion in the negative. If this is proof then the prisoner is a spy, at least in the odious sense if not the strictly legal sense of the term, but it is very clear that if he were upon his trial as a spy he could not be convicted upon this evidence, for so far from the letter's being sufficient to convict him it would not be competent evidence and could not be read upon his trial until he was connected with it by competent proof, such as finding it upon him or proving by the bearer or writer that it was for him and that the statements contained in it were true. Here there is no such proof. The letter was not found upon him; the writer is not known, and the bearer of it was set at liberty by the Government.

I am of opinion therefore that he should be discharged, but as he is now laboring under some excitement very naturally against our Government because of his imprisonment, and the moment is a little critical possibly, I respectfully suggest that he be paroled and for the present restrained to the limits of Richmond until the further order of the Secretary of War.

* * * * *

Respectfully submitted.

JAMES LYONS.

RICHMOND, December 16, 1861.

Hon. JAMES LYONS, &c.

MY DEAR SIR: I supposed that when you decided upon my case after the full, patient and careful examination which you gave it that your judgment upon me would be carried into effect, and I have been much surprised to learn that my continued detention here is not because of your judgment against me but because I am regarded as an "alien enemy" under the decision of Judge Meredith on the 6th of July last. If I comprehend what is the meaning of "alien enemy" it is that one is a citizen of one of the States now at war with the Confederate States owing allegiance to it. This is certainly not my case. But if it was am I under the circumstances liable to detention on this ground? I had supposed that the only alien enemies not combatants so liable were persons who had failed to avail themselves of the President's proclamation of August 15, or since that time found within the Confederate frontiers. I have not understood that even in regard to such persons the Government meant to imitate the policy of Napoleon I toward the English in France.

To imprison non-combatants indefinitely at the risk of life, health, property is so cruel and unprofitable a thing that I had hoped the monopoly of the practice might be left to Mr. Seward; and this the more that the recent release with passports of Mr. Eagle, of New York, arrested in Western Virginia at the end of September, seems to warrant the belief that the Confederate Government is disposed to conform itself to other than Federal precedents. But I belong to neither of the classes above mentioned. I came here openly and honorably early in June. I was on my way out of the country when I was causelessly and frivolously arrested in Georgia June 18. Coming again to Richmond voluntarily at my own expense that I might leave the Confederacy honorably as I had entered it I was arrested here June 24 and vilely incarcerated. I sought my liberty through a writ of habeas corpus July 6. I was then pronounced an "alien enemy," and as such with no specific charge against me remanded to a felon's jail there to await the pleasure of the governor of Virginia. I repeatedly in various ways and in vain sought a hearing from that functionary or from any other authority. When the President's proclamation appeared it found me a prisoner in these circumstances, unaccused, unexamined. I at once requested to be sent out of the country under the proclamation. But in vain.

The "forty days of grace," sir, had elapsed when I first learned from your lips officially the existence of any shadow of a charge against me. I was then entering the fourth month of my confinement. I stand now innocent of any offense against the Confederate laws or people. Is it my fault that I am still here an alien enemy? Am I to be denied my right to leave the country simply because I was for months unable to make my calls for justice heard? Is this, sir, I will not say legal—is it right, just, honorable, humane? But further. What sort of an alien enemy am I, thus selected for special torment? I came here after rendering services to the Southern cause for which the Government had thanked me through the Assistant Secretary of State. I came here invited by the same officer in a letter dated April 8, 1861, to visit the Southern capital; see for myself the strength of the Southern organization, and if possible conclude arrangements for acting extensively in behalf of the cause abroad. Had I supposed it possible I should here receive indignity and be insulted by suspicion, or that I should be forbidden to leave the country after being forbidden to remain in it, I should have gone to Europe at the time when I came to Virginia, there independently to defend a cause which I had embraced not as a matter of allegiance, of interest, or of ambition, but solely as a matter of principle.

Born in Carolina; connected by the dearest ties with friends in that State whose fortunes are identified with hers, my long residence at the North and in Europe may have made me an alien in the law. Do my actions show that it has made me an enemy also? I came here leaving all my worldly goods at the mercy of the Federal Government. I hoped to be able to preserve them, but I came prepared should the success of my plans require it to risk their absolute loss by passing through Mexico to Europe. Against this contingency, besides my intimate acquaintance with M. de Saligny, the French envoy there, I provided myself with letters of introduction from Mr. Eustace W. Barron, of Mexico, a friend of mine well known to Mr. Benjamin. So much for the antecedents of my presence here.

You will yourself, sir, I think remember that I have repeatedly expressed to you my deep sense of the justice of the Southern cause. This with me is not a question of impulse but of conviction. As my faith is so have my works been. They speak for me. My character and the facts of my case are my titles to liberty. On them I stand. If I am a Southern citizen my loyalty has been proved by my course of action. If I am an alien enemy I am an alien born in Carolina; an enemy doing the duty of a friend.

But whatever I am, sir, I am not a man to assail the rights of millions in avenging my personal wrongs nor to tamper with my own self-respect, nor to forget how truly, sir, I am your obliged and obedient servant,

WM. HENRY HURLBERT.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, January 6, 1862.

[Hon. JAMES LYONS.]

DEAR SIR: Understanding from your communication of this day that you have examined the case of Hurlbert and have recommended his discharge I take occasion to say that I have not considered him under my control since he was taken before you for examination under the order of the War Department. I know of nothing against him save what was communicated to me by Hon. R. Toombs at the time the warrant for his imprisonment was made out.

I am, truly,

JOHN LETCHER.

Case of Dr. Stephen Hagadorn.

RICHMOND, July 30, 1861.

President DAVIS.

MY DEAR SIR: Can you be prevailed on under the circumstances to release a poor distressed man, one that is laboring under rheumatic pains, one whose general health is poor, and of a broken-down constitution? I am here a prisoner, not because I have waged war against anybody; only on account of possessing a parent's anxiety to know if my son was alive, who enlisted in Wisconsin, not having seen him in many months. I reside when at home at Bath, Steuben County, N. Y.; left on the evening of the 17th instant, promising to return last week. I am sure that no one's happiness is increased by keeping me here. I was not in any way connected with the army, neither had I any arms about me; was robbed of all my money when taken. I beg to be released. I beg to have a hearing. Don't, for humanity's sake, continue my suffering longer while it is in your power to relieve me. I am not in office of any kind; am a practicing physician and have a home, and oh! could I go and enjoy it once more. Can I? It is in your power to say. General Beauregard was made acquainted with my circumstances at Manassas and sent for me; as I was taken in the night, I was lying on the ground asleep and the officer said he could not find me. What will you do with my entreaties for mercy?

Yours, &c.,

S. HAGADORN, M. D.

RICHMOND, *July 30, 1861.*HON. SECRETARY OF WAR, C. S. A., Richmond.

MY DEAR SIR: My condition is the most unhappy of all men. I am imprisoned here for what I am not guilty of doing, any public or private wrong. Have not directly or indirectly been engaged in the present disturbances existing in our country. Left my business, which is the practice of medicine, on the evening of the 17th instant, intending to return last week. I am a resident of Bath, Steuben County, N. Y. Came for the express purpose of seeing my son who had come in the Second Wisconsin Regiment. Having learned when I got to Washington on Friday that a battle had been fought at Bull Run came over only to see whether he was dead or alive, and my anxiety led me to venture too far, and consequently am here. Will you as an act of humanity and kindness have the goodness to liberate me from this very revolting condition in which I am placed? I came entirely unarmed except with money to defray expenses, which was taken from me when I was taken. It is now in your power to relieve suffering humanity. Will you do it? Do, I pray you, but submit I must to whatever you are pleased to direct.

Yours, in faith and submission,

S. HAGADORN, M. D.

To the WAR DEPARTMENT, Confederate States of America:

I had no time when my name was registered to give a statement of my case, which I will briefly do at this time. I left my home and business on the 17th of July to return as soon as the 27th. Did not come as an invader, having no weapons of any kind. I am in the fiftieth year of my age; am a physician, Stephen Hagadorn by name, and live at Bath, Steuben County, N. Y. I came only to see a son who had enlisted in Wisconsin. Found on Sunday that a battle was being fought. Anxious as a father could be to know whether my son was alive, was too venturesome, consequently am a prisoner. My son is a prisoner here and must of course be held as such until disposed of. I ask mercy at your hands, and a release that I may go to my distressed family. When taken I was robbed of over $100 in money and papers that were valuable to me, and am as unpleasantly situated as mortal man can be on account of being detained from my family, who of course must be much distressed on account of my absence. Will you, my dear fellow-beings, let me go I pray you? I have done nothing to offend you therefore I pray you let me go.

S. HAGADORN.

BATH, STEUBEN COUNTY, N. Y., October 14, 1861.

Hon. JEFF. DAVIS, Richmond, Va.

DEAR SIR: Among the prisoners taken at the battle of Bull Run was a Dr. S. Hagadorn, a quiet and peaceable citizen of this village. Owing to some family difficulty his son, S. H. Hagadorn, had some months previous left home. As the doctor was about leaving for New York to purchase medicines, &c., he learned that his son had joined some one of the regiments that had gone to Washington. With a father's anxiety he concluded to visit Washington immediately, saying he "might never see his son again should he go into battle." On his reaching Centreville he learned that the command had moved forward. He did not see any fighting the day of the battle but went toward evening about two miles (he should judge) beyond Centreville in hopes of seeing his son if returning; if wounded to dress his wounds and to do all that affection could dictate, but your cavalry came up and he was taken prisoner.

This is the simple and truthful statement of the case given to me by his almost distracted wife, and I have written to you hoping that when you are assured he was a non-combatant, a quiet, peaceable citizen, you will release him. Dr. S. Hagadorn is a man about fifty I should think, a gentleman and a Christian, and will respect his parole.

Perhaps you have forgotten me, but I remember General Jeff. Davis, who was wounded in Mexico, and whom I had the pleasure of entertaining at the mouth of the Rio Grande when he and his suite were en route for New Orleans. Mr. Davis, a compliance with my request will be an act of humanity and great kindness, and I will esteem it a personal favor.

I am, very respectfully, &c.,

ELIZA E. OGDEN,
Widow of the late Maj. E. A. Ogden, U. S. Army.

[First indorsement.]

SECRETARY OF WAR:

If on inquiry this case seems to be well stated let the prisoner be released on parole.

J. D[AVIS.]

[Second indorsement.]

General Winder for report, in accordance with the President's indorsement.

[J. P. BENJAMIN.]

RICHMOND, November 7, 1861.

General S. COOPER, Adjutant-General.

SIR: Dr. Stephen Hagadorn was sent to Richmond as prisoner of war with a number of others. There were no papers to show that he differed from the rest. The inclosed papers contain all the information there is about him. Doctor Hagadorn has always adhered to the same statement.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. H. WINDER,
Brigadier-General.

[Indorsement.]

Let the prisoner be released on parole and allowed to go to the United States.

J. P. B.

[Inclosure No. 1.]

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR OF THE CITY OF NASHVILLE,
October 8, 1861.

General JOHN H. WINDER.

DEAR SIR: Accompanying this note you will find certain papers handed me by Hon. John C. Breckinridge, who left this place on yesterday for Kentucky.

Respectfully,

R. B. CHEATHAM,
Mayor.

[Sub-inclosure No. 1.]

BATH, STEUBEN COUNTY, N. Y., September 11, 1861.

Hon. J. C. BRECKINRIDGE.

MY DEAR SIR: Although an entire stranger to you I have taken the liberty to inclose to your address a letter to General Winder, of the C. S. Army, asking for the release of a prisoner he now holds and which I beg of you as an act of humanity and a favor to me to forward to Richmond, if in your power. I ask the favor as a political friend and a national Democrat, relying upon your generosity and kindness of heart. A perusal of the inclosure will explain its object. To satisfy you of my identity I also inclose a note received from F. H. Hatch,* the collector at New Orleans, with whom I am connected by marriage and was in correspondence until the present difficulties and through [whom] I would make this application if I knew how to reach him. You are probably acquainted with him. If you are satisfied of my sincerity and honor may I ask you to add your indorsement of the request I make of the general? You will never have occasion to regret it. I may be able in some way to oblige you.

Yours, truly,

A. J. MCCALL.

[Sub-inclosure No. 2.]

BATH, STEUBEN COUNTY, N. Y., September 10, 1861.

General JOHN H. WINDER, C. S. Army.

MY DEAR SIR: Among the prisoners taken at Bull Run and now detained at Richmond is Dr. Stephen Hagadorn of this place. In July last having learned that his son, a resident of Wisconsin, had enlisted and was then in Washington with a father's anxiety he resolved to take in that city on his way to New York to purchase a stock of medicines, in hopes of seeing that son. He reached Washington on Friday before the engagement and learned that his son's regiment was at or near Centreville but was unable to procure a pass until Sunday. He reached the hospital on the battle-field just before the rout commenced and administered to the wounded, but being in feeble health was unable to escape in the flying host and consequently was captured. The doctor was in no way connected with the army. He holds no political office. He is a man of no pretension or extended influence. He is simply a country physician of small practice, depending upon it for the support of his family. I have no personal connection with or interest in the doctor or his family other than a neighbor. In going to and from my office I pass his house. The distress of sorrowing wife and children touched my heart. I found that a set of miserable comforters had imposed upon them and their fears by reporting bloody and cruel outrages perpetrated by the Confederates upon the Federal prisoners and bade them entertain no hope of his being restored to them. I indignantly denounced them as libels upon humanity and base fabrications unworthy to be repeated by Christian lips. I had of course to suffer from the imputation of sympathy with rebels, but happily all that I had said of Southern humanity and generosity proved true. The family soon received letters assuring them of his safety and comfort as far as his feeble health would permit. My further advice and assistance not being asked I did not obtrude it. I watched closely the conduct of the Black Republicans and was shocked at their manifest heartlessness and indifference. In fact they seemed disappointed that the poor man had not been hung and quartered. I ventured to inquire of a friend of the family what had been done for his comfort or toward procuring his release and was told nothing whatever; that the same miserable comforters had advised the wife that nothing could be done for her husband, that it was useless to make the effort.

* Omitted.

Without being even asked or having consulted any one but my wife I resolved to lay the case before you and make an appeal to your magnanimity. His detention can be of no practical importance or benefit to the C. S. Army. On the other hand his release would operate to dissipate the bitter prejudice that interested persons have sought to raise against the Confederates in this vicinity. If you will examine the doctor you will find that all that is stated is substantially true and become satisfied that his discharge would subserve the public interest. It may seem presumptuous in one so humble to make such a request, but I know brave men are ever generous and confiding, always ready to lend a listening ear to the petitions of the simple and true-hearted.

I remain, your obedient servant,

A. J. McCALL.

[Inclosure No. 2.]

BATH, STEUBEN COUNTY, N. Y., October 18, 1861.

Rev. J. LANSING BURROWS, D. D.

MY DEAR BROTHER: Some time since I wrote you in behalf of Dr. Stephen Hagadorn, of this place, a prisoner confined in your city. By letters just received from him I learn that that communication reached you and that you kindly visited him. I am therefore emboldened by your past-kindness to trouble you again. Accompanying this is a communication addressed to Hon. J. Davis, stating facts in relation to the doctor and signed by some of the gentlemen of this town. We trust it may be the means of procuring his discharge. Will you, my brother, see that it is put into the hands of Mr. Davis at the earliest possible moment? By so doing you will have the consciousness that you have done what you could to release a worthy brother in Christ from a painful and unnecessary confinement and bring happiness to a distressed and highly worthy family. Will you also use your personal influence to bring about so worthy an object?

Yours, affectionately, in the truth,

E. J. SCOTT,
Pastor of Bath Church.

[Sub-inclosure.]

BATH, STEUBEN COUNTY, N. Y., October 16, 1861.

Hon. JEFFERSON DAVIS:

This is to certify that we, the undersigned, residents of the village of Bath aforesaid, are familiarly acquainted with Dr. Stephen Hagadorn, of this village, now a prisoner at Richmond, in the State of Virginia. That said Hagadorn is highly esteemed as a citizen, a physician and a Christian, being a member of the Baptist Church in this village. Unassuming in his intercourse but always up to his pretensions, his word always reliable; is strictly a civilian, never seeking military or political honors not so much as holding a town office. The doctor has a son by the name of S. H. Hagadorn, who left this village about the 6th of January last, went to Milwaukee, in the State of Wisconsin, and there without his father's knowledge enlisted, which facts came to his father's knowledge, and on the 17th of July last prompted by parental affection to look after his son the doctor left his home for the city of Washington without the least hostile intentions and expecting to return home in a very few days, and that by the way of the city of New York for the purpose of replenishing his stock of medicines as required in his practice as a physician.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

R. Campbell, Lieutenant-Governor of New York; D. Rumsey, jr., ex-Member of Congress; W. Barnes, judge of Steuben County, N. Y.; Orson Mosher, clerk of Steuben County, N. Y.; Reuben Robie, ex-Member of Congress; Wm. Y. Hubbell, ex-Member Twenty-eighth Congress; O. Seymour, sheriff Steuben County, N. Y.; James Lindsay, justice of the peace in and for Steuben County; O. R. Howard, rector Saint Thomas' Church (P. E.); E. R. Kasson, under-sheriff Steuben County, N. Y.; E. J. Scott, pastor of Bath Church; D. M. Van Camp, insurance agent.

[Indorsement.]

STATE OF NEW YORK,

Steuben County, Clerk's Office, ss:

I, Oscar J. Averell, deputy clerk of the county of Steuben, do hereby certify that I am well acquainted with each and every one of the persons whose names are subscribed to the foregoing petition and statement and that I believe the signatures thereto are the genuine signatures of the individuals whom they purport to be; and further that I am well acquainted with the said Doctor Hagadorn and hereby freely indorse the statement and certificate foregoing and know it to be true and correct.

In witness whereof I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my official seal at Bath, this 18th day of October, 1861.

O. J. AVERELL,
Deputy Clerk.

[Inclosure No. 3.]

RICHMOND, November 7, 1861.

General WINDER.

DEAR SIR: You wish to know what General Beauregard promised me. I did not see the general. The officer of the guard told me in the morning that he sent for me in the night but that he could not find me. He was so busy during the day that I could not get an opportunity to see him. I never was in Virginia until the 21st of July, about noon, and then in search of my son, to learn whether he was dead or alive. I stated the circumstances to the officers, who told me they had no doubt but that the general would let me go if he knew the circumstances. I was not in arms; left my home and business only for a week to learn the fate of this son who had enlisted from the State of Wisconsin, having left his home and gone West some months previous.

Yours, with much respect,

S. HAGADORN,
Bath, Steuben County, N. Y.

P. S.—The officers at Manassas said they had no doubt I would be released as soon as my case was known at Richmond. My case is one that needs as much sympathy as any one's. I learn my family are in great distress.

Yours,

S. H.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, November 11, 1861.

Brig. Gen. J. H. WINDER, Richmond, Va.

SIR: The Secretary of War directs that Dr. Stephen Hagadorn be released on parole and allowed to go to the United States.

Respectfully,

A. T. BLEDSOE,
Chief of Bureau of War.

Case of Doctor Hilleary.

STAUNTON, August 7, 1861.

[JOHN BRANNON, Esq.]

My DEAR FRIEND: I have been arrested and brought here by the order of Colonel Jackson or Governor Jackson, charged with having conducted the Federal troops to the top of Rich Mountain, which charge is false and I can prove it false by the whole army then stationed at Camp Garnett or Rich Mountain. I can prove also that I was with the army off and on all the time it was there, working for the army day and night. My family and I never left the army until the word retreat was given and then came down to Baker's and there got Baker's carriage, hitched my horse to it and brought Capt. William Ervin off. He had three of his ribs broken from a fall he received in camp and was brought out to Baker's on Monday before the battle. I carried him home within a few miles of the Warm Springs. I then went on to the Springs to see my daughter and children, at which place I was arrested on Friday following and brought to this place and turned loose on parole. I do not know the meaning of it, but [am] still under arrest.

I have written to Colonel Jackson about it and asked of him to give me a hearing or a trial and I would prove to him and the whole world that I was innocent, and that when I did that I wanted to be honorably acquitted and also full satisfaction of those who perpetrated such unfounded falsehood; that I should not be satisfied until that was done. They know well that I was a witness to a great deal of their mismanagement and bad conduct as it respects that battle, and afterward the miserable retreat of Scott's riflemen and the situation it placed Garnett's army in, and think by playing this trick on me they will get clear of it. Let me get this arrest settled up and I'll let them know that I will let the world hear of it.

My loss is great by the Federal troops and more than I shall ever recover, but that I care nothing about so we can gain our independence. They can have all, so that I can say I am once more a free man. Please attend to this. I have written to Governor Letcher and you will see him in person if you please. Mr. Morrall will say a few words in this case.

I remain, yours, with the greatest regard and respect,
DR. WASHINGTON HILLEARY.

[First indorsement.]

JOHN BRANNON, Esq.

DEAR SIR: I am entirely satisfied that Doctor Hilleary should be released. I know that he retreated with the army. I saw him at Huttonsville with a sick gentleman in his carriage, and also at Greenbrier River. I consider it an outrage upon him to have him detained here. I have nothing to write about our army, having heard nothing definite. I shall not leave until to-morrow. Have him released if possible.

Yours, &c.,

L. D. MORRALL.

[Second indorsement.]

I have known Doctor Hilleary for several years. He has always been a true Southern man, and I am greatly surprised that any suspicion of unsoundness should have attached to him. Of course I know nothing of the charges against him, but cannot from my knowledge of him suppose for a moment that he has been guilty of any act inconsistent with his known devotion to the Southern cause or in the least affecting his integrity as a man.

JOHN BRANNON.

[Third indorsement.]

AUGUST 14, 1861.

His Excellency the PRESIDENT:

I am satisfied from my knowledge of Mr. Brannon, State senator from the district in which Doctor Hilleary resides, and of Mr. Morrall, a resident also of the district, that neither of them would ask for the release of an unfaithful or disloyal man. Both of these gentlemen have been driven from their homes in consequence of their loyalty and devotion to the cause of the South. Their statements satisfy me that Doctor Hilleary has been improperly arrested and ought to be discharged. He is confined at Staunton, Va.

JOHN LETCHER.

RICHMOND, VA., August 14, 1861.

His Excellency JOHN LETCHER, Governor of Virginia :

I have learned with regret that some person has had Dr. Washington Hilleary, a former resident of Randolph County, Va., arrested on suspicion of having piloted the Federal army around our camp at Rich Mountain. Knowing that these suspicions are entirely unfounded I feel that great injustice is being done to one of our friends. I therefore make the following statement of facts, hoping that they will be sufficient to procure his immediate release:

Doctor Hilleary resides about two miles west of Camp Garnett (Rich Mountain), at Roaring Run, and he and his family did all in their power to befriend and relieve our little army while it was at Camp Garnett, and when he heard that the Federal army was approaching he asked us to send our teams down to his house to bring to our camp all his grain, saying that he did not want it to fall into the hands of the Yankees, and he for safety fled to Beverly in the rear of our camp, and left there in company with other refugees and came on to the Valley of Virginia, where he was arrested and taken to Staunton. A young man by the name of Hart (as I learned while a prisoner) acted as pilot to the Federal army in their march through Rich Mountain.

Yours, respectfully,

J. M. HECK.

[First indorsement.]

AUGUST 14, 1861.

This paper has been handed me since I sent the papers in the case of Doctor Hilleary to you an hour since. Be kind enough to file it with the other papers.

JOHN LETCHER.

[Second indorsement.]

I have made inquiry and find no record of any such person as Dr. Washington Hilleary as prisoner. There has been no such a prisoner since I have been in charge. I understand that there are two prisoners in the penitentiary who do not properly belong there. It may be possible that one of them be Doctor Hilleary.

Respectfully,

JNO. H. WINDER,
Brigadier-General.

Inquiry has been made at the penitentiary and no such person is there.

J. H. W.

Case of Chaplain John F. Mines.

WAR DEPARTMENT, C. S. A., Richmond, August 8, 1861.
General WINDER.

SIR: Mr. Mines, who represents himself as an Episcopal clergyman, is a prisoner on parole, and is staying with the Rev. Mr. Peterkin, the pastor of Saint James Church, Richmond. This Department has good reasons to believe that he does not deserve to be put on parole. You will therefore have him arrested at once and confined in prison.

By order of the Secretary of War:

A. T. BLEDSOE,
Chief of Bureau of War.

RICHMOND, VA., August 8, 1861.

Hon. L. P. WALKER,

Secretary of War of the Confederate States of America:

The undersigned has been rearrested without knowledge of any fault on his part, and would therefore make a brief plea to the Department. I am an Episcopal clergyman in good standing and chaplain of the Second Maine Regiment. Always a Democrat and friendly to the interests of the Southern States. The cry that the Union was in danger, and that there was a Union party calling on us for help here, led me to accompany the regiment in a spiritual capacity as chaplain of the Second Regiment from Maine. I was deceived; I bitterly repent it, and accordingly over my own hand I have acknowledged (as far as in me lay) the independence of the Southern Confederacy. They (the States of the Confederacy) ought to be free, and I should be glad to be allowed to raise my voice for peace. These are my sentiments, freely expressed to Doctor Peterkin, Dr. Quintard and all friends here founded on what I have learned since a prisoner. I refer with all respect to what I have written in times of peace, and especially to a printed sermon preached January 4, 1861, for the testimony to my opinions in times past. The Right Reverend Bishop Atkinson, of North Carolina, remembers the sermon, as it was noticed in the Church Intelligencer; and also Doctor Quintard, of Nashville, Tenn., a chaplain in the Confederate army. With all respect therefore I beg to refer to these gentlemen, with Doctor Peterkin, of this city, as references for my character and as hostages for my good conduct. Our church has had nothing to do with these troubles, and her clergy where they have accompanied the troops of the North have ministered only to their spiritual necessities. Doctor Quintard has known me personally in times past, and to him I make my chiefest reference, begging to be allowed as a chaplain to find a quiet home in the house of Doctor Peterkin, and the privileges of attending the services of God's house. My wife and little ones, and my sister, dying of consumption, would make the same plea for my youth; fatherless and motherless themselves they lean on my frail arm for support.

I am, most respectfully,

JOHN F. MINES.

—
RICHMOND, VA., August 10, 1861.

Hon. L. P. WALKER,

Secretary of War of the Confederate States of America:

The undersigned having partially ascertained the cause of his detention in prison would respectfully and as briefly as possible present his plea as follows: I understood at Manassas that I was charged with using severe language in conversation. I thereupon wrote to General Beauregard stating that I had never intentionally violated even the spirit of my parole; that I had been attacked violently several times by strangers and officers, and may have answered them severely in the presence of wounded men and others, but that I had never sought any controversy and had never spoken unless addressed. Twice I was compelled to remind gentlemen that I was a prisoner of war and therefore entitled to be let alone. I am no military man and am very young; and older men than myself better acquainted with military matters ought not to have led me into trouble by questioning, and yet I ought to have remembered that exultation is unavoidable in the hour of great victory, and so if I have erred I humbly beg pardon both of God and of man. As a minister I have repented bitterly the forgetting that a quiet answer turns away wrath, while as a man I have felt that the worm might be pardoned if he turned again. When I was leaving Manassas Colonel Hatch told me that it (my coming to Richmond) would make no difference as to my parole; that those who were sent home would go via Fort Monroe, so I supposed the matter was settled as far as I was concerned, but if not let me make to yourself the same plea as to him and referring to honored clergy of my order as to my character let me beg the restoration of my parole. God is my witness (and let my past character testify to the solemnity of the oath) that never by thought, word or deed have I intentionally violated the solemn parole that I hold still binding upon me.

Since I have been here I have met the Reverend Doctor Quintard, a personal friend and now chaplain of a Tennessee regiment; and Bishop Atkinson is here, who knows me by reputation. They know that I belong to a church that was always peaceful; that my own sermons strove for peace to the last; that my word and character are unimpeachable, and that I have assured them of a total change in my impressions and opinions since my stay here and my consequent desire to go back with words of peace. I have by my parole freely and fully acknowledged the independence of the Confederate States of America. I did it freely and without conditions of exchange annexed. I am glad to say that every day strengthens my conviction as to my duty to have done so and to labor for peace; and I appeal to you, sir, whether one who for humanity's sake remained behind the disgraceful flight of the 21st would ever intentionally utter unprovoked or dishonorable words? Let them who know me and my unspotted character as a presbyter of the church plead against such an accusation. At Manassas I sought to comfort the wounded and dying. I soothed the last hours of Major Ballou; spent a night with Lieutenant Adrian, of the Louisiana Special Battalion, treated with kindness never to be forgotten; and Mr. Sprague, one of the six rescuers of Colonel Gardner, will tell you that he dates the dawn of a new life from a Sunday spent with me in the barn at Manassas. Here I do all in my power, ready and glad to work. Young and with a young family, a non-combatant and not strong physically, I make this plea, that as for humanity and religion's sake I remained behind the rout so for humanity's sake I may be placed on my parole and released.

With great respect, I have the honor to be, your humble and obedient servant,

JOHN F. MINES,

Chaplain Second Regiment Maine Volunteers.

P. S.—I beg leave to refer to the Reverend Doctor Quintard, of Memphis, Tenn.; to Bishop Atkinson, of North Carolina, and the Rev. F. Fitzgerald, late editor of the Church Intelligencer at Raleigh, and now chaplain; to Reverend Doctor Peterkin, and to Lieutenant Adrian, of the Louisiana Special Battalion, &c.

NOTE.—Wednesday night, July 22, I spent with Lieutenant Adrian, of the Louisiana Special Battalion, having long conversations with him. He will gladly testify, I doubt not, to the moderation of my sentiments and words. Other officers could do the same if I could recall their names.

LABURNUM, November 16, 1861.

Hon. JEFFERSON DAVIS, President, &c.

MY DEAR SIR: There is a Yankee chaplain named Mines now in confinement in Richmond as a prisoner of war who is most importunate to be released. Having been arrested at my suggestion his appeals have been addressed to me and by me have been laid before the War Department. Mr. Walker and Mr. Benjamin have declined to discharge him, and in consequence of a recent letter from him I obtained the permission of Mr. Benjamin to lay the case before you, so that it may be finally decided and his imprisonment or his importunities put an end to. To his first letter I wrote a reply which was sent to him by the War Department and I have now the honor to place before you a copy of that letter and reply, with his last letter to me, as containing a full statement of the case on both sides. Bishop Atkinson took much interest in his case when he was here and urges his discharge, and has written a letter about it to Bishop Burgess in the event of the prisoner's discharge. While I defer sincerely to the decisions of the honorable Secretaries I yet confess that it seems to me that it would do more good than harm to discharge the chaplain and publish his letter.

With the highest respect, I am, most truly, yours,

JAMES LYONS.

[Inclosure No. 1.]

RICHMOND, VA., August 16, 1861.

JAMES LYONS, Esq.

MY DEAR SIR: Understanding from the Secretary of War that my conversation with yourself at Manassas is the cause of the present detention here I hasten to send you a line of explanation and apology. If in anything that I said I gave cause for offense to you I apologize for it now as a Christian minister and a Christian man. I had no intention of giving offense to yourself or to the Government, merely to reply frankly to the questions asked me as to why no troops came across the Potomac, &c.

Personally I never had and have not now any animosity to the South. I have always been a pro-slavery man and a Democrat of the Southern school, as a sermon preached January 4 of this year and subsequently published by request will testify. The clergy whom I have met here (Bishop Atkinson, Doctor Quintard, of Tennessee, and others) will testify how I labored and prayed for peace to the last; and at the last a place as chaplain was offered me and I only accepted on the written advice of my bishop. His advice I have followed in always making the minister superior to the officer as is shown by the fact that I brought my surplice with me in my trunk and used it. Trying still to do my duty I remained behind our routed troops to minister to the wounded and dying, trying to save some souls among them. For this act of humanity and religion I was paroled at Manassas and came down here by order of General Beauregard (Colonel Hatch telling me that it would make no difference as to my parole), expecting to be sent home via Fortress Monroe. Here I was paroled and again arrested and upon your kindness I throw myself, asking a release for humanity and religion's sake.

Since I have been here my views of the state of the conflict have changed. Finding how grossly we were deceived in being led to think that there was a Union party here who asked our protection; finding a united South and a people thoroughly in earnest, I desire to have nothing more to do with it but to labor and to pray for peace and peaceful separation, and I write this with my own hand and over my own signature, to stand as a witness for me. I am, sir, a non-combatant and a clergyman of the Episcopal Church; of unblemished character, as clergymen of the South who know me will testify. I am out of health; a severe cold has settled on my lungs and my imprisonment will only result in death by the disease that carried away my father, mother and sister, and has seized upon my younger and only sister and I fear on myself. My wife is also fatherless and motherless and with her two babes is waiting anxiously for me. They lean upon my youth, and I had promised when my three months were up to return to them, for I was sick of camp and of war. Let me add too that my wife fears she will be confined again this winter, and will you not then intercede with the Secretary of War (for in your hands it lies) that we may not sicken and die away from each other. A release, though it were even to go home and die among my friends would gladden them beyond measure and the Father of the fatherless would reward the kindness. I am very young and may have been imprudent.

In case of my release Bishop Atkinson proposes to write to Bishop Burgess, of Maine, with whom he is acquainted, informing him of the circumstance of my release and of what will be expected of me. The bishop then can keep his eye upon me and put his ecclesiastical commands on me. As you are doubtless aware the discipline of our church gives the bishop power among his presbyters, and the infringement of parole or the conditions of release would subject me to censure and disgrace. With this arrangement and with my explanation and apology, I hope, my dear sir, that you can ask of the Secretary of War that I may be returned to my home, to my wife and little ones and my dying sister.

I am, sir, very respectfully, yours,

JOHN F. MINES,
Chaplain Second Maine Regiment and late Rector Grace Church, Baltimore, Md.

[Inclosure No. 2.]

LABURNUM, NEAR RICHMOND, August 18, 1861.

REV. JOHN F. MINES.

SIR: I have just received your letter of the 16th instant. It is exceedingly touching and even if I disbelieved its profession of penitence I would say if I had the power: "Spare him and let him return to his wife and little children and let his joy and their joy at his deliverance and reunion with them purify his heart and teach him to repent of the great crime he has committed in invading our peaceful land with an army of plunderers for the purpose of making our wives widows, our children fatherless, and our parents childless, although none of them had ever wronged or sought to injure him or his or those in whose bloody service he came."

But I hope and believe that you are not seeking to escape from the consequences of one crime by committing another and are sincerely penitent and therefore I sincerely forgive you; for if a penitent may be forgiven for sinning against his God he may be forgiven for any other sin though it be as great as yours. You are not, however, in my power but in that of the honorable Secretary of War and the magnanimous and gallant gentleman who as President of our new Confederacy so nobly leads us in the way to victory and liberty. You were arrested upon my testimony but not as your apology would seem to indicate for any offense to me, but because upon that testimony you were in the opinion of the honorable Secretary (who if he errs at all in respect to prisoners errs on the side of mercy) the active enemy of his country found on the battle-field and still impenitent and vindictive. In order to do justice to that opinion allow me in no unkind spirit and with no view to wound you (I assure you) recall to your memory the circumstances under which we met and some at least of the occurrences at that time. We met in the hospital not far from the field on which Sherman's (Ricketts') battery was captured, which was filled with your wounded countrymen who had been abandoned as hundreds of others of them were by their army, their surgeons and their chaplains, in misery to die upon the field if not rescued by the brave and kind-hearted men whom they had sought for destruction. I found you apparently well, in the garb of an officer, in the midst of the wounded and dying and in sight of the battle-field which though filled with graves was still covered with your slain. You seemed to be intelligent and I asked permission of you to propound one or two questions to you. You gave it and I said, "Will you have the kindness to tell me what view of the subject induced you to invade our country and take part in a war which has brought upon your own people (pointing to the wounded) so much suffering and was intended to inflict greater ills upon us?" You replied: "I am a chaplain, an Episcopal clergymen. I had escaped beyond the reach of harm, but my conscience made me come back to look after the wounded." I then expressed my surprise that you should be here, as at the North the only religious denominations which had made any show of resisting the war and defending the rights of the South were the Episcopalians and Catholics; to which you rejoined that "more than half the chaplains in the army were Episcopalians and Democrats who had been changed in a night from opponents to advocates of the war by the firing on Fort Sumter," and you proceeded to justify the war not only on that ground but upon the ground that the North could never acknowledge the right of secession, but must treat secession as rebellion and put it down, and upbraided us for our inconsistency in denying to the revolting portion of Northwestern Virginia, whose conduct you justified, the right of secession which the South claimed; and when I pointed out the difference in the cases, showing first that the northwest did not propose to secede, and secondly was acting in plain violation of the statute of Virginia which denounces as treason any attempt to set up another government in Virginia in opposition to the existing government and in violation of the Constitution of the (late) United States which forbids the division of any State without the assent both of Congress and the State legislature, you still defended the Peirpoint government, saying that you were familiar with the Constitution, though you afterward confessed that you had not read it since you left school. You expressed these sentiments in an excited and as it seemed to me in a most vindictive manner.

The result of the whole interview was to impress me, as it did our excellent surgeon, Doctor Smith, of the Seventh Louisiana Regiment, who was attending your wounded, and my brother-in-law, Major Penn, of the same regiment, who were auditors and spectators of the scene, with the conviction that you were a most improper person to be at large and especially among the prisoners. In addition to this Doctor Smith afterward told me that you intermeddled with his treatment of the wounded prisoners and endeavored to dissatisfy them with it, and he believed that you also repressed in them any tendency to penitence and stimulated them to the maintenance of your own views. Of the correctness of these opinions, certainly of the first, I had the evidence of my own senses before I left the hospital. In addition to these things I heard you spoken of at a subsequent time in terms of condemnation by others, who expressed the opinion that you ought not to be at large.

When therefore I heard that you were in Richmond I felt it my duty to communicate all that I knew about you to the honorable Secretary of War and to express the opinion that you ought to be arrested, although you had found shelter in the house of my friend than whom a more loyal and upright man does not live, and in my opinion you were properly arrested. But you confess your error and profess repentance, and as I have said I freely forgive you, although you have justified and taken part in this war against us, which I must be allowed to say is the most unholy which ever was waged and has been conducted in a manner the most infamous and most barbarous which ever has been practiced by a nation professing Christianity. It could not well be otherwise however when the man who coldly planned the war in October last—and now marshals the hosts against us which must desecrate and efface the graves of his own children and those of his wife's father and mother before his vengeance and vanity can be gratified by our subjugation—is a renegade and parricide.

I will promptly communicate your letter to the honorable Secretary and he will do I have no doubt all that honor and humanity require. Sure I am that he will not imitate the example of your Government in the case of Mr. Faulkner who—returning to its jurisdiction from foreign service for it in order to perform his last act of duty to it—without offense of any kind because of his nationality alone has been committed to a loathsome prison, although his wife and children anxiously await him in Virginia, as yours do in Maine. While to you, however, I would willingly extend the mercy which you seek because of your vocation, your sickness and penitence, allow me to say that your case if you are discharged on parole should be regarded as the exception which proves the rule and not the rule. Your prisoners should be guarded carefully, and for each one of ours who may be sacrificed by your Government twenty of yours should meet a similar fate. You will I hope not be one of that number, but will return in safety to your home to embrace your wife and children and teach your people to repent of the crime they have committed in slaughtering their own people as well as ours without cause, and also to disabuse them of the error under which they labor when they suppose that the South can be subjugated. Tell them that when there is not a man left to confront the foe, nor women to nurse and cheer the wounded; when the sun shall cease to warm the South, and the notes of our mocking bird shall be hushed in despair, then and not till then will they conquer the South.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES LYONS.

[Inclosure No. 3.]

RICHMOND FACTORY PRISON, October 24, 1861.

Hon. JAMES LYONS, Commissioner C. S. Army.

SIR: I fear that you have forgotten in the pressure of other business that a chaplain—a non-combatant—has been kept for three months in the common prison, doubly punished by being deprived of all that which is necessary to the spiritual well-being of a clergyman. Let me again call your attention to the fact that on your testimony alone I was deprived of my parole, and I suppose that the same person that bound me can unloose. And also let me beg you to remember the agony of the family from whom I am parted, a family who never expected that a non-combatant could be kept as a prisoner. To God and your sense of what is right and humane I commit myself. Voluntarily when I had time and means to escape I intrusted myself, a non-combatant, into the hands of the Southern Confederacy. Before God, my Judge and Savior, my hands are clean from aught save having espoused the cause of the North and having expressed my then views very warmly to your honor in a private conversation that was not sought by me. Will you who hear the cause of others listen to this of mine and for the sake of humanity, for my family's sake, report me to the Secretary for a release? The sorrows of the last three months will atone for a multitude of sins.

I am, very respectfully,

JOHN F. MINES,
Presbyter and Prisoner.

Hon. J. P. BENJAMIN, Acting Secretary of War:

I beg leave to call the attention of the honorable Secretary to the case of Chaplain J. F. Mines, which he will find fully explained in the copies of a letter from him to me and my reply to it, and respectfully ask that the case may be decided, as he continues to importune me by letters to which I do not feel at liberty to reply without the authority of the War Department. The original of my reply to him was sent to the late honorable Secretary of War and never acted on finally by him. It has never yet been sent to the prisoner.

Respectfully,

JAMES LYONS.

Case of Arnold Harris.

RICHMOND, August 5, 1861.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I most respectfully ask that you will hear from me a statement in behalf of Mr. Arnold Harris,* now confined in this city by military authority. This statement I consider no less due to yourself than to him, because I know that it is your desire in all cases, as it is your prerogative in this, to be just. I know, Mr. President, that you are occupied almost without intermission by grave duties, but I hope you will turn aside a moment to consider this.

I remained in Washington City for some time after the formation of the Confederate Government and visited that place again in March on business of that Government. I then frequently met Mr. Harris, and had repeated conversations with him upon the political condition of the country, alone and in presence of others. He expressed himself earnestly and consistently publicly and privately in favor of the South, and no one was regarded by our friends as more warmly with us in feeling and opinion than he. He was trusted as far as any one, and I have yet to learn that he abused our confidence. He left Washington City in April for Kentucky (where his family now is), and I am assured by gentlemen of that State that he there openly maintained our cause and vindicated our conduct.

He returned to Washington only in July and upon business, purely private, connected with the estate of the late Senator Douglas of which he is a creditor. He assures me that he is in no wise connected with the Government of the United States nor any of its operations; that he has not now and never has had since the secession of the first State any connection with it in the way of contracts or otherwise.

The principle of international law that all the citizens of an enemy's country are enemies has neither been adopted by us in fact nor theory, for citizens of Kentucky, Maryland and Missouri are permitted to go and come as freely as those of any of the Confederate States. The different circumstances under which Mr. Harris came are not believed to constitute his case an exception. He came with another person (having the same object) to our lines in open day, along the common highway and without arms. He presented a letter for the commanding officer disclosing the object for which he came, one of kindness and humanity, rendered to the tears and supplications of a grief-stricken woman to find the body of her husband. Their coming was not at the instance of the Government or any of its officers. It was their individual act, presuming for safety and indulgence on the nature of their mission and the well understood proclivities of one of them to shield them from suspicion.

* See p. 995, Vol. II, First Series, for arrest of Harris.

Mr. Magraw frankly avows that he with others has a transportation contract with the Government of the United States, entered into in 1859 and which was extended and modified the past spring by the then Quartermaster-General, Joseph E. Johnston. For the execution of this contract his bond is outstanding and he has no power to release himself from its performance. Beyond this he has no other connection with this Government and has sought none from the present administration.

Mr. Harris through me has requested the honorable Secretary of War to call for a report from Colonel Stuart, who was in command at Fairfax, of the manner in which he approached our lines and all the circumstances attending his arrest. Upon this he feels that he may safely rely to prove what has been herein stated concerning it. It is the desire of many friends of Mr. Harris, they too true Southern men, that you would exercise your merciful and just prerogative both in his behalf and in that of Mr. Magraw. They are willing to waive all forms and place their case before any tribunal, civil or military, to which you may think it proper to remit them so that they may be able to relieve themselves from these painful personal discomforts and from what is far more bitter, the reproach of having come as spies.

Most respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. P. BREWSTER.

P. S.—I hope to have the honor of having your conclusion communicated to me in such way as you may think proper.

[H. P. B.]

—
RICHMOND, VA., August 29, 1861.

His Excellency JEFFERSON DAVIS,
President of the Confederate States.

SIR: Your generous treatment of Nelson,* of Tennessee, which has and will make for you and the Confederate States many friends, induces me to hope that in the same noble spirit you will release Arnold Harris from prison and permit him to return with me to his wife and friends in Kentucky. From a full examination of his case and from my own knowledge of Mr. Harris, in Kentucky, I am perfectly satisfied that he ought to be released. If a spy he ought to be tried. Every circumstance, however, shows that he did not come in that capacity, and the time when he left Washington taken in connection with the time of Cameron's flag of truce demonstrates that he (Harris) had no connection with the insulting communication of Lincoln's official.

Very respectfully and truly, your obedient servant,

GEORGE W. JOHNSON.

P. S.—I leave to-morrow morning for Louisville.

G. W. J.

* See Vol. I, this series, p. 824, for arrest of T. A. R. Nelson.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, August 31, 1861.

His Excellency JEFFERSON DAVIS,
President of the Confederate States.

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following papers in the case of Arnold Harris:

First. Copy of the letter to this Department from Hons. R. W. Johnson, W. W. Boyce, L. M. Keitt, Thomas S. Bocoek and Roger A. Pryor, of date July 25, 1861.

Second. Copy of the letter of this Department in answer to the above, of date July 26, 1861.

Third. Copy of the letter of Arnold Harris to the same gentlemen, in relation to the above correspondence, of date August 18, 1861.

Fourth. Copy of the letter of Arnold Harris to his former partner, Mr. Abrams, of New Orleans, referred to in the above letter.

Fifth. Copy of the letter of A. Buford, of Kentucky, to Arnold Harris, of date Versailles, Ky., August 18, 1861.

Sixth. The letter of the Hon. John C. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, to Your Excellency, of date Lexington, Ky., August 18, 1861, in relation to Arnold Harris (a copy of which is also retained on file in this Department).

The above papers are all the records on the files of this Department in relation to Arnold Harris, and are submitted to you at his request.

Very respectfully,

L. P. WALKER,
Secretary of War.

[Inclosure No. 1.]

RICHMOND, July 25 [1861.]

Hon. L. P. WALKER, Secretary of War:

The undersigned respectfully represent that Arnold Harris is a captive, confined in this city among the prisoners taken at and after the battle of Manassas. We also state on information that Mr. Harris is quite sick. We give the assurance to you that we have long known him to be in all respects devoted to and residing in the South; that he is no enemy to this Government we feel assured, and therefore that his continued confinement is to be deplored. We ask his immediate examination, and propose to make personally our individual statements in his behalf if necessary.

We ask his release, and are, very respectfully, yours, &c.

R. W. JOHNSON.
W. W. BOYCE.
L. M. KEITT.
TH. S. BOCOCK.
ROGER A. PRYOR.

P. S.—On second thought we have concluded to entreat of you the immediate release of Mr. Harris on condition that we take him into custody and personally pledge ourselves for his appearance before you whenever required.

Very respectfully,

ROGER A. PRYOR.
L. M. KEITT.
W. W. BOYCE.
TH. S. BOCOCK.
R. W. JOHNSON.

[Inclosure No. 2.]

WAR DEPARTMENT, C. S. A., *Richmond, July 26, 1861.*HONs. R. W. JOHNSON, W. W. BOYCE, L. M. KEITT, TH. S. BOCKOCK, ROGER A. PRYOR.

GENTLEMEN: This Department has received your communication of the 25th instant in which you ask the release of Arnold Harris, now a prisoner in confinement in this city, and offer to take the said Harris under your personal custody, assuring the Department that in your opinion "he is no enemy to this Government, and therefore that his continued confinement is to be deplored."

The Secretary of War would be personally disposed to grant any request sanctioned by names so distinguished for patriotism and for eminent public services as are yours, and he has therefore given to your petition the most careful and at the same time the most favorable consideration, but he regrets to say that he cannot come to the conclusion that it would be consistent with the public interest or with his own official duty to grant the request which you prefer. Arnold Harris was taken prisoner in our camp at the close of battle, which it was hoped by our foes would be fatal to our cause. He was found with the enemy, in company with those who sought our destruction; in search moreover of the dead body of the brother* of the very man who had presided officially over all the operations of war which had been employed against us. If it be pleaded that he was there at the sacred behest of private friendship, and if (difficult though it be to reconcile such conduct with the sentiment of patriotism toward our Government) that plea must be admitted, it is at least strange that knowing as he did so well from previous experience in the U. S. service the usages of civilized warfare he did not avail himself of a flag of truce which would have secured him safety and respect, but came a voluntary trespasser upon a field where all are enemies who are not friends. And if in this renouncement of a flag of truce there was meant to be expressed no sympathy with those who claim to deny us as rebels the rights and courtesies of civilized warfare, it was at least a proceeding which this Department cannot recognize as entitled to immunity, when such recognition would set a precedent which might be claimed in future by every spy found within our camps.

These considerations alone would be quite sufficient to make the Secretary of War doubt the propriety of granting your request however favorably in this case he might be disposed to regard your intercession. But there are other considerations which are decisive. Information is in the possession of this Department that this Arnold Harris has been and is a contractor with the United States Government, and as such has had large contracts with the War Department of that Government for the supply it may be of those very means of war which have been so lavishly employed against us, and it is known that since the commencement of hostilities between the two Governments he has resided by choice in Washington in intimate association with the Secretary of War himself and with that brother who is said to have fallen while fighting against us. If these things be true, as they are believed to be true by this Department, he can certainly be nothing less than an enemy. If he should still claim allegiance to this Government he would be indeed a traitor.

The Secretary of War therefore deeply regrets that he cannot grant your magnanimous request, which he regards as only another instance of that generous confidence and sympathy which the people of the South have only too often displayed.

* Col. James Cameron, killed at Bull Run.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen, very respectfully,

L. P. WALKER,
Secretary of War.

[Inclosure No. 3.]

RICHMOND, August 18, 1861.

Hons. R. W. JOHNSON, W. W. BOYCE, L. M. KEITT, THOMAS S. BOCOCK, ROGER A. PRYOR.

GENTLEMEN: I have just been furnished a copy of the reply of the honorable Secretary of War to a communication you were so kind as to voluntarily make asking for my release and to take me into your personal custody. The reply is based upon an entire misunderstanding of the facts of the case, and I deem it due to you who so generously made the offer of your personal honor to vouch for me to make a brief statement for your satisfaction, and with a hope that the honorable Secretary may after an examination and further reflection reverse his decision.

The honorable Secretary says:

Arnold Harris was taken prisoner in our camp at the close of a battle. He was found with the enemy, in company with those who sought our destruction, in search of the dead body, &c., knowing as he did so well from previous experience in the U. S. service the usages of civilized warfare. He did not avail himself of a flag of truce, which would have secured him safety and respect, but came a voluntary trespasser upon a field where all who are not friends are enemies.

I can show that I was not taken on a battle-field with enemies at the close of a battle, &c., nor was I a voluntary trespasser inside of the Confederate lines. I did not leave Washington until Monday after the battle at 5 p. m., when more than half the defeated army had reached the city. We lodged at Taylor's, ten miles from Washington, and arrived at Fairfax Court-House early in forenoon of Tuesday. We met no pickets, passed no sentinels, and on our arrival there I do not think there was a Confederate officer or soldier there. In a short time a Captain Jones, whom I knew, came up and informed me that Colonel Stuart, commanding the advance column, would soon arrive. When he did arrive about half an hour from that time I introduced myself to him and presented the letter addressed to General Beauregard or the Commanding General of the Confederate Army, requesting permission to cross the lines, which would explain the object of my being there. Colonel Stuart replied after reading the letter that he would forward it to headquarters at Manassas, and meanwhile he would detain us in his camp, which he was going to establish a short distance from town toward Washington. We returned with him and remained several hours, when Colonel Stuart informed us he was directed to send us forward to Manassas.

I did not see General Beauregard's reply to my application until it was published in the papers of this city. We supposed our request had been granted; that if it had been refused we would have been ordered to return. We had not come within the lines, were not voluntary trespassers in the Confederate camp, nor were we with enemies of the Confederacy. We came to the line and asked respectfully to cross. No thought of attempting to evade any of the usages of civilized warfare by getting across improperly or doing any act in opposition to the orders or policy of the Confederate Government ever entered our heads. Our mission was entirely of a personal character, and as such expected that it would be so regarded and that we would not be held responsible for the acts of the Government at Washington in regard to flags of truce.

As to the charge that I have had "large contracts with the United States Government and am on terms of intimate association with the Secretary of War and that brother, &c.," I deny it entirely. I have not one cent's interest in any contract with that Government. I have never received one cent from it in any shape, nor do I ever expect to. My associations with the Secretary of War are not intimate. I think I have not seen him more than twice since he has been Secretary, and then only accidentally and but for a moment. His brother I knew but very slightly, never having seen him but twice.

As to my residing in Washington "by choice" since the commencement of hostilities the reverse is true. I left that city in April because my friends did not think it safe for me to remain there. I had been engaged since the close of the last year in publishing the newspaper called the States, at a large expense to myself (assisted by several gentlemen, two of whom, Messrs. Robert Ould and D. Ratcliffe, are now I believe in this city), a paper which I will venture to assert was not surpassed in the vigor of its attacks on the usurpations of Lincoln by any in the Confederate States, and which was only discontinued on account of the threats of Lane's Kansas company that the office should be mobbed, the press and types thrown in the canal, and the editors and supporters hung at the lamp-posts. The gentlemen connected with me in it all agreed it was unsafe to continue. I had also refused to take the oath of allegiance, and was informed that unless I did take the oath my person would not be safe.

I left Washington on the 28th of April and took my family to Kentucky, where I remained with a brother-in-law and sister who reside there until the last of June, and where my family are at this time. While in Kentucky the election for members of the U. S. Congress was going on, and I beg to refer you to the Hon. J. C. Breckinridge, Governor Magoffin, Lieutenant-Governor Porter, Hon. J. B. Clay, and many others as to my status there, whether it was that of an enemy to the South.

The day before leaving Washington I wrote to my former partner, Mr. Abrams, of New Orleans, the accompanying letter, a copy of which he sent to his present partner, Mr. J. T. Doswell, who has appended his certificate as to its genuineness. This letter is partly on private matters. The first part relates to public affairs; but the entire letter is submitted, and I beg to explain that portion which says that my future would depend on the letters I received from Montgomery. When Col. J. T. Pickett left Alexandria I requested him to see President Davis and offer him my services in any position he deemed me capable of filling; that my health was not good, but that in some of the departments of the Army I might render some service and that I was anxious to do so. Colonel Pickett made a memorandum of it. I waited at Versailles some three weeks before I heard from Colonel Pickett. I have not his letter with me, but the substance of it was that he had no opportunity to mention the subject to the President and had concluded that it was not worth while to do so because a great many officers of the U. S. Army, lately resigned, were there, and it was deemed no more than just that they should first be provided for. This view of the case in my opinion being so proper I did not go to Montgomery to ask for any position, but concluded to remain in Kentucky, recruit my health, and meantime do whatever good for the cause I was capable of. Whether I did or not I leave for others to say.

I returned to Washington about the 1st of July on urgent private business in no way connected with the Government. I did not go until I had taken the precaution to know whether I would be safe from arrest. A friend who is now in this city wrote that I would be in danger if I expressed my sentiments. My business was so important that I took the risk, and having concluded all I had to do—which by-the-by amounted to nothing—I was prepared to leave for Kentucky next morning (Tuesday, 23d of July), and would probably have been here via Tennessee soon after if I had not met Mr. Magraw on Monday evening, who stated that he had been requested by the friends and family of Colonel Cameron to make an effort to obtain his body and that he had promised to do so provided either Mr. Jonah D. Hoover or myself would accompany him. I had known Mr. Magraw long and well as a sound friend of the South, and believing that it was simply an act of humanity, and with no intention to violate any of the usages of civilized warfare or any desire or design to aid the Government of the United States to do so I consented to accompany him. I was not acting for the Government or in connection with it. With that concern or its members I have had no interest or sympathy, and I think the honorable Secretary judges me very harshly when he classes me as an enemy and that he is also unjust to me in prejudging my case upon ex parte testimony (from whom I know not) as to my status in Washington.

I write this particularly for you gentlemen who so promptly offered to vouch for me, to satisfy you that you were not mistaken in me; and promising you that you shall never have cause to regret your confidence I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ARNOLD HARRIS.

[Sub-inclosure.]

WASHINGTON, April 27, 1861.

DEAR ABRAMS: Your welcome letter of the 19th was received this morning just in time for me, as I am off to-morrow and it might have chased me for some time without catching me. I go to Philadelphia for Mrs. Harris and Ella and take them to Kentucky, where they will stay some time—perhaps all summer. I will remain with them a few days and then be ready for anything. Must take a part in the great drama going on—make myself useful in some way, though I am not fit for very hard service. I shall get letters from Montgomery on my arrival in Kentucky which will decide my course. Most likely I will return to Richmond.

We have a terrible conflict before us. You cannot imagine the state of things at the North. The hordes are out to a man and those we relied on to check the aggressive spirit of the abolitionists have all caved in and are most violent in their hostility to the South, or as they say in sustaining the Government; all fighting under the cry that the Stars and Stripes must be sustained—an attractive but false issue. They come from hill and vale and I verily believe can raise a million of men and all the money they want. The New York banks have offered the Government all their specie, $47,000,000. This place is under a despotism. All who are not loyal to Lincoln must leave. I have been warned by a friend to start or I would be sent out. Seventeen thousand troops here now and 20,000 more in a week. Maryland will have to succumb and they may even attempt to subjugate Virginia. Many openly avow that to be the object. The South must strain every nerve or there is great danger that the Northern rascals will win their game.

I inclose you acceptance for $1,200, which I could have sent but hoped to hand it in person. I am a thousand times obliged to you for your ready response to my letter. In these hard times it is very welcome; I shall have money soon, and am in hopes to realize a good sum from some of my labors here during the winter, but I can't get it just now. I am glad to hear what you say about Tehuantepec—that awful leech on all of us. Woodward has my bonds and stock. I will direct him to send them to you, to be used as you think best. It is a perfect godsend to get anything from that quarter.

I am happy to say that the warm weather is taking the stiffness out of my fingers and that I can handle my pen with more ease. My right hand is pretty good; the left is still ailing. I cannot find words to express my feelings to you and your most estimable wife for the loss of that sweet child, Sallie. I can appreciate your feelings, for you know we have lost five. Each one seemed to break a heartstring. Afflictions crowded on us, but still we managed to hold up and look upon them as dispensations of God, and we must not murmur at His decrees. Present my most affectionate regards to Mrs. Abrams and talk to her in this way, as I have a hundred times to Mrs. Harris under similar circumstances.

I shall be at Versailles, Woodford County, Ky., in about ten days. Please write me there, and whatever you have to send me let it be on New York. Remember me to all old friends.

Yours, truly,

A. HARRIS.

[Inclosure No. 4.]

VERSAILLES, KY., August 18, 1861.

DEAR ARNOLD: Your letter of the 9th instant was received on yesterday, the only one we have had from you since your arrest. It afforded great relief to us all, as we had not heard a word from you direct since I left you in Washington. At no time, however, have we ever thought that you were in any personal danger, or that you were not well cared for by the many friends you would doubtless meet in Richmond. I have written you several letters since I parted with you in Washington (by mail), none of which I suppose you have received.

The moment it was known in Washington that you had gone for Colonel Cameron's body all the Republicans of the city pitched into the Secretary of War hot and heavy for sending a rebel within the lines of the enemy from Washington City at so critical a time. You were denounced in unmeasured terms by them. Had the Confederates made an assault upon Alexandria, Arlington or Washington within a day or two after you left it would have been evidence sufficient in the minds of all Republicans to establish the fact that you were a rebel spy, and had reported their demoralized condition.

After the battle of Manassas many of your friends who desired you to go on the errand you did regretted it much, after they saw the course events were taking after you left the city. When I reached Kentucky I saw the governor immediately. He wrote to Jeff. Davis—I fear with but little effect, as he knew but little about your case. I will see J. C. Breckinridge to-day in company with Tom Hawkins, and if we can effect anything I will get him to write to President Davis. Rest at ease in your mind concerning the welfare of your family. I will keep them in my care, and attend to all their wants until you are released, and as soon as I find they are not safe at my home in Kentucky I will take them with my own "little flock" to some safe harbor farther south. I hope, however, that you will be at liberty in a few days, and be with us in Kentucky before this salt-water general, Nelson, forces us to take a hand in this fratricidal war.

We are expecting trouble daily in Kentucky, the immediate cause being the violation of our neutrality by the Northern Government. Nelson, whom you know to be as d—d a Black Republican as is to be found anywhere in the country, is now under the authority of Lincoln organizing three regiments within the borders of the State. This is a clear violation of our neutrality, and it will be resisted by a majority of the Union men in this (the Ashland) district. Nelson's encampment is about fifty miles from Lexington on the road to the Cumberland Gap. He has now about 2,000 men mustered into the service of the United States; a battery of field artillery, six pieces (rifled). I saw the order before I left Washington authorizing Nelson to organize these troops. Secretary Cameron asked me to take command of one of these regiments under Nelson, with the promise of promotion to the position of brigadier-general so soon as a brigade was organized; all of which I positively declined, advising at the same time against the violation of Kentucky neutrality by the organization of troops under this salt-water general, Nelson, upon the soil of the State.

A majority of the Union men in Kentucky are bitterly opposed to this Nelson movement, and are now doing all in their power to remove him and his troops from the State. If we succeed all will be well with Kentucky; if not our neutrality is gone and my sword shall be drawn in the defense of the South. My ambition would be gratified if I could just command a brigade and drive Nelson across the Ohio River. It would not take much of a force to start him in the direction of Cincinnati, and if he was once started every Union man save a few like old Coombs and Judge Robinson would give him a kick to move him along. There can be no doubt as to where Kentucky will go when she is driven from her position of neutrality. I am satisfied from what I learned in Washington City that it is the fixed purpose of Lincoln to organize troops within the State of Kentucky, and that all efforts to get Nelson and his party to leave the State peaceably will prove fruitless. Therefore I am forced to the conclusion that our neutrality is gone and that we must have war with all its horrors in our midst very soon. I am glad that you denied unequivocally that I had accepted a commission of brigadier-general from Lincoln. The report is false, and without the slightest foundation. I have battled long and ardently as well as honestly for the Union. I have been prompted alone by a love of country. I thought I was fighting shoulder to shoulder with at least a few honest patriots and statesmen, but in this I am sadly deceived. The Black Republicans are fighting alone for the abolition of slavery and power. They are without wisdom and honesty; they are a corrupt set of thieves. We no longer have a Union to fight for, and I am now henceforth and forever for the South—no little cotton confederacy, but every foot of slave soil. Washington City must belong to the South. I have compromised myself so far on the side of the Union that it will take me some time to get all right. I will write to you again by the first person I hear of going to Richmond.

You must give my love to Magraw. I know confinement must go hard with a fat man in warm weather. You must try and get out of trouble before our fall races in Kentucky, and come by and spend a week with me recruiting. I have plenty of good old whisky and bacon.

My race horses are doing well, and if Nelson don't interrupt our sport this fall by running himself in the direction of the Ohio River we will have a good time during the race week at Lexington and Louisville.

You must write us as often as you can, and we will do the same. All join in love to yourself and Magraw. You are too wise men to be thus victimized.

Yours,

A. BUFORD.

If my services are acceptable to Jeff. Davis, and he is willing to trust a man who has fought as long and honestly as I have for the neutrality of his native State, he can command them.

A. BUFORD.

[Inclosure No. 5.]

LEXINGTON, KY., August 18, 1861.

Hon. JEFFERSON DAVIS,

President Confederate States, Richmond, Va.

DEAR SIR: At the suggestion of Col. T. T. Hawkins and other gentlemen I now give you the substance of a conversation between Mr. Arnold Harris and myself the morning after the battle of Manassas:

He came to my rooms that morning; spoke of the great excitement in Washington; alluded to the fact that at the outbreak of hostilities he had been urged to take command of a regiment, which he refused to do; informed me that late the night before he had been urged to take a command, and threatened in case of refusal; said that his reply was that he would not enter the U. S. service; stated that he considered himself in danger and desired to leave, and earnestly advised me to leave the city on account of threats against my person which had come to his ears. I think Mr. Harris was regarded in Washington as decidedly Southern in his views and sympathies.

I had no knowledge of the enterprise for the recovery of Colonel Cameron's body.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN C. BRECKINRIDGE.

—
NASHVILLE, October 29, 1861.

Hon. PHILIP DANDRIDGE.

MY DEAR SIR: * * * Mr. Arnold Harris, whose hand is crippled, is present and requests me to add that Zollicoffer ought to be instantly re-enforced to enable him to penetrate to Lexington; otherwise he will be driven back, and the Federals will take possession of the railroad north of Knoxville, thus cutting off all communication between Virginia and the Southwest. Not less than 5,000 men should be sent to him at once. A strong force should also be sent to Prestonville to move forward simultaneously with Zollicoffer. The arrival of these two converging corps would swell the Confederate army by 20,000 good men. Send all the Tennessee troops that can be spared from Virginia for this service.

The Northwest is pouring its hordes into Kentucky. No less than 12,000 entered the State last week at Cincinnati and Louisville. They volunteer under the belief that the Kentuckians are in the fight and that they are marching to the rescue against fire-eating invasion. If Johnston does not advance and dispel this delusion they will have 200,000 men disputing with him their passage into Tennessee before the middle of December.

I shall write to Beverly on gun and financial matters to-day.

Your friend,

GEO. N. SANDERS,

Case of Robert Wood.

Robert Wood, native of Elizabeth City County, Va.; thirty years of age; married man, with children; no specific charge against him; no proof; professes entire loyalty. Says that he was arrested by the enemy; carried to Old Point; refused to take their oath of allegiance and was discharged on parole.—Report of S. S. Baxter, Commissioner.

STATE OF VIRGINIA, York County:

This day Ann Maria Hopkins, of said county, but late of Elizabeth City County, Va., personally appeared before me, B. F. Smith, a justice of the peace in and for said county, and made oath that in the latter part of May, 1861, and after the said county of Elizabeth City had been invaded by the Federal troops, she was on Fox Hill, in said county of Elizabeth City, at the house of one William P. Phillips; that one Robert Wood, of said county, who married the daughter of said William P. Phillips, came to the said house from the residence of one John P. Topping on Fox Hill and stated that he had seen about 100 Yankees at said Topping's; that he heard they were there and that he had gone on that day to see what they had to say; that he exhibited a pass which he said an officer of the Federal troops had given him to go where he pleased; that he had on that day promised to prepare for them (the Federal troops) a map or chart of the country in that neighborhood, and that on the same day he did prepare a map or chart of Fox Hill with all the roads and houses of prominent citizens marked on it; that he folded it up and put it in his pocket and said he intended to give it to the Federal troops.

ANN M. HOPKINS.

Given under my hand this 2d September, 1861.

B. F. SMITH,
Justice of the Peace.

RICHMOND, October 8, 1861.

While on a visit to my county some time in June I was told by Mr. Frank Guy that Mr. Robert Wood had furnished a map of the county to the enemy and was a bearer of information to the enemy by writing to Mr. J. F. Moor, of Elizabeth City County. He can furnish you with the names of the witnesses. The people of the county are much incensed against him. Mr. Guy also told me some female had seen the map and would appear against him.

R. M. BOOKER,
Lieutenant, C. S. Army.Report of Commissioner Baxter.

RICHMOND, VA., April 26, 1862.

Prisoner was born and raised in Hampton. In his examination he admits he was appointed by Lincoln surveyor of the port of Hampton. Says he did not solicit the appointment but it was procured for him by Joseph Segar. When he was informed that Mr. Segar would procure the office for him the State of Virginia had not seceded and it was believed by many it would not secede. He consulted his friends and they thought there was no impropriety in his accepting. When the commission came the times had changed. He never gave bond or qualified under it. Says when the enemy came to Hampton he took his wife and children and went to his father-in-law's. This was late in May. On the 13th or 14th of June, he says, [he met] three or four men who said they were deserters and wanted to go to the Southern army. Some days after that he was walking around his father-in-law's plantation. Some of the Federal soldiers took him prisoner and carried him to Fortress Monroe and he was released on parole. A few nights afterward a party came to the house of his father-in-law, took all the men there except himself; took them to the fort and made them take the oath. He thinks they knew he had been at the fort and therefore they did not take him. He solemnly declares this was all the communication he had with the enemy. When Miss Hopkins' affidavit was shown him he admitted he had been to Topping's after a negro belonging to his father-in-law. He first admitted he saw the Northern troops, but afterward said they were leaving when he got there and he saw them at a distance and did not converse with them. He got the negro and denies the truth of all the other statements made by Miss Hopkins. I return Miss Hopkins' deposition. Denies he had any pass except permission to pass the pickets when he was discharged from imprisonment at Fortress Monroe. Denies he had ever promised to make a map and denies he ever did make a map. I think this man's manner under examination was very bad. He was confused and obviously attempting to suppress the truth. He is one of the party who broke jail, and in relation to that matter he prevaricated very much. If evidence can be procured he ought to be brought to trial as a spy.

S. S. BAXTER.

Case of A. F. Wulff.

FORT DAVIS, TEX., October [21], 1861.

Col. H. E. McCULLOCH, Commanding Department of Texas.

SIR: I have the honor to report to you the result of an order received from Lieut. Col. John R. Baylor, commanding Second Texas Mounted Rifles, on the 11th instant. The purport of said order was to arrest as a spy a man by the name of A. F. Wulff, living in Presidio del Norte, Mexico, and send said Wulff to the regimental headquarters in irons, but not to cross the Rio Grande to make the arrest, but if possible entice him (Wulff) to this side to accomplish the purpose. During my temporary absence to Fort Lancaster for the purpose of fetching up some recruits who had reported there for my company the order fell into the hands of Second Lieut. E. Gibbons, then in command of this post, and when the lieutenant received the letter from the post-office he (Lieutenant Gibbons) handed it before opening or reading it himself to R. C. Daly, clerk in Mr. Murphy's store at this post, with a request for him (Daly) to read the order, which he did publicly and so as to be heard by all present, which as a matter of course entirely ruined the success of the undertaking, Wulff undoubtedly being apprised of the matter before the lieutenant acted in the case.

Lieutenant Gibbons left this post for Presidio with a detachment of nine men on the 12th instant, and on the night of the 15th instant five of his party crossed the Rio Grande into Mexico, and about 3 o'clock in the morning attempted to arrest said Wulff, when an alarm was raised and a fight ensued between the Mexicans and the five men of Lieutenant Gibbons' detachment, in which two of the latter were killed. Lieutenant Gibbons states that his party crossed the Rio Grande without his knowledge or consent.

On the 14th instant I returned to this post and sent First Sergt. T. L. Wilson with five men to recall Lieutenant Gibbons and party to this post, but too late to remedy the evil the lieutenant has caused, as the two men were killed on the night the latter detachment left this place. The two parties returned to this post on the evening of the 18th instant, when I placed Lieutenant Gibbons under arrest until such time as I receive instructions from you how I shall proceed in his (Second Lieutenant Gibbons') case.

I also inclose a copy of a letter from the commandant of Presidio which will more fully explain the transaction at that place. I have likewise reported the affair to the regimental headquarters and inclose a copy of Colonel Baylor's order. I also inclose official documents from the Mexican authorities, which I send in the original as I have no person to translate them correctly. When you have them translated please return the original for future reference.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. C. ADAMS,

Captain, Second Regiment Texas Mounted Rifles, Comdg. Post.

[Inclosure No. 1.]

HEADQUARTERS, Donna Ana, October 3, 1861.

Capt. W. C. ADAMS, Commanding Company.

SIR: I am informed that there is a man at Presidio del Norte by the name of Wulff who is a spy. I want him enticed over on this side of the river and taken prisoner and sent to these headquarters in irons.

Respectfully,

JOHN R. BAYLOR,

Lieut. Col., Comdg. 2d Regt. Texas Mounted Rifles, U. S. Army.

[Inclosure No. 2.]

OCTOBER 16, 1861.

PRESIDENT OF PRESIDIO DEL NORTE.

DEAR SIR: I gave my men permission to come on your side of the river to see the place, and one of your citizens invited them to come and pass the night, and as they were treated so well in the forepart of the day I gave them permission to come and spend the night and there are two of my men missing. You will please let me know what became of them. You will also please let me know all about the difficulty.

As commander of the party I will have to give account of these men that are missing; therefore you will please let me know all about it, and by so doing you will oblige, yours, truly,

GIBBONS,

Lieutenant.

[Inclosure No. 3.]

PRESIDIO DEL NORTE, October 16, 1861.

Lieut. EMORY GIBBONS.

DEAR SIR: Your favor was received and am sorry to state that your two men are now killed and buried on this side of the river. There were five of your men in company with Mr. Joseph Leaton at a dance, and at 3 o'clock this morning they disappeared from the dance. Four of them knocked at the door of Mr. A. F. Wulff, and as he asked what they wanted they answered him in a friendly way and asked him for hospitality until morning, and told him that it was cold. As Mr. Wulff opened the door two of them walked in and caught said Mr. Wulff by the hair and forced him out of the door. While so doing he let out a cry for help, when they presented two pistols and told him to stop that or they would kill him. They then took him along, and as his wife let out loud cries and woke up the neighbors and asked for help I felt it my duty to order the citizens to go after Mr. Wulff; not with the intention to fight or kill anybody, but as the men caught up with them they asked for Mr. Wulff, and the first thing they did was to get out their pistols. They shot one of my citizens and came very near killing him. Two of your men kept up a regular fire, and the other two that came behind them killed one of my men. These four were the only ones that showed fight. The other one ran through the bushes with J. Leaton and escaped; also the two that came behind escaped. If they had given up the man and had not shot first nothing would have happened. The balance of the particulars you will find out from the commanding officer at Fort Davis.

I remain, yours, respectfully,

BENIGNO CONTRERAS.

[Inclosure No. 4.]

PRESIDIO DEL NORTE, October 16, 1861.

Captain ADAMS, Commanding Officer, C. S. Army, Fort Davis.

DEAR SIR: Although I have not the honor to be acquainted with you personally you will excuse my addressing you in stating what has been committed here by persons styling themselves C. S. troops belonging to your post and your company.

Yesterday morning some four Americans came over here to town and after awhile to my store, Mr. Joe Biehl along with them, introducing one of these men as Tom Krain or Wrain. (This one used to keep in the years 1854 and 1855 a bar-room between the old bridge and the blacksmith shop on the main street in San Antonio.) After I offered them a drink, which only one of them accepted, they inquired for Lieutenant White and Mr. Murphy, whom they expected to find still here. Tom, as I will call him, inquired if I had any corn of the quartermaster. I replied that I had not, on the ground that my contract was indirectly with Mr. Murphy, and my not knowing the men.

They left, and returning in the afternoon commenced conversation. I learned from them that they had been out on a scout for thirty days and that part of their animals were broken down; that they wanted to exchange some American horses for Spanish ones. Tom inquired what a man could do for making a living in this country, stating that San Antonio was no place at all for the present. From all this I suspected them to be deserters from one of your posts. At 3 o'clock this morning I was awakened by repeated knocks at my door and I recognized by the voice said Tom, who requested me to let him have a place to lay down as he was in the street and did not know where to go. I hesitated awhile in answering to his request, but they renewing their knocks at the different doors of my house and my wife having lighted a candle, by which means they could see where I and my family were sleeping, I thought it better to open for fear they might commit some wrong. I went to open to them myself, but as soon as I got in their sight two, Tom and another one, got hold of me and told me that I was their prisoner. I hallooed for help, but in the same instant they drew their pistols, putting them to my breast and threatened to shoot me at once if I would make any noise and not go with them. I begged them to have mercy on my wife, whom I heard crying, but they pulled me off. One man was left to guard the door so that nobody could get out. My wife trying to get out was repulsed. One man was following me from a distance.

I wanted to know the reason for this treacherous and barbarous act, but all I could learn was that I had to follow them on the other side for the purpose of signing a document for lands belonging to Mr. E. Hall, Joe Leaton and orphan children, as they said, and which the Mexicans from this side intended to take away from them and that I was the leader of the Mexicans. They mentioned also your name—that they were waiting for you. Captain White will be able to give you more information about these lands than I can, as I always keep out of business concerning Mr. Hall and Joe Leaton.

While I was led away one of my wife's brothers succeeded in jumping over the wall of my corral. Meanwhile the one that guarded the door had left and joined those that were leading me. My wife, who as I heard say got nearly crazy, was running barefooted in the street and crying for help. My brother-in-law went to the president of the place and by his exertion and my wife's clamors a party of men was soon afoot. They reached us and passed those that were going behind, although they were threatened to be shot. We were about 500 yards, I suppose more than that, being a good ways off below the hill. The good people of this place got in about fifteen yards from me and called my name. Tom's help let me go at once and faced the Mexicans, pistol in hand, which they had both all the way as well as those behind me. I tried for a moment to hold Tom's arm, so as to prevent him from shooting me or any of the Mexicans. He had threatened me before that if any help should come he would shoot me first. Being considerably frightened and excited I let him go and escaped behind him while he was facing the Mexicans. As soon as I got free Tom's help fired, and from that moment there was a continual firing; there must have been exchanged at least fifty shots.

One of the Mexicans was killed, as also Tom and my other leader. Two of them escaped—there were six in all over that night counting Joe Leaton. Joe and some one else were seen passing the river as soon as the affair was over. I am confident that Joe Leaton, whose character is sufficiently known without my saying anything about it, was the leader of the outrage committed on my person and homestead by trespassing into Mexico.

These, dear sir, are the facts I have to state, leaving it entirely to your judgment and justice how to act. I have to say in the meantime that on the Texas side there is no proper authority. I inclose you also a communication from the president of this place. The authorities of this place have always manifested the most friendly feeling to our Government of which they have at different times given example, and on the recent visit of Lieutenant White they expressed the same disposition as ever.

I suppose you are aware that Mr. P. Murphy and myself are furnishing your post with hay; and furthermore that I agreed to furnish your post for the present with 1,000 bushels of corn and also some small quantity of wood. But considering that my life in my own house is exposed as it has been—as I really had not the least hope of ever returning—I do not wish to expose my property on a road which no doubt cannot be considered safe. Besides I know I will not be able to find any Mexicans to work for me on the other side of the river and consequently I will be unable to fill any contract for your post, if you cannot give me sufficient protection. I do not know whom to blame besides Joe for this act of barbarism. This morning I learned that a party of twenty-seven men was at Fort Leaton; they certainly must have some commanding officer if they are, as I am now convinced, regular troops of the Southern Confederacy and belonging to Fort Davis. This morning when the affair took place they were encamped on the bank of the river and while the shooting was going on they saddled and left for Fort Leaton.

On the Americans that got killed and [who] have been buried since, two due bills were found, due to John B. Bowles for C. S. services, one for $100 and the other for $10, the first signed by H. P. Courtney and the second by John McNamee, witnessed by Thomas Wilson, proving the men to belong to your company—Captain Adams, Company C, Second Regiment. The original notes I hold for your disposition. Mr. E. St. Marc, from San Antonio, arrived from Chihuahua the night before and intended to leave for your place; but is now so much afraid that he does not want to risk his person and money until I hear from you. At about 12 o'clock to-day eight men of the party have been seen on this side of the river, and the main party is still at Fort Leaton. Tom was a thick underset man with red whiskers.

Hoping, dear sir, you will excuse my long and somewhat tedious communication and requesting your answer to this by the bearer, I remain, dear sir, your obedient servant,

A. F. WULFF.

PRESIDIO DEL NORTE, November 16, 1861.

DEAR FRIEND MURPHY: I escaped once more. Providence seems to protect me—this time I did not expect to see my family again. I am too excited yet to give you the details. Captain Adams, to whom I am sending an express, will no doubt communicate to you the contents of my letter, besides the bearer will be able to tell you all about it. My poor wife was as much and perhaps more frightened than I, although as I say I did not expect to return. Joe Leaton was the one that laid the plot no doubt, and it will I hope be proved by Captain Adams' men. Two of his men got killed and one Mexican. Dear Pat, do what you can to have Joe apprehended. If my men need some provisions to go home let them have it and say how much. I am revising the contract business also; please inform yourself regarding it.

Yours, in haste,

A. F. WULFF.

P. S.—Write me also by bearer and state me your opinions and views about matters. I believe we might just as well give up furnishing Fort Davis. I don't know who I will get to work for us on the other side of the river under these circumstances. I suspend everything until I hear from Captain Adams. I hope the hay cutters will not be disturbed; they intended calling them back but nobody wants to go.

Case of S. A. Pancoast.

S. A. Pancoast is a native of New Jersey and a Quaker. For his history and character see the affidavit of Robert B. Sherrard (marked Inclosure No. 14). Mr. Sherrard is a gentleman of known standing and character. Pancoast so excited the suspicions of his neighbors that he was arrested as early as August 31, 1861. (See parole marked Inclosure No. 4.) He announced that his sympathies were with the North and that he was willing to aid Union men in going North. (See affidavits marked Inclosure No. 2.) He has a son in the Northern army. (See letter marked Inclosure No. 11.) He obtained permission from authorities on both sides of the Potomac to trade in salt. General McClellan's permit limits the sale to Union men. The first permit was given September 25, but he has never yet delivered a pound of salt on this side of the river. An agreement with two other parties to do so is marked. For his last arrest see 6 and 7.* His memorandum book* shows that he has lately traveled in the North. A singular sentence in his memorandum book is indicated (by me) thus (B). It appears that he has no difficulty in crossing the Potomac. He did not vote for members of the convention nor on the question of secession. In view of all these circumstances the major-general commanding the Valley District regards Pancoast as a man whose place of nativity, his abolitionist proclivities, the character he bears in his neighborhood and his antecedents generally, his suspicious movements, his connection through his son with the Northern army and the easy access he evidently has to the functionaries of our enemy, point him out as a man whom it would be highly dangerous to allow to live in a border region where he could easily communicate to the enemy information which it might be of the utmost importance to withhold.—Report of S. S. Baxter, commissioner.

—
HOME, January 5, 1862.

MY DEAR HUSBAND: We were gladdened last evening by the receipt of thy dear letter of the 27th of December. Though sad we hailed it as a welcome treasure, because it conveyed tidings of the dear absent one, the first we have received since thee was taken to Richmond, though day by day we have looked and hoped and waited in vain till the heart grew sick. We have mourned thy fate without being able to alleviate it. I am surprised and disappointed thee has had no redress long ago. Why is justice delayed and credence given to base suspicions that had their origin in private enmity and malice of years gone by, nursed up to be poured forth in these awful times against the forbearance thee has shown the author? It is very hard to be treated as thee has been and all so undeservedly. Surely they should judge and discriminate between the innocent unjustly and slanderously accused, with a heart of high, honorable feelings, and those meriting the opprobrium heaped on thee. I feel it is too much to bear in this day and country; and even letters detained so that we can know nothing of the existence even of each other. Thee was aiding the country when arrested, and without knowing for why. Now we hear the crime is that thee could have influence enough to get the privilege of bringing things here for the benefit of the suffering. Strange, is it not? We were not able to get any salt till week before last, when doctor let us have some. Vanasdale has not been here and we could not go there, but we have not suffered for anything. Holt and Powell have given us their corn. They have not threshed but seem to wish to act fairly. Doctor offered and gave, I expect through our E[mily], an order on R. D. P. for flour, saying they owed him. No one seems to wish to withhold from us but Vanhorn and J. Saint Sayres (unless it should be Smith); the latter has gone to camp to fill someone's place for a short time, much to our relief, and the former is working in Lynch's shop agreeably to the little king's desire or order. I have been worried about thy clothes, thinking they must have given out and no money to replace them, little thinking even they were kept from thee. How uncomfortable on that score! I don't see how thee has done. Surely a blessing cannot attend such things. I do hope the lawyer will see and attend soon to thy case. Doctor Tapt's wife has a brother who is a lawyer, the name Haxall. Doctor says he wrote to Martin Maddox, proprietor of a hotel in Richmond, to supply thee with money and anything thee needed to make thee comfortable. Has thee heard from him? Emily inclosed a $5 note in her letter sent with mine and under the same cover about two weeks ago which doctor said must be directed in care of the provost-marshal. She thought it might aid thee in reaching home or at least procure some comfort in thy prison; heart-rending to think of it. If every one around them was as true and honorable in feeling as thee they would have little to fear. It seems there is a man in Romney who was formerly conductor on the railroad while thee was doing business and had the agency that said he knew thee, which is even made a handle of. Oh! what a world we live in and in what sad times! I always heard the South were a generous, hospitable, whole-souled people, and with such we thought we should like to live, and left our own comfortable home and friends to come here, for what? to be suspected, abused and trampled on. I have said to myself they are civilized and gentlemen, surely redress will speedily be given; but day has succeeded day till two months have passed by without it. We feel as if we could set out and walk to Richmond to see the President if it would avail anything. Oh! if he only knew thy integrity of character not the shadow of a blot would remain in his mind. I wish he would see thee himself. I fancy thee sick and sad, crushed down with no one to care, and pray these days may speedily be ended and we suffered to pass our few remaining ones in quiet peace in this our home of adoption. It makes the heart ache to know all thee has been subjected to. I went up to Emily's for the first time since thee left us, or was taken from us, on Monday to assist her in sausage making, &c. We did not get through till late on Tuesday night, and next day she had such a violent attack of sick headache I could not leave. Mollie and Mamie staid with their aunties till Wednesday evening; they had had colds but are now I believe all pretty well. I don't know whether doctor has returned to camp but expect so. He promised E. to bring S. Reed up soon to stay with him. Thee did not tell us how thee blistered thy hand, or how thy time is passed; whether thee can have books or is made in any way or degree comfortable, but has many a weary hour I know. Doctor still holds the same position of assistant surgeon. He calls here occasionally, and is as kind I believe as his nature and disposition will admit of. He says the poor little pigeons are in Winchester and cared for. I hope they are. We have written to George and directed to his uncle some weeks since but have heard nothing. Shall also write to President Davis, to go on in company with this, begging his attention to thee and the facts of the case from thyself. May a merciful Father uphold thee and direct him, that thee may soon return to home and us. Philip is kind and interested for us and thee. I don't know how we should have got along without him. We have kept pretty well in health of late, but I should think if this war goes on many a one will lose their reason. Would we could have peace again. We are having very cold weather these few days past and is now hailing; snow on the ground but not very thick; the first we have had. All December was beautiful weather. If thee only was here we could endure cold and privations. Do write soon and say what is the prospect, unless thee is acquitted so soon as to render that needless. Surely they do not wish to oppress and tyrannize, and as they hope for justice will be willing to award it. Flo and Lilly talk of writing; the one has a headache and the other face ache this evening, so as not to feel well enough; hope to be well to-morrow. Neither thee nor us passed a pleasant Christmas or New Year. May the days grow brighter. The girls send a heart full of love to thee, in which joins sadly thy fondly affectionate wife,

* Not found.

R. M. P[ANCOAST].

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, January 14, 1862.

S. S. BAXTER, Esq., Commissioner, Richmond, Va.

SIR: The Secretary of War directs me to refer the inclosed letter to you and to request that you will give it early attention.

Respectfully,

A. T. BLEDSOE,
Chief Bureau of War.

[Inclosure.]

BLOOMERY, January 6, 1862.

President DAVIS:

My object in addressing you is to ask for your interference in a matter where a most grievous wrong has been done and a most unjust act perpetrated. My husband has been arrested and taken to Richmond where he is now kept a prisoner. The order for his arrest came I believe from General Jackson, whose mind I am assured has been poisoned by an enemy of my husband and through whose influence Mr. Pancoast was removed to Richmond prison. I received a letter from him a day or two since, the first I have gotten since his removal to the latter place. He informed us that he had had no hearing and is kept in jail without any of the comforts to which he is accustomed. He is entirely innocent of the charges laid to him and is in every respect a true and loyal citizen. He told me in the letter above named that he had written to you but believed the letter had never been sent. Also mentioned having written to myself several times which letters I have never received. I suppose they would have arrived safely if permitted to leave Richmond. We have written to him but he has never seen a line from us. His arrest occurred on the 11th of November, and since that time he has been kept from us, who are needing him at home, under utterly false charges and disgraceful suspicions without being allowed even a trial. President Davis, I entreat you to give your attention to this matter. I and my two daughters are left entirely unprotected. Mr. Pancoast's health is giving way and what he is enduring is sufficient to make his reason also. He is all the world to us. Be just to him; give him a hearing; there can be nothing proven against him for he has done nothing, and in justice and mercy allow him to return to his home. In doing this you will receive our ever grateful remembrances and respect.

RACHEL M. PANCOAST.

RICHMOND, January 16, 1861.

SIDNEY S. BAXTER, Esq.

SIR: I herewith send you this letter relating to Mr. Pancoast's case, and as I presume you have every inclination, will give him the benefit of an early hearing.

CHAS. J. FAULKNER.

[Inclosure.]

FREDERICK CITY, MD., December 19, 1861.

HON. CHARLES J. FAULKNER.

DEAR SIR: I have just received the painful intelligence that my father, Samuel A. Pancoast, of Hampshire County, Va., has been taken prisoner and carried to Richmond. I was not aware of it in time to see you upon your journey south or I should have done so. His arrest was caused by Sherrard from personal enmity alone. Father had been to Baltimore and Washington to endeavor to get salt over the river to the suffering families of Hampshire and Morgan Counties, in Virginia, and also to some other counties if he could get permission. General Carson gave him full permission to try and a safe-conduct. Upon his return, however, General Jackson was in command, and Sherrard charged my father with bringing with him carrier pigeons. He did have with him some pigeons, it is true, but they were tumblers and ruffle necks to mate some he had at home. I was with him when they were bought, and know all the circumstances of the case.

Father has been very careful to do nothing at all to conflict with the laws where he was residing, and was extremely careful when in Washington to say or do nothing that might by any possibility be a disadvantage to him at home. His case was not examined into at Winchester when he was first arrested, nor has it been since he has been a prisoner at Richmond. My mother and sisters are in Hampshire County alone, unprotected and unprovided for, and it is now impossible for me to reach them in any way. If you will be kind enough to see that my father's case is brought up I shall be under lasting obligations.

If you can spare time to call upon him or aid him in any way, so that he may return to his suffering family, you will greatly oblige your obedient servant,

GEO. L. PANCOAST.

You must remember the high regard my father felt for yourself in Virginia and his regret at your leaving.

Special report in the case of Samuel A. Pancoast.

RICHMOND, January 21, 1862.

I submit the following papers* with this report:

Examination of S. Pancoast: Had his statement No. 1 shown to him. He read it deliberately and affirmed it was true. As to his position in this war he says he disapproves of the course of the South in seceding and disapproves the course of the North in attempting to coerce the South; says he was so much opposed to the course of the North that his brother-in-law, Thomas Ridgeway, forebade him to come to his house and told him he ought not to come North; says he is a Quaker opposed to war, but is willing to take the oath of allegiance to Virginia and the Confederate States. When asked what time he first embarked in the salt speculation says he first thought of it when under arrest. The date of his first parole, 31st August, he refers to as being the time (see Inclosure No. 5); says he then designed only to get a few sacks, perhaps a wagon-load for himself and his neighbors, but after he got General Scott's permission determined to make a large speculation when he was first paroled. He says he stated to General Carson

* List omitted; see inclosures following this report.

he designed only to bring in a few sacks. Two or three weeks after this communication with Carson he started on this salt business; he went to Paw Paw depot and crossed the river there at a private crossing place distant twelve miles from his residence; after crossing the river he went to Hancock; he stated he wanted to see General Cooper and was permitted to pass the enemy's troops without molestation; he went to Williamsport where Colonel Kenly was in command; says he had not seen Cooper and stated to Colonel Kenly he wanted to get salt; Kenly repulsed him roughly; he then asked if he could go to see Lincoln; Kenly replied if he got permission to transport salt it should not pass, but he would not be molested in going to see Lincoln; says he went from Williamsport to Hagerstown, from Hagerstown to Frederick, from Frederick he went to Washington; at Washington he says he put up at the National Hotel; he did not know a soul; did not make the acquaintance of any one; told his business to no one; employed no agents and interested no one in his business; says on the two days succeeding his arrival he went to the President's house, waited in the anteroom and had no opportunity to get admission; he says on the third day early in the morning he breakfasted and went to the President's before the President's breakfast, and sent in his card; he was called in the room where Mr. Lincoln was in the hands of a barber, who was shaving him; he stated he was from Hampshire and asked him if by his (Lincoln's) last proclamation he intended to strike Hampshire out of Western Virginia? He explains this question thus: Mr. Lincoln had issued two proclamations arranging military districts. In the western the people passed to other States without molestation, in the eastern they could not. He thinks Mr. Lincoln did not answer the question but said he sympathized with them; says the conversation did not last five minutes. Mr. Lincoln called for his writing desk and wrote a note to General Scott to permit him to transport salt; he took the note to Scott; Scott sent him to Cameron who said it was Scott's business, and on his return Scott gave him the letter (Inclosure No. 6); says he never mentioned the business to anyone. Immediately, in less than half an hour, left Washington and took the cars to Philadelphia; arrived there that night and there for the first time learned his son was in the Northern army. Left early the next morning; went to Frederick, saw General Cooper, there got a permit from him to pass salt. This permit was taken from him by Kenly who refused to pass salt unless he would limit the quantity; he says he then came home, went to Colonels Monroe, McDonald and General Carson and got their permission to import salt; afterward he returned to Washington. General Scott was displaced and he, Pancoast, got Camp to aid him and Camp procured the renewal of the order from General McClellan. When asked who Camp was he said he was one of the proprietors and editors of the New York Tribune; when pressed as to commencement of negotiation between Camp and himself, he said after he got General Scott's order and was in the cars going to Philadelphia Camp came to him in the cars and asked to see Scott's permit; when he saw it Camp said it was worth $50,000 and pressed to be let into the speculation. Pancoast agreed to meet him the next day in Philadelphia; Pancoast says he left Philadelphia in the next morning's train to avoid Camp, but says when he had gone to Williamsport and found Kenly would not let the salt pass and after he got the permits from Monroe, McDonald and Carson he returned to Washington. Scott was then displaced and he could not get access to McClellan. He met with Camp, who renewed the conversation. He agreed to let Camp have one-third of the profits to be made from the speculation. Camp designated Green as a proper man to unite with them and take the other third; he, Pancoast, did not know Green but on Camp's recommendation agreed to take him in. They telegraphed for Green. After some days' delay Green came on. He says the delay arose from Camp taking the papers to New York where he remained four days. Finally Camp and Green got McClellan's indorsement; the three went to Baltimore. The article (Inclosure No. 13) was drawn and executed and the entire responsibility assumed by Camp and Green. He says Green is a Pennsylvanian who married a niece of Simon Cameron and removed to Baltimore, where he was doing business as a grain merchant. When asked what he told Colonels Monroe, McDonald and [General] Carson when the permits (Inclosures 7, 8, 9) were given he said he told them all. When asked if he told them Camp was a partner he answered he was not then a partner. His attention was drawn to the fact that Green alone was named as a partner in the permits, when according to his statement, he first united with Camp and afterward Green was received at Camp's solicitation; he began then to modify his statement. He said that after getting General Scott's letter he went on to Frederick where he saw General Cooper. Cooper gave him a permit to take salt; Kenly took this permit from him. He returned to Frederick in search of Cooper. Cooper had gone to Baltimore; Pancoast found him at the Eutaw House. He says the letter of General Cooper to General Scott (Inclosure No. 10) was written at the Eutaw House; he says this letter was handed to him by General Cooper to hand to General Scott but he did not deliver it because General Scott was then displaced; says after this letter was written he had a conversation with General Cooper of which he made a memorandum (Inclosure No. 11); was uncertain whether he went home from Baltimore and obtained the permits then or whether he first went to Washington and obtained McClellan's indorsement of the contract. I gave him time to reflect and he wrote me the letter returned (Inclosure No. 2) dated January 14.

On this case I submit:

1. General Carson's statement.*

2. As the result of my examination I submit—

First. Soon after Pancoast was discharged from his first arrest he entered into communications with the enemy. These communications were not authorized by our officers and were never disclosed candidly to them. They were a breach of his parole.

Second. Pancoast did enter into unauthorized communications with Mr. Lincoln, General Scott and General Cooper to obtain a license from which he expected to make much money. To aid him in these negotiations he associated himself with Camp, one of the proprietors and editors of the New York Tribune, and with John A. Green, a nephew of S. Cameron, Secretary of War.

Third. I am satisfied he never did disclose to Colonels Monroe and McDonald and General Carson John A. Green's relations with Secretary Cameron, and I am also satisfied he studiously concealed from those officers Camp's connection with him and the extent and character of his speculations.

3. I am satisfied in his examination he did not design to tell me the truth in relation to his transaction with Messrs. Lincoln, Cameron, Scott, Cooper and McClellan, officers of the Government of the United States, but that he studiously concealed from me the means by which he procured the license to bring salt into Virginia.

* Not found.

4. From Pancoast's examination I am satisfied the license procured would have been of great value if the speculation had been carried out. From General Cooper's letter I am satisfied this license was supposed by the officers of the United States Government to be of great value, and I infer it was inconsistent with licenses granted to other persons for pay. What consideration was promised the Government of the United States for this license does not appear. The necessary inference is that it was injurious to our Government.

I cannot avoid the belief that Mr. Pancoast in violation of his parole was engaged in secret communications with the enemy, which until explained places him in the condition of spy who for private interest was ready to betray his country. I recommend for the present he be held as a prisoner who has violated his parole and engaged in improper and secret communications with the enemy.

S. S. BAXTER,
Commissioner.

[Inclosure No. 1.]

I was born and raised in New Jersey and came from there into my present residence in Hampshire County, Va., nearly fifteen years ago and engaged in the manufacture of iron, which I carried on until a few years since, when in the fall of the price of iron I broke up, not paying my debts, and by so doing made some bitter enemies who are relentlessly pursuing me at this time. I was brought up an orthodox Quaker and took not much part in politics; hardly ever in my life voted a solid party ticket and in the late elections for convention and secession I did not vote at all either for or against, and being poor and nothing to do at home and my neighborhood suffering much for salt, clothing, &c.; and having been arrested and brought before General Carson on the broad charge of disloyalty, who kept me five days a prisoner; and no charges or witnesses being brought before him after signing the oath of allegiance to Virginia was discharged, and before leaving his office asked him, General Carson, if I would be doing wrong to go into Maryland to get salt, groceries, &c., for our neighborhood. He replied, "We must wink at such things," which I accepted as assent, and went on a few days after to Maryland and found at Hagerstown, where I expected to purchase, that General Cooper's command which were then stationed at Williamsport had stopped and unloaded some salt a few days before and refused to let any go west under any circumstances. I then started to Washington, entirely unknown and unnoticed without any introduction or letter of any kind, to see Lincoln. I waited in Washington two days; the third morning I went before breakfast, wrote on a small card "S. A. Pancoast, of Virginia, wants five minutes' conversation with the President." He sent for me to come up at once. I did so and asked him if he intended in his last proclamation to strike out of Western Virginia our counties; that we were suffering for salt, groceries, &c., and many families looking altogether to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad had no way of going elsewhere to get them. He said he sympathized with us, but you will feed the rebel families. I replied "yes;" did he want to make war on old men, women and children? I had divided all I had with them as long as I had. He said, "no," that was right, and would write to General Scott to do something for me. I went to Scott; he asked me questions but said Cameron ought to do that, and sent an aide with me to Cameron. I heard no part of the conversation, only, "tell General Scott he is the one," which the aide did, and at once General Scott, without a single question, told the secretary to write me an order for Hampshire County. The secretary asked under what restrictions. He said, "None, sir, only under the direction of General Cooper." I then asked him to have Governor Thomas' name included as I had formerly been acquainted with him. General Cooper at once gave me an order to Colonel Kenly to pass into Virginia with salt, groceries, &c., which was directed to Kenly. I then saw Thomas, who wanted me to give him information and assistance in having some men arrested on our side of the river, which I so bitterly opposed that he would not only render me no assistance but went ahead of me to Kenly and got him to take and keep my permission of Cooper's, but to send me back to Washington again, saying I was a secessionist and would feed the whole rebel army. Instead of going immediately back I thought it best to come home after taking in a partner (John A. Green, who is strong Southern in his feelings) and get authority from the head of the army here. I did go to General Carson, Colonels McDonald and Monroe, all of whom gave me such articles of consent-right that I thought I had full authority and was doing a good act for my country South. I then with these papers went on again, after waiting several days to see McClellan, and finding it impossible almost for me to do it alone I agreed to give Mr. Camp, from New York, one-third of the profits if he would get him to renew it. After several days' detention he brought it to me signed. I objected as it named Union men, but the lawyer said who drew the contract that the language used by McClellan renewed the first in all its purity and so I thought it was, and after making arrangements with Mr. Green to purchase salt, &c., and started as soon as practicable. I came on to go to Richmond to see President Davis, get his approval to it and to ask him and the governor to grant permission for those small farmers who have no market along the harbor to trade their grain, hay, hoop poles, &c., for salt and groceries to make them comfortable and save them meat. My wife some eighteen months ago was presented by her brother in New Jersey with a half dozen little tumbler pigeons, which being of so slow a flight have been all but one caught by the hawks, and passing through the market in Baltimore, and seeing some, I gave 62½ cents a pair for two pair, and a pair of ruffle necks, which I brought home with me and for which the house was searched and the pigeons taken and kept up to this time, I hear, for carrier pigeons. My enemies hunting that hard to injure me, having nothing else, try to make something out of that, but I here positively assert that from the time of my signing the oath up to the time of my arrest that I have not broken that oath either in thought, word or deed. I was arrested by my house being open the night of my return and taken to Capon Bridge, the same day to Winchester, where General Jackson ordered me to be imprisoned, but Colonel Byrd, who was acquainted with me, thought I was too old a man to be put in the guard house for what I had done; put me on my parole. I remained a week, when Byrd told me he had resigned and placed me in charge of Batts, who at once put me in the guard house filled with body lice, and where for ten days I have suffered awfully for one who thinks he has done no wrong.

S. A. PANCOAST.

I omitted to state that owing to Governor Thomas' objections to my carrying salt, groceries, &c., into Virginia on account of feeding the army here that I came to Generals Carson, McDonald and Monroe to get a statement that they would not have the salt impressed. After that I went back to fulfill the arrangements, and which papers, with the agreement with Green and Camp, are in the hands of General Jackson, and at the time that this was going forward they were the only officers in command in this part of the country. General Jackson was not here and having done nothing only by consent of the authorities in command I think it hard that I should suffer.

[S. A. P.]

[Inclosure No. 2.]

[RICHMOND], January 14, 1862.

Judge BAXTER.

RESPECTED SIR: I find that I made a mistake in my statement. It had entirely slipped my memory that after I saw General Cooper at the Eutaw House where he gave me that letter to General Scott that I went back to Washington from there and it was then and there I again saw Camp and Green, Green for the first time, who was sent for by Camp and who returned with me to Baltimore to see Cooper. Not finding him at the Eutaw we went on to Frederick, where we found him and where I took that memorandum thee showed me yesterday. From there I hired the horse and buggy for Romney and Winchester. Thee is mistaken where Camp Carroll is. I am told here that it is within a mile and three-fourths of the Eutaw House and that General Cooper made Eutaw House his headquarters. So much for his heading his letter Camp Carroll. The other doubt in thy mind against me as regards influence with the President I cannot as yet satisfy thy mind, but will if life lasts. I also send a letter from wife* to me; not so much to parade her feelings as to show thee that she did send me a former letter in which my married daughter put $5, which was directed to the provost-marshal, Richmond, and to ask thee if thee pleases to inform me how I will find it as it has not been heard of by me. For the return of my letter with such information I will be much obliged. Excuse this freedom for I have none else to ask.

Respectfully, &c.,

S. A. PANCOAST.

[Inclosure No. 3.]

VIRGINIA, County of Frederick, to wit:

Private John Allery this day made oath before me, a justice of the peace in and for said county, that a few days ago in conversation with him Samuel A. Pancoast, who resides at or near Bloomery, in Hampshire County, Va., inquired of him "If thee had a near relative who was a Union man and he inquired of thee the way to a particular place what would thee do—would thee tell him or not?" To which affiant replied, "Considering the state of things now I should certainly as a true Virginian arrest him." He then asked affiant if he thought that would be treason. I replied, "I do not know." He then said, "If thee call that treason, then I am guilty," as he had told two men the way to a particular place; that those two men came to his house and inquired the way to a particular place and he told them the way. This statement was accompanied by such questions on the part of Samuel Pancoast as induced the affiant to believe that the two men referred to were passing from the South to the North.

Given under my hand this 31st day of August, 1861.

GEO. W. WARD,
Justice of the Peace.

* Omitted here; see p. 1531.

VIRGINIA, County of Frederick, to wit:

Private B. J. Engle this day made oath before me, a justice of the peace for said county, that before the adoption of the ordinance of secession by the popular vote of Virginia, but after its passage by the convention, the above-named Samuel A. Pancoast remarked to affiant that he (Engle) was born in Virginia and when therein he supposed he would go with the South, but that he (Pancoast) was born and raised in the North; as was natural his sympathies were with the North.

Given under my hand this 31st day of August, 1861.

GEO. W. WARD,
Justice of the Peace.

[Inclosure No. 4.]

CAPON BRIDGE, November 11, 1861.

Colonel McDONALD:

I have taken the responsibility of having Samuel A. Pancoast arrested. His own admissions satisfy me that something is wrong. The evidence will be furnished as soon as possible.

A. HARPER,
Commanding at Capon Bridge.

N. B.—Nothing has occurred since my last that I know of worthy of note.

A. H.

[Inclosure No. 5.]

HDQRS. SIXTEENTH BRIGADE OF VIRGINIA MILITIA,
Winchester, Saturday, August 31, 1861.

We, the undersigned, having been discharged from custody on our parole of honor, doth each for himself promise and declare that he will be a true, faithful and loyal citizen to the State of Virginia, in war as well as in peace, and full and perfect obedience render to her laws and authority and to those of the Government of the Confederate States of America, of which said State is a member, so long as he shall reside therein; and that he will in no wise nor to any extent give aid or comfort to her enemies, or to those of said Confederate States, especially to the United States, who are now waging war against her and them, by furnishing information or otherwise.

S. A. PANCOAST.
GEORGE KEITER.

Test:

GEO. W. WARD.

[Inclosure No. 6.]

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
Washington, September 25, 1861.

Mr. Samuel A. Pancoast will be permitted, with the approbation of the Hon. Frank Thomas or General James Cooper, of Maryland, to take salt into Hampshire County, Va., for the use of families residing there, under such regulations as the gentlemen last named or either of them may deem proper to establish.

WINFIELD SCOTT.

[Indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
Washington, D. C., November 2, 1861.

The within permission to furnish salt to Union men in Virginia is extended until further orders.

By order of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY, Chief of Staff.

[Inclosure No. 7.]

ROMNEY, VA., October 15, 1861.

Samuel A. Pancoast, of this (Hampshire) county, having as I am informed made an arrangement with John A. Green for supplying the citizens of Hampshire and Morgan Counties with salt, coffee, &c., being fully satisfied that such arrangement would be of incalculable advantage to hundreds of families I give it my most cordial approval and sincerely hope that for the sake of effecting the charitable design for which it is intended that no obstacle will be raised to hinder or oppose it, assuring Mr. Pancoast that my command shall in no wise interfere to prejudice his purpose.

A. MONROE,
Colonel 114th Regiment Virginia Militia.

[Inclosure No. 8.]

ROMNEY, October 15, 1861.

Being informed that S. A. Pancoast and John A. Green have made arrangements for supplying the citizens of Hampshire and Morgan Counties with salt, &c., I hereby assure them that the supplies furnished the families will not be taken by any of my command.

ANGUS W. McDONALD,
Colonel, Commanding, &c.

[Inclosure No. 9.]

SPECIAL ORDER.]

DIVISION HEADQUARTERS,
Winchester, Va., October 16, 1861.

The property of Samuel A. Pancoast and John A. Green shall be exempt from impressment.

JAMES H. CARSON,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

[Inclosure No. 10.]

CAMP CARROLL, October 23, 1861.

Lieut. Gen. WINFIELD SCOTT,
Commander-in-Chief, Army of United States.

DEAR SIR: After having given Mr. Pancoast permission to transmit small quantities of salt from Hagerstown via Hancock and the great tunnel into Virginia, I felt constrained from the abuse to which I saw the permission would be liable to countermand it. If large quantities of salt should be either stored on the line of Virginia or carried into that State it would soon undoubtedly find its way to the rebel camp. Instead of administering comfort to a suffering population it would be employed to strengthen the hands of the rebels, raised for the purpose of pulling down the Government. If the license to supply the population of the counties bordering on the Potomac be accorded to a single individual, however worthy he may be, it will be a subject of complaint to every dealer on both sides of the river. Every one will claim a similar privilege. A license to furnish salt to the suffering inhabitants would be worth tens of thousands of dollars annually to the licensee. But the objectionable feature most apparent is that the party holding such a license would be an object of jealousy to every trader on the river, all of whom have to pay a license for liberty to sell their wares and merchandise, and who would be justly annoyed at a permission accorded to another to exercise without paying for it a privilege which is denied to them although they have paid for exercising it. The difficulty of establishing rules for transmitting, storing and selling salt will become manifest the moment you begin to reflect how it is to be carried into practice. Still I would gladly see some regulation by which the suffering families on the Virginia side of the river might be supplied with this most indispensable article. Perhaps if Governor Thomas were consulted he might be able to furnish the names of such loyal traders on the Maryland side of the river as might be permitted to receive small quantities, say twenty-five bushels each, and sell it out at retail, not more than a peck at a time, unless a certificate from some loyal person was furnished to show that a larger quantity was needed for some special purpose, as that of salting the winter pork or beef for a family. This is a mere suggestion which I have no doubt might be improved, and which might be so guarded probably as would leave little to be apprehended from the salt falling into the hands of the enemy.

With the highest regard and respect,

JAMES COOPER,
[Brigadier-General.]

[Inclosure No. 11.—Memorandum.]

General Cooper says ask permission of Secretary Cameron to carry salt, &c., for the use of the suffering families in Hampshire and Morgan Counties, storing it in Maryland at or near the canal tunnel and taking it across the river at our option.

[Indorsement.]

Pancoast says this permission was after date of letter of Cooper to Scott. This memorandum is in Pancoast's handwriting. Says this was the same day after his letter.

S. S. BAXTER.

[Inclosure No. 12.]

HDQRS. THIRD REGT., MEADE'S [SECOND] BRIG.,
McCALL'S DIV., PENNSYLVANIA RESERVE VOL. CORPS,
Camp Peirpoint, October 23, 1861.

MY DEAR FATHER: Thy most welcome letter came this evening and I was just thinking how I should manage to get over early in the morning to see thee when orders came to be ready to march at an early hour to-morrow morning with two days' provisions. Two days' rations are all the men can well carry with them and more may be sent on so that we may not return for a week though we have now no orders to that effect. I hope very much I can get to see thee before thee leaves Washington. I am anxious to hear how thy arrangements are progressing, what thee can do, &c., and how successful thee has been thus far. Also what they are doing at home, &c., and how they received the news of my being in the army. I received a notice from that army board the day after thee left to report on the next day for examination but I was so situated that I could not. I wrote a note to them stating the case and went in on Saturday. They agreed after hearing me to examine me at once, which they did, giving me a pretty thorough examination. When they were through they promised to let me know by mail on Monday the result but did not. I therefore sent a note to them requesting an answer. They said they reported favorably upon my case, which is all I have heard and I have not been able to get in since. I suppose I shall not hear until I am wanted, when I will be ordered to duty at once. If I cannot get to see thee please write me a long letter and tell me all and everything thee can imagine that I wish to know. I am glad I passed that examination creditably even, if I should not get the appointment which I hope for. Mr. Newton received me kindly when I was in and told me what thee had done so far as he knew, but nothing was fixed when thee last saw him. If thee sees Uncle Joseph give my love to him. I wrote him a few days since and also to mother and sisters. Kiss them all and give them a great deal of love from me if I do not see thee, but I shall try hard to do so, and thee come over if thee can.

With much love, affectionately, your son,

GEO. L. PANCOAST.

[Inclosure No. 13.]

These articles of agreement witness: Whereas Samuel A. Pancoast, by the assistance of the two hereinafter other named parties to these articles, has obtained from General Scott permission to transport salt into Virginia according to the terms of an order dated on the 25th September, 1861, and indorsed by authority of General McClellan on the 2d November, 1861: Now, therefore, these articles witness that, in the first place, for and in consideration of the sum of $1, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, the said Pancoast hereby assigns to B. F. Camp and John A. Green, respectively, each a third interest in the said order received as aforesaid. And in the second place these articles witness that the said B. F. Camp, John A. Green and Samuel A. Pancoast, in consideration of good and valuable considerations reciprocally moving, hereby agree to and do enter into a copartnership for the transportation of salt according to the provisions of said order and subject to the conditions hereinafter mentioned. True and just accounts are to be kept of all merchandise bought and sold, moneys received and paid, and of all transactions of the firm. Every thirty days a settlement shall be had, or at such times as the parties hereto may otherwise agree, and after paying whatever expenses may be incurred the profits of the business are to be divided equally and proportionably, share and share alike. It is further agreed that during the continuance of these articles in force neither of the parties hereto shall on his personal account or in any other way engage in the said business. Such agents as may be necessary may be selected, placed at such points as may be desirable, and subject at all times to the control of the parties hereto. And further it is agreed that any matter of difference which may arise in the prosecution of this business may be determined by the judgment of two of the three parties hereto. The style of this association shall be Camp, Green & Pancoast, but the only one authorized to use the name of the firm shall be B. F. Camp, who is to be controlled, however, in such use by and abide the direction of a majority of the parties hereto. In witness whereof the said parties have hereunto interchangeably set their hands and seals this 6th day of November, 1861.

B. F. CAMP.	[SEAL.]
S. A. PANCOAST.	[SEAL.]
JNO. A. GREEN.	[SEAL.]

Test:

W. CAMERON GREEN.
ALBERT RITCHIE.

[Inclosure No. 14.]

WINCHESTER, VA., November 11, 1861.

The undersigned having been arrested upon charges involving his fidelity to the Commonwealth of Virginia hereby promises and declares that so long as he may continue a citizen or resident thereof he will be true and faithful to and support the constitution of said Commonwealth, and that he will not directly or indirectly give or afford aid or comfort to her enemies or to those of the Confederate States of America, of which she is one, and that he will not depart from the town of Winchester without the permission of the military commander thereat.

Given under my hand this 11th day of November, 1861.

S. A. PANCOAST.

Test:

THOS. K. CARTWELL.

[Inclosure No. 15.]

WINCHESTER, VA., November 13, 1861.

Samuel A. Pancoast moved from New Jersey to Bloomery, Hampshire County, Va., some twelve or fifteen years ago, and has during that time resided within two miles of my place of residence and within thirteen miles of the Potomac River. I know him well and he is known to most of the residents of Hampshire and the adjoining counties, either personally or by reputation. When he came to Virginia to engage in the iron business he had a family of a wife, three daughters and one son. His wife and two of his daughters are still at Bloomery. His other daughter is married and lives a few miles from her father's home. His son left Virginia several years ago to study medicine with his uncle, Dr. Joseph Pancoast, of Philadelphia, and has not permanently resided here since, but has visited his parents once or twice a year. He came to Virginia about the commencement of the war and after spending some weeks here he returned to the North, and entered the Northern army as a surgeon. When Samuel A. Pancoast first came to Virginia he made a very favorable impression upon most of our citizens. He was taken for an intelligent, active and energetic business man, but a few years' residence here disclosed his real character, and some few years ago he failed in business, our citizens sustaining heavy losses by him, and all the real estate he ever had passed into the hands of his brother, Dr. Joseph Pancoast, of Philadelphia, and a Mr. James Magee, of the same place. Those who know Samuel A. Pancoast best are satisfied that his word cannot be depended upon; that he is far from being an honest man; that he is treacherous and disposed to be mischievous. That he has always been an abolitionist is well known, and none of his neighbors ever had any doubt as to the side with which he sympathizes in this war. He is a man of the worst sort of character, and is by our best men regarded as an exceedingly dangerous one to be allowed to go at large in times like the present. He has within the last two or three months visited Cumberland, Md., Washington City, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and perhaps other places north of the Potomac, twice. The first time he went North he stated before going that his purpose was to visit Lincoln, to get from him permission to carry salt and groceries into Virginia. He was absent some two or three weeks, when he returned and stated that he had been to Washington, had seen his son, who is in the Northern army; had had an interview with Lincoln and General Scott, and that they had given him written permission to bring salt and groceries over the river. He returned to his home and after visiting Romney and Winchester again started back to the North and has been absent ever since, until last Sabbath night when he came home. He brought with him from the other side of the river four or five pigeons that I had reason to believe were carriers. I heard of his arrival and determined to have him arrested. It is somewhat remarkable that one of the visits of the Yankee forces to Romney was made a few days after Pancoast went over the river the first time, and that the last attack upon Romney, which resulted so disastrously to Colonel McDonald's command, was only a few days after Pancoast left Virginia on his second visit to the North. Another thing our citizens wonder at is that Pancoast can cross the river when and where he pleases, a thing that no one else can do. I have the best reason for believing that Southern men living in Maryland are amazed that the authorities here do not put a stop to his crossing into their State, and that his true character is much better understood there than here. He has no ties binding him to the South except that one of his daughters is married to a Southern man. With that exception all his own and his family connections are residents of the North. He has always had a most contemptible opinion of the Southern people and of everything Southern, but has been as cautious as a man of his character can be about showing it. He has denounced the present war as an infernal one, for which South Carolina is most to blame. He is a New Jersey Quaker, and with every feeling of his heart in favor of the North he is unprincipled enough to do anything to injure the South that may come in his way. The more investigation that is given to his case the worse it will appear. His son-in-law is a true and loyal citizen of Virginia, and no one in Pancoast's neighborhood has a worse opinion of him than that son-in-law has. The facts I have stated and more that I could state did time allow can be substantiated, I believe, by the testimony of witnesses. I have no personal dislike to gratify, and if I know my own heart am not disposed needlessly to harm him or any other being. He has been my neighbor, and I have sustained losses by him, and for these reasons I have refrained from taking an active part against him as long as it was possible for me to do so. I do it now at no little risk to myself, my family and property.

ROBERT B. SHERRARD.

FREDERICK COUNTY, to wit:

This day Robert B. Sherrard appeared before me and made oath that partly from his own knowledge and from the best information that he has been able to get the statements made in the paper hereto annexed are substantially true.

Given under my hand this 13th November, 1861.

J. S. DAVIS,
Justice of the Peace.

Case of John Minor Botts.

HENRICO, March 22, 1862.

President DAVIS:

I appeal to your kindness to get you to answer me a few questions. First, what was Mr. Botts taken from his family for and cast into jail? * Second, why is he kept there now three weeks without allowing him a trial? Mr. Davis, what has he done to cause his confinement? Could you but know the anguish of his distressed family you would not keep them tortured as they are. A family of girls without a mother, and their idolized father torn from them at such a time of danger as this! Have you children? How would you feel about them? Are you a member of the Church of Christ? Remember the Savior's holy words, "Blessed are the peacemakers." Answer this speedily if you please, and direct it to

* The date of Botts' arrest is unknown; the order of arrest and proceedings in his case cannot be found.

MISS M. M. BLAIR,
(Care of Crosby Anderson, Richmond, Va.)

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, April 11, 1862.

Hon. J. B. BALDWIN, House of Representatives.

SIR: In reply to your letter of the 7th instant inclosing a note from Miss Botts addressed to yourself* I have the honor to inform you that General Winder has received instructions to permit interviews between Mr. Botts and his daughters in the presence of an officer, and that a court of inquiry has been ordered on his case.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. W. RANDOLPH,
Secretary of War.

RICHMOND, April 18, 1862.

General GEORGE W. RANDOLPH, Secretary of War.

SIR: The undersigned having acted as counsel for Mr. John Minor Botts in the late investigation before a court of inquiry beg in his behalf to express the hope that in case the general finding of the court shall be approved it will be your pleasure to allow Mr. Botts to remain at his own home, under such restrictions as may seem necessary, instead of removing him to a different locality as suggested by the court as an alternative. It seems to us that all the purposes contemplated might be fully secured by confining Mr. Botts to his own premises, by forbidding all intercourse by correspondence or otherwise except by permission of the authorities with any persons except the members of his own family, and by requiring his parole and if necessary bond and security to insure his compliance with these conditions. This you will observe is the first alternative proposed by the court, except that the court seem not to have contemplated the parole or the bond. We suggest it now in consequence of a conversation had with you this morning by one of us, Mr. Joynes.

We have the honor to be, your humble, obedient servants,

WM. JOYNES.
A. T. DANIEL.
A. JUDSON CRANE.

[Indorsement.]

Think that for the present Mr. Botts should not be in the neighborhood of Richmond, and have therefore ordered his discharge on parole if he will retire to the interior and pledge himself to do or say nothing prejudicial to the Confederacy or its Government.

G. W. RANDOLPH.

* Not found.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Richmond, April 22, 1862.

MESSRS. W. T. JOYNES and Others, Richmond, Va.

GENTLEMEN: Your letter of the 18th instant has been received. I think that for the present Mr. Botts should not be permitted to remain in the vicinity of Richmond, and have therefore ordered his discharge on parole if he will retire to the interior and pledge himself to do or say nothing prejudicial to the Confederacy or its Government.

Your obedient servant,

GEO. W. RANDOLPH,
Secretary of War.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 28. }

WAR DEPARTMENT,
ADJT. AND INSP. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Richmond, April 25, 1862.

A court of inquiry having assembled at Richmond, pursuant to Special Orders, No. 81, April 9, 1862, from the Adjutant and Inspector General's Office, to examine "into the causes of the arrest of John Minor Botts and to report the facts in reference thereto, and whether in the opinion of the court it is compatible with the public safety to discharge" the said John Minor Botts; and the court having made such examination and reported the result with the evidence taken in the case to the Secretary of War, the following are his decision and orders thereupon:

The Secretary of War having considered the record of the examination in the case of John Minor Botts, and the report of Brig. Gen. J. H. Winder as to the practicability of confining him to his house and premises in the manner recommended by the court of inquiry, directs that he be discharged from confinement on his delivering to General Winder a written parole of honor to the following effect:

That until otherwise permitted by the Department he will sojourn in Lynchburg, Danville, or Raleigh, or in such other place in the interior as may be selected by himself with the consent of the Department; that he will proceed without unnecessary delay to the place of his sojourn; that he will not depart therefrom or go more than five miles from his residence; and that while on parole he will do nothing to the injury of the Confederate Government, nor express any opinion tending to impair the confidence of the people in the capacity of the Confederate States to achieve their independence.

Mr. Botts' family will receive passports to join him if desired.

By command of the Secretary of War:

S. COOPER,
Adjutant and Inspector General.

Case of Isaiah Respass, Mayor of Washington, N. C.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF HENRICO,
Richmond, May 5, 1862.

HON. G. W. RANDOLPH, Secretary of War.

SIR: I have the honor to report that Isaiah Respass was sent to Richmond as prisoner by General Holmes. The inclosed letter from Capt. W. S. G. Andrews explains the cause of his arrest. I inclose also a copy of the charges upon which he was tried before a court-martial. The court acquitted him of all the charges and specifications, though the first specification to first charge and specification to seventh charge were clearly proven.

In the order publishing the proceedings of the court-martial Mr. Respass will be required not to go east of the railroad leading from Richmond to Wilmington, N. C., as the commanding general in North Carolina does not wish him to go back to the neighborhood of the enemy.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. H. WINDER,
Brigadier-General.

[Inclosure No. 1.]

GREENVILLE, N. C., April 3, 1862.

Maj. Gen. T. H. HOLMES,

Commanding Department of North Carolina.

SIR: I send you with this dispatch Isaiah Respass, mayor of Washington, who has been arrested by a detachment of Major Walker's cavalry under orders from Brigadier-General Ransom to arrest him and under your own order to arrest all suspicious persons. I have heretofore written you a full account of his trip to New Berne and have received only this additional: Col. S. T. Carrow, of the militia, Joseph Potts, I. Respass, B. F. Havers and James R. Grist went on board a Yankee ship at Washington and drank with the officers. Captain Murray, commanding the ship, gave this toast: "Here is to the reconstruction of the Federal Union, a plantation in Georgia and 100 negroes, with a summer residence in North Carolina," which they all drank. Colonel Carrow, commanding the militia, dined with them. This I have from an eye-witness and is true. I deem it best to forward Respass directly across to you, rather than by the railroad via Tarborough and Rocky Mount.

Very respectfully, yours, as ever,

W. S. G. ANDREWS,
Captain, Tenth North Carolina Artillery, Commanding.

[Inclosure No. 2.]

Charges and specifications against Isaiah Respass, of North Carolina.

CHARGE 1.—Holding correspondence with the enemy.

Specification 1.—In this, that the said Isaiah Respass on or about the 28th of March, 1862, at New Berne, N. C., did hold unlawful correspondence with the enemy.

Specification 2.—In this, that the said Isaiah Respass on or about the 28th of March, 1862, at Washington, N. C., did hold correspondence with the enemy with the intent to give them aid and comfort.

CHARGE 2.—Giving intelligence to the enemy.

Specification 1.—In this, that the said Isaiah Respass on or about the 28th of March, 1862, at New Berne, N. C., did unlawfully give intelligence to the enemy.

Specification 2.—In this, that the said Isaiah Respass on or about the 28th of March, 1862, at Washington, N. C., did give intelligence to the enemy with the intent to give them aid and comfort.

Specification 3.—In this, that the said Isaiah Respass on or about the 28th of March, 1862, at divers other places in North Carolina did unlawfully give intelligence to the public enemy.

CHARGE 3.—Harboring the enemy.

Specification.—In this, that the said Isaiah Respass on or about the 28th of March, 1862, at Washington, N. C., did knowingly and unlawfully harbor the public enemy.

CHARGE 4.—Protecting the enemy.

Specification.—In this, that the said Isaiah Respass on or about the 28th of March, 1862, at Washington, N. C., knowingly and unlawfully did protect the public enemy.

CHARGE 5.—Giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

Specification 1.—In this, that the said Isaiah Respass on or about the 28th of March, 1862, at Washington and divers other places in North Carolina did unlawfully circulate the proclamation of the commander of the forces of the enemy with the intent to give aid and comfort to the said enemy.

Specification 2.—In this, that the said Isaiah Respass on or about the 28th of March, 1862, at Washington, N. C., did unlawfully endeavor to persuade the citizens of said North Carolina to submit to, acquiesce in and sustain the rule and authority of the enemy.

CHARGE 6.—Uttering treasonable language.

Specification.—In this, that the said Isaiah Respass on or about the 28th of March, 1862, at Washington, N. C., did declare and say that the people of North Carolina ought to seek the protection of the enemy and that said enemy should be received as friends, or words to that effect.

CHARGE 7.—Piloting the enemy.

Specification.—In this, that the said Isaiah Respass on or about the 18th of March, 1862, did unlawfully conduct and accompany the commander of the forces of the enemy from New Berne, N. C., to or near to Beaufort, N. C.

L. R. PAGE,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

CONVENTION, Raleigh, April 30, 1862.

Hon. W. J. ASHE.

MY DEAR SIR: Judge Badger this day introduced a series of resolutions asserting great abstract political propositions in regard to civil liberty, &c., and wound up with a certain resolution asserting that a certain man by the name of Isaiah Respass (I think the mayor probably of Washington, some little town in the east) had been unlawfully seized by the military authorities and hurried off to Richmond where he is now incarcerated (to be tried, as he says in his speech, by a drum-head court-martial), and his resolution asks the convention to demand of those having him in possession to restore said Respass to the State so that he may be tried by the civil authorities of the State. I suppose he means of course by the Confederate courts of the district in which the offense was committed. Your advertisement for arms and particularly for impressing them came in for its share of comments. The question sprung suddenly upon the house, and we ask time for some reflection and deliberation in order to be in possession of the facts of the case, particularly as to the man Respass. Please inform me at your earliest convenience all you know of the facts causing the arrest of Respass; what he had done and for what and by whom he was arrested, and how it is proposed to try him. I am sorry to perceive a disposition in certain quarters to lose no opportunity to assail either the administration or any of the military for any and for every act that by the most forced construction can be made to appear wrong. For one I stand ready always to construct favorably the conduct of those who are now carrying on this war in whose successful termination is involved everything dear to a Southern man, and I give it as my deliberate and solemn conviction that it would be far better for every man, woman and child that treads Southern soil to go under the sod sooner than to submit to Yankee domination. No, never! I am for fighting on and fighting ever, and hold that our subjugation is an impossibility if every man was animated with the same spirit that you and I possess. I write in the greatest haste, without reviewing my letter, in order to get it off before the mail closes.

Truly, yours,

WM. F. LEAK.

An early response is asked as they are pressing the subject for a vote.

Case of Asa Hodges.

Asa Hodges, a private citizen of the Confederate States of America, was arrested by the orders of Brigadier-General Adams and is now confined as a felon in the dungeon of the common jail in the county of Lowndes and State of Mississippi. The prisoner is not a soldier, nor did the case arise in the land or naval forces or in the militia when in actual service in time of war or public danger. He was at the time of his arrest and imprisonment engaged in the pursuit of his lawful business and has been deprived of his liberty for an indefinite length of time at the pleasure of the commanding general without due process of law and upon the order of a military officer. It is contended and submitted:

First. That no offense known to the Constitution and laws has been charged against the accused, but that he is imprisoned upon a general suspicion of disloyalty and upon some vague, intangible and indefinite accusation.

Second. That said officer has no power or authority to try such a charge or to prefer such an accusation or to make such an arrest or to make such an order.

Third. That the officer or court has no jurisdiction in the premises and that the proceedings are without lawful authority.

Fourth. That the proceedings are wholly irregular and void.

Fifth. That the evidence was wholly insufficient to support the finding and judgment of the court and was inadmissible to support such an accusation.

According to the Constitution:

Treason against the Confederate States shall consist only in levying war against them or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless upon the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act or on confession in open court. (Const., art. 3, sec. 3.)

By the ancient common law it was left very much to discretion to determine what acts were and were not treason.*

The evidence of the witness, Mr. Humphreys, upon whose single testimony the accused has been condemned, is in an eminent degree liable to these very objections. He was engaged in lengthy argument and controversy of several hours with the accused; he was a very sanguine and hopeful man, and a very warm politician, so much so that upon a mere introduction to a stranger he carried on a discussion for hours upon the different topics mentioned in his deposition; he not only does not give the various arguments employed in throwing light upon the subjects, but does not give the language or words used in any instance.

* Here follows a long constitutional, legal argument which is omitted.

He retails but a very small portion of the entire conversation or confessions and does not give the conversation and argument in the order in which the several matters were discussed, and states that he only gives the substance of such parts of the conversation and argument as he considers material, or to use his own language "the substance of the material points;" that is to say the witness is the judge of the materiality of the points, gives only the points made and not the arguments; gives only what he considers in his own judgment to be the substance of such points and clothes even these in his own language.

Such evidence is surely of the very weakest kind, and in this translation of the language of the accused we have to rely solely upon the judgment, discretion, impartiality, intelligence and skill of the witness. In a word it is his opinion as to the general and aggregate conclusion to be drawn from a long and animated discussion. Upon every principle of reason, justice and law a citizen of standing and repute is not to forfeit his character and his liberty upon such flimsy proof. But giving the fullest scope and the most uncharitable construction to the testimony of the witness it does not convict the accused of any crime, or of any offense punishable by the penal laws of the land.

Under the present administration of the United States Government a great many suspected persons have been seized and thrown into prison under the general appellation of "political prisoners." In that country freedom of speech and of the press are no longer tolerated. We have seceded from that Government and denounce such acts as unconstitutional and tyrannical, as military despotism. Let us not fall into the same fatal error and destroy the liberties of the people whilst we are fighting to secure them. * * * By what lawful authority then, we ask, has this peaceable citizen been deprived of liberty and stigmatized as infamous? And is he to be branded as a traitor and have his good name destroyed by this novel and summary proceeding? And who is the accused? It is true he was a stranger in Columbus, Miss., but even there upon the sudden emergency he found persons who had known him well and who could prove and who did testify that he was a good and true man, a loyal citizen and an ardent and devoted friend of Southern independence. See deposition on file* and marked testimony on behalf of the defendant.

John E. Logwood says that he only knew Mr. Hodges by reputation but had frequently heard him spoken of as one of the best secessionists in Memphis, a man at all times ready to help in the promotion of the Southern interest; and the witness was very much surprised when he heard of his arrest, as the witness learned that he left Memphis to escape arrest by the Federals.

General James A. Carnes states that he has known Mr. Asa Hodges for the last four or five years and has regarded him as a good citizen and a reliable and trustworthy business man; that he never heard his loyalty questioned, and regarded him as entirely loyal to the South; that the witness was a member of the committee of safety of the city of Memphis from its first organization and that his opportunities for getting the names of suspected persons was very good, and the witness is of the opinion that had Mr. Hodges been suspected he would have heard of it; that gentlemen in whom he had implicit confidence informed him that he talked and evinced the right spirit in the Southern cause.

H. W. Reed testifies that he has known Mr. Hodges twenty or twenty-five years, and that he has been a consistent and upright man, and that since the war his politics have been in favor of the South; that he has frequently heard of his contributing largely and freely in organizing companies and for other purposes for the Confederacy; he knows that he had an interest in a ferry-boat (Mark R. Cheek); and recollects to have seen it in the Memphis papers as an advertisement that the proceeds of the boat after paying expenses would be appropriated to the Southern Confederacy; and that he is the last man that he would suspect of disloyalty to the South.

* Not found.

H. T. Calloway and William T. Dowdy depose and say that they are late of Crittenden County, Ark., and that they have known said Asa Hodges for the last two years, and know him to be a good and true Southern-rights man—as true to the South as any one of their acquaintances—and that he had been the most liberal contributor to the Southern cause and volunteers in his county; that he was interested in a ferry-boat across the Mississippi River, and that he and his partner gave all the net proceeds of the ferry-boat to the Southern Confederacy; that he has been a great sufferer in the destruction of a large quantity of cotton, &c.; that no one who knows him ever questioned his loyalty to the South; that the boat was captured by the Federals and his partner arrested and put on his trial by the enemy; that he attended the trial at Memphis from day to day and staid until it was over, when he left immediately as soon as he could get off, took his family and came with them to Okolona, in this State.

J. M. Patrick testifies that he is a citizen of Memphis, Tenn., and is acquainted with said Asa Hodges; that he has been a familiar acquaintance for the last two years, his office being in the same building with that of Messrs. Pickett, Hodges & Ward, factors and commission merchants, of which firm said Hodges was a partner; that he has had frequent conversations with Mr. Hodges since the commencement of the war in which he always expressed himself warmly in favor of the Southern cause; that the witness knows that he was actively engaged with his brother in the purchase of army supplies for the Confederate army at Saint Louis and Louisville just before the prohibition of the exportation of merchandise from those cities by the Federal authorities, and has never heard his integrity or his motives questioned until his arrival here (at Columbus), having ever since his acquaintance with him entertained a high regard for him as a gentleman identified with us in feeling and interest, &c.

Thomas H. Cheek states that he has known Col. Asa Hodges for two years and a half intimately and well and knows of his own personal knowledge of his being fully identified with the South in feeling and in interest; that he has given freely and largely to the army of the South; that every company raised in his section of the county has been liberally aided by him in contributions of money, provisions, clothes and horses, and that he has given two negroes to aid and assist the soldiers leaving his neighborhood; that he knows of his giving upon any and all occasions when called upon; that immediately upon his arrival Colonel Hodges called upon witness at the Government machine-shop in company with Mr. John M. Seely and told witness of the arrest of his father in Memphis by the Federals, and stated that he (Colonel Hodges) had been summoned from his plantation to Memphis to give evidence in his, the witness', father's case, and got a permit to do so, and that he went down to Memphis for that purpose, and that as soon as he found the father of the witness safe he left in his carriage with his family for his brother's in Mississippi, and further said that it was impossible for any of us to live among the Yankees. The witness further states that said Hodges was and is now a part owner in the steam ferryboat M. R. Cheek, which runs from Memphis to Mound City, and that all the profits of said ferry after paying expenses since it began were given to the Southern Confederacy; that all Confederate soldiers were only charged half-price, and frequently when Colonel Hodges was present and a company of soldiers were crossing he would charge their ferriage to himself; that the witness was captain of said boat and knew said facts of his own personal knowledge. In addition to the foregoing said Thomas H. Cheek testifies that the above case against his father, and on which said Hodges was summoned and went to Memphis as a witness, was an arrest of the father of the witness by the Federals after they had captured Memphis, on a charge of having been concerned with a mob about twelve months before in hanging a man named Beaman as an abolitionist; that his father made a speech at the time in opposition to the hanging of Beaman, but advised that as he was in the wrong place he ought to be required to leave the country. The witness further says that Hodges in the conversation testified about above stated as an additional reason for his leaving Memphis and coming to his brother's in Mississippi, that the Federals might attempt to make him take the oath of allegiance to the United States, which he said he was determined never to take. And further the witness says that as to the business of Hodges he knows that he had an account against the Government of about $500 in favor of Streeter & Co., of Memphis, and that he called on the superintendent at the Government shop to get his approval or certificate of the correctness of the account before Colonel Hunt would pay the same; that the superintendent approved the account, and Colonel Hunt being absent Mr. Hodges left the account with the witness to be presented to Colonel Hunt when he returned. The account was for machinery furnished the Government at Memphis.

John M. Seely says that he has known said Hodges over twelve months in the county of Crittenden and State of Arkansas, some ten miles from Memphis, Tenn., and knew him to be a gentleman of high standing, truth and veracity, truly and warmly advocating the common cause of the South, and knows that he contributed largely to our volunteers and to our army from his own individual means; that the witness met Colonel Hodges here in Columbus last Thursday morning a week ago, and soon after his arrival here; that he inquired of witness if he could tell him where he could find Thomas Cheek, son of Captain Cheek, of Mound City, who had been under a late arrest at Memphis by the Federals, and said he wished to see Thomas to tell him of the fate of his father; that witness replied to him that Thomas was at the Government machine-shop and that witness would accompany him there, which he did as he was a watchman of said shop. The witness says that Colonel Hodges told him of the arrest of Captain Cheek and that he was summoned to come from his plantation where he resides to Memphis to give evidence in Captain Cheek's case; that he got a permit so to do, that his and Cheek's ferry-boat was seized; that he said as soon as he got Captain Cheek safe he took his carriage and family and left for his brother's at Okolona, Miss.; and that he further said by way of caution to witness that no man of any Southern feelings could ever live among the Yankees; that of this he was fully satisfied, and that the first chance he got he left.

John R. Mason states that Col. Asa Hodges called at the office of Cozart & Mason, of which firm the witness was a partner, and settled an account for James Streeter and received a balance from witness due Streeter of some $700 by order from Streeter.

William I. Sykes, acting provost-marshal at Columbus, testifies that said Asa Hodges being about to leave Columbus, Miss., did voluntarily take the oath of allegiance to the Confederate States in due form, there being a general order in such cases requiring said oath; and that said Hodges did then and there receive a pass in due form from the provost-marshal. This was on the 19th of June, 1862.

This testimony fully explains who Asa Hodges is gives his antecedents as a true, liberal and loyal citizen, and as a warm and devoted friend of Southern independence. Actions speak louder than words, and if more of our ardent, talking, ultra Southern States' rights men had acted half as nobly and given as freely to the cause as Asa Hodges we would before this have achieved our independence. It is clear that the accused came here on business as he lawfully might do; that he visited one of the Government works in company with a watchman for a kind and generous purpose; that he attended to his business complied with the requisitions of the military authority in taking the oath of allegiance, received his passport and left for his brother's where his family was.

But then that argument and discussion with Mr. A. S. Humphreys! We will not stop to analyze it. It amounts to nothing. But we will call attention to the letter of Mr. Humphreys on file. He is satisfied of the innocence of the accused. See also the statement of Col. Thomas C. Billeps and Isaac Williams as to their understanding of what Colonel Hodges said in that portion of the argument with Mr. Humphreys that they heard, and in which they participated. They heard nothing to cause them to suspect the loyalty of the party—they, good and true men, and more cool and dispassionate than the excitable and excited Mr. Humphreys. No one who knows Mr. Hodges—no citizen of Memphis or Crittenden County, Ark.—none of the neighbors, ever suspected his loyalty. It is an entire stranger, who in a casual conversation on the streets argued with him certain "points," that made the discovery of his disloyalty.

That the accused is now a refugee with his family from home and has had to abandon his business and leave his property at the mercy of the Federals cannot be reasonably questioned. The idea taken up by the witness, Mr. Humphreys, that Colonel Hodges might be "an enemy sent here by the Lincoln authorities to ascertain our works and strength, &c., to be reported to them," was, with all due respect to that gentleman, a very absurd suspicion. When and how did he become the enemy of the South and engage in the employment, and obtain the confidence and get into the secrets of the Lincoln authorities? And where is the proof of it? And did a spy ever act in such a way? Would a spy or an enemy have engaged in such discussions and proclaimed such sentiments on the public streets with open and avowed Southern men? The supposition is simply ridiculous. And how confiding Mr. Humphreys, the bank director, was to give him all the desired information about the specie on hand, the amount sent away, where to, &c.! And out of the number of Government works here the accused actually visited one of them on business, as is proved, and with one of the officers, and to see an employé of our Government, a good and true man! A curious way, certainly, of ascertaining our strength, the character of our works, &c.

But Mr. Humphreys says the accused was "gloomy and despondent about our army at Tupelo." Perhaps that was wrong in a man who had just had 600 bales of cotton burnt, had to abandon to the Federals his crops of wheat, &c., his plantations, his business and his home, and had to remove with his family into another State for safety and protection.

What right had he to be "gloomy or despondent," and what right had he to think for himself, or feel his losses? And what right had a citizen whose life, liberty and fortune were all staked upon the struggle to give his opinion as to the conduct and management of our public affairs to a sound Southern man, and argue the matter with him in extenso?

Upon the whole Mr. Hodges may not have acted very wisely. And who does who enters into these useless and idle discussions with street politicians, cocked and primed and ready for "high debate?" That Mr. Humphreys achieved a victory is clear, for he landed his opponent in jail. But what benefit the cause of Southern independence is to receive from incarcerating citizens who have done so much good as the accused, and whose faith has been evidenced by such active and by such continued works, is for "the powers that be" to determine. In our humble opinion this is no time to indulge in ungenerous suspicions of and harsh treatment toward those who have heretofore been openly, actively and zealously our friends.

JAMES T. HARRISON,
C. R. CRUSOE,
ISHAM HARRISON, JR.,
Of Counsel for Defendant.

Abstract of facts in the case of Asa Hodges charged with being disloyal to the Confederate Government. Opinion of Brigadier-General Adams founded on testimony of A. S. Humphreys.

A. S. Humphreys.—Substance of his testimony as follows: That in an argument of some two hours' length he regarded him as unfriendly to the Confederate Government and especially its management.

Billeps and Williams.—Heard same argument but did not regard him as unfriendly to Government, but desponding, having had 600 bales of cotton burnt by order of Government and being once in favor of the policy of burning cotton but having changed his opinion on witnessing the effects of this policy within the lines of the enemy, seeing that the wives and children of the soldiers could not use Confederate money under the order of the Federals and only having cotton with which they could purchase the necessaries of life. Billeps and Williams agree in their testimony that they did not think him from the arguments employed in the conversation with Humphreys unfriendly to the Southern Confederacy, but regarded him a good Southern man afflicted at the time with great despondency and complaining more of the management than of the Government.

NOTE.—Billeps and Williams are represented as being men of first respectability in point of wealth, intelligence and patriotism to the South in the State of Mississippi. It further appears in testimony versus defendant that A. S. Humphreys was publicly known as an avowed secessionist and a Southern extremist at the time of the conversation with Hodges.

Abstract of testimony for defense.

No. 1.—Letter from A. S. Humphreys changing opinions as to defendant's disloyalty and giving him all due credit for an earnest desire for success.

No. 2.—Voluntary oath before provost-marshal of Columbus, Miss., to the Confederate Government renouncing all allegiance to the United States Government.

No. 3.—John E. Logwood testifies that his character in Memphis was that of a good Southern man contributing liberally to the cause.

No. 4.—John R. Mason states that defendant's business to Columbus was of a private and pecuniary character; that he settled and received money on the same from Cozart & Mason.

No. 5.—H. W. Reed, an acquaintance of twenty-five years' standing, states that Hodges made large contributions to the Confederacy and gave particular instances; states fully his fidelity, and says that he is the last man that he would suspect of disloyalty to the South.

No. 6.—Calloway and Dowdy testify to his ample contributions to the Southern cause and to his undoubted fidelity to the South and high standing as a man and give special instances.

No. 7.—T. H. Cheek testifies that Hodges was a partner of witness' father in ferry-boats across the Mississippi River at Memphis; that the net proceeds of said ferries were given to the Confederacy; that often Hodges had the soldiers' ferriage charged to himself; that his going to Memphis and remaining with the Federals was upon the occasion of his partner's being on trial before the Federals and he being subpoenaed at his home and taken there as a witness. Witness also testifies fully to the loyalty and liberal contributions of defendant to the South; that he refused to remain at Memphis and save his boats but left with his family for Chickasaw, Miss., on the fear that if he remained the Federals would try to compel him to take the oath to the United States Government.

No. 8.—J. M. Patrick testifies unconditionally to defendant's loyalty—an old Memphis acquaintance.

No. 9.—J. M. Seely testifies unconditionally to defendant's loyalty, his liberal contributions and a part of the motive of his visiting Columbus. Special attention is called to this witness' testimony.

No. 10.—J. A. Carnes, being a member of the vigilance committee at Memphis, never found cause to suspect the defendant, but supposed him to be sound, but was so informed by a gentleman in whom he had implicit confidence; had he been otherwise thinks he would have heard it.

NOTE.—The foregoing is a fair abstract of the substance of the testimony in the case of Asa Hodges.

F. H. JORDAN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

—.

COLUMBUS, MISS., July 1, 1862.

Brig. Gen. THOMAS JORDAN,

Chief of Staff, Department No. 2, Tupelo, Miss.

SIR: I have the honor to report that on or about the 23d ultimo I was informed by a citizen of high respectability in this community (Mr. A. S. Humphreys) that Mr. Asa Hodges, who resided above and near Memphis, Tenn., and had property interests in Memphis, had recently arrived here on a pretended visit and had given utterance to language of a very suspicious and disloyal character. The language having been repeated to me by Mr. Humphreys and regarding it as indicating the presence of a dangerous domestic enemy and perhaps a spy I ordered Mr. Hodges' immediate arrest. He was taken at Okolona and brought here, and I had him at once confined in jail. On the 26th ultimo I examined Mr. Humphreys and other witnesses, Messrs. Williams and Billeps, under oath and had their testimony taken in writing, and also received testimony in his behalf of affidavits which I herewith inclose.*

* Not found.

Being impressed with the belief from the evidence that the charge of disloyalty was sustained I ordered Mr. Hodges back to jail to be kept in close confinement, and now respectfully forward the papers with brief from his counsel for the consideration of the commanding general and await his orders as to the disposition I shall make of the prisoner.

Very respectfully,

DAN'L W. ADAMS,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Post.

[Indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT NO. 2, July 2, 1862.

Mr. Hodges may be released. He should be admonished, however, that it is an unbecoming, discreditable weakness in any one to give way to despondency at this time because the enemy have possession of a portion of our soil and have had successes against us in this quarter. It is a culpable weakness further when resulting in such conversation as he had unquestionably with Mr. Humphreys. Such language may do as much hurt with the ignorant, weak and hesitating as downright disloyalty. In times like these Mr. Hodges does not play the part of a good citizen but actually of an incendiary when he sets to work to discredit the capacity, conduct and policy of the public authorities, the military especially, and it will not be permitted.

Respectfully,

[B. BRAGG.]

INDEX.

[Brigades, Divisions, Corps, Armies, and improvised organizations are "Mentioned" under name of commanding officer; State and other organizations under their official designation.]

A. L. Hyde (Adelso), Schooner, 432, 441, 454.

Aaron L. Reid, Ship, 67.

Abbot & Co., 534.

Abbott, Mr., 296.

Abell, W. M., 156, 229.

Abott, A., 1454.

Abram, John C., 713.

Abrams, Mr.

Correspondence, A. Harris, 1521.

Mentioned, 1517, 1520.

Abrams, Mrs., 1522.

Abrams, Sallie, 1522.

Accomac County, Va.

Dix's proclamation, 139.

Acton, Anna E.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 869.

Acton, Samuel G.

Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 879.

Mentioned, 152, 237, 859, 864, 865, 867, 872-877.

Acton, Thomas C., 163.

Adair, Schooner, 1483.

Adams, Captain, 1439, 1442, 1469, 1470, 1476, 1478.

Adams, Messrs., 223.

Adams, Charles Francis.

Correspondence:

Beal, H., 1195.

Foreign Office, British, 652, 654-657, 663.

State Department, U. S., 33, 648, 651, 654, 655,

660, 663, 1078, 1102, 1104, 1106, 1108, 1115, 1119,

1122, 1123, 1127, 1137, 1143, 1157, 1159, 1162,

1168, 1178, 1180, 1184, 1190, 1193-1197, 1202, 1205.

Mentioned, 32, 215, 648, 654, 656, 657, 661, 1066, 1095,

1104, 1111, 1112, 1133, 1134, 1172, 1179, 1190,

1235, 1238, 1396.

Adams, Charles W., 67, 70, 78, 272.

Adams, Charles W., Mrs., 78.

Adams, Daniel W.

Correspondence, B. Bragg, 1556, 1557.

Mentioned, 1550, 1555.

Adams, E. L. O.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 64,

83, 85, 138, 176.

Adams, Hugh, 152, 237, 233, 245, 261, 311, 312, 1398.

Adams, J. D., 264.

Adams, J. V. R.

Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 829.

Adams, Jacob, 264.

Adams, John, U. S. Sloop, 321.

Adams, John, 38.

Adams, John Quincy, 1123, 1127.

Adams, N. A.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 579.

Adams, W. C.

Correspondence:

Baylor, J. R., 1527.

McCulloch, H. E., 1526.

Wulff, A. F., 1528.

Mentioned, 1530.

Adams, Jordan & Co., 67.

Adams Express Company.

Transmission of mail south, 12, 13, 44, 60, 87, 578-583.

Addison, George, 637.

Addison, William Meade.

Correspondence:

Attorney-General's Office, U. S., 285, 351.

Dix, J. A., 381.

State Department, U. S., 143, 461.

Mentioned, 349-351, 389, 409, 461, 462.

Adelaide, Schooner, 143, 144.

Adelso (A. L. Hyde), Schooner, 432, 435, 436, 438-441, 444-448, 450, 452, 454, 455.

Adger, James, U. S. Steamer, 1078, 1079, 1104, 1105, 1133, 1235.

Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A.

Correspondence:

Ashton, J. H., 980.

Banks, N. P., 180.

Blake, W. H., 719.

Bligh, D. T., 256.

Bradley, C. P., 256.

Buell, D. C., 170.

Burke, M., 205, 210, 239, 240, 274, 280, 394-398,

404, 409, 410, 933, 979, 980, 1075, 1247, 1258, 1263

1267, 1301, 1346, 1359.

Coffey, G. A., 979.

Detroit, Chief of Police, 256.

Dimick, J., 174, 179, 239, 288, 365, 427, 560, 746.

786, 790, 828, 956, 1277, 1280, 1345.

Dix, J. A., 257, 394, 401, 788, 789, 1040.

Doster, W. E., 1294.

Dunn, H., 256.

Frémont, J. C., 283, 284.

French, W. H., 959-961.

Giddings, J. R., 254.

Hill, B. H., 964, 966.

Howe, T. O., 283.

Keyes, J. S., 254, 256.

Ludlow, W. H., 398.

McClellan, G. B., 35.

Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A.—Continued.

Correspondence:

- McKay, J., 966, 981.
 Morris, W. W., 35, 382, 399.
 Murray, R., 254, 256.
 Ogden, C., 254.
 Phillips, D. L., 249.
 Porter, A., 238.
 Rosecrans, W. S., 270.
 Sands, A. C., 256, 261.
 State Department, U. S., 268.
 Townsend, E. D., 394.
 War Department, U. S., 205, 280, 404.
 Wool, J. E., 428.

Orders, general, series 1861, No. 44, 30; No. 79, 70.

Adjutant and Inspector General's Office, C. S. A.

Correspondence:

- Huger, B., 1390.
 Leadbetter, D., 1412.
 Lee, R. E., 1377, 1379.
 Magruder, J. B., 1378.
 Marshall, H., 1404, 1410.
 Peters, W. E., 1420.
 Ruggles, D., 367.
 War Department, C. S., 368.
 Winder, J. H., 1503.

• Orders, general, series 1862, No. 28, 1547.

Adley, D. H.

Correspondence, J. S. Dashiell, 1135.

Admiralty, British.

Correspondence:

- Foreign Office, British, 1102, 1112, 1114, 1155.
 Williams, R., 1114.

Adrian, Thomas W., 1510.Africa, Steamer, 67, 75, 645, 1162.*Africa, H. B. M. S., 1127.*Agnes, Louisa, Schooner, 130, 131, 158-162, 166, 169, 170, 178, 219-221, 253, 254, 258.*Agnew, Dr., 487.*Ahearn, Jeremiah, 250.*Alabama, Governor of.

Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1407.

Albany, U. S. Sloop, 96.Albany Argus, 503, 707, 708, 947.*Albany Atlas, 707, 947.*Albany City News, 503.*Albany Evening Journal, 503.*Albatross, U. S. Steamer, 292, 293.*Albert, Prince, 1137.*Albion, Schooner, 551.*Albion, The, 1108.*Albor, Frank, 293.*Alden, James, 325, 909-912.*Alderson, J. A., 1436-1438, 1443, 1447, 1449, 1466, 1478.*Alderton, William, 267.*Alexander, Edward P., 359.*Alexander, G. W., 226.*Alexander, Samuel, 1285.*Alexander, Thomas, 1429.*Alexander II, 1200-1202.*Alford, John W., 138, 197.*Alien Enemies.

- Act of Confederate Congress, 1368.
 Notice to, B. Huger, 1390.
 Proclamation, J. Davis, 1369.
 Regulations respecting, 1370.

Alison, Archibald, 835.

Allen, E. J. See Allan Pinkerton.

Allen, Edmund, 1414.Allen, George D., 966.*Allen, Jack, 885.*Allen, James, 912.*Allen, Richard, 912.*Allen, Robert (Pa.), 430, 431.*Allen, Robert (Va.), 1444.*Allen, Sophia, 125.*Allen, William, jr., 264.*Allen, William H. (1st N. Y.), 1431.*Allen, William H., sr., 264.*Allery, John, 1539.*Alleyn, Mr.

Correspondence, G. Benjamin, 987.

Alliance, Ship, 458.Allie, Sam, 1440.*Allkins, A.

Correspondence, Post-Office Dept., U. S., 861.

Alston, Captain, 192.Alston, M. P.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 128.

Mentioned, 129.

Alton, Ill.

Prisoners, 250.

Alverda, Schooner, 112, 115, 291.Alvey, Richard H., case of, 349-354.

Correspondence:

Mason, J. T., 349.

State Department, U. S., 350, 352.

Mentioned, 102, 154, 226, 230, 233, 349-354, 425.

Ambler, Shelton, 1471.Amelia, Ship, 546.*American, Brig, 1483.*American Telegraph Company.

Instructions to officers, 40.

Amick, Eli, 267.Amick, Henry, 264.*Ammon, John H., 309.*Amory, Jonathan.

Correspondence:

State Department, U. S., 78, 83, 86, 176, 1050, 1052, 1055.

Wainwright, H. C., 1053.

Mentioned, 148, 458, 1053, 1056, 1058, 1059.

Anacostia, U. S. Steamer, 1366.Anderson, Charles, 156.*Anderson, Frank P.

Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 184.

Anderson, Hiram, 418, 419, 421.Anderson, J. J.

Correspondence, R. Anderson, 81.

Anderson, John, 264.Anderson, John B., 712.*Anderson, John P., 1427.*Anderson, Joseph R., 431, 841, 1483.*Anderson, Peter L., 1431.*Anderson, Robert.

Correspondence:

Anderson, J. J., 81.

Bell, T. S., 887.

Bryant, E., 887.

Burke, M., 886.

Butler, N., 887.

Hobbs, E. D., 887.

Anderson, Robert—Continued.

Correspondence:

Lincoln, A., 885, 886.

State Department, U. S., 885-888.

Thomas, G. H., 884.

Verneigerholz, C. T., 887.

Mentioned, 81, 91, 92, 303, 813, 814, 881-883, 886, 888.

Proclamation to Kentuckians, 74.

Anderson, Sam, 1398.Anderson, Samuel F., 152, 237, 238, 245, 261, 316.Anderson, Samuel J., case of, 602-620.

Correspondence:

Burke, M., 603.

Gardner, J., 608.

Hitchcock, J. V., 610.

Lincoln, A., 604.

Martin, W. M., 612.

Redding, A. W., 607, 608, 612.

Robertson, F. M., 610, 611.

State Department, U. S., 618, 619.

Stephens, A. H., 605, 607, 609.

Wendell, C., 615.

Mentioned, 229, 602-620, 624.

Andrew, J. G.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1032.

Andrew, John A.Correspondence. Sec Massachusetts, Governor of.

Mentioned, 75, 111, 164, 733, 1385.

Andrews, John W., 301.Andrews, Robert, 312.Andrews, Rufus F., 480.Andrews, W. S. G.

Correspondence, T. H. Holmes, 1548.

Mentioned, 1547.

Angel, J. B., 263.Anglen, Thompson, 243.Anglo-Saxon, U. S. Steamer, 1006.Angus, John, 545-547.Anisansel, Henry, 319.Anonymous.

Correspondence:

Burson, J. W., 378.

State Department, U. S., 1137, 1246.

Apperson, Richard, 1446.Apperson, William, 267.Applegate, Mr., 572.Appleton, George A., 63, 82, 84, 113, 154, 225, 233.Appley, Jacob A., 229, 671.Arago, Steamer, 180, 1141, 1142.Arbough, Harry, 267.Archer, James B., 481.Archer, R. P.

Correspondence, Q. M. Gen.'s Office, U. S. A., 1407.

Archibald, E. M.

Correspondence:

Brain, J. C., 713.

Gilchrist, W., 838.

Lyons, Lord, 546, 985, 1061.

Mure, R., 69.

Salvor, steamer, crew and passengers, 962.

Wilder, E. B., 699.

Mentioned, 77, 288, 545, 547, 550, 551, 628, 629, 644,

646, 659, 713, 718, 831, 910, 912, 962, 983, 985, 986,

1051, 1061, 1070, 1072, 1075.

Arctic, Schooner, 627, 631.Argobright, Kellis, 266.Ariel, Steamer, 358, 360, 361.Arkansas, Governor of.

Correspondence:

Davis, J., 1399.

War Department, U. S., 1402, 1403.

Armes, George W., 11.Arming, William, 498.Armistead, Mr., 865.Armistead, Julia S., 1366.Armstrong, E. M., 1429.Armstrong, R. M., 250.Armstrong, Stewart, 1441, 1449.Army Headquarters.

Correspondence:

-----, 1021.

Banks, N. P., 30, 380.

Buell, D. C., 136.

Burke, M., 32, 38, 41, 43, 48, 51, 52, 69, 82, 84, 92,

96, 120, 124, 364, 383, 423, 424, 438, 442, 443, 486,

556, 597, 603, 727, 729, 776, 794, 798, 888, 943.

Clitz, H. B., 49.

Cooper, J., 1541.

Deringer, T. T., 535.

Dimick, J., 109, 110.

Dix, J. A., 33, 45, 381, 788.

Dusenbury, W. C., 112.

Greene, J. D., 674.

Lincoln, A., 19, 109, 193.

Loomis, G., 120.

Lyon, N., 9.

McClellan, G. B., 14.

Patterson, R., 12.

Scott, H. L., 48.

Smith, C. F., 48, 363, 422.

State Department, U. S., 14, 30, 36, 38, 107, 112,

121, 148, 150, 191, 361, 362, 364, 421, 423, 425, 485,

510, 511, 533, 556, 603, 615, 674.

Tompkins, D. D., 423.

War Department, U. S., 41.

Wool, J. E., 794.

Orders, special, series 1861, No. 172, 105

Pass for H. May, 790.

Permit to S. A. Pancoast, 1540.

Arnold, Jackson, 1462.Arnold, James, 264.Arrests, Political Prisoners.

Vested in military authorities, 223.

Arthur, Wilson, 1447.Arundel, Charles, 1441.Arundell, P. C., 238.Ashburton, Lord, 1230, 1231.Ashby, Turner.

Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 1393.

Mentioned, 1467, 1488.

Ashe, W. J.

Correspondence, W. F. Leak, 1549.

Ashly, S. W., 118, 119.Ashton, J. Hubley, Assistant U. S. Attorney.

Correspondence:

Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 980.

Attorney-General's Office, U. S., 509.

State Dept., U. S., 132, 133, 847, 848, 851-853, 978.

Mentioned, 849, 850, 857.

Asia, Steamer, 1058, 1059, 1064.Associated Press, New Orleans.

Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 829.

- Atchison, W., 1441.
 Atkinson, Lieutenant, 1488.
 Atkinson, Thomas, 1509-1512.
 Atkinson, Thomas W., 1343.
 Atlanta, Ship, 1140.
 "A True Blue."
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 702.
 Attorney-General's Office, U. S.
 Correspondence:
 Conner, J. B., 1372.
 Hinton, J. B., 1401.
 War Department, C. S., 197.
 Attorney-General's Office, U. S.
 Correspondence:
 Addison, W. M., 285, 351.
 Ashton, J. H., 509.
 Bill, E., 1041, 1042.
 Buell, D. C., 182.
 Coffey, G. A., 508, 509, 857.
 Congress, U. S., 20.
 Dart, W. A., 555.
 Fendall, P. R., 790.
 Hambleton, T. E., 873.
 Lincoln, A., 20.
 State Department, U. S., 351, 508, 855-857, 873.
 War Department, U. S., 8, 182, 247.
 Opinion, Attorney-General, 20.
 Attorneys.
 Political prisoners, 156.
 Atwell, John, 862, 863.
 Aubrey, George W., 197.
 Aufrey, George W., 197.
 Augusta, Bark, 671.
 Augustine, Mr., 207.
 Aulder, Captain, 968.
 Ault, Henry A., 197.
 Australasian, Steamer, 1141.
 Auxier, David V.
 Correspondence, G. W. Dunlap, 407.
 Mentioned, 403, 406, 407, 411, 414.
 Auxier, Nathaniel, 407.
 Averell, Oscar J., 1505.
 Averell, William H.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 705.
 Mentioned, 707.
 Averell, William W., 172.
 Avery, Chester, 1455.
 Avery, Wesley, 272, 274, 277.
 Ayers, Jeff, 264.
 Aymer, William H., case of, 909-913.
 Correspondence:
 Church, H. L., 911.
 State Department, U. S., 910.
 Ayres, Col. B., 431.
 Ayres, Lambert P., 250.
 Ayres, William.
 Correspondence, W. Smith, 430.
 Mentioned, 427, 1425, 1489.
 B., J. C., & Co., 255.
 Babbage, James J., 346.
 Back, Joseph, case of, 881-897.
 Mentioned, 103, 231, 233, 883, 886, 888, 893-897.
 Backus, John C.
 Correspondence, W. Hodge, 730.
 Bacon, James, 233.
 Bacon, John S., 227, 312.
 Bacon, Joseph, 119, 225, 227, 312.
 Badger, George Edmund, 1549.
 Bagby, Henry B., 1432.
 Bagwell, Colonel, 243.
 Bailey, A., 1483.
 Bailey, A. C., 1469.
 Bailey, Josiah E., 238, 272, 277, 346.
 Bailey Bros. & Co., 1033, 1034.
 Bainbridge, U. S. Brig, 361.
 Baker, A. A., 327.
 Baker, A. N., 239, 240, 261.
 Baker, George, 1314.
 Baker, George E., 236, 503.
 Baker, Lafayette C.
 Correspondence:
 Franklin, B., 726.
 State Department, U. S., 118, 119, 183, 201, 778, 831, 841, 852.
 War Department, U. S., 853.
 Wyatt, F., 831.
 Mentioned, 187, 224, 306, 318, 321, 331, 343, 347, 829-831, 833, 835, 839-841, 851, 1276.
 Baker, T. Harrison, 682.
 Baker, William D., 712.
 Baker, William R., 267.
 Baldwin, Augustus S., 805.
 Baldwin, C. C. P., 310.
 Baldwin, Elizabeth K., case of, 805.
 Baldwin, John B.
 Correspondence:
 Jackson, G., 1381.
 War Department, C. S., 1381, 1546.
 Mentioned, 1425, 1426.
 Baldwin, M. W., 841.
 Ball, Charles B., 1471, 1479.
 Ball, Flamen.
 Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 54, 66, 917.
 Ball, George H.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 579.
 Ball, Henry, 267.
 Ball, John, 272.
 Ball, Summerfield, 152, 237, 238, 245, 261, 271, 277.
 Ball, W. G., 958, 960, 964, 965.
 Ballard, Bland.
 Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 811.
 Mentioned, 316, 818.
 Ballard, Charles J.
 Correspondence, Treas. Dept., U. S., 1044, 1045.
 Mentioned, 1041, 1044.
 Ballenger, Isaac, 152, 206, 207, 209, 237, 238, 245, 261.
 Ballenger, John, 206, 207.
 Balloon, Steamer, 103.
 Ballou, Sullivan, 1510.
 Baltimore Exchange, 152, 778-781, 784.
 Baltimore Sun, 792, 793, 865, 907, 908, 1239.
 Baltimore South, 787-789.
 Baltimore Southern Traveler, 712.
 Bankhead, John P.
 Correspondence, J. L. Lardner, 221.
 Mentioned, 220.
 Bank of the Republic, New York.
 President. See John H. Crane.
 Banks, Nathaniel P.
 Correspondence:
 Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 180.
 Army Headquarters, 30, 380.

Banks, Nathaniel P.—Continued.

Correspondence:

Hovey, J. G., 198.

State Department, U. S., 118, 146, 898.

War Department, U. S., 10, 380.

Mentioned, 33, 43, 99, 108, 112, 113, 117, 180, 198, 230, 252, 260, 291, 292, 309, 310, 319, 330, 333, 340, 347, 380, 390, 565, 977, 1328, 1340, 1341, 1350, 1413.

Banks, Solomon, 1428.Baptist, Samuel G.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 529.

Barber, Charles, 555, 558, 559Barber, G. S., 1416.*Barber, Jerome R., case of, 555-561.

Mentioned, 102, 154, 230, 232, 239, 261, 269, 555-561.

Barbour, Major, 1487.Barbour, J.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 919.

Barclay, Anthony, 1058.Barclay, Robert, 252, 348*Bargfried, John H., 382-384.*Baring & Co., 1035.*Barker, Miss, 125.*Barker, Samuel, 343.*Barkley, Charles, case of, 544-555.

Correspondence:

Political Prisoners' Commission, 554.

State Department, U. S., 551.

War Department, U. S., 553.

Mentioned, 102, 154, 233, 544-555.

Barlow, Samuel L. M.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 98.

Barnard, George M., 1057.Barnard, George W., 92, 103, 154, 233, 300.*Barnard, T., 118.*Barnard, William C., 300.*Barnes, Edward, 1468.*Barnes, H. B.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 275.

Barnes, W.

Correspondence, J. Davis, 1505.

Barnet, Robert, 293.Barneto, John, 202, 212, 217, 336, 348.*Barnett, J. D., 264.*Barnett, James P., 758.*Barnett, N. D., 264.*Barney, Dr., 1400.*Barney, Hiram.

Correspondence:

State Department, U. S., 18.

Treasury Department, U. S., 71.

Barney, William C., 464, 465.Barnum, Phineas T.

Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 166.

Mentioned, 166.

Barr, Martin W., case of, 805-829.

Correspondence:

Craig, D. H., 825.

Hettie, 812.

Mallory, R., 826, 827.

State Department, U. S., 826, 827.

Mentioned, 102, 154, 230, 232, 239, 261, 270, 805-829.

Barr, Martin W., Mrs., 810.Barret, Amos B., 243.*Barret, Robert. See *Robert Barnet.Barrett, R. H., 958, 960, 964, 965, 970.*Barron, Messrs., 477.*Barron, Eustace W., 1500.*Barron, Henry, 250.*Barrow & Pope, 1309.*Barse, George R.

Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 982, 1251.

Mentioned, 982, 1001, 1252, 1260.

Barse, William H.

Correspondence:

State Department, U. S., 52, 73, 83, 86, 98, 137,

176, 982, 996, 999, 1033, 1246, 1247, 1249, 1254.

Whiting, J. P., 1252.

Mentioned, 133, 170, 306, 982, 984, 1008, 1245-1247, 1253, 1254.

Barstow, Wilson.Correspondence. See *John A. Dix.Bartol, James L., 350.*Barton, Judge, 1300.*Barton, J., Mrs., 1320.*Barton, R. M.

Correspondence, W. M. Churchwell, 1424.

Bass, Colin.

Correspondence:

Turner, T. P., 414.

Virginia, Governor of, 414.

Mentioned, 414, 415.

Bass, John M., 1296.Bassett, Hiram, 928, 929.*Bassett, James, 928, 929.*Bassford, W. S., 1493-1495.*Bastable, George, 266.*Bateman, Mr., 522.*Bateman, John, 229, 303.*Bates, Caleb J., Mrs., 810, 811.*Bates, Edward.Correspondence. See Att'y-Gen.'s Office, U. S.

Mentioned, 18, 19, 170, 351, 471, 508, 555-557, 816, 856, 873, 877, 1041, 1322, 1327, 1328, 1333.

Bates, Lizzie. See *Mrs. Reuben T. Durrett.Bates, Richard.Correspondence. See *Att'y-Gen.'s Office, U. S.Bates, Roswell, 955.*Bates, Winslow.

Correspondence, S. W. Macy, 441.

Bath (N. Y.) Citizens.

Correspondence, J. Davis, 1505.

Batts, Mr., 1538.Baum, Edward, 92, 103, 154, 232, 239, 261, 270, 235, 300, 551.*Baumgardner, Jacob, 264.*Bausenwein, Valentine.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 219.

Baxley, Catherine Virginia, case of, 1315-1321.

Correspondence:

Brown, S., 1319.

State Department, U. S., 1316, 1317.

War Department, U. S., 1318.

Mentioned, 237, 271, 561, 577, 1315-1321, 1346, 1347, 1351.

Baxter, De Witt C., 836.Baxter, Sydney S.

Correspondence:

Faulkner, C. J., 1533.

Huntt, O. W., 1422.

Pancoast, S. A., 1537, 1539.

Baxter, Sydney S.—Continued.

Correspondence:

Thomas, H. W., 1421.

Turner, J., 1409.

War Department, C. S., 1403, 1413, 1416, 1418, 1419, 1526, 1533, 1534.

Member of Political Prisoners' Board, 1403.

Mentioned, 1418, 1525, 1531.

Bayard, George D.

Correspondence, G. A. McCall, 1285.

Bayard, James A., 65.Bayard, Thomas F.

Correspondence, J. A. Dix, 275.

Mentioned, 268, 269.

Bayless, George, 1397, 1453, 1454.Bayliss, Bushrod W., 237, 239, 245, 261, 271, 278, 338.Bayliss, Richard H., 237, 238, 245, 261, 338.Baylor, John R.

Correspondence, W. C. Adams, 1527.

Mentioned, 1526, 1527.

Bayne, George H., 189, 190.Bays, Isaac, 1449.Bays, Samuel, 1441.Beach, Alfred, 237, 1445.Beach, Calvert, 238, 245, 261, 346.Beach, Elias, 1445.Beach, Walter P., 1248, 1260.Beal, H.

Correspondence, C. F. Adams, 1195.

Mentioned, 1195.

Beale, Mr., 1429.Beall, Samuel, 267.Bealle, Dr., 1320.Beaman, Mr., 1553.Bearden, H. M.

Correspondence, W. M. Churchwell, 1426.

Beary, John, 1425.Beasely, J. J., 1375.Beasley, W. B., 250.Beaton, Jones, 267.Beaumont, Mrs., 1347.Beaumont, W. L., 53.Beauregard, G. T.

Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 565.

Mentioned, 132, 177, 269, 565, 571-573, 591, 593, 595, 596, 792, 865, 916, 1298, 1309, 1310, 1347, 1348, 1354, 1482, 1501, 1506, 1509, 1511, 1519.

Beaver, Mr., 1413.Bebian, Augusta de.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 441.

Bebian, Louis de., case of, 432-456.

Correspondence:

Burke, M., 442-444.

Mercier, H., 444.

Montholon, C. C. F. de, 438.

State Department, U. S., 441.

Mentioned, 229, 432-456.

Bebian, Octavia de.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 441.

Becket, John, 267.Beckett, William.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 128.

Mentioned, 127-129.

Beckley, Alfred, 1431, 1438, 1439.Beebe, Deane & Donohue.

Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 548, 549, 759.

Mentioned, 548, 935.

Beecher, Henry W., 581, 588, 637, 1323.Beecher, Henry W., Mrs., 581.Beekman, Lewis, 1435-1437.Beekman, M., 1435.Bell, H. M.

Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1415.

Bell, T. S.

Correspondence, R. Anderson, 887.

Mentioned, 892.

Bell, W., jr., 711.Belles, Henry C., 250.Bellfield, Mr., 1374.Belligny, St. Croix de, 651, 654, 660, 1493.Bellville, Mr., 1374.Belt, E. W., 1347.Belvin, William, 1430.Benachi, N. M.

Correspondence, B. Rodriguez, 591, 592.

Bender, George, 76.Benedict, Mr., 50.Bengue, O., 494, 496-498.Benham, Calhoun, case of, 1009-1020.

Correspondence:

Gwin, W. M., 1009, 1015.

State Department, U. S., 1019.

Memorandum, 1020.

Mentioned, 155, 229, 930, 1009-1020.

Statement, 1020.

Benham, Samuel, 97.Benjamin, Mr. See Benjamin F. Longley.Benjamin, George.

Correspondence:

Alley, Mr., 987.

Shaver, J. G., 988.

Mentioned, 934, 987, 988, 994, 999, 1002.

Benjamin, Harding, 250.Benjamin, Judah P.Correspondence. See Attorney-General's Office, C. S., and War Department, C. S.

Mentioned, 197, 271, 358, 412, 429, 572, 865, 877, 1222, 1315, 1318, 1320, 1341, 1342, 1385, 1386, 1388, 1390, 1393, 1400, 1405, 1416, 1418, 1419, 1493-1495, 1497, 1499, 1500, 1506, 1511, 1515, 1533.

Benjamin, Jackson, 238, 245, 261, 272, 278, 342.Bennett, F. W., & Co., 835.Bennett, Hezekiah, 264.Bennett, J., 250.Bennett, James, 1462.Bennett, James Gordon, jr., 435.Bennett, Jonathan M.

Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1390, 1392, 1394.

Mentioned, 1462.

Bennett, Sidney, 341.Bennett, Stephen, 94, 96, 307.Bennett, William, 266.Bennett's Cutter. See U. S. Rev. Out. Henrietta.Benson, Henry, 967.Benton, U. S. Steamer, 200.Benton, B. N., 464.Berdle, Amos T., 1290.Bergdale, John, 197.Bergen, A. J.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 672.

Mentioned, 672.

Berhard, J. C., 480.

- Bermuda, Steamer, 1031, 1032, 1096, 1079.
- Bernal, Frederick.
Correspondence:
Ingram, T., 388.
Lyons, Lord, 900.
Mentioned, 148, 899, 900.
- Bernstorff, Albrecht.
Correspondence. See Foreign Office, Prussian.
Mentioned, 1126, 1163, 1176, 1178.
- Berret, James G., case of, 596-599.
Mentioned, 156, 229, 237, 596-599, 1255.
- Berret, Joseph H.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 597.
- Berrian, Hobart.
Correspondence:
Navy Department, U. S., 286.
State Department, U. S., 204, 211, 426.
Waddell, J. J., 205.
Mentioned, 425.
- Berry, Michael, case of, 933-937.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 935.
Mentioned, 92, 103, 154, 231, 232, 285, 933-937.
- Berry, Philip.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 128.
Mentioned, 129.
- Berry, Samuel, 1425.
- Bertinatti, J.
Correspondence:
Foreign Office, Italian, 1203.
State Department, U. S., 1204.
Mentioned, 1204, 1262.
- Bestor, George C.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 574.
- Betts, Lawrence R., 424, 552.
- Beverly, Schooner, 438.
- Biancone, Klee & Co., 686.
- Biddle, Charles J.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 740.
- Biddle, George W.
Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 739.
Mentioned, 735.
- Biddle, H. J.
Correspondence. See George A. McCall.
Mentioned, 1289.
- Biehl, Joe, 1528.
- Bigger, R. H., 108, 119, 154, 225, 227, 232, 285.
- Bill, Earl.
Correspondence:
Attorney-General's Office, U. S., 1041, 1042.
Maury, W., 1074.
Post-Office Department, U. S., 1055.
State Dept., U. S., 1042, 1043, 1046, 1070, 1071.
Mentioned, 1041, 1046, 1055, 1069, 1070, 1074.
- Billeps, Thomas C., 1554-1556.
- Bing, Julius.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 588.
- Bingham, John A.
Correspondence, H. May, 791.
- Bingham, Jonathan T., 1429.
- Bingham, K. S., 9.
- Bingham & Parsons, 296.
- Birbeck, Steamer, 51.
- Birch, E., 1455.
- Birch, Harvey, Steamer, 1105, 1131, 1235.
- Birch, Joseph, 1376.
- Bishop, Mrs., 166.
- Bishop, Henry, 1290.
- Bishop, William D., 73, 166.
- Bittinger, Rev. Mr., 1485.
- Black, Jeremiah S., 1015.
- Blackburn, E. E.
Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1399.
- Blackiston, James T., 201.
- Blackwood, John. See Julian Lee.
- Blair, Francis P., 1298
- Blair, M. M.
Correspondence, J. Davis, 1545.
- Blair, Montgomery.
Correspondence. See Post-Office Dept., U. S.
Mentioned, 13, 14, 283, 300, 501, 773, 778-780, 787, 939-941, 953, 1042-1044, 1051, 1298.
- Blake, Mr., 79.
- Blake, George B., 165, 1037.
- Blake, Stanton, 647, 648.
- Blake, William, 898.
- Blake, William H.
Correspondence:
Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 719.
Copp, W., 720.
State Department, U. S., 719.
Mentioned, 718-720.
- Blanchard, Israel, 34.
- Blanchard, R. G., 675.
- Blanchard, Sylvanus C.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 681.
Mentioned, 678.
- Blasdel, William K., 604, 616, 617.
- Blatchford, Richard M.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 482, 525, 526, 628, 727.
Mentioned, 483, 735.
- Blatchford, Samuel.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 82, 84.
- Bledsoe, A. T.
Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1389.
See also War Department, C. S.
- Bligh, Delos T.
Correspondence, Adj. Gen.'s Office, U. S. A., 256.
- Bloomfield, Lord, 1183.
- Blowney, Henry J., 715.
- Board, G. B.
Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1371.
Mentioned, 1371, 1384.
- Bocock, Thomas S.
Correspondence:
Harris, A., 1519.
War Department, C. S., 1517, 1518.
Mentioned, 1517.
- Bodine, Mr., 1471.
- Boggs, Wesley, 264.
- Boggs, William Leland, 292.
- Boggs, William R., 1416.
- Bollen, Lieutenant, 884.
- Bolles, John A.
Correspondence. See John A. Dix.
- Bollman, Jacob M., 237.
- Bonaparte, Napoleon, 451, 614, 1490.
- Bond, Mr., 1127.
- Bone, Benjamin, 197.
- Boney, Reuben, 267.
- Bonham, Milledge L., 565, 1286, 1372, 1466.
- Bonifant, Washington.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 37.
Mentioned, 37.

- Booker, R. M., 1525.
Boone, B. B., 1357.
Booth, Mr., 97.
Borden, Daniel L., 1290.
Borden Mining Company, 1458.
Borland, Solon.
 Correspondence, A. S. Johnston, 1404.
 Mentioned, 1402.
Boston Courier, 1137.
Boston Courier, Editor.
 Correspondence, C. B. Goodrich, 1139.
Boston Journal, 1264, 1265.
Boston Journal, Editor.
 Correspondence, G. T. Curtis, 1137.
Bosworth, J. S., 254.
Boteler, Alexander, 1467.
Boteler, Alexander R., 1488.
Botts, Miss, 1546.
Botts, John Minor, case of, 1545-1547.
Bouldin, Jehu L., 63, 113, 225, 233.
Boutwell, E. B., 340.
Bowen, James.
 Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 362, 602.
 Mentioned, 13, 14, 163, 1058.
Bowen, James E., 266.
Bowen, Jeff., sr., 266.
Bowen, John L., 266.
Bower, John S., 1432.
Bowles, John B., 1530.
Bowman, A. C., 264.
Bowman, J. M.
 Correspondence, R. Watkins, 867.
Bowman, Josiah B., 1398, 1456, 1475.
Bowman, Josiah B., Mrs., 1398.
Bowne, George L., case of, 703-710.
 Mentioned, 229, 703-710.
Bowne & Curry, 708.
Boyce, W. W.
 Correspondence:
 Harris, A., 1519.
 War Department, C. S., 1517, 1518.
 Mentioned, 1386, 1517.
Boyle, Cornelius.
 Correspondence:
 Lay, G. W., 1397.
 Winder, J. H., 1374, 1375, 1397, 1398.
 Mentioned, 80, 1397, 1453, 1463.
Boyle, R. R., 1261-1263.
Boynton, Thomas J.
 Correspondence:
 French, W. H., 959.
 Hill, B. H., 965.
 Mentioned, 958, 964, 977.
Brabb, Mr., 268.
Brace, Charles L., 588.
Bradburn, Mr., 192.
Bradford, Augustus W.
 Correspondence. See Maryland, Governor of.
 Mentioned, 269.
Bradford, James, 267.
Bradford, James P., 267.
Bradley, C. P.
 Correspondence, Adj't. Gen.'s Office, U. S. A., 256.
 Mentioned, 241.
Brady, J. T., 519, 523.
Brady, Joseph, 156.
- Brady, Patrick, case of, 1357-1360.
 Mentioned, 239, 240, 261, 1357-1359.
Brady, Slusher, 1466.
Bragg, Braxton.
 Correspondence, D. W. Adams, 1556, 1557.
 Orders, martial law, note, 1421.
Bragg, Thomas.
 Correspondence. See Att'y-Gen.'s Office, C. S.
 Mentioned, 1417.
Brain, John, Mrs., 713.
Brain, John C., case of, 711-721.
 Correspondence, E. M. Archibald, 713.
 Mentioned, 154, 233, 711-721.
Brain, John C., Mrs., 715.
Brain, William, 294
Brainard, Captain, 840.
Branch, C. R., 1483.
Branch, William D.
 Correspondence, Virginia, Gov. of, 1363, 1364.
 Mentioned, 1364.
Brandenburg, Count, 1163.
Brannan, John M., 977, 981, 982.
Brannon, John.
 Correspondence:
 Hilleary, W., 1506.
 Morrall, L. D., 1507.
 Virginia, Governor of, 1507.
 Mentioned, 1462, 1507.
Brawner, William G., 1441, 1444, 1445, 1452.
Breckinridge, John C.
 Correspondence:
 Davis, J., 1524.
 McCall, A. J., 1503.
 Mentioned, 65, 71, 93, 131, 242, 317, 606, 724, 725,
 787, 788, 797, 814, 916, 946, 1269, 1296, 1367, 1386,
 1503, 1517, 1520, 1522.
Breckinridge, Samuel.
 Correspondence:
 Lindsay, R. T., 273.
 Smith, W. O., 273.
 Tebbs, J. J., 273.
 Trimble, W. W., 273.
Breckinridge, W. K. N., 237, 317.
Breese, Samuel L., 1084, 1088.
Bremon, Frank A.
 Correspondence, W. A. Parker, 161.
Brennan, Thomas, 34.
Brent, Joseph L., case of, 1009-1020.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1019.
 Mentioned, 155, 229, 350, 930, 1009-1020.
 Statement, 1020.
Brent, R. J., 862, 865.
Brewer, J. M., 102, 154, 230, 233.
Brewster, Benjamin H.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 507.
 Mentioned, 506, 508, 509.
Brewster, H. P.
 Correspondence, J. Davis, 1515.
Bridgeport (Conn.) Farmer, 377.
Bridges, Horace W., 346.
Bright, Elizabeth B., 1366.
Bright, Jesse D., 65, 201, 724, 765.
Bright, John, 1235.
Bright, Matthew, 202, 212, 217, 264, 336, 348.
Bright, Samuel F., 1366.
Brinsmade, Mrs., 732.

- British Consuls. See Consuls.
- British Consuls-General. See Consuls-General.
- British Parliament.
- British subjects in America, 213.
- Broadstreet, Mrs., 252.
- Broadwater, S. J. M. P., 227.
- Brodhead, T. F., 1255.
- Brouson, Mr., 1295.
- Brookbanks, Thomas A., 239, 240, 261, 294.
- Brooke, John M., 263.
- Brooklyn Evening Star, 671.
- Brooklyn Times, 1273.
- Brooks, Mr., 1415.
- Brooks, E.
- Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 703.
- Brooks, H. C., Brig. 226.
- Brooks, James.
- Correspondence, W. H. Winder, 732.
- Mentioned, 731, 732.
- Brooks, John, 31.
- Brooks, Nathan T., 272.
- Brooks, Riddock, 296, 297.
- Brooks, W. P., 272.
- Brotherton, William H., 1484.
- Brounlen, Mr., 1332.
- Brown, A. A.
- Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 706.
- Brown, Arthur, case of, 1345-1346.
- Mentioned, 253, 1345, 1346.
- Brown, Coleman R., 1424.
- Brown, George William.
- Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 115.
- Mentioned, 102, 115, 116, 154, 225, 227, 230, 232, 285, 291, 790, 794-796.
- Brown, Harvey, 96, 97, 229.
- Brown, Henry C., 237, 245, 261, 271, 338.
- Brown, James, case of, 1278-1280.
- Mentioned, 141, 154, 232, 239, 261, 269, 1278-1280.
- Brown, John (La.), 152, 237.
- Brown, John (Ossawatimie), 378, 1324, 1414.
- Brown, John C., 250.
- Brown, John L., 1315.
- Brown, Joseph E., 608.
- Brown, Septimus, case of, 1315-1321.
- Correspondence, C. V. Baxley, 1319.
- Mentioned, 228, 1315-1321.
- Brown, Thomas J., 480.
- Brown, W. M., 272, 277.
- Brown, William (Steamer Lewis), 328.
- Brown, William (Steamer Salvor), 92, 94, 96, 184, 307, 308.
- Brown, Shipley & Co., 433, 435-437, 447, 454, 455.
- Brown Bros., 451.
- Brown Bros. & Co.
- Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1048.
- Browne, William M.
- Correspondence. See Jefferson Davis and State Department, C. S.
- Mentioned, 1493, 1494.
- Browning, Camilla, 963.
- Browning, William J., case of, 956-982.
- Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 963.
- Mentioned, 155, 957, 961, 971, 972.
- Brownlee, John A., 250.
- Brownlow, William G., 1361.
- Bruggy, Martin, 227.
- Brummel, Albert, 45, 227.
- Brundeen, Erick, 92, 94, 96, 307.
- Brune, John C.
- Correspondence, William, 255, 256.
- Mentioned, 255.
- Brunnow, Philipp von, 1106, 1163, 1171
- Bryan, E. Pliny, 272, 279, 1350, 1361, 1362, 1490.
- Bryan, Oliver N., 238, 272, 279, 343.
- Bryan, William. See William Brain.
- Bryan, William P., 272, 279.
- Bryant, Edwin.
- Correspondence, R. Anderson, 887.
- Bryant, William C., 588.
- Buchanan, James, 16, 375, 607, 724, 1129, 1428.
- Buchanan, Robert, 163, 324.
- Buchanan County, Va.
- Martial law, note, 1421.
- Buchel, A.
- Correspondence, P. O. Hébert, 1407.
- Buckingham, William A., 624.
- Buckles, Robert W., 239, 240, 261, 343.
- Buckley & Moore, 534.
- Buckner, A. J., 534, 535.
- Buckner, Richard A.
- Correspondence, W. T. Sherman, 814.
- See also Kentucky Legislature.
- Buckner, Simon B.
- Proclamation, 1380.
- Buckner, McCammon & Co.
- Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 540.
- Mentioned, 534, 541, 543, 544.
- Bucklock, Fred., 1347.
- Budd, Thomas A., 17.
- Buddington, William Ives, 761.
- Buell, Mrs., 1348.
- Buell, Don Carlos.
- Correspondence:
- Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 170.
- Army Headquarters, 136.
- Attorney-General's Office, U. S., 182.
- Henderson, J. M., 186.
- Sanderson, J. P., 223.
- Whittlesey, C., 186.
- Mentioned, 182, 183, 186, 248, 249.
- Buell, John L., 124, 142.
- Buford, Abraham.
- Correspondence, A. Harris, 1522.
- Mentioned, 59, 1517.
- Bull, George, 169.
- Bull, George G.
- Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 149.
- Mentioned, 178.
- Bullitt, John C.
- Correspondence:
- Gilchrist, W., 849.
- State Department, U. S., 849.
- Bullitt, Joshua F., 125.
- Bulloch, James D., 18.
- Bullock, W. F.
- Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 811.
- Bunch, Robert.
- Correspondence:
- Foreign Office, British, 656.
- Mure, R., 646.
- Credentials of R. Mure, 646, 649, 652.
- Mentioned, 46, 415-418, 420, 421, 547, 644-657, 659-665, 1123, 1133, 1169.

- Bunker, Mr., 1252.
Bunker, Robert S., 233, 1031.
Burbank, Eleazer, 675.
Burch, Dennis, 868.
Burch, Hillary, 868.
Burch, J. R., 1372.
Burch, Robert L., 868.
Burden, Henry, 93.
Burdett, John J., 267.
Burgess, George, 1511, 1512.
Burk, Mr., 1445.
Burke, Mr., 686.
Burke, John.
 Correspondence, M. Burke, 280.
 Mentioned, 280.
Burke, John W., 272, 277.
Burke, Martin.
 Correspondence:
 Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 205, 210,
 239, 240, 274, 280, 394-398, 404, 409, 410, 933, 979,
 980, 1075, 1247, 1258, 1263, 1267, 1301, 1346, 1359.
 Anderson, R., 886.
 Anderson, S. J., 603.
 Army Headquarters, 32, 38, 41, 43, 48, 51, 52, 69, 82,
 84, 92, 96, 120, 124, 364, 383, 423, 424, 438, 442, 443,
 486, 556, 597, 603, 727, 729, 776, 794, 798, 888, 943.
 Bebian, L. de, 442-444.
 Burke, J., 280.
 Canby, E. R. S., 405.
 Cisco, J. J., 40.
 Dimick, J., 138.
 Dix, J. A., 165.
 Faulkner, C. J., 477.
 Green, C., 66.
 Hoffman, W., 407, 410.
 Howard, F. K., 783.
 Kennedy, J. A., 486, 510, 521, 531, 583, 603, 628,
 683, 1300.
 Miles, G., 531.
 Millward, W., 745.
 Murray, R., 181, 274, 282, 289, 1353.
 Navy Department, U. S., 45, 193, 961.
 Political Prisoners' Commission, 554, 1267,
 1314, 1339, 1357.
 Porter, A., 468.
 Smith, E. D., 108, 117.
 State Department, U. S., 77, 83, 85, 94, 95, 101,
 105, 116, 123, 146, 151, 153, 194, 196, 219, 221, 228,
 253, 254, 256, 288, 426, 442-444, 447, 458, 459, 469,
 471, 482, 483, 506, 518, 539, 540, 545, 547, 548, 584,
 597, 598, 617, 620, 621, 623, 627-629, 637, 639-641,
 660, 668-670, 683, 687, 688, 702, 709, 710, 713, 727,
 753, 754, 759, 771, 775, 799, 800, 804, 809, 824, 886,
 911, 921, 922, 929, 930, 972, 973, 975, 983, 1016,
 1018, 1025, 1026, 1051, 1072, 1344.
 Studley, W. H., 405.
 Thomas, R., Mrs., 396.
 War Department, U. S., 91, 257, 395, 397, 398,
 530, 845, 1360.
 Williams, J., jr., 459.
 Winder, W. H., 744.
 Wood, C. O., 67, 116, 124, 396, 405, 425, 469, 782,
 845, 1074, 1360.
 Wyatt, F., 843.
 Lists of prisoners, 102, 155, 156, 228, 230.
- Burke, Martin—Continued.
 Mentioned, 41, 42, 45, 47-49, 55, 76, 116, 120, 153,
 174, 180, 185, 274, 280, 287, 291, 297, 300, 302, 317,
 321, 323, 325, 329, 340, 349, 350, 363, 404, 422, 423,
 425, 437, 457, 459, 460, 462, 469, 472, 473, 480, 510,
 511, 521, 522, 531-533, 549, 556, 557, 583, 596, 599,
 603, 617, 620, 622, 623, 625-627, 635-637, 641, 642,
 645, 647, 665-669, 674, 675, 682, 686, 693, 703, 704,
 725-727, 745, 750, 763, 766, 772, 773, 782, 790, 801,
 802, 894, 902, 912-915, 957, 1010, 1016, 1018, 1019,
 1049, 1070, 1074, 1301, 1313, 1327.
- Burling, George C.
 Correspondence, J. W. Wall, 773.
 Mentioned, 773.
- Burner, George, 267.
- Burner, L., 264.
- Burnett, Mr., 1295.
- Burnett, Dennis, 267.
- Burnett, Henry C., 65, 725, 1269.
- Burnett, J. B., 252, 348.
- Burnett, S. R., 179, 185, 239, 240, 261, 323.
- Burnham, Colonel, 1268.
- Burnham, J. C., & Co., 454.
- Burnham, John J.
 Member Political Prisoners' Board, 1398.
 Mentioned, 1398.
- Burnham, N., 238.
- Burns, G. H.
 Correspondence, E. S. Sanford, 40.
- Burns, Harvey, 1410.
- Burnside, Ambrose E.
 Correspondence, B. Huger, 184.
 Mentioned, 184, 565, 1282.
- Burrows, J. Lansing.
 Correspondence, E. J. Scott, 1504.
- Burson, John W., case of, 368-379.
 Correspondence:
 Anonymous, 378.
 Lum, B. F., 375, 376.
 McClellan, G. B., 377.
 Nettleton, A., 376, 377.
 Parsons, Miss, 378.
 War Department, U. S., 377.
 Mentioned, 152, 237, 271, 278, 368-379.
- Burt, John, 300, 325.
- Burt, William L.
 Correspondence:
 Kennedy, J. A., 1049.
 Post-Office Department, U. S., 1051.
 State Department, U. S., 1056.
 Mentioned, 1041, 1049-1055, 1058.
- Burton, Allen A., 1297.
- Burton, Bethel, case of, 749-766.
 Correspondence:
 Kernan, J., 754.
 Lincoln, A., 761.
 State Department, U. S., 763, 764.
 Mentioned, 102, 154, 230, 232, 239, 261, 270, 749, 766.
- Burton, Joseph W., 250.
- Burton, M. M., 250.
- Bush, Asahel K., 720.
- Bush, Samuel, 1029, 1030.
- Buskirk, Clinton, 1446.
- Butcher, Harvey B., 264.
- Butcher, William, 237.

- Butler, Mr., 499.
- Butler, Benjamin F.
Correspondence:
Lothrop, T. K., 458.
State Department, U. S., 142.
Mentioned, 296, 320, 346, 457, 460, 733, 977, 1052.
- Butler, Charles, case of, 956-982.
Mentioned, 155, 957, 961.
- Butler, Isaiah, case of, 1244-1267.
Correspondence, Editor New York Times, 1261.
Mentioned, 239, 240, 261, 1244-1267.
- Butler, J. W., 1424
- Butler, John M., 431.
- Butler, John Q. A., 182, 328.
- Butler, Noble.
Correspondence, R. Anderson, 887.
- Butler, Oliver, 267.
- Butler, Pierce, case of, 505-509.
Mentioned, 229, 505-509, 801.
- Butt, Walter R., 103, 230.
- Buttallion, Hansborough, 267.
- Butterworth, Lieutenant, 171.
- Byard, Benjamin, 264.
- Bynkershoek, Cornelius von, 1187.
- Byrd, Colonel, 1538.
- Byrd, John J.
Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1383.
- Byrd, W. H., 1383, 1432, 1434.
- Byrne, W. W., 250.
- Byrne, William, Sloop, 112.
- Cables, Charles R. See William T. Smithson.
- Cadmus, H. B. M. S., 1242.
- Cadwalader, George, 792.
- Cadwalader, John, 852.
- Caffrey, Mr., 122.
- Cagger, P.
Correspondence, J. R. Flanders, 946.
- Cain, Michael, 264.
- Cain, Thomas, 267.
- Cairo (Ill.) Pro. Mar.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 219.
- Calderon, Mr., 1158.
- Caldwell, George A., 889.
- Caldwell, J. B. T., 1413, 1414, 1418.
- Calhoun, Captain, 1426.
- Calhoun, John C., 941.
- Callan, John F., 565.
- Calloway, H. T., 1552, 1556.
- Calvert, Charles B.
Correspondence, T. M. Key, 873.
Mentioned, 189, 190, 412.
- Calvert, H. T., 250.
- Cambridge, U. S. Steamer, 95, 98, 130, 131, 155, 159, 161, 162, 167, 168, 221.
- Camden, Gideon D.
Correspondence, J. Davis, 1401.
- Cameron, James, 6-8, 377, 1518, 1521, 1522, 1524.
- Cameron, Simon.
Correspondence:
State Department, U. S., 745.
Winder, W. H., 743-746.
See also War Department, U. S.
Mentioned, 9, 13, 17, 30, 48, 76, 84, 85, 91, 102, 103, 111, 114, 117, 118, 170, 174, 203, 225, 229, 230, 295, 302, 315, 332, 377, 383, 384, 386, 416, 420, 466-468, 470, 472, 505-509, 536, 537, 597, 625, 627, 631, 632,
- Cameron, Simon—Continued.
Mentioned:
688, 726, 728-730, 734, 739-741, 744, 745, 771, 773, 778, 782, 787, 790, 794, 795, 805, 816, 832, 834, 839, 854, 920, 970, 1014, 1253, 1254, 1298, 1434, 1516, 1518, 1520, 1522, 1523, 1535-1537, 1542.
- Camp, B. F., 1535, 1536, 1538, 1539, 1543.
- Camp, James H., 34.
- Camp, Green & Panoceast, 1543.
- Campbell, Jacob, jr.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 752.
- Campbell, James (Hon.), 563.
- Campbell, James (Md.), 63, 85, 225.
- Campbell, R.
Correspondence, J. Davis, 1505.
- Canada.
Troops and supplies, 186.
- Canby, E. R. S.
Correspondence, M. Burke, 405.
Mentioned, 40, 404.
- Candé, M. de, 438.
- Canfield, Dr., 199.
- Canning, Joseph C.
Correspondence, W. A. Parker, 161.
- Cannon, James, 374.
- Cantley, James, 1432.
- Cape Girardeau, Mo., C. O. (U.)
Correspondence. See Joseph B. Plummer.
- Capehart, William F., 92, 94, 96, 307.
- Caradene, F. de, 1286.
- Carbon Democrat, 55, 169.
- Carillo, Ramon, 163.
- Carleton, James H.
Correspondence, E. A. Rigg, 163
- Carlile, John S., 73.
- Carlisle, Mr., 797.
- Carmichael, R. B., 85, 213.
- Carnarvon, Earl of, 213.
- Carnes, James A., 1551, 1556.
- Carnes, Susan, 125.
- Carney, William E. See William E. Kearny.
- Caroline, Steamer, 1186, 1187, 1189.
- Carpenter, Police Inspector, 628.
- Carpenter, B. D.
Correspondence, E. H. Smith, 670.
Mentioned, 669.
- Carpenter, C. C., 241, 244, 249.
- Carpenter, S. M., 1288.
- Carpenter, Samuel, 1252.
- Carper, James, 1286.
- Carper, Philip W., case of, 1283-1295.
Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 1294.
Mentioned, 271, 279, 1283, 1284, 1286, 1292, 1295.
- Carper, Thomas, 1286.
- Carr, David H.
Correspondence:
State Department, U. S., 118.
War Department, U. S., 54, 60, 66.
Mentioned, 73, 302, 346, 620, 624, 1345.
- Carrington, Edward C.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 464.
Mentioned, 1031.
- Carroll, Henry J., 237, 331.
- Carroll, John, 250.
- Carroll, William H., 1412.
- Carrow, S. T., 1548.

- Carson, Mr., 865.
 Carson, James H.
 Mentioned, 199, 1464, 1534-1538.
 Orders, special, series 1861, Oct. 16, 1541.
 Carte, George, 264.
 Carter, A. J., 35.
 Carter, A. Robert, 103, 231, 233, 308, 309, 895.
 Carter, Samuel P., 186.
 Caruthers, O. B., 118, 119.
 Carver, John, Ship, 1382.
 Cary, Monimia, 189.
 Casanova, Mr., 1226.
 Casey, Silas, 188, 334.
 Cash, Ellerbe B. C., 1429.
 Caskie, Robert A., 1469, 1474, 1476-1478.
 Cass, Lewis.
 Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 1130, 1131.
 Mentioned, 256, 1131.
 Casseday, Mr., 810.
 Cassidy, Miss, 1476.
 Cassidy, Arthur, 1477.
 Cassidy, James, 1476-1478.
 Cassidy, James Arthur, 1477.
 Cassidy, Kennedy, 1476-1478.
 Cassidy, Philip, 63, 85, 225.
 Castle, Mr., 685, 686.
 Castle, Cornelia D., 558, 559.
 Casto, W. T., case of, 913-933.
 Correspondence:
 Richardson, W. A., 930.
 State Department, U. S., 931, 932.
 Mentioned, 155, 239, 240, 261, 913, 914, 918, 919, 921,
 923, 926, 930-933.
 Catlin, Charles.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 685.
 Catron, John, 125, 126, 805, 814, 815, 817, 820, 885.
 Caulk, James T., 226.
 Caulty, George, 1439.
 Causten, James H.
 Correspondence, J. B. Hinton, 1402.
 Mentioned, 172, 173, 1401.
 Causten, Manuel C., 172-174, 277, 308, 1401, 1402.
 Cavanaugh, Arthur, 320.
 Cavendish, John, 284.
 Cecil, E. W., 156.
 Cenas, David, 229.
 Cenas, Hilary B., 48, 49, 102, 154, 230, 295.
 Ceso & Co., 970.
 Chaffee, D., 324.
 Chamberlain, Mary, 295.
 Chamberlain, Sidney, 250.
 Chamberlin, Jonas, 1427.
 Chambers, Robert D., 291.
 Chancellor, Lorman, 1488, 1489.
 Chandler, Zachariah.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 46.
 Channel, Samuel, 264.
 Chapin, James, 102, 229, 300, 487, 492, 760.
 Chapman, A. A., 1473.
 Chapman, Charles.
 Correspondence, J. Dixon, 854.
 Mentioned, 854.
 Chapman, George H., 201, 331.
 Charleston Courier, 792, 1493.
 Charleston Mercury, 611, 1386, 1491, 1493.
 Chase, 400.
 Chase, Camp, Ohio.
 Prisoners, 264.
 Chase, Edward C., 68.
 Chase, Edward J.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 557,
 704, 705, 943.
 Mentioned, 703.
 Chase, Frank J., 250.
 Chase, Jacob P., 1309.
 Chase, Salmon P.
 Correspondence. See Treasury Department, U. S.
 Mentioned, 10, 127-129, 194, 309, 435, 481, 485, 518,
 593, 637, 811, 915, 1303.
 Chase, William Henry, 193.
 Chauncey, John S., 220.
 Cheatham, E. B.
 Correspondence, J. H. Winder, 1503.
 Cheek, Captain, 1552, 1553, 1556.
 Cheek, Mark R., Ferry-boat, 1552, 1553.
 Cheek, Thomas H., 1552, 1553, 1556.
 Chester, Steamer, 112.
 Chester, Joseph L.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 202,
 210.
 Mentioned, 202.
 Chicago Journal, 712.
 Chicago Tribune, 1298.
 Chiefs of Police.
 Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 246.
 Child, William H., case of, 1357-1360.
 Correspondence:
 Crow, R. M., 1359.
 Hoffman, W., 1360.
 Mentioned, 1357-1360.
 Childers, Francis, 267.
 Childers, Greenwood, 266.
 Childers, Lewis, 266.
 Childs, E. L.
 Correspondence. See Post-Office Department, U. S.
 Childs, Vernon, 1490.
 Chilton, Dr., 1410.
 Chilton, George S., 1478.
 Chilton, R. H.
 Correspondence. See War Department, U. S.
 Mentioned, 1470.
 Chipley, W. D., 711.
 Christian, Bolivar, 1481.
 Christian, John D., 1366.
 Christian, Octavia, 1366, 1367.
 Chubb, Thomas, case of, 1313.
 Chum, F. V., 164.
 Church, Henry L.
 Correspondence, W. H. Aymar, 911.
 Mentioned, 910.
 Churchill, Samuel B., 250.
 Churchill, W. H., 1424.
 Church Intelligencer, 1509, 1510
 Churchwell, W. M.
 Correspondence:
 Barton, R. M., 1424.
 Bearden, H. M., 1426.
 French, J. L. M., 1424.
 Huff, J. H., 1426.
 Taylor, J. R., 1423.

- Cilley, Jonathan, 1296.
 Cincinnati Commercial, 56, 128.
 Cincinnati Gazette, 15.
 Circleville (Ohio) Watchman, 56, 114.
 Clisco, John J.
 Correspondence, M. Burke, 49.
 Mentioned, 49, 51, 685, 686.
 City of New York, Steamer, 451, 1093.
 City of Washington, Steamer, 50, 51, 308.
 Clabaugh, Nathaniel N., 198-200, 238.
 Claggett, Mrs., 309.
 Claggett, Thomas J., 102, 154, 230, 232, 261.
 Claiborne, Henry B., 48, 49, 102, 154, 230.
 Clancy, John, 770.
 Clapp, James C., 186, 187, 959, 962.
 Clark, Mr., 1378.
 Clark, Ann, 963.
 Clark, Francis, 770.
 Clark, Henry T.
 Correspondence. See North Carolina, Governor of.
 Clark, J. C., 250.
 Clark, James, 238.
 Clark, John, 873.
 Clark, John B., 65.
 Clark, M. L., 366.
 Clark, Peleg, 1485.
 Clark, Robert, 250.
 Clark, Robert B., 250.
 Clark, Samuel, 246.
 Clark, William, 250.
 Clarke, Charles.
 Correspondence:
 State Department, U. S., 673-675.
 War Department, U. S., 689.
 Mentioned, 303, 673, 674, 689.
 Clarke, Charles G., 1390, 1433.
 Clarke, Harriet M., 1390, 1433.
 Clarkson, J. D. W., 1427.
 Clarkson, John N., 137, 1434, 1459.
 Clarkson, R. W., 1427.
 Claughton, Hierome O., 272, 277.
 Clay, Cassius M.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1191.
 Clay, Charles, 1439.
 Clay, Greenville, 1439.
 Clay, Henry (Hon.), 1296.
 Clay, Henry (Scout), 1450, 1451.
 Clay, James B., case of, 881-897.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 890.
 Mentioned, 734, 884-886, 891, 892, 1520.
 Clay, R., 1439.
 Clay, Thomas H., 733, 734.
 Clayton, Mr., 1428.
 Clayton, James, 36, 226.
 Clayton, Powell.
 Correspondence, C. Doubleday, 276.
 Clemens, Mr., 1459.
 Clement, Joseph, 805.
 Clements, Captain, 297.
 Clemerson, John M., 241, 244, 249.
 Clifford, Nathan, 689.
 Clifton, Joseph, 545-547.
 Clinton, Edwin, 835, 840.
 Clinton, James, 226.
 Clisbe, Samuel C., 66, 68.
- Clitz, Henry B.
 Correspondence, Army Headquarters, 49.
 Mentioned, 51.
 Statement, 69.
 Clothier, Samuel, 1462, 1463.
 Cobb, Howell, U. S. Rev. Cut., 195, 336, 337.
 Cobb, Howell.
 Correspondence. See Congress, O. S.
 Mentioned, 18, 841, 1428.
 Cobb, T. R. R., 1496.
 Cobden, Richard, 1206, 1235.
 Coberly, Bushrod, 267.
 Coburn, F. B., 1425, 1489.
 Cochrane, James T., 93, 98, 120.
 Cockrill, James, 238.
 Cockroft, Jacob H. V., 615.
 Coe, Charles H. P., 151, 165, 228, 261, 340.
 Coffey, George A.
 Correspondence:
 Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 979.
 Attorney-General's Office, U. S., 508, 509, 857.
 State Dept, U. S., 746, 747, 851-853, 978, 979.
 War Department, U. S., 7, 55, 725, 726, 745.
 Mentioned, 133, 144, 729, 739, 744-746, 847, 856, 857, 980.
 Coffey, William A.
 Correspondence, G. H. Thomas, 884.
 Mentioned, 886.
 Coffman, George, 264.
 Coffman, John W., 202, 212, 217, 264, 336.
 Cogan, W., 272, 277.
 Cogar, Tunis, 264.
 Cohen, Judah Barrett, 185, 235, 237, 271, 279, 335.
 Colbey, Jasper, 35.
 Colburn, Albert V.
 Correspondence. See George B. McClellan.
 Cole, Mr., 863, 864.
 Cole, C. C., 1323, 1326, 1333, 1338.
 Cole, J. W., 1432.
 Cole, Jasper, 1448.
 Cole, William, 1386, 1388, 1389.
 Coleman, Charles R., 228.
 Coleman, Charles W., case of, 1283-1295.
 Correspondence:
 Porter, A., 1286.
 State Department, U. S., 1287.
 Mentioned, 237, 271, 278, 1283-1286, 1292, 1294, 1295.
 Coleman, Creed D., 1436-1442, 1449, 1467.
 Coleman, George G., case of, 1283-1295.
 Mentioned, 237, 271, 278, 1285, 1287, 1293.
 Coleman, John, case of, 1283-1295.
 Mentioned, 278, 1283, 1284, 1286, 1292.
 Coleman, John L., 228, 239, 240, 261.
 Coleman, Richard, case of, 1283-1295.
 Mentioned, 237, 271, 278, 1285, 1287, 1293.
 Coleman, Thomas, 1286.
 Collectors of Customs.
 Cleveland, Ohio. See Charles J. Ballard.
 Newport, R. I. See Seth W. Macy.
 Collingsworth, A. D.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 72.
 Collins, A. L., 264.
 Collins, George, 835, 840.
 Collins, Hugh, 250.
 Collins, Lewis (Ky.).
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 919.
 Collins, Lewis (W. Va.), 264.

- Collohan, Francis, 229, 341.
Colonel Long, Schooner, 66, 316, 545-547, 551.
Colt, Samuel, 624.
Columbia, Steamer, 546, 936, 1077.
Columbus, Fort, N. Y.
Prisoners, 113, 225, 230.
Colyer, Thomas, Steamboat, 343.
Combs, Jeremiah, 1439.
Comfort, Samuel R.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 773.
Commissions.
See Political Prisoners' Commission.
Compton, W. A., 1309.
Cone, Gamaliel, 264.
Congress, U. S. Frigate, 48, 599, 600.
Congress, C. S.
Acts:
Alien enemies, 1368.
Commissioners to Europe, 1207.
Correspondence:
Davis, J., 1207, 1229, 1372, 1413.
Hurlbert, W. H., 1492.
Message of the President, 1229.
Resolutions, 1206, 1372, 1413.
Congress, U. S.
Act, July 31, 1861, 36.
Correspondence:
Attorney-General's Office, U. S., 20.
Lincoln, A., 37, 288, 506, 1159, 1166, 1176, 1200, 1202.
State Department, U. S., 18, 1266.
Extracts, proceedings H. R., 791-793.
Measures of retaliation, 1113, 1115.
Medal to C. Wilkes, 1113.
Messages of the President, 15, 288, 1159, 1166, 1176, 1200, 1202.
Resolutions (House), 17, 18, 37, 791, 1113, 1115.
Resolutions (Senate), 287, 403, 1265.
Conkling, Roscoe.
Correspondence, Political Prisoners' Commission, 1306.
Connecticut, U. S. Steamer, 186, 327, 328, 981.
Connell, James R., 1456, 1458.
Connell, T. R., 1457.
Connell, William, 1457.
Connolly, Charles M., & Co., 534.
Connolly, D., 1415.
Connolly, William M., 194.
Conner, Alexander, 63, 85, 225.
Conner, J. B.
Correspondence, Atty. Gen.'s Office, C. S., 1372.
Connor, James, 237, 238, 245, 261, 272, 278, 292.
Conovan, Timothy, 239, 341.
Conrad, Marion, 264.
Conran, John C., 250.
Constellation, U. S. Sloop, 304.
Constitution, U. S. Frigate, 400.
Constitutionnel, 593, 1123, 1176.
Consuls, British.
Baltimore, Md. See Frederick Bernal.
Boston, Mass. See Francis Lousada.
Charleston, S. C. See Robert Bunch.
Chicago, Ill. See John E. Wilkins.
New Orleans, La. See William Mure.
New York. See E. M. Archibald.
Philadelphia, Pa. See Ed. Keith Kortright.
Richmond, Va. See George Moore.
Consuls, British—Continued.
Saint Louis, Mo. See John E. Wilkins.
Wilmington, N. C. See Donald G. McRae.
Consuls, Danish.
New York. See Harold Dollner.
Consuls, French.
Charleston, S. C. See St. Croix de Belligny.
Providence, R. I. See Fauvel Gouraud.
Richmond, Va. See Alfred Paul.
Wilmington, N. C., 433, 444.
Consuls, Swedish.
Baltimore, Md., 107.
Norfolk, Va., 107.
Consuls, United States.
Aspinwall. See Daniel A. Robinson, jr.
Guadeloupe, W. I. See Charles W. Kimball.
Halifax, N. S. See Mortimer M. Jackson.
Liverpool, England. See Thomas H. Dudley.
Nassau, N. P. See Samuel Whiting.
Panama. See Amos B. Corwine.
Saint John's, N. F. See William S. H. Newman.
Consuls-General, British.
Havana, Cuba. See Joseph T. Crawford.
Consuls-General, French.
New York. See O. C. F. de Montholon.
Consuls-General, United States.
Florence, Italy. See T. Bigelow Lawrence.
Havana, Cuba. See Robert W. Shufeldt.
Montreal, Canada. See Joshua R. Giddings.
Contee, Charles S., 189.
Contreras, Benigno.
Correspondence, E. Gibbons, 1527.
Converse, E. K., 322.
Converse, William P., 141, 155, 229, 322, 323, 1051.
Converse, William P., jr., 322.
Cowway, G. S., 264.
Conway, Patrick, 63, 85, 225.
Coogan, Bernard, 545-547.
Cook, Floyd, 1450, 1451, 1455, 1462.
Cook, George W., 1455.
Cook, Morris, 1450, 1451.
Cool, Archibald, 264.
Cool, Jesse, 264.
Cooley, J. E.
Correspondence, P. King, 16.
Coombs, Leslie.
Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 818.
Mentioned, 749, 818, 923, 929, 1523.
Coon, C. C., 264.
Coons, C. B.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 919.
Cooper, Daniel, 267.
Cooper, F. W., 264.
Cooper, James.
Correspondence, Army Headquarters, 1541.
Mentioned, 1535-1540, 1542.
Cooper, Samuel.
Correspondence. See Adjutant and Inspector General's Office, C. S. A.
Mentioned, 1423, 1432, 1470.
Cooper, Thomas, 1458.
Cop, Mr., 1477.
Copeland, B. F., 1425, 1489.
Copp, William.
Correspondence, W. H. Blake, 720.
Mentioned, 719, 720.

- Corbett, Timothy, 36, 226.
- Corcoran, Michael, 387, 389, 1113.
- Corcoran, William W., 165, 797, 1297-1299.
- Cordaw, William, 267.
- Corder, A. P., 241, 244, 249.
- Corlies, Benjamin F., case of, 749-766.
Mentioned, 229, 749-753.
- Cormick, Margaret, 125.
- Cornan, James M., 1466, 1469.
- Cornell, Miss, 703.
- Cornell, E.
Correspondence:
Cornell, J. W. and E. E., 100, 101.
State Department, U. S., 100.
Mentioned, 100, 108.
- Cornell, Ezra E.
Correspondence, E. Cornell, 100, 101.
Mentioned, 100, 101, 108, 114, 296.
- Cornell, John W.
Correspondence, E. Cornell, 100, 101.
Mentioned, 100, 101, 108, 114, 296.
- Cornwell, William J.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 488.
Mentioned, 488.
- Corwine, Amos B.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 359.
Mentioned, 358, 361, 362, 364.
- Corwine, D. M., 360.
- Corwine, Richard M.
Correspondence, J. McNeil, 122.
Mentioned, 122.
- Cory, Daniel, case of, 801-802.
Mentioned, 102, 229, 801, 802.
- Coster, John H., 798.
- Costford, Henry, 155.
- Coteral, B. H., 264.
- Cottrell, Edward C., 152, 165, 227, 239, 240, 261.
- Council Bluffs (la.) Bagle, 1324.
- Courrier, John, 544.
- Courtney, H. P., 1530.
- Couse, Peter, 1425, 1485.
- Cowan, Mr., 1139.
- Cowan, Edgar, 431, 872.
- Cowles, Mrs., 854, 855.
- Cowles, E., 1055.
- Cowley, Lord, 1120, 1212.
- Cowling, J. V., Jr., 711, 712.
- Cox, Jacob D., 836, 846, 1480.
- Cox, William, 237.
- Coxe, A. Cleveland.
Correspondence, A. Porter, 195.
Mentioned, 195, 196.
- Coyle, William R., 322.
- Cozart & Mason, 1553, 1556.
- Craft, Theodore, 752.
- Craggs, Thomas.
Correspondence, Lord Lyons, 204.
Mentioned, 204, 234, 235, 237, 238, 245, 261, 338.
- Craig, D. H.
Correspondence:
Barr, M. W., 825.
Tyler, G. W., 809.
Mentioned, 812.
- Crain, Peter W.
Correspondence, T. A. Jones, 880.
Mentioned, 872, 874.
- Crane, A. Judson.
Correspondence:
Hurlbert, W. H., 1495.
State Department, C. S., 1491.
War Department, C. S., 1419, 1546, 1547.
Mentioned, 1374, 1494.
- Crane, John H., 751.
- Cranmer, Gibson L.
Mentioned, 247.
Resolutions, Virginia General Assembly (U.), 246.
- Cranston, William H.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 48, 49.
- Craven, Alfred Wingate, 71.
- Craven, T. Augustus, 968-970.
- Craven, Thomas T., 112, 291.
- Craw, James A., 1070, 1073, 1074.
- Crawford, James F., 250.
- Crawford, John W., 237, 271.
- Crawford, Joseph T.
Correspondence, Lord Lyons, 1125.
Mentioned, 1098, 1103, 1124-1126.
- Crawford, Randall, 687.
- Crawford, W. S., 264.
- Cremen, John, 227.
- Crew & Pemberton, 531.
- Crim, Mr., 715.
- Crim, Samuel T., 238.
- Crisfield, J. W., 305.
- Criswell, J. N., 431.
- Crittenden, J. J.
Correspondence:
State Department, U. S., 823, 826.
War Department, U. S., 828.
Mentioned, 826-828, 932, 1296.
- Crofton, John, 250.
- Crohan, Patrick, 63, 77, 79, 81, 85, 225, 302.
- Croker, Mr., 1459.
- Crooks, Rev. Mr., 1462.
- Crosby, H. B.
Correspondence, ———, 66.
- Cross, Benjamin Jackson, 152, 172-174, 237, 271, 277, 308, 872, 874.
- Cross, Benjamin Jackson, Mrs., 172.
- Cross, H. O., 250.
- Crossan, Captain, 1368.
- Crow, Frank M., case of, 881-897.
Mentioned, 103, 231, 233, 882, 885-888, 893-897.
- Crow, R. M.
Correspondence, W. H. Child, 1359.
Mentioned, 1359.
- Crowder, J. M., 250.
- Crowell, Henry, 164.
- Cruikshanks, John W., 1424.
- Cruikshanks, William, 1424.
- Crumbaker, S., 1468, 1470.
- Crumbaugh, David B., 129, 134, 304.
- Crumbaugh, John H., 129, 134, 304.
- Crump, Charles A.
Correspondence, J. B. Magruder, 1390.
Mentioned, 1378, 1390, 1433.
- Crusader, U. S. Steamer, 71, 360, 960.
- Crusoe, C. R., 1550-1555.
- Cruzen, Mr., 1470.
- Cuba, Brig, 346.
- Cumberland, U. S. Frigate, 325.

Cumberland, Department of the (U.).

Orders, general, series 1861, No. 5, 91, 813.

Cummins, James, 250.

Cummins, John S., 264.

Cummins, P. S. L.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 704.

Cummins, Alexander & Green.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 710.

Cannebaugh Brothers.

See David B. and John H. Crumbaugh.

Cunningham, John, 267.

Curran, General (Ill.), 834, 849.

Curry, William, 266.

Curtin, Andrew G., 431.

Curtis, George T.

Correspondence, Editor Boston Journal, 1157.

Mentioned, 1137.

Curtis, Samuel R., 171, 311.

Curtis, Warren, 238, 272, 278, 348.

Curtiss, George.

Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 57.

Cusick, John H., 102, 154, 226, 230, 272, 292.

"Customers and Friends."

Correspondence, Hopkins, Hull & Atkinson, 1341.

Cuthbert, Edward B., 315.

Cuthbert, William, 182, 329.

Cutler, S. W., 1425.

Cutlip, J. F., 1425.

Cutlip, S. B., 1425.

Cutts, Mr., 1464.

Cutts, Mrs., 576.

Cypreini (French Officer), 1422.

D., P. H., 357.

Da Costa, Alfred, 98, 103, 149, 154, 178, 231, 232, 239, 261, 270, 306, 307.

Daft, George E., 267.

Dahlgren, Charles B.

Correspondence, C. Wilkes, 1082, 1088.

Mentioned, 1084.

Dahlgren, John A., 195, 332, 336, 337, 1427.

Bailey, Thomas, 227.

Daley, Edward, 50, 51.

Dalton, H. H., 231.

Daly, R. C., 1526.

Damron, Thomas.

Correspondence, G. W. Dunlap, 407.

Mentioned, 403, 406, 407, 410, 414.

Damron, Wilson, 403, 406, 407, 410, 414.

Dana, U. S. Schooner, 297.

Dana, Charles A., 588.

Dana, Richard H., jr., 300.

Dandridge, Philip.

Correspondence, G. N. Sanders, 1524.

Dandy, George B., 1012.

Dane, H., 1480.

Dangerfield, John B., 272, 277, 281.

Daniel, A. T.

Correspondence, War Dept., C. S., 1546, 1547.

Daniel, James W., 63, 227.

Daniel Webster, Steamer, 612.

Danish Consuls. See Consuls.

Dare, Arthur, 179, 191, 1280.

Darr, Joseph, jr.

Correspondence:

Frémont, J. C., 280.

State Department, U. S., 260.

Darr, Joseph, jr.—Continued.

Lists of prisoners, 264, 267.

Mentioned, 270, 271, 313.

Dart, William A.

Correspondence:

Attorney-General's Office, U. S., 555.

State Dept., U. S., 556-558, 941, 942, 950, 952.

Mentioned, 555-557, 559, 943, 945, 953.

Dashiell, J. S.

Correspondence, D. H. Adley, 1135.

Daugherty, B. A., 898.

Daugherty, Joseph, 267.

Davenport (Ia.) Democrat and News, 1327.

Davidson, James G., 63, 227.

Davidson, John E., case of, 1813-1814.

Davidson, Samuel, 63, 85, 225, 298.

Davis, Albert G.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 83.

Mentioned, 98, 985, 1006-1008.

Davis, Albert J.

Correspondence, D. L. Phillips, 242.

Mentioned, 240, 241.

Davis, B. F., 163.

Davis, Burnham, 1426.

Davis, E. M., 715.

Davis, Garrett, 324, 340.

Davis, George A., 202, 212, 217, 264, 336, 337.

Davis, Henry Winter.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 872.

Mentioned, 350, 780, 792.

Davis, J. Lucius, 1418.

Davis, James P., 35.

Davis, Jeff., C. S. Privateer, 292, 293.

Davis, Jefferson.

Correspondence:

Arkansas, Governor of, 1339.

Bath (N. Y.) citizens, 1505.

Blair, M. M., 1545.

Breckinridge, J. C., 1524.

Brewster, H. P., 1515.

Camden, G. D., 1401.

Congress, C. S., 1207, 1229, 1372, 1413.

Ely, A., 1393.

Hagadorn, S., 1501.

Haslenwood, E., 4-6.

Jackson, W. L., 1401.

Johnson, G. W., 1516.

Jones, G. W., 1295, 1296.

Jordan, T., 1228.

Lassiter, L. B., et al., 1387.

Louisiana, Governor of, 1421.

Lovell, M., 1421.

Lyons, J., 1510.

McRae, D. G., 1397.

Martin, H. L., 1363.

Moise, E. W., 1421.

Ogden, E. E., 1502.

Overman, J. W., 1382.

Pancoast, R. M., 1533.

Rost, P. A., 1237.

Slidell, J., 1207.

Smith, W. (Colonel), 428-430.

Smith, W. (D. C.), 1375.

Southall, V. F. T., 1365.

Taylor, J. L., 1412.

Tyler, J., jr., 1366, 1367.

Van Meter, J., et al., 1378.

Davis, Jefferson—Continued.

- Correspondence:
 Virginia, Governor of, 1364, 1507, 1508.
 War Department, C. S., 429, 430, 1363, 1409, 1412, 1413, 1502, 1517.
- Mentioned, 3, 17, 18, 65, 218, 242, 244, 269, 316, 358, 366, 368, 374-376, 412, 429, 476, 477, 499, 578-580, 591, 612, 613, 651, 654, 661, 686, 703, 704, 721, 792, 833, 854, 937, 980, 1073, 1118, 1147, 1192, 1206, 1207, 1214, 1221, 1222, 1232, 1234, 1236, 1245, 1246, 1252, 1255, 1295-1299, 1301, 1309, 1315-1318, 1320, 1329, 1346, 1348-1350, 1362, 1364, 1365, 1369, 1370, 1372, 1376-1380, 1383, 1390, 1394, 1400-1403, 1413, 1414, 1418, 1420, 1434, 1441, 1444, 1445, 1458, 1491, 1492, 1494, 1495, 1499, 1502, 1505, 1512, 1515, 1520, 1522, 1524, 1532, 1533, 1538, 1546.
- Message to Congress, C. S., 1229.
 Proclamations, 1369, 1420, note, 1421.
- Davis, Jefferson, Mrs., 1396.
- Davis, John, 1425.
- Davis, John W., 102, 154, 226, 228, 230, 233.
- Davis, Marshal, 1472.
- Davis, Phineas A., 528.
- Davis, Samuel, 265.
- Davis, Samuel Boyer.
 Correspondence. See Paul O. Hébert.
- Davis, Tom, 1029.
- Davison, D. D., 267.
- Dawson, Arthur, 63, 102, 154, 227, 272, 278, 292.
- Day, Edward G., 250.
- Day, John T., case of, 1283-1295.
 Mentioned, 237, 271, 278, 1283-1286, 1290, 1292, 1294, 1295.
- Day, Luther.
 Correspondence, W. Hoffman, 202.
 Mentioned, 211, 212.
- Day, William B., case of, 1283-1295.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1289.
 Mentioned, 237, 271, 277.
- Dayton, William L.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1120, 1123.
 Mentioned, 452, 648, 655.
- Deacon, Benajah.
 Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 772.
 Mentioned, 620, 771, 774, 775.
- Dearing, John M., 294.
- Dearing, John W. See John M. Dearing.
- Deaver, David, 265.
- Deaver, J. C., 226.
- Débats, The, 1174-1176.
- De Beaumont (French Officer), 1422.
- De Bell, John T., case of, 1283-1295.
 Mentioned, 237, 271, 278, 1283-1286, 1292-1294.
- De Bow, J. D. B., 1386.
- De Bree, A. M., 232, 285.
- Deckart, Daniel.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 88.
 Mentioned, 298.
- Deekens, John, 1442.
- Deekins, William, 1448.
- Deforest, J. L., 1323.
- De Graw, C. S., 1415.
- D'Israeli, Benjamin, 1067, 1197, 1243.
- De Lagnel, J. A., 63, 230.
- Delahay, A. C., 294.

Deming, Supervisor, 1260.

Denison, Robert M., 102, 154, 225, 227, 230, 232, 239, 261, 270.

Dennis, Mr., 693.

Dennis, George R., 148.

Dennis, J. U., 227.

Dennis, W. T., 133.

Dennison, William E., 451.

Dennison, William.

Correspondence. See Ohio, Governor of.

Mentioned, 217, 304, 318, 332, 1394-1396.

Dent, Cornelius, 264.

Dent, Eleanor, 867.

Dent, George, jr., case of, 857-881.

Mentioned, 152, 271, 277, 859, 864, 867, 872, 874-876, 880, 881.

Dent, George, sr., case of, 857-881.

Correspondence, J. Dent, 871.

Mentioned, 152, 271, 277, 858, 859, 861-867, 870-872, 874-877, 880, 881.

Dent, Henry.

Correspondence, R. W. Johnson, 885.

Dent, Josiah.

Correspondence:

Dent, G., sr., 871.

Jones, T. A., 869.

State Department, U. S., 870.

Mentioned, 871.

Dentz, Samuel, 1398, 1445, 1451.

Dentz, Silas, 1445, 1451, 1452.

Derby, Lord, 1066, 1067, 1107, 1195, 1197, 1243.

Dering, George M., 267.

Deringer, T. T.

Correspondence:

Army Headquarters, 535.

War Department, U. S., 535.

Woodward, T. W., Mrs., 535.

Derrick, Clarence, 867.

Detroit, Chief of Police.

Correspondence, Adj. Gen.'s Office, U. S. A., 256.

Detroit Free Press, 1249, 1251, 1255, 1256, 1262.

Detroit Free Press, Editor.

Correspondence, Captain S., 1254.

Detroit Tribune, 275, 1250, 1255, 1256, 1265.

Deveemon, Thomas, 898.

Develin, John E.

Correspondence:

State Department, U. S., 726, 728, 1268.

Winder, W. H., 726, 727.

Mentioned, 727, 728, 754.

Devies, J., 260, 267.

De Voe, Eli, 282.

De Witt, David P., 165.

De Zeng, P. Mark, 208, 315.

Diamond, Charles, 767, 769, 770.

Dickens, Francis A., 238, 272, 277.

Dickens, Hardman, 1431.

Dickey, Charles, 276, 1254.

Dickinson, A. D.

Correspondence, War Dept., C. S., 413, 414.

Dickinson, Daniel S., 624, 944.

Diggs, Charles, 237.

Digney, John, 238, 261, 340.

Dilahae, Mr., 864.

Dilks, George W.

Correspondence. See John A. Kennedy.

Dill, William, 250.

Dillon, R. H., 264.

Dils, William S.

Correspondence, G. W. Dunlap, 407.

Mentioned, 403, 406, 407, 411, 414, 415.

Diltz, Mr., 1410.

Dimick, Justin.

Assignment, 105.

Correspondence:

Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 174, 179,
239, 288, 365, 427, 560, 746, 786, 790, 828, 956,
1277, 1280, 1345.

Army Headquarters, 109, 110.

Burke, M., 138.

Hoffman, W., 202.

Hudson, W. L., 1101.

Huger, B., 937.

Political Prisoners' Commission, 766, 937.

State Department, U. S., 127, 146, 148, 151, 153,
182, 219, 231, 352, 354, 364, 462, 479, 491, 553, 590,
681, 692, 718, 732, 736, 737, 740, 741, 822, 823, 825,
827, 846, 848, 895, 896, 902, 989, 1039, 1072, 1073,
1100, 1110, 1114, 1119, 1157, 1162.

War Department, U. S., 258, 269, 561, 765, 828, 1278, 1280.

Winder, W. H., 731, 741.

Lists of prisoners, 154, 155, 232, 233.

Mentioned, 105, 109, 120, 126, 142, 147, 148, 151, 153,
174, 191, 296, 297, 299, 301, 306, 309, 311, 312, 316,
322, 325, 353, 427, 485, 491, 493, 545, 552, 553, 590,
673, 688, 742, 763, 802, 806, 820, 824, 827, 828, 830,
894, 895, 982, 989-992, 995, 1041, 1092, 1096, 1097,
1100, 1101, 1113, 1345, 1418.

District Attorneys.

Dist. of Columbia. See Edward C. Carrington.

Florida. See Thomas J. Boynton.

Iowa. See William H. F. Gurley.

Maine. See George F. Talbot.

Maryland. See William Meade Addison.

Massachusetts. See Thornton K. Lothrop.

Michigan. See Alfred Russell.

New Jersey. See A. Q. Keesbey.

New York, N. D. See William A. Dart.

New York, S. D. See E. Delafield Smith.

Ohio, N. D. See Robert F. Paine.

Pennsylvania, E. D. See George A. Coffey, and
J. Hubley Ashton, assistant.

Rhode Island. See Wingate Hayes.

Virginia. See Fleming B. Miller.

Dix, Charles T., 142.

Dix, John A.

Commissioner, examination of prisoners, 249.

Correspondence:

Addison, W. M., 381.

Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 257, 394,
401, 788, 789, 1040.

Army Headquarters, 33, 45, 381, 788.

Bayard, T. F., 275.

Burke, M., 165.

Dodge, G. R., 1343.

Fulton, C. C., 577.

Gibson, A. A., 58.

Gitting, W., 388.

Glenn, W. W., 781.

Grimsley, J., 63.

Hill, W. M., 1332.

Lincoln, A., 139.

Dix, John A.—Continued.

Correspondence:

Lockwood, H. H., 94, 103, 134, 142, 143, 145, 149, 157, 268, 269.

Low, A., 1039.

McClellan, G. B., 44, 45, 71, 381, 779, 905, 906, 1315.

McPhail, J. L., 192.

Maryland, Governor of, 213.

Morris, W. W., 383, 387, 395, 783, 788, 789, 1315.

Pendleton, G. H., 252.

Porter, A., 1316.

State Department, U. S., 43, 70, 72, 79, 84, 85, 95,
99, 105, 107, 109, 115-117, 119, 146, 151, 153, 166,
177, 188, 192, 198, 201, 212, 216, 219, 226, 257, 287,
351, 352, 382, 383, 386, 387, 389, 460-462, 779, 780,
781, 787, 801, 831, 836, 848, 878, 899, 902, 1093,
1281, 1282, 1343, 1344.

Treasury Department, U. S., 176.

War Department, U. S., 33, 117, 246, 258-260, 382, 389, 390, 788, 793.

Watson, G. F., 281.

Wool, J. E., 428, 794.

See also Political Prisoners' Commission.

Lists of prisoners, 108, 152, 226.

Mentioned, 64, 77, 99, 101, 113, 152, 165, 188, 225, 227-
231, 249, 257, 259, 261, 270, 282, 285, 289-291, 298-
300, 302, 305, 306, 310, 313, 316, 317, 319, 322, 323,
331, 340, 342, 383-385, 388, 395, 404, 408, 409, 428,
461, 553, 554, 576, 577, 619, 743, 744, 746, 766, 778,
779, 783, 786-790, 793-795, 830, 877, 880, 881, 901,
905, 906, 908, 936, 937, 1031, 1039, 1263, 1267, 1294,
1315, 1316, 1328, 1336, 1338-1340, 1345, 1352, 1353,
1356.

Proclamation, 139.

Dixie, C. S. Privateer, 89.

Dixon, Henry, 1413, 1414.

Dixon, J. W., 1425.

Dixon, James.

Correspondence:

Chapman, C., 854.

War Department, U. S., 854, 855.

Mentioned, 854.

Dixon, Joseph, 1414.

Dixon, Joshua, & Co., 1037.

Dixon, Michael, 1425.

Dixon, Wickham, 1425.

Dobbin, George W., 350, 796.

Dodds, William, 242.

Dodge, Dr., 695, 697.

Dodge, George R.

Correspondence, J. A. Dix, 1343.

Mentioned, 306, 905-908.

Dodge, Jacob L., 770.

Dodge, N. S.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 465.

Dohr, Frederick, 250.

Dolby, William A., 1465.

Dollner, Harold, 545.

Dolph, Joseph.

Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 811.

Dolson, Charles, 749.

Donaldson, Moses P., 235, 237, 271, 278, 334.

Donan & Tait, 534.

Donellan, G.

Correspondence, R. O'N. Greenhow, 1308.

Mentioned, 572, 865, 1308-1312.

- Donn, Thomas C.
Correspondence:
Mansfield, J. K. F., 356.
Porter, A., 372, 374.
Shepard, C. H., 356.
Mentioned, 190, 356, 368, 369, 372-375.
- Donnelly, B., 685.
- Donnelly, J. M., 250.
- Donnelly, James A., 79-81, 152, 237, 238, 245, 261, 294.
- Donnelly, John, 156.
- Donohue, Mr., 552.
- Dorsey, Benjamin, 377.
- Dorsey, T. W., 374, 376, 377.
- Doster, William E.
Correspondence, Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 1294.
- Doswell, J. T., 1520.
- Doty, James D., 1295, 1296.
- Doty, L. L.
Correspondence. See New York, Governor of.
- Doubleday, Mr., 705.
- Doubleday, Charles.
Correspondence, P. Clayton, 276.
- Douglas, Adle, 575, 576.
- Douglas, J., 1425.
- Douglas, Samuel J., 968.
- Douglas, Stephen A., 606, 607, 616, 620, 723, 724, 938, 939, 946, 1297, 1386, 1492, 1515.
- Douglas, Stephen A., Mrs., 575, 576.
- Douglass, J. A., 92, 103, 154, 232, 239, 261, 270, 285, 551.
- Douglass, J. V., 1313.
- Douthit, John, 138, 1435.
- Dow, Dep. U. S. Mar., 950.
- Dow, G. S. C., 194.
- Dowdy, William T., 1552, 1556.
- Downs, Theodore W., 193.
- Dowthit, William, 138.
- Doyle, Mr., 243.
- Drane, Robert, 63, 102, 154, 227, 272, 278, 292.
- Draper, Simeon.
Correspondence:
Garrett, N. A., 46.
Julian, H. G., 419.
State Department, U. S., 416, 419.
War Department, U. S., 46, 416.
Mentioned, 121, 420, 421, 725.
- Drew, C., 125.
- Drew, F. A., 313.
- Drew, J. T., 1419, 1420.
- Drew, Thomas.
Correspondence. See Massachusetts, Governor of.
- Dryden, Thomas A., 250.
- Duane, W. H., 838, 840.
- Duble, Henry N., case of, 1313-1315.
Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 1314.
Mentioned, 1313, 1314.
- Dubuque (Ia.) Herald, 1298.
- Du Clos, Mr., 644.
- Budley, Thomas H.
Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 206.
Mentioned, 313.
- Duff, John A., 770.
- Duffy, D. L., 200.
- Duffy, Peter, 265.
- Duke, Thomas H., 1467.
- Dulaney, G. I., 237.
- Dulin, Francis, 264.
- Dumont, Ebenezer, 715.
- Dunbar, William, 1476.
- Dundas, William Oswald, 152, 208-210, 237, 315.
- Dunlap, G. W.
Correspondence, D. V. Auxier, et al., 407.
- Dunlop, Hugh, 1103.
- Dunn, Hiram.
Correspondence:
Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 256.
New York, Governor of, 123.
State Department, U. S., 83, 86.
War Department, U. S., 255.
Mentioned, 123, 162, 224, 255.
- Dunn, John, 264.
- Dunn, Nicholas, 234.
- Dunn, William.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 55.
- Dunn, William McKee.
Correspondence:
Stone, D. C., 685, 686.
Sullivan, J., 687.
Mentioned, 973.
- Du Pont, S. F.
Correspondence:
Lardner, J. L., 220.
Navy Department, U. S., 220.
Mentioned, 220, 1048, 1308.
- Durant, C. J., 102, 154, 230, 232.
- Durkin, Joseph, 268.
- Durrett, Reuben T., case of, 805-829.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 820.
Mentioned, 102, 154, 230, 233, 805-829.
- Durrett, Reuben T., Mrs., 810-812.
- Dusenbury, William Cox.
Correspondence, Army Headquarters, 112.
Mentioned, 107.
- Duskey, Captain, 413, 414.
- Dusky, Daniel, 266.
- Dutton, James, 1483.
- Dyer, E. G.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 128.
Mentioned, 129.
- Dykes, Captain, 1464.
- Eades, Stephen, 1436.
- Eagle, Horatio, 526, 1400, 1401, 1499.
- Eakins, Samuel H., 102, 132, 133, 230, 233, 295.
- Earl, William, 559.
- Easton, George H., 34.
- Easton, W. M., 250.
- East Tennessee.
Martial law, note, 1421.
- Eastwood, Charles, 345.
- Eaton, Daniel L.
Correspondence:
Interior Department, U. S., 674.
Talbot, G. F., 679.
Mentioned, 677, 678, 680.
- Eaton, H. K., 250.
- Eaton, Jonah B., 265.
- Eaton, William, 237, 271.
- Eddy, Hiram, 1372, 1373.
- Edge, G. W., 1382, 1383.
- Edgell, S. M., & Co., 122.
- Edinburgh, Steamer, 50, 580, 582, 584, 1141.

- Edinburgh Morning Courant, 1131.
 Edinburgh Review, 1491, 1496-1498.
 Edinburgh Scotsman, 1181.
 Edsall, Horace, 1447.
 Edwards, J. H., 54.
 Edwards, James O., 250.
 Edwards, John Pierrepont, 659.
 Edwards, Thomas L., 1489.
 Edwards, W. H. See N. O. Convention.
 Egglestone, Benjamin, 63, 65, 227, 229.
 Eichoff, A., 496.
 Ekuss, Lewis, 266.
 Elder, Mr., 597.
 Eldridge, B. D.
 Correspondence, W. A. Parker, 161.
 Elgin, Charles F., 272.
 Elizabeth City County, Va.
 Martial law, note, 1421.
 Ella Warley, Steamer, 1239.
 Ellenbrook, Frederick, 36, 226.
 Ellet, Charles, jr., 1354.
 Ellicott, Joseph T., 237, 294.
 Elliot, Hiram F.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 690.
 Mentioned, 691.
 Elliot, Robert, case of, 688-692.
 Mentioned, 59, 102, 230, 233, 618, 688-692.
 Elliott, Charles, 250, 349.
 Ellis, Frank M., case of, 1303-1306.
 Mentioned, 237, 271, 278, 1303-1306.
 Ellis, William J., 227.
 Ellison, Marshall, 35.
 Ellsworth, E. Elmer, 1290.
 Elmert, John, 155.
 Elmford, Jane, 1347.
 Ely, Alfred.
 Correspondence:
 Davis, J., 1393.
 War Department, C. S., 1383, 1385.
 Mentioned, 37, 38, 98, 430, 463, 479, 1349, 1385, 1434.
 Ely, John P., 888.
 Emack, George M., 1487.
 Emerson, Francis, 891.
 Emerson, John S., case of, 354-358.
 Correspondence:
 State Department, U. S., 355.
 War Department, U. S., 354.
 Mentioned, 237, 354-358, 370, 375.
 Empire City, U. S. Steamer, 963.
 Empress, Bark, 182, 184, 329, 330.
 Empty, Colonel.
 Correspondence, T. Jordan, 1310.
 Enchantress, Schooner, 292, 293.
 Engle, B. J., 1540.
 Engle, William F., 152, 227, 322.
 Engler, Samuel, 250.
 English, Edward, 229, 341.
 English, James A., 272, 277.
 English, José, 232, 239, 261, 269, 346.
 Enlow, John, 265.
 Enoch, David, jr., 265.
 Erskine, Thomas, 797.
 Ervin, William, 1506.
 Eshelman, Abraham, 265.
 Etheridge, Emerson, 1354.
 Eugenia Smith, Steamer, 1172.
 Eustace, James.
 Correspondence, J. A. Kennedy, 50.
 Mentioned, 50.
 Eustis, Mr., 1378.
 Eustis, George, case of, 1076-1244.
 Correspondence, C. Wilkes, 1088, 1091, 1092, 1096.
 Mentioned, 154, 165, 233, 1076, 1077, 1080-1091, 1095,
 1097, 1098, 1100, 1103, 1110, 1114, 1119, 1144,
 1145, 1147, 1155-1157, 1160, 1162, 1164, 1226-
 1229, 1232-1235, 1241, 1242, 1244.
 Eustis, George, Mrs., 1114, 1115, 1236.
 Europa, Steamer, 1119.
 Europe, Steamer, 652.
 Evans, Mr. (Ga.), 1493.
 Evans, Mr. (N. Y.), 582.
 Evans, Mr. (Va.), 1027-1030.
 Evans, David, 155, 961.
 Evans, E., & Co., 1066.
 Evans, Nathan G., 1414, 1418.
 Evans, Peter, 265.
 Evans, T. J., Sloop, 297.
 Evans & Cogswell, 649.
 Everts, William M.
 Correspondence:
 Smith, E. D., 483.
 State Dept., U. S., 1033, 1035, 1036, 1039.
 Mentioned, 481-483.
 Everet, E. T., 267.
 Everett, Isaac.
 Correspondence, G. D. Prentice, 818.
 Everhart, A. J., 1479.
 Evert, P. R., 265.
 Ewell, Benjamin S., 1365.
 Ewing, Thomas.
 Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 1103.
 Mentioned, 1104.
 Ewing, W. E.
 Correspondence, G. D. Prentice, 818.
 Eyster, J. Allison, 1427.
 Fabre, C. D., 250.
 Fabre, F. A., 53, 57, 297, 298.
 Fairfax, Donald M.
 Correspondence, C. Wilkes, 1081, 1082.
 Mentioned, 1080, 1081, 1084-1088, 1114, 1115, 1146,
 1234.
 Falconer, William, 267.
 Fall, Reuben, 265.
 Fallon, Captain, 1483.
 Falls, Mr., 200.
 Falls, Moor N.
 Correspondence:
 War Department, U. S., 1093.
 Wool, J. E., 104.
 Mentioned, 212.
 Falls, N. D., 201, 212, 216.
 Falmouth, U. S. Store-ship, 360.
 Fannie, 812.
 Fannigan, Charles W., 66.
 Fanny, U. S. Transport, 491, 493.
 Fardilla, Enrico, 465.
 Farley, J. W., 265.
 Farley, W. D., 1286.
 Farnsworth, Elon J., 218.
 Farnsworth, John F., 9, 218.
 Farr, James W., case of, 1283-1295.
 Mentioned, 237, 271, 278, 1285, 1286, 1292, 1293.

- Farr, John B., case of, 1283-1295.
Mentioned, 237, 271, 278, 1284-1286, 1289-1294.
- Farr, Kate.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1288.
Mentioned, 1289, 1292.
- Farr, Stephen, 1286.
- Farrar, Bernard G., 348.
- Farrell, Dennis, 238, 245, 262.
- Faulkner, Lewis S., 202, 212, 217, 336.
- Farrington, M. J., 238, 262, 340.
- Farris, Jacobs, 267.
- Fauchet, M., 1127.
- Faulkner, Boyd, 463-465.
- Faulkner, Charles J., case of, 463-479.
Correspondence:
Baxter, S. S., 1533.
Burke, M., 477.
Fenton, R. E., 479.
McDongall, J. A., 467.
Pancoast, G. L., 1534.
State Department, U. S., 466, 469, 472.
Willard, G. L., 468.
Mentioned, 3, 102, 154, 230, 233, 430, 492, 636, 1255,
1298, 1349, 1396, 1418, 1514.
- Faulkner, Charles J., Mrs.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 467.
- Fayette, James M., 1469, 1470.
- Felch, Alpheus, 9.
- Fellers, H. M., 1470.
- Fellows, James, 1477, 1478.
- Fellows, Otey, 1476-1478.
- Fendall, P. R.
Correspondence, Attorney-General's Office, U. S., 790.
- Fenton, Reuben E.
Correspondence, C. J. Faulkner, 479.
- Ferguson, J. M., 250.
- Ferguson, Milton J., 266.
- Ferguson, William, 1446.
- Fergusson, James, Sir, 499, 1242.
- Fernandez, Peter, case of, 956-982.
Mentioned, 155, 958, 961, 975, 976.
- Ferriere, Felix, 250.
- Ferris, John, 257.
- Ferry, Sergeant, 682.
- Ferry, Thomas W., 121.
- Fessenden, William P.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 46, 58,
675, 676, 689.
- Fickler, Joseph, 496.
- Field, H. C., 272, 277.
- Field, John A., 272, 274, 277.
- Field, Richard H., 1388, 1389.
- Fields, Isaac, 250.
- Fields, William, 237.
- Fillebrown, Thomas Scott, 1366.
- Fillmer, F., 1461.
- Filson, Mr., 1410.
- Fingal, Steamer, 1079, 1094.
- Finney, Mr., 145.
- Fishback, Charles.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 806.
- Fisher, Mr., 269.
- Fisher, C. H.
Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 505.
- Fisher, John B., 155.
- Fisher, Miers W.
Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1372.
- Fisher, T. H., 1495.
- Fisher, Thomas N., 1425, 1485, 1486.
- Fisher, William L., 237, 271, 279.
- Fisher & Co., 534.
- Fisk, Charles B., 76.
- Fisk, Francis, 295.
- Fisk, Francis M., 295.
- Fisk, John F.
Correspondence. See Kentucky Legislature.
- Fiske, Edward W.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 647.
- Fitzgerald, Dr., 53, 57.
- Fitzgerald, F., 1510.
- Fitzgerald, Michael, 227.
- Fitzgibbon, T. C., 1255.
- Fitzpatrick, Nicholas P., 419.
- Fitzpatrick, Thomas C., 198, 226, 228, 290.
- Fitz Roy, Robert, 787.
- Flag, U. S. Steamer, 144, 293, 294.
- Flags of Truce.
Norfolk and Fort Monroe, Va., 93, 94.
- Flahault, Count, 1121, 1134, 1144.
- Flanagan, Jacob, 265.
- Flanagan, M. G.
Correspondence, G. Wilkes, 768.
- Flanagan, R. A., 1437.
- Flanders, Augusta. See Mrs. Joseph R. Flanders.
- Flanders, Francis D., case of, 938-956.
Correspondence, M. J. Warren, 950.
Mentioned, 154, 231, 232, 239, 261, 269.
- Flanders, Francis D., Mrs.
Correspondence:
New York, Governor of, 955.
State Department, U. S., 953-956.
Mentioned, 950, 952, 955.
- Flanders, Joseph R., case of, 938-956.
Correspondence:
Cagger, P., 946.
Johnston, W. P., 945.
Mears, T. S., 938, 947.
Mentioned, 154, 231, 232, 239, 261, 269, 672.
Resolutions in handwriting, 951.
- Flanders, Joseph R., Mrs.
Correspondence, J. C. Spencer, 952.
Mentioned, 950, 955.
- Flanders, Louisa B.
See Mrs. Francis D. Flanders.
- Fleece, William J., 198, 199, 237, 271, 278.
- Fleming, A. J., 272, 277.
- Fleming, John, 1430.
- Fleshman, C. S., 267.
- Flint, William, 265.
- Flood, William P., 1425, 1488.
- Florance, Louis, 368.
- Floyd, John B.
Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1391.
Mentioned, 18, 378, 402, 407, 1325, 1332, 1391, 1432,
1433, 1438, 1439, 1441-1443, 1446, 1470, 1478.
- Flynn, Michael, 35.
- Follen, Charles, 237, 271, 278.
- Follyn, William, 1424.
- Forbes, Harris, 867.
- Ford, Mr., 565.
- Ford, J. Ignatius, 237, 238, 245, 262, 333.

- Ford, John S.
Correspondence, D. A. Treviño, 1391.
- Foreign Office, Austrian.
Correspondence, Chevalier de Hulsemann, 1166.
- Foreign Office, British.
Correspondence:
Adams, C. F., 652, 654-657, 663.
Admiralty, British, 1102, 1112, 1114, 1155.
Bunch, R., 656.
Lyons, Lord, 633, 990, 993, 1094, 1097, 1100, 1108, 1110, 1111, 1113, 1118, 1121, 1122, 1124, 1133, 1134, 1142, 1144, 1155, 1160, 1161, 1163, 1170, 1172, 1185.
Mann, A. D., 1231, 1236.
Napier, Lord, 1171.
Rost, P. A., 1231, 1236.
Shaver, J. G., 996.
Yancey, W. L., 1231, 1236.
- Foreign Office, French.
Correspondence, H. Mercier, 1116, 1182.
- Foreign Office, Italian.
Correspondence, J. Bertinatti, 1203.
- Foreign Office, Prussian.
Correspondence, Baron von Gerolt, 1176.
- Foreign Office, Russian.
Correspondence, E. de Stoeckl, 1200.
- Forney, John W.
Correspondence:
Political Prisoners' Commission, 576.
State Department, U. S., 1266.
- Forrest, Thomas L.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 420.
Mentioned, 420.
- Forrester, George, case of, 913-933.
Correspondence:
Hood, F. T., 917.
Taylor, H., 917.
Mentioned, 155, 229, 913-915, 918, 919, 921-924.
- Forster, George, 1279, 1280.
- Forsyth, L. E., 250.
- Forton, J. L., 31.
- Forwood, W. B., 308.
- Fosdick, Aaron, 715.
- Foster, Charles Henry.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 562.
- Foster & Thomson.
Correspondence:
Mure, R., 659.
State Department, U. S., 657.
- Fouke, P. B.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 574.
- Fourth Auditor, U. S. Treasury.
Correspondence. See Hobart Berrian.
- Fowler, Allen G., 573.
- Fowler, John, 192.
- Fowler, Thomas P., 237, 238, 245, 262, 335
- Fox, George W., 1443.
- Fox, Gustavus V.
Correspondence. See Navy Department, U. S.
Mentioned, 566, 1161.
- Frailley, James M., 110.
- Fraley, Mary, 714-716.
- Frame, Daniel, 1425.
- Frampton, David, 265.
- France, Benjamin, 266.
- Francis, Mr., 573.
- Francis Joseph, 1166, 1167, 1171
- Frank, 812.
- Frank, 1350.
- Frank, Captain, 195.
- Frank, Mr., 241.
- Franklin, Captain, 1458.
- Franklin, Benjamin.
Correspondence:
Baker, L. C., 726.
Porter, A., 722.
State Department, U. S., 830.
Mentioned, 192, 722, 833, 835, 839, 840.
- Franklin, Solomon, 1463.
- Franklin, William B.
Correspondence:
McClellan, G. B., 90.
Slocum, H. W., 89.
Mentioned, 213, 1315.
- Franklin (N. Y.) Gazette, 938-942, 944, 945, 950, 952-954.
- Fraser, John, & Co., 191, 1225, 1227.
- Fraser, Trenholm & Co., 191.
- Frazer, Phineas F., 295.
- Frederick (Md.) Citizen, 1385.
- Freeman, Richard S., 102, 154, 230, 232, 239, 261, 269, 296.
- Frémont, Miss, 586.
- Frémont, John C.
Correspondence:
Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 283, 284.
Darr, J., jr., 280.
Grant, U. S., 79, 749.
Harlan, J., et al., 748.
Jacob, R. T., 748.
Kentucky Legislature, 747.
Smedley, J. L., 748.
War Department, U. S., 286.
Williams, R. K., 749.
Mentioned, 120, 497, 498, 560, 576, 696, 969.
- French, B. B.
Correspondence:
Kopperl, C., 489.
State Department, U. S., 489.
Mentioned, 491.
- French, Charles D., 108, 119, 225, 227, 234.
- French, John L. M.
Correspondence, W. M. Churchwell, 1424.
- French, Parker H., case of, 1275-1278.
Mentioned, 154, 232, 239, 261, 270, 1275-1278.
- French, S. Bassett.
Correspondence. See Virginia, Governor of.
- French, William H.
Correspondence:
Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 959-961.
Boynton, T. J., 959.
Savage, T., 1077.
Mentioned, 964, 966-970, 977.
Orders, series 1861, No. 82, 56.
- French Consuls. See Consuls.
- French Consuls-General. See Consuls-General.
- Fridle, Julius, 1434
- Frisbee, Joseph F., case of, 1313-1314.
- Frost, S. B., 119, 225, 227, 234.
- Fry, Carey H., 827.
- Fry, James B.
Correspondence. See Don Carlos Buell and Irvin McDowell.
- Fuller, Albert, 1437.

- Fuller, Alexander, 1431.
 Fuller, H. G., 154, 234, 322.
 Fuller, Jesse, 1431.
 Fuller, Stephen, 322.
 Fulton, Charles C.
 Correspondence:
 Dix, J. A., 577.
 Navy Department, U. S., 1094.
 War Department, U. S., 479.
 Fulton, W. W.
 Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 1141.
 G., Mrs., 395.
 Gabriel, Joseph, 295.
 Gaines, Myra Clark, 1349.
 Gaither, Alfred, 12, 13.
 Gallagher, Charles K., 226, 320.
 Gallagher, W. D.
 Correspondence, Treasury Dept., U. S., 810.
 Galleher, Dr., 1413, 1414, 1418.
 Galt, J. T. G., 711.
 Galt, John, 1367.
 Galveston, Steamer, 967.
 Galveston (Tex.) News, 1386.
 Gardner, Daniel, 234, 325.
 Gardner, James.
 Correspondence, S. J. Anderson, 608.
 Gardner, William M., 1510.
 Garing, L., 1426.
 Garland, A. H.
 Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1417.
 Garland, L. C., 1367.
 Garnett, A. Y. P., 59.
 Garnett, Robert S., 1507.
 Garrett, Henry, 95.
 Garrett, N. A.
 Correspondence, S. Draper, 46.
 Garrett, Robert M., 1366.
 Garrison, Commodore, 131.
 Garrison, Samuel.
 Correspondence, E. D. Smith, 117.
 Mentioned, 108, 117, 603, 636.
 Garrison, W. Lloyd, 588.
 Garvin, John J.
 Correspondence, W. D. Kelley, 181.
 Mentioned, 181.
 Gatchell, William H., 102, 154, 226, 230, 232, 239, 262,
 270, 285, 350.
 Gates, William, 139.
 Gault, John, Steamer, 57.
 Geary, John W., 310, 322, 1348, 1480.
 Gelston, Mrs., 84.
 Gemeny, Benjamin, 1429.
 General Rusk, Steamer, 67.
 George, 256.
 George, Henry, 265.
 George, Samuel W., 1479.
 George III, 948, 1141.
 George Peabody, Steamer, 61.
 George Weems, Steamer, 226.
 Georgiana, Schooner, 112, 380.
 Georgiana, Steamer, 479.
 Gerant, Franklin, 774.
 Gerolt, Baron von.
 Correspondence:
 Foreign Office, Prussian, 1176.
 State Department, U. S., 1177.
 Mentioned, 1176, 1199.
 Gerrold, Floyd, 1461, 1462.
 Gerrold, Irvine, 1461, 1462.
 Gerrold, Jackson, 1461, 1462.
 Gerrold, Parris, 1451, 1461, 1462.
 Gerrold, Simeon or Simon, 1461, 1462.
 Gesh, A. B., 1438.
 Getty, William F., case of, 905-909.
 Mentioned, 152, 237, 271, 277, 905-909.
 Getty, William F., Mrs., 907.
 Getz, Noah, 1456.
 Gheen, Thomas, 1471.
 Ghiselin, James, 711.
 Gibbons, Emory.
 Correspondence, B. Contreras, 1527.
 Mentioned, 1526, 1527.
 Gibson, Augustus A.
 Correspondence, J. A. Dix, 58.
 Gibson, George, 267.
 Gibson, Isaac B., 228.
 Gibson, John, 1460.
 Gibson, Otis, 254.
 Gibson, Saul, 1460.
 Giddings, Joshua R.
 Correspondence:
 Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 254.
 State Department, U. S., 83, 86, 132, 983, 985-
 987.
 Mentioned, 123, 984, 1008.
 Gilchrist, Bedelia A.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 846.
 Gilchrist, William, case of, 829-857.
 Correspondence:
 Archibald, E. M., 838.
 Bullitt, J. C., 849.
 State Department, U. S., 833, 846.
 War Department, U. S., 854.
 Mentioned, 102, 230, 233, 829-857.
 Gildersleeve, Mrs., 1347.
 Giles, Thomas B., 119, 225, 227, 233, 312.
 Giles, William Branch, 505.
 Giles, William F., 382.
 Gilfillan, Samuel, 250.
 Gillem, Lieutenant, 968.
 Gilliat, John K., & Co., 1066.
 Gillis, James M., 203.
 Gilmer, David H., 266.
 Gilmer, John A., Mrs., 698.
 Gilpin, William, 119, 120.
 Gish, A. C., 272.
 Githen, E., 1425, 1489.
 Gitting, William.
 Correspondence, J. A. Dix, 388.
 Mentioned, 388.
 Gladiator, C. S. Steamer, 1079.
 Gladstone, William, 1425.
 Gladstone, William E., 1066.
 Glassell, William T., 232, 285, 325.
 Gleason, William H., 262.
 Glenn, W. Wilkins, case of, 778-786.
 Correspondence, J. A. Dix, 781.
 Mentioned, 99, 152, 227, 778-786.
 Glenn, W. Wilkins, Mrs., 781.
 Gloucester County, Va.
 Martial law, note, 1421.
 Glynn, James.
 Correspondence, Navy Department, U. S., 8.

- Goble, Isaac.
Correspondence, G. W. Dunlap, 407.
Mentioned, 403, 406, 407, 410, 414.
- Goddard, John H.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 417.
Mentioned, 417, 420.
- Godwin, J. H., 770.
- Golding, W. S., 250.
- Goldman, Dep. U. S. Mar., 276.
- Goldsborough, Louis M.
Correspondence:
Navy Department, U. S., 94, 159, 1091.
Parker, W. A., 159.
Mentioned, 93, 159, 168, 184, 270.
- Goldsmith, James A., 237.
- Goodenough, Mr., 375.
- Goodin, John G., 257.
- Gooding, Joseph, 678.
- Goodrich, Charles B.
Correspondence, Editor Boston Courier, 1139.
Mentioned, 1137.
- Goodwin, Mrs., 1322.
- Goodwin, H. C., 558.
- Goodwin, William E., 1471.
- Gordon, Steamer, 1222-1225.
- Gordon, Josiah H., 89, 102, 154, 230, 232, 285, 897.
- Gordon, Samuel, 1425.
- Gormley, George M., 237, 271, 278, 336, 337.
- Gortchakoff, Prince.
Correspondence. See Foreign Office, Russian.
Mentioned, 1163, 1171, 1191, 1200, 1201.
- Gosnell, S., 1459.
- Gosswell, George, 63, 85, 225, 298.
- Gould, Mr., 1472.
- Gould, Messrs., 1290.
- Gouraud, Fauvel, 440, 445.
- Gouverneur, Samuel L., 254.
- Grace, D. R., 250.
- Grace, H. P.
Correspondence, C. Wilkes, 1082, 1088.
Mentioned, 1082-1084, 1086, 1087.
- Gracey, Robert, jr., 1287.
- Grady, Michael J., 63, 113, 154, 225, 233.
- Graffen, Lieutenant, 198.
- Graham, Charles K., 195, 336, 337.
- Graham, James Lorimer.
Correspondence:
Graham, J. L., jr., 1130.
State Department, U. S., 1130.
- Graham, James Lorimer, jr.
Correspondence, J. L. Graham, 1130.
Mentioned, 1130.
- Graham, Lawrence P., 208.
- Grant, James, 1327.
- Grant, Lizzie, 1347.
- Grant, Ulysses S.
Correspondence:
Frémont, J. C., 79, 749.
McClelland, J. A., 749.
Plummer, J. B., 144.
Thompson, M. J., 145.
Mentioned, 144, 145, 749, 1357, 1358.
Proclamation, Paducah, Ky., 55.
- Graves, Lorenzo, 332.
- Graves, William J., 1296.
- Gray, Captain, 1472.
- Gray, Edward, 35.
- Gray, James M., 266.
- Gray, James T.
Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1367.
- Gray, William B., 35.
- Grayson, E. B., case of, 937-938.
Mentioned, 152, 237, 238, 245, 262, 937, 938.
- Great Eastern, Steamer, 655.
- Greeley, Horace, 637, 1323.
- Green, Benjamin F., 34.
- Green, Charles (Ga.), case of, 1031-1040.
Correspondence, Lord Lyons, 1033.
Mentioned, 154, 214, 216, 232, 262, 1031-1040.
- Green, Charles (U. S. Navy).
Correspondence, M. Burke, 66.
- Green, Duff, 241, 242, 249.
- Green, Elias M., 1347.
- Green, James (Va.), 272, 274, 277.
- Green, James (W. Va.), 267.
- Green, Jim, 374.
- Green, John A., 1536, 1538, 1539, 1541, 1543.
- Green, Lemuel, 332.
- Green, Luther, 332.
- Green, Stephen A., 272, 274, 277.
- Green, Thomas, 1433.
- Green, Wharton J.
Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 184.
- Greene, James D.
Correspondence, Army Headquarters, 674.
Mentioned, 674.
- Greene, Oliver D.
Correspondence. See Robert Anderson and Don Carlos Buell.
- Greenhow, Rose O'Neal, case of, 561-577.
Correspondence:
Donellan, G., 1308.
Jordan, T., 566, 572.
Moore, Mrs., 575.
Mentioned, 135, 152, 237, 271, 279, 295, 561, 564-569, 571, 572, 575, 576, 1307-1312, 1315, 1320, 1321, 1346, 1347, 1349-1351.
- Greenough, John, 1314.
- Greenport Watchman. See Republican Watchman.
- Greer, James A.
Correspondence, C. Wilkes, 1082, 1084.
Mentioned, 1080, 1082, 1083, 1086-1088.
- Gregg, Rev. Mr., 1477.
- Gregg, Aaron, 332.
- Gregory, Mr., 3, 1243, 1244.
- Gregory, Richard, 1464, 1465.
- Greigg, John C., 283.
- Gresham, Benjamin Q. A., 185.
- Grice, George W., 1390.
- Grier, John A., 960.
- Griffin, Joseph F., 1468.
- Griffith, Joseph W., case of, 881-897.
Mentioned, 103, 231, 233, 882, 885-888, 893-897.
- Griffith, William P., 238.
- Grimes, James W.
Correspondence:
Hill, W. M., 1337, 1338.
State Department, U. S., 1301, 1302.
War Department, U. S., 1302, 1331, 1333.
Mentioned, 1335, 1337.
- Grimsley, James.
Correspondence, J. A. Dix, 63.

- Grinnan, Dr., 1485.
Grinnell, Moses H.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 86,
 529, 694, 1048, 1054, 1057.
 Mentioned, 529, 697, 1064, 1066.
Grissom, Milton, 35.
Grissons, Robert S., 92, 103, 154, 232, 239, 262, 270,
 285, 551.
Grist, James R., 1548.
Gross, George, 1363, 1364.
Gross, M., 496.
Gross, William, 228, 239, 240, 262, 342.
Grove, Benjamin F., case of, 635-643.
 Correspondence:
 Grove, J. A., 636.
 State Department, U. S., 638, 640, 642, 643.
 Wilson, J. S., 639.
 Mentioned, 229, 635-643, 682.
Grove, Benjamin F., Mrs.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 642.
 Mentioned, 639, 642.
Grove, George S., 202, 212, 217, 265, 336.
Grove, James A.
 Correspondence, B. F. Grove, 636.
 Mentioned, 638.
Grove, John G., 227, 319.
Groves, Perry A., 1427.
Grubb, Joseph L., 1409, 1479, 1480.
Grubbs, William, case of, 881-897.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 889.
 Mentioned, 103, 231, 233, 881, 882, 884, 886, 888-892,
 894-897.
Grymes, Benjamin R., 867, 877.
Grymes, James, 862-867, 877.
Grymes, Thomas J. J., 279.
Gunn, John W., 250.
Gunnell, Albert G., 238, 263.
Gunnell, Arthur, 238, 263.
Gunnell, Geo. W., 152, 237, 238, 245, 262, 311, 1398.
Gunnell, John, 1287.
Gunnell, R. H., case of, 1283-1295.
 Mentioned, 237, 271, 278, 1284-1286, 1292-1294.
Gunnoe, John, 1451.
Gunnoe, Thornton, 1464, 1465.
Gunnoe Bros., 1450, 1451.
Gunter, Benjamin T., 228.
Gurley, William H. F.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 114.
 Mentioned, 114, 1323, 1325-1327, 1329-1331, 1333,
 1335-1337, 1339.
Guss, Mr., 1448.
Guthrey, John Garnett, case of, 509-530.
 Mentioned, 229, 239, 240, 262, 533, 544, 756, 760.
Guthrie, James.
 Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 811, 813.
 Mentioned, 809, 819, 885.
Guy, Frank, 1525.
Gwin, John, 265.
Gwin, William, 48, 159, 161, 168.
Gwin, William M., case of, 1009-1020.
 Correspondence:
 Benham, C., 1009, 1015.
 State Department, U. S., 1019.
 Mentioned, 155, 229, 930, 1009-1020.
 Statement, 1020.
Gwinn, C. J. M., 304.
Gwynn, Benjamin F., 188-190, 237, 334, 335.
Gwynn, Eleanor, 189, 190.
Gwynn, John R., 227, 302.
H., Mr., 395.
H., A. M. See Augusta Morris.
H. C. Brooks, Brig., 226.
H., E. B., 256.
H., M. M., 53.
Habeas Corpus, 18-30, 40, 48, 109, 134, 164, 193, 814-
 817, 885.
Habersham, A. W., 228, 324, 325.
Hagadorn, S. H., 1501, 1502, 1504-1506.
Hagadorn, Stephen, case of, 1501-1506.
 Correspondence:
 Davis, J., 1501
 War Department, C. S., 1501.
 Winder, J. H., 1506.
 Mentioned, 1501-1506.
Hagan & Broadwell, 945.
Hagelin, Charles M.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 112.
 Mentioned, 102, 115, 116, 226, 228, 291.
Hagerstown (Md.) Mail, 88, 298.
Hagins, John, 239, 240, 262, 327.
Haig, James M., case of, 829-857.
 Correspondence:
 Maddox, T. H., 842.
 State Department, U. S., 837, 840.
 Mentioned, 102, 229, 829-857.
Haig, James M., Mrs., 836, 837.
Haines, George, 207.
Haines, John, 251.
Haislip, James, 238, 239, 245, 262, 263, 339.
Haislip, John, 238, 239, 245, 262, 339.
Haislip, Thomas H., 238, 239, 245, 262, 337.
Haldeman, J. S.
 Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 1122, 1169.
Hale, George, 1314.
Hale, James T., 431.
Hale, John, 1425.
Hale, Matthew, 34.
Hale, Robert S., 1008.
Hale, Samuel W., 1425.
Hale, Stephen F., 1494.
Haley, William D., 573.
Halifax (N. S.) Sun, 1140, 1141.
Hall, Mrs., 776.
Hall, A. E., 265.
Hall, Benjamin F.
 Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 119.
Hall, David C., 155, 239, 240, 262, 322.
Hall, E., 1529.
Hall, Elibeck, 1397, 1454.
Hall, George W.
 Correspondence, C. Wilkes, 1082, 1086.
 Mentioned, 1084, 1086, 1087.
Hall, Isaac, 1397, 1453, 1454.
Hall, James H., case of, 913-933.
 Correspondence:
 Hood, F. T., 917.
 Taylor, H., 917.
 Mentioned, 155, 229, 913-915, 918, 919, 921-923.
Hall, Nathan K., 557, 558.
Hall, Peyton, 1397, 1453, 1454.
Hall, R. B.
 Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 9.
Hall, Samuel, 265.

- Hall, Thomas W., jr., case of, 787-790.
Mentioned, 102, 154, 225, 227, 230, 232, 285, 787-790, 793, 795.
- Hall, W. C.
Correspondence, Virginia, Governor of, 411.
- Hall, Wardrop.
Correspondence, J. W. Wall, 776.
- Halleck, Henry W.
Correspondence:
Hoxie, H. M., 1834.
Lowe, W. W., 275.
Phillips, D. L., 272, 274.
War Department, U. S., 1333.
Mentioned, 142, 164, 273, 283, 284, 327, 1052, 1331.
- Hallie, 812.
- Hallinan, M. M., 52, 53, 57, 297, 298.
- Hallock, Gerard, 723, 725.
- Halloway, Robert, 184.
- Halsted, Mr., 696.
- Ham, C. D., 243.
- Hambleton, James P., 606, 1386.
- Hambleton, Thomas E.
Correspondence:
Attorney-General's Office, U. S., 873.
State Department, U. S., 872, 877.
Mentioned, 875, 877, 878.
- Hamet, W. H., 1397.
- Hamilton.
Correspondence, D. C. Lowber, 589.
- Hamilton, Abe, 1460.
- Hamilton, R. S.
Correspondence, M. B. White, 1385.
- Hamilton, Schuyler, 372.
- Hamilton, William, 266.
- Hamlin, Hannibal.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 194.
See also Congress, U. S.
- Hammer, Adam, 35.
- Hammer, George W., 267.
- Hammond, E. See Foreign Office, British.
- Hammond, H. M., 682.
- Hammond, John, 370, 371, 374.
- Hampton, Reuben, 267.
- Hanaber, John, 1441.
- Hancock, Winfield S., 316, 318, 1286.
- Hanery, Nathaniel, 1290.
- Hanety, P., 263.
- Hankel, Mr., 1234.
- Hanner, Charles. See Charles Krengle.
- Hannum, Fisher A.
Correspondence, L. Polk, 1388.
- Hansbarger, Mr., 1473.
- Hanscom, Mr., 930.
- Hanscomb, Mr., 905, 906, 908.
- Hansey, Michael, 250.
- Hansford, Charles S., 265.
- Hanson, E. A., 1347.
- Hanson, George A., 1347, 1350.
- Hanson, Peter, 345.
- Harbin, George F., case of, 857-881.
Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 870, 874, 875.
Mentioned, 152, 237, 857-881.
- Harbour, Joseph, 266.
- Hardee, Joseph, 251.
- Harden, John J., 267.
- Hardesty, Richard, 228.
- Hardie, James A.
Correspondence. See George B. McClellan.
- Hardy, Henry C.
Correspondence:
Low, A. A., 512.
Taylor, M., 525, 526.
Mentioned, 513, 514, 517, 520-523, 525, 526.
- Hardy & Bro., 522, 523.
- Harford, Mary, 189, 190.
- Hargan, Daniel, 35.
- Hargan, George, 35.
- Harker, James, 227.
- Harlan, James.
Correspondence:
Fremont, J. C., 748.
Hill, W. M., 1330.
War Department, U. S., 1331, 1333.
Mentioned, 1301, 1331, 1335, 1337, 1338.
- Harmon, John, 97.
- Harness, William H.
Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1416.
Mentioned, 1416, 1456.
- Harold, Mr., 76.
- Harper, A.
Correspondence, A. W. McDonald, 1540.
- Harper, Jacob, 1476.
- Harper, W. W., 272, 274, 277.
- Harper & Bros., 286.
- Harriet Lane, U. S. Rev. Cut., 195, 332, 333, 336, 337
- Harrington, Daniel B., 229, 341.
- Harrington, George, 1047, 1060.
- Harrington, J. S., 251.
- Harris, A. C., 156.
- Harris, Arnold, case of, 1515-1524.
Correspondence:
Abrams, Mr., 1521.
Bocock, T. S., 1519.
Boyce, W. W., 1519.
Buford, A., 1522.
Johnson, R. W., 1519.
Keitt, L. M., 1519.
Miller, T., 59.
Pryor, R. A., 1519.
Mentioned, 38, 59, 477, 1428, 1515-1524.
- Harris, Arnold, Mrs., 1521, 1522.
- Harris, Ella, 1521.
- Harris, Isham G., 809.
- Harris, William, 884.
- Harris & Morgan, 967.
- Harrison, Burton N., 429.
- Harrison, Charles H., 251.
- Harrison, Francis L., 238.
- Harrison, H. Lynde, 1277.
- Harrison, Isham, jr., 1550-1555.
- Harrison, James T., 1550-1555.
- Harrison, M., 1479-1481.
- Harrison, William G., 102, 154, 225, 227, 230, 232, 239, 282, 270, 285.
- Harrison, William Henry, 1296.
- Harrison County (Ia.) Flag, 1329.
- Harrold, Uriah B., 229, 297.
- Harrover, John, 237, 238, 245, 262, 333.
- Hart, Mr., 1508.
- Hart, Henry N., 250.
- Hart, N. H.
Correspondence, G. S. Hopkins, 1262.
Mentioned, 1248.

- Hartford (Conn.) Times, 377.
 Hartstene, Henry J., 960, 968.
 Harvey Birch, Steamer, 1105, 1131, 1235.
 Harwood, John Allen, 202, 212, 217, 265, 336.
 Haskins, William L.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1272.
 Mentioned, 1268.
 Haslenwood, Edward.
 Correspondence, J. Davis, 4-6
 Mentioned, 3, 4.
 Hassler, Bettie H., 237, 295.
 Hassler, F. E., Mrs. See Bettie H. Hassler.
 Hatch, Colonel, 1510, 1511.
 Hatch, F. H., 1503.
 Hatteras, Cape (N. C.), Citizens.
 Correspondence, R. C. Hawkins, 62.
 Oath of allegiance, 63.
 Haven, Mr., 712.
 Havens, Cornelius P., 344.
 Havers, B. F., 1548.
 Hawes, James M., 15.
 Hawkins, J. Russell.
 Correspondence, J. C. Frémont, 748.
 Hawkins, J. W.
 Correspondence, A. S. Johnston, 1387.
 Hawkins, Rush C.
 Correspondence:
 Hatteras, Cape (N. C.), citizens, 62.
 Weber, M., 63.
 Wool, J. E., 58, 60, 61.
 Hawkins, Thomas T., 1522, 1524.
 Hawkshurst, John, 1286.
 Hawley, Lieutenant, 964.
 Hawley, Mr., 51.
 Hawley, J. R., 229, 331.
 Hawley, Seth C.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 123,
 126, 147, 149, 178, 219, 427, 487, 513, 514, 518-521,
 524, 526-528, 537-539, 696, 697, 702, 754, 755, 757,
 762, 765, 769, 770, 819, 892, 894, 896, 933-935,
 1024, 1025, 1034, 1037, 1072, 1073, 1275-1277.
 Mentioned, 123, 127, 138, 149, 150, 153, 174, 178, 306,
 344, 544, 763, 769, 770, 936, 1040.
 Notice, examination of prisoners, 136.
 Recognition of attorneys for prisoners, 156.
 Haxall, Mr., 1532.
 Hay, John.
 Correspondence. See Abraham Lincoln.
 Haycock, Thomas, 238, 272.
 Hayden, B. L., 156, 229, 312.
 Hayden, Benjamin, 223.
 Hayden, John, 223.
 Hayes, Wingate.
 Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 446, 447.
 Mentioned, 432, 435, 436, 445.
 Hayman & Co., 970.
 Haymond, T. S., 1473.
 Haynes, J. P., 242.
 Hays, Captain, 1482.
 Haywood, Thomas, 1432, 1433.
 Hazard, William J., 122.
 Hazewell, George R., 702.
 Healey, Captain, 1015.
 Healey, T. A., 898.
 Healey, William, 251.
 Heard, Thomas, 586.
 Heart, John, 1386.
 Heater, Hanson, 265.
 Heater, Harvey, 265.
 Heater, Thomas B., 267.
 Heath, Colonel, 1299.
 Heath, Edward, & Co., 1068.
 Heatvoh, Manasseh, 1425.
 Heazlitt, Charles F., 132, 541, 722, 729, 739, 842.
 Hebb, John L., 36, 226.
 Hébert, Paul O.
 Correspondence, A. Buchel, 1407.
 Heck, J. M.
 Correspondence, Virginia, Governor of, 1508.
 Heckart, John J., 102, 227, 230, 233.
 Hedley, John, 1002.
 Hedrick, W. W., case of, 1352-1354.
 Hefflin, A., 1426.
 Heineken, G.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 2.
 Heinrichs, Edward, 92, 94, 96, 307.
 Heintzelman, Samuel P.
 Correspondence:
 McDowell, I., 11.
 Montgomery, W. R., 206.
 Mentioned, 206, 218, 235, 333-339, 345-347.
 Helm, Charles J., 93, 99, 316.
 Helm, H. D., 315, 316.
 Helmick, J. N., 267.
 Henchman, William, 1437.
 Henderson, George T., 202, 212, 217, 336, 337.
 Henderson, Henry, 1484.
 Henderson, J. M.
 Correspondence, D. C. Buell, 186.
 Henderson, James.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 487.
 Mentioned, 488, 490.
 Henderson, Julius, 488.
 Hendricks, Frederic, 156.
 Henrietta, U. S. Rev. Cut., 435, 439, 445, 451.
 Henry, Alexander, 722.
 Henry, B. T.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 645.
 Henry, C. A., 317.
 Henry Middleton, Schooner, 86, 87, 544-555.
 Hensley, William, 267.
 Henson, John, 267.
 Hepke, Mr., 496, 497.
 Herbert, Joseph, 864.
 Herera, M. A., & Co., 175.
 Herman, Peter, 256.
 Herndon, James C., 562, 572.
 Herr, Austin H., 1304, 1305, 1393.
 Herron, Quillers, 31.
 Hesse, Ludwig, 1430.
 Hettie.
 Correspondence, M. W. Barr, 812.
 Hewett, William.
 Correspondence, Lord Lyons, 1160, 1164.
 Mentioned, 1160, 1163, 1241, 1242, 1244.
 Hewitt, Ada M. See Augusta Morris.
 Hewitt, Thomas B., 237, 238, 245, 262, 332.
 Heyliger, Louis.
 Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1239.
 Hibbs, John A., 257.
 Hibler, Daniel, 339, 340.
 Hick, William, 238, 239, 245, 262, 339.

- Hickey, David H., 267.
Hickman, John, 791.
Hickman, William, 265.
Hickok, Henry C., 203.
Hicks, Thomas H.
 Correspondence. See Maryland, Governor of.
 Mentioned, 104, 795.
Hickson, H. C., 152.
Higginbotham, Edward G., 1384.
Higgins, Eugene, 36, 226.
Higgins, John. See John Hagins.
High, Frederic S., 267.
Hilbert, Dominick, 251.
Hildebrand, F., 1286.
Hill, Lieutenant. See John S. Emerson.
Hill, Andrew J., 680.
Hill, Bennett H.
 Correspondence:
 Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 964, 966.
 Boynton, T. J., 965.
 State Department, U. S., 973.
 Mentioned, 957-959, 974, 977.
Hill, Charles W., 229.
Hill, Daniel H.
 Correspondence, J. H. Winder, 1409.
 Mentioned, 619, 1468, 1470, 1479, 1480, 1488, 1489.
Hill, Joseph, 34.
Hill, Octavius A., 673-675, 678, 680.
Hill, Samuel.
 Correspondence:
 State Department, U. S., 114.
 War Department, U. S., 56.
Hill, William, 682.
Hill, William M., case of, 1321-1339.
 Correspondence:
 Dix, J. A., 1332.
 Grimes, J. W., 1337, 1338.
 Harlan, J., 1330.
 Hoxie, H. M., 1329.
 Palmer, F. W., 1330.
 Political Prisoners' Com'n, 1334, 1336, 1338.
 State Department, U. S., 1325, 1329.
 Union Democrat, Editor, 1323.
 War Department, U. S., 1331, 1335.
 Mentioned, 1321-1339.
Hilleary, Washington, case of, 1506-1508.
 Correspondence, J. Brannon, 1506.
 Mentioned, 1506-1508.
Hilliard, G. S., 1137.
Hilliard, H. W.
 Correspondence:
 "Mr. Editor," 1229.
 State Department, C. S., 1229.
Hills, Calvin, 1245, 1252.
Hillyar, Henry S., 1242.
Hillyer, William S.
 Correspondence. See Ulysses S. Grant.
Hindman, Mr., 1480.
Hinks, Charles D., 36, 226.
Hinton, Joseph B.
 Correspondence:
 Attorney-General's Office, C. S., 1401.
 Causten, J. H., 1402.
 Mentioned, 1402.
Hipkins, John, jr., 343.
Hipp, P. C. W., 155, 229.
- Hitchcock, Ethan A.
 Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 403.
Hitchcock, J. V.
 Correspondence, S. J. Anderson, 610. ,
 Mentioned, 602.
Hitchcock, Thomas, 237, 368-379.
Hite, Sergeant, 414.
Hite, J. W., 265.
Hitzelberger, Alexander L.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 143.
 Mentioned, 258.
Hobart & Forster, 1278, 1279.
Hobbs, Edward D.
 Correspondence, R. Anderson, 887.
 Mentioned, 887.
Hoben, William G.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 673.
 Mentioned, 677.
Hodge, Matthew, 1261-1263.
Hodge, William.
 Correspondence, J. C. Backus, 730.
 Mentioned, 734, 735, 797.
Hodges, Asa, case of, 1550-1557.
Hodges, John R., 266.
Hoffman, Messrs., 1490.
Hoffman, B. F.
 Correspondence. See Ohio, Governor of.
Hoffman, George A.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 900.
Hoffman, Wellington, 251.
Hoffman, William.
 Correspondence:
 Burke, M., 407, 410.
 Child, W. H., 1360.
 Day, L., 202.
 Dimick, J., 202.
 Ludlow, W. H., 403, 406, 408, 410, 411.
 Ohio, Governor of, 211.
 Quartermaster-General's Office, U. S. A., 263.
 State Department, U. S., 216.
 White, J., 410.
 Mentioned, 335-337, 348.
Hoffman, Dorrepaal & Co., 686.
Hoffman & Howell, 1470.
Hogan, W.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 504.
Hoggard, James B., 92, 94, 96, 307.
Holbrook, A. M.
 Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 829.
Holderby, Robert S., 266.
Holland, Charles, 1471, 1472, 1480.
Holland, Gustavus, 3, 4, 32, 33.
Holland, R. C., 152, 165, 227, 239, 240, 262, 323.
Hollingshead, John S.
 Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 1294.
 Mentioned, 452.
Hollingsworth, Zebulon, 250.
Hollis, Thomas W., 257.
Holman. See Sylvester Parker.
Holmes, N. G., 267.
Holmes, S. G. C., 267.
Holmes, Theophilus H.
 Correspondence, W. S. G. Andrews, 1548.
 Mentioned, 1429, 1455, 1490, 1547.
Holsclaw, Lewis S., case of, 881-897.
 Mentioned, 103, 231, 883, 884, 886, 888, 893-897.

- Holt, Mr., 1531.
- Holt, Joseph.
Correspondence:
Lincoln, A., 808.
State Department, U. S., 889, 891.
See also Judge-Adv. Gen.'s Office, U. S. A.
Mentioned, 1015, 1256.
- Holtzman, A. J., 237.
- Honaker, John, 1449.
- Honduras, Steamer, 971.
- Hone, John.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1094.
- Hood, Francis T.
Correspondence:
Lincoln, A., 919.
Stanton, R. H., et al., 917.
Mentioned, 919.
- Hooker, Joseph.
Correspondence:
McClellan, G. B., 185, 201.
Wells, G. D., 1027, 1028.
Mentioned, 326, 333-335, 340, 1027, 1028.
- Hooper, J. J.
Correspondence. See Congress, O. S.
- Hooper, W. H., 1424.
- Hoover, Frederic, 265.
- Hoover, Jonah D., 1521.
- Hope, S. R., 267.
- Hopkins, A. S., 267.
- Hopkins, Ann Maria, 1525, 1526.
- Hopkins, Basil, 1343.
- Hopkins, Guy S., case of, 1244-1267.
Correspondence:
Hart, N. H., 1262.
McClelland, R., 1248, 1257.
State Department, U. S., 1250, 1264.
Mentioned, 155, 239, 240, 262, 275, 1244-1267.
- Hopkins, Johns, 873.
- Hopkins, Hull & Atkinson.
Correspondence:
"Customers and Friends," 1341.
Meredith, Spencer & Co., 1341.
Pinkerton, A., 1342.
Mentioned, 1340-1344.
- Hopkinson, James, 182, 329.
- Hopper, Dr., 133.
- Hormenz, A. C., 1011, 1012, 1020.
- Hornbeck, Abraham, 238, 245, 262, 347.
- Horton, Mr., 1015.
- Horton, Henry, 432, 441, 455.
- Horton, R. G.
Correspondence, D. Richmond, 614.
- Hosea, Isaac, 207.
- Hoskins, F. V., 296.
- Houchin, Ellis, 265, 1380
- Hough, E. S., 272, 277.
- Houghtaling, Joel, 1285.
- Householder, Gideon, 1479.
- Houston, James B.
Correspondence, C. Wilkes, 1082, 1085.
Mentioned, 1082-1084, 1086, 1088
- Hovey, John G.
Correspondence, N. P. Banks, 198.
- Howard, Mr., 43.
- Howard, Aubrey C., 35.
- Howard, Charles, 102, 154, 226, 230, 232, 285, 350, 782.
- Howard, Frank Key, case of, 778-786.
Correspondence:
Burke, M., 783.
Howard, L., 781.
War Department, U. S., 783.
Mentioned, 102, 154, 225, 227, 230, 232, 285, 778-786, 793, 795.
- Howard, Lydia.
Correspondence, F. K. Howard, 781.
- Howard, O. R.
Correspondence, J. Davis, 1505.
- Howard, W. A., 1245, 1247.
- Howard, William, 1373-1375.
- Howe, Charles, 965, 977.
- Howe, Frank E., 1050.
- Howe, John W.
Correspondence, G. W. Dunlap, 407.
Mentioned, 403, 406, 407, 411, 414.
- Howe, Timothy O.
Correspondence, Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 283.
- Howell Cobb, U. S. Rev. Cut., 195, 336, 337.
- Hoves, J. W., 1008.
- Hoxie, Herbert M.
Card to the public, 1326.
Correspondence:
Halleck, H. W., 1334.
Hill, W. M., 1329.
State Department, U. S., 113, 1322, 1325, 1326.
War Department, U. S., 1331, 1332.
Mentioned, 114, 1321, 1322, 1324, 1326-1330, 1332-1339.
- Hubbell, Mr., 1487.
- Hubbell, George A., 60, 73, 229, 302.
- Hubbell, Nathan.
Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 73.
- Hubbell, William Y.
Correspondence, J. Davis, 1505.
- Hubby, L. M.
Correspondence, A. G. Lawrence, 95.
- Huddleston, Mr., 1480.
- Hudson, Mr., 685.
- Hudson, Daniel, 251.
- Hudson, R. M., 1384.
- Hudson, William L.
Correspondence:
Dimick, J., 1101.
Navy Department, U. S., 47, 1096, 1100, 1101.
Wilkes, C., 1101.
Mentioned, 1097.
- Huff, J. H.
Correspondence, W. M. Churchwell, 1426.
- Huff, James C.
Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1371.
- Huff, John, 1425.
- Huger, Benjamin.
Correspondence:
Adj. and Insp. Gen.'s Office, C. S. A., 1390.
Burnside, A. E., 184.
Dimick, J., 937.
Lee, R. E., 1361.
State Department, C. S., 1228.
War Dept., C. S., 367, 368, 456, 1376, 1419, 1420.
Wool, J. E., 54, 125, 365, 1229.
Mentioned, 125, 1228, 1361, 1362, 1417, 1490.
Notice to alien enemies, 1390.

- Hughes, D. O., 250.
 Hughes, E. E., 1465.
 Hughes, George R. H., 237, 333.
 Hughes, Ham, 375.
 Hughes, James S., 1314.
 Hughes, John.
 Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 52, 57.
 Mentioned, 298.
 Hughes, M. W., 266.
 Hull, Richard, 223.
 Hull, Robert, case of, 1340-1345.
 Correspondence:
 Political Prisoners' Commission, 1344.
 War Department, U. S., 1345.
 Mentioned, 228, 285, 1340-1345.
 Hulsemann, Chevalier de.
 Correspondence:
 Foreign Office, Austrian, 1166.
 State Department, U. S., 1167.
 Mentioned, 1166, 1168, 1183.
 Humbert, Preston S., 1425.
 Humboldt, Friedrich H. A. von, 1262.
 Hume, David, 1172.
 Humphrey, Calvin, 677, 680.
 Humphrey, James E. See James E. Murphy.
 Humphreys, A. S., 1550, 1554-1557.
 Hunt, Colonel, 1553.
 Hunt, Daniel, 1425, 1486.
 Hunt, Daniel, Mrs., 1486.
 Hunt, Edward B., 977.
 Hunt, George, 1436.
 Hunt, Noah, 263.
 Hunt, William, case of, 913-933.
 Correspondence:
 Hood, F. T., 917.
 Taylor, H., 917.
 Mentioned, 155, 229, 913-915, 918, 919, 921-923.
 Hunter, Dr., 1398.
 Hunter, Mr., 1465.
 Hunter, Andrew.
 Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1377.
 Mentioned, 1393.
 Hunter, James, 237.
 Hunter, James, et al.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 529.
 Hunter, Robert M. T.
 Correspondence. See State Department, U. S.
 Mentioned, 682, 683, 1497.
 Hunter, Samuel, case of, 1340-1345.
 Correspondence:
 Meredith, Spencer & Co., 1341.
 Spiller, E. N., 1342.
 Mentioned, 237, 1340-1345.
 Hunter, William.
 Correspondence. See State Department, U. S.
 Mentioned, 1257, 1260.
 Huntly, Mr., 1348.
 Hunton, Eppa.
 Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 796.
 Hunton, J. B., 1383.
 Hunton, R. H., 1383.
 Huntt, O. W.
 Correspondence, S. S. Baxter, 1422.
 Mentioned, 1445, 1447, 1452-1454, 1471, 1481, 1487, 1488.
 Hurlbert, William H., case of, 1490-1500.
 Correspondence:
 Congress, C. S., 1492.
 Crane, A. J., 1495.
 Lee, R. E., 1490.
 Lyons, J., 1499.
 State Department, C. S., 1496.
 Mentioned, 1490-1500.
 Hurry, James C., 17.
 Hurst, Mr., 1458.
 Hurst, John, 1290.
 Hurst, Richard, 237, 238, 245, 262, 333.
 Hurst, William, 1430.
 Huson, C., jr.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 38.
 Hutchins, George W., 237, 245, 262, 336.
 Hutchins, Waldo.
 Correspondence:
 State Department, U. S., 528.
 War Department, U. S., 517.
 Mentioned, 527.
 Hyde, A. L. (Adelso), Schooner, 432, 441, 454.
 Hyde, C. Gregory, 251.
 Hyman, Samuel H., 509, 521, 522, 524, 544.
 Illinois.
 Affairs in southern, 240-244, 247, 248.
 Indiana, Schooner, 305.
 Indiana, Governor of.
 Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 806.
 Indiana Troops.
 Infantry—Regiments:
 11th, 897.
 Ingraham, D. N., 1224.
 Ingraham, Ferdinand, 677, 678.
 Ingraham, Jesse J., 266.
 Ingram, James, 394.
 Ingram, Thomas.
 Correspondence, F. Bernal, 388.
 Interior Department, U. S.
 Correspondence:
 Eaton, D. L., 674.
 State Department, U. S., 37, 388.
 Iowa, Governor of.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1324.
 Iowa State Register, 1322, 1326.
 Iowa Troops.
 Infantry—Regiments:
 9th, 1298.
 Iroquois, U. S. Steamer, 1242.
 Irvin, Colonel, 1489.
 Irving, J. B., jr.
 Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1375.
 Isaac, 1029.
 Isaacs, Alexander, 481.
 Isaacs, William, 237.
 Isabella II, 596.
 Island Belle, U. S. Steamer, 195, 312, 336, 337.
 Ivanhoe, Ship, 717.
 Ives, Malcolm, 226, 238, 529.
 Jaccard, Eugene, 251.
 Jackson, Andrew, 1130.
 Jackson, Ben., 237.
 Jackson, George.
 Correspondence, J. B. Baldwin, 1381.
 Mentioned, 1381.

- Jackson, George A., 480.
Jackson, Henry R.
 Correspondence, G. B. McClellan, 31, 32.
 Mentioned, 1382.
Jackson, John (Colored), 1287.
Jackson, John (Mr.), 578, 580, 581, 583.
Jackson, John J., 313.
Jackson, Joseph, 251.
Jackson, Maben, 1439.
Jackson, Mortimer M.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1078.
 Mentioned, 54, 458
Jackson, Thomas J.
 Correspondence, G. Thomas, 412
 Mentioned, 792, 1426, 1456, 1488, 1531, 1533, 1534, 1538, 1539.
Jackson, William, 251.
Jackson, William L.
 Correspondence, J. Davis, 1401.
 Mentioned, 1478, 1506, 1507
Jacob, Richard T.
 Correspondence, J. C. Frémont, 748.
 Mentioned, 749.
Jacobs, James, 1425.
Jacoby, Miles, 265.
James, Charles P., 946.
James, E. S.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 584.
James, J. B., 944.
James Adger, U. S. Steamer, 1078, 1079, 1104, 1105, 1133, 1235.
James City County, Va.
 Martial law, note, 1421.
James & Jackson, 946.
Jameson, William C., 251, 332, 349.
Jamestown, U. S. Steamer, 546, 551.
Jane, 413.
Jannary, A. M.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 919.
Janney, Mahlon H., 238, 239, 245, 262, 347.
Jansen, George, 1011, 1012, 1020.
Jarboe, J. J., 272, 277.
Jarnagin, T. J., 1426.
Jarrett, Jesse, 1469.
Jarrett, Oliver, 1466.
Jarrett, Seth, 1466.
Jarrott, Robert, 251.
Jeff, Davis, C. S. Privateer, 292, 293.
Jefferies, Mr., 418.
Jeffers, Richard, 231.
Jefferson, Thomas, 505, 1153.
Jefferson Parish, La.
 Martial law, 1421.
Jeffery, B. W., 154.
Jeffries, Richard. See Richard Jeffers.
Jenkins, Dep. U. S. Mar., 843.
Jenkins, Mr., 460.
Jenkins, A. G., 15, 223, 1464, 1474.
Jenkins, B. H., 238, 272, 278, 347.
Jenkins, Gilson, 1286.
Jenkins, Richard. See Joseph P. Whiting.
Jenkins, Samuel, 1286.
Jett, Z. S., 35.
Jewell, Henry L., 770.
Jewell, Mott, 266.
Jewett, Mr., 131.
Jewett, Jedediah.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 802.
 Mentioned, 802.
Johansen, Alfred, 229.
John.
 Correspondence, R., 400.
John Adams, U. S. Sloop, 321.
John Carver, Ship, 1382.
John Gault, Steamer, 57.
Johnson, Dr., 1402.
Johnson, Mrs., 1347.
Johnson, Alfred, 341.
Johnson, Andrew, 1354.
Johnson, B. R., 1298.
Johnson, Bradley T.
 Correspondence, A. Morris, 1350.
 Mentioned, 1348.
Johnson, Bradley T., Mrs., 1349.
Johnson, Charles E., 314.
Johnson, David, 1287.
Johnson, Edward, 226, 228, 291.
Johnson, George H., 237, 271.
Johnson, George W.
 Correspondence, J. Davis, 1516.
 Mentioned, 1410, 1446.
Johnson, Henry E., 227.
Johnson, Herschell V., 608, 721, 723, 724, 947.
Johnson, J. H.
 Correspondence, J. C. Frémont, 748.
Johnson, J. M.
 Correspondence, I. McDowell, 11, 12.
Johnson, Jacob, 345.
Johnson, James A. (Ky.).
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 919.
Johnson, James A. (Prisoner), 237.
Johnson, John, 92, 94, 96, 307.
Johnson, John J., 199.
Johnson, Lawrence T., 228.
Johnson, Madison C.
 Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 891, 892.
Johnson, Marmaduke, 1400.
Johnson, Miles, 1469, 1472.
Johnson, P. H., 251.
Johnson, Reverdy.
 Correspondence:
 May, H. De C., 801.
 State Department, U. S., 800.
 War Department, C. S., 476, 477.
 Mentioned, 304, 736, 780, 842, 873.
Johnson, Reverdy, Mrs., 477.
Johnson, Richard W.
 Correspondence:
 Dent, H., 885.
 Sneed, A. H., 884.
 Mentioned, 303.
Johnson, Robert W.
 Correspondence:
 Harris, A., 1519.
 War Department, C. S., 1517, 1518.
 Mentioned, 1463, 1517.
Johnson, Thomas T., 1290.
Johnson, William, 1469, 1474.
Johnston, Lieutenant, 732.
Johnston, Mr., 547.
Johnston, Albert S.
 Appoints Political Prisoners' Board, 1398.

Johnston, Albert S.—Continued.

Correspondence:

Borland, S., 1404.

Hawkins, J. W., 1387.

Marshall, H., 1410

Zollicoffer, F. K., 1396.

Mentioned, 9, 358-360, 362, 1387, 1399, 1524.

Johnston, Albert S., Mrs., 359, 360.Johnston, Henry E., case of, 881.*Johnston, James, 827.*Johnston, Jennie.

Correspondence, V. F. T. Southall, 1366.

Mentioned, 1366.

Johnston, Joseph E.

Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1411.

Mentioned, 272, 565, 792, 905, 908, 1298, 1348, 1375,

1376, 1397, 1398, 1428, 1490, 1493, 1516.

Johnston, Julia Nicholas, 826, 827.Johnston, W. A., 69.*Johnston, William, 1034.*Johnston, William Preston.

Correspondence:

Flanders, J. R., 945.

War Department, C. S., 365.

Mentioned, 358, 362, 940.

Johnston Bros. & Co., 832.Jones, Captain, 1423.*Jones, Captain, 1519.*Jones, Miss, 55.*Jones, Miss. See Mrs. W. Randle.*Jones, Mr., 538, 543.*Jones, A. J., 431.*Jones, A. W., 202, 212, 217, 265, 336.*Jones, Augustus, 1297.*Jones, Benjamin A., 327.*Jones, Charles J.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 384.

Jones, Charles S. D.

Correspondence, G. W. Jones, 1297, 1298.

Mentioned, 1297, 1299.

Jones, E. H., 156, 239, 240, 321, 322.Jones, E. M., 262.*Jones, E. R., 1460.*Jones, Edward F., 907.*Jones, F. W.

Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 79.

Jones, George J., 252, 348.Jones, George W., case of, 1295-1302.

Correspondence:

Davis, J., 1295, 1296.

Jones, C. S. D., 1297, 1298.

Jones, G. W., Mrs., 1298.

Lincoln, A., 1300.

Morse, I. E., 1297.

Mentioned, 239, 240, 262, 1295-1302, 1330.

Jones, George W., Mrs.

Correspondence, G. W. Jones, 1298.

Mentioned, 1298.

Jones, J. B., 9.Jones, J. Lawrence, 102, 154, 230, 232, 262.*Jones, J. M.Correspondence. See John B. Magruder.Jones, J. Winston, 1483.*Jones, John, sr.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 671.

Jones, Samuel, 265.Jones, Thomas A., case of, 857-881.

Correspondence:

Crain, P. W., 880.

Dent, J., 869.

Pinkerton, A., 878.

Porter, A., 878.

State Department, U. S., 860, 868, 869.

Mentioned, 152, 237, 271, 277, 857-881.

Jones, Wesley, 267.Jones, William, 182, 330.*Jones, William H., 1436.*Jordan, Edward.

Correspondence, Treasury Dept., U. S., 516.

Mentioned, 518, 1069, 1070, 1073.

Jordan, F. H., 1556.Jordan, John V.

Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 184.

Jordan, Robert L., 318, 319.Jordan, Thomas.

Correspondence:

Davis, J., 1228.

Empty, Colonel, 1310.

Greenhow, R. O'N., 566, 572.

Morris, A., 1349.

Van Camp, A., 565.

War Department, C. S., 564.

See also B. Bragg and G. T. Beauregard.

Mentioned, 564, 572, 1310, 1347, 1350.

Jordan, William, 251.Joseph, Brig, 346.*Joseph H. Toone, Schooner, 909-913.*Joy, William, 238, 245, 262.*Joyes, Edward S., 1407.*Joyes, William T.

Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1546, 1547.

Mentioned, 513, 1546.

Judd, Henry B.

Correspondence:

Merchant, C., 1012.

Sumner, E. V., 1012.

Mentioned, 1012.

Judd, N. B.

Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 1126, 1199.

Judge-Advocate-General's Office, U. S. A.

Correspondence:

Price, W., 408.

War Department, U. S., 409.

Whaley, K. V., 406.

Judith, C. S. Privateer, 96, 97.Julian, Henry G.

Correspondence, S. Draper, 419.

Mentioned, 421.

Julian Bros., 418.Julius, George, 107, 108, 152, 165, 227, 239, 240, 262, 319.*Jura, Steamer, 1093, 1198.*Justitia.

Correspondence, Editor London Times, 1135.

Kaddle, John, 267.Kane, George P.

Correspondence, H. May, 796.

Mentioned, 31, 63, 113, 154, 225, 226, 230, 232, 260, 285, 380, 791, 796.

Kappelle, Mr., 907.Kasson, E. R.

Correspondence, J. Davis, 1505.

Kasson, John A.Correspondence. See *Post-Office Dept., U. S.Kay, John, 432, 441, 454.Kearney, Thomas, 251.Kearns, J., 198.Kearny, William E., case of, 881-897.

Correspondence, E. B. Wilder, 890.

Mentioned, 103, 149, 151, 231, 233, 883, 886, 888, 890, 891, 894-896.

Kearsey, A. Q.

Correspondence:

State Department, U. S., 93, 98, 120, 620, 693.

War Department, U. S., 7.

Mentioned, 295, 693, 698, 805.

Keebler & Pepper, 1341.Keelan, James, 251.Keene, Charles, 232, 239, 262, 270, 285, 320.Keersted, Christopher L., 317.Keith, J. J., 265.Keith, Robert M., 267.Keitt, L. M.

Correspondence:

Harris, A., 1519.

War Department, C. S., 1517, 1518.

Mentioned, 1386, 1517.

Kelley, Benjamin F., 565.Kelley, William A., 1449.Kelley, William D.

Correspondence:

Garvin, J. J., 181.

Lincoln, A., 181.

Kellogg, C. H., 1425.Kelly, Mr., 97.Kelly, Dennis, 63, 77, 79, 81, 84, 225, 227, 301.Kelly, Frank, 267.Kelly, Hezekiah, 1382.Kelly, J., 1314.Kelly, James C., 1444.Kelly, John S., 251.Kelly, Thomas, 66, 94, 96, 307.Kendrick, M. L., 1456, 1458.Kenly, John R., 1535, 1536, 1538.Kennedy, Captain, 317.Kennedy, Mr., 1464.Kennedy, A. C., 266.Kennedy, Ellen Boyd, 317.Kennedy, James, 251.Kennedy, John A.

Correspondence:

———, 583.

Burke, M., 486, 510, 521, 531, 583, 603, 628, 683, 1300.

Burt, W. L., 1049.

Eustace, J., 50.

State Department, U. S., 3, 32, 50, 53, 67-70, 75, 77, 99, 137, 140, 141, 146, 161, 163, 175-177, 180, 191, 362, 363, 438, 440, 485, 486, 494-499, 501, 504, 510, 511, 519-522, 524, 525, 531-533, 541, 580, 582, 583, 590, 603, 619, 624, 644, 645, 647, 682, 751, 760, 768, 769, 771, 1010, 1013-1016, 1044, 1049, 1050, 1053, 1060, 1067, 1068, 1132, 1268, 1300.

Mentioned, 51, 52, 57, 58, 148, 290, 292, 296, 297, 308, 314, 321, 324, 326, 328, 361-363, 418, 420, 440, 494, 511, 514, 516, 518, 526, 531-533, 537, 538, 542-544, 578, 579, 583-585, 589, 618, 627, 631, 635, 643, 652, 672, 683, 750, 754, 755, 934, 982, 994, 997, 998, 1008-1010, 1050, 1052, 1053, 1055, 1057, 1058, 1063, 1068, 1074.

Kenney, Daniel R., 1347.Kenny, John, 155.Kent, Steamer, 158.Kentucky.

Anderson's proclamation, 74.

Buckner's proclamation, 1380.

Grant's proclamation, 55.

Nelson's proclamations, 106, 129.

Resolution, U. S. Senate, 287, 288.

Kentucky Legislature.

Correspondence:

Frémont, J. C., 747.

State Department, U. S., 927.

Resolutions, 813.

Keplinger, J., 1457.Kernan, J.

Correspondence, B. Burton, 754.

Kernoll, Henry, 1430.Kerr, Mrs., 456.Kesler, Alexander, 265.Kessler, Andrew, 102, 154, 230, 233.Kettle, L. A., 835, 840.Keuster, George, 496.Key, Thomas M.

Correspondence, C. B. Calvert, 873.

Mentioned, 89.

Keyes, John S.

Correspondence:

Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 254, 256.

State Department, U. S., 70, 75, 137, 142, 143, 146, 151, 153, 457, 762, 895, 1050, 1052, 1058, 1278.

Mentioned, 297, 302, 324, 352, 456, 460, 462, 681, 692, 735, 737, 762, 763, 822, 823, 846, 894, 895, 902, 1054, 1055, 1278, 1325.

Keystone State, U. S. Steamer, 956-964, 974, 976, 977.Key West, Fla.

Proclamation (Lincoln), 19.

Kezer, Mr., 1467.Kibbe, Theo. C., 399.Kidwell, Mr., 59.Kilbourn, E. G., 102, 154, 230, 232.Kilkreuse, Margaret O., 1309.Killinger, John W., 431.Kimball, Benjamin, 1374, 1430.Kimball, Charles W.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 449.

Mentioned, 452.

Kimball, Dennis, 72, 79.Kimball, Thomas, 432, 435-438, 441, 444, 455.Kincaid, James, jr., 1443, 1467, 1469.Kincaid, James, sr., 1467.Kincaid, John, 587.King, Mr., 242.King, A., 164.King, Henry W., 156.King, James G., & Sons.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1048.

King, Nicholas, 1482.King, Preston.

Correspondence:

Cooley, J. E., 16.

State Department, U. S., 943.

Mentioned, 942, 944, 952, 953.

King, Robert, 510, 514-516, 532, 582, 646, 647.Kingsland, George, 251.Kingsland, Leroy, 251.Kinman, David, 223.

- Kinney, Robert H., 1382.
Kious, J. C., 265.
Kirkpatrick, R. W., 267.
Kirkwood, Messrs., 59.
Kirkwood, Samuel J.
 Correspondence. See Iowa, Governor of.
 Mentioned, 1322, 1326, 1330.
Kirwan, Jacob, 103.
Kizer, Mr., 313.
Klock, Caspar, 184, 328.
Knight, Curtis, 891.
Knight, John H., 144, 157.
Knight, William W., 835, 840.
Knights of the Golden Circle, 54, 193, 194, 223, 242-
 244, 711, 712, 714-716, 1247, 1248, 1253, 1275.
Knights of the Golden Square, 1262, 1275.
Knowlton, Ebenezer.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 691.
Koenig, J. A., 305.
Koldenback, M. J., 316, 317, 386.
Kopperl, Charles, case of, 485-493.
 Correspondence:
 French, B. B., 489.
 Pearson, A. T. C., 489.
 Rice, H. M., 492.
 State Department, U. S., 486, 488.
 Mentioned, 102, 149, 154, 230, 233, 427, 485-493, 760.
Kopperl, Emma, 490, 492.
Korn, Mr., 496, 497.
Kortright, Ed. Keith, 855.
Krain, Tom, 1528-1530.
Krantz, William H., 1413, 1414, 1418.
Krantz, William H., Mrs., 1414.
Krengle, Charles, 192, 228.
Kurtz, L., 1458.
Kyle, Thomas, 138, 1435.
Lacross, Francis X., 235, 237, 263, 334.
Ladden, A. P., 637.
Ladden, W. A., jr., 637.
Ladden, W. A., sr., 637.
Lady of the Lake, Vessel, 1445.
Lafayette, Fort, N. Y.
 Prisoners, 102, 103, 155, 156, 228, 230.
La Guire, James, 299, 300.
Laidly, Albert, 1437, 1465.
Laidly, Alexander T., 1427.
Lamb, Robert Boyd, 1156.
Lamb, W. W., 1361, 1390, 1420.
Lamb, William, 1386.
Lambert, Charles, 419.
Lambert, E., 1426.
Lambert, James B., 1426.
Lambert & Howell, 416, 417.
Lamon, Ward H.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1046.
 Mentioned, 83, 298, 347.
La Montagnie, John de.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 451.
Lancaster, George, 864.
Lancaster, Joseph, 251.
Landing, George W., 102, 227, 230, 234.
Landstreet, A. C., 238, 271, 278.
Lane, Eben, 292.
Lane, Harriet, U. S. Rev. Cut., 195, 332, 333, 336, 337.
Lane, Henry S., 687.
Lane, James H., 9, 1296.
Lang, Patrick H., 244.
Langster, John L., 237.
Lant & Harris, 1455.
La Plata, Steamer, 1107, 1115, 1198, 1241, 1242.
La Porte County (Ind.) Sheriff.
 Correspondence, J. B. Thomas, 712.
Lardner, James L.
 Correspondence:
 Bankhead, J. P., 221.
 Du Pont, S. F., 220.
 Weaver, A. W., 220.
 Mentioned, 220.
Larhorne, John H., 1431.
Lassiter, L. B., et al.
 Correspondence, J. Davis, 1387.
Latham, Milton S.
 Correspondence, F. Pierce, 1264.
 Mentioned, 426, 1265, 1266.
Latimer & Tavall, 439.
Latude, Henri Masers de, 1350.
"Laura," 375.
Laurence, Spragg, 1477.
Lauty, Captain, 268.
Law, George, 832.
Lawrence, A. A., 1275-1277.
Lawrence, A. G.
 Correspondence, L. M. Hubby, 95.
Lawrence, J., 164.
Lawrence, P., 1438.
Lawrence, T. Bigelow, 16.
Lawton, Alexander R., 1408.
Lay, George W.
 Correspondence, C. Boyle, 1397.
 Mentioned, 1397.
Lay, Richard G., 51.
Layard, Austin H., 655, 656.
Leace, George W., 267.
Leace, John W., 267.
Leadbetter, D.
 Correspondence, Adjutant and Inspector General's Office, C. S. A., 1412.
Leak, William F.
 Correspondence, W. J. Ashe, 1549.
Leaton, Joseph, 1527-1530.
Leavy, John, 227.
Le Cesne, Charles, 141, 161, 175, 1051, 1060.
Ledwidge, Christopher.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 200.
 Mentioned 179, 185, 239, 240, 262, 320.
Lee, Mr., 90.
Lee, A. H., 1427.
Lee, Alfred, 272.
Lee, D. C., 237, 238, 245, 262, 333, 334.
Lee, David J., 273.
Lee, John F.
 Correspondence, H. May, 797.
 Mentioned, 11, 12.
Lee, Julian, 237.
Lee, Pollok B.
 Correspondence. See Felix K. Zollwoffer.
Lee, Richard R., 237, 238, 262, 333.
Lee, Robert E.
 Correspondence.
 Adjutant and Inspector General's Office, C. S.
 A., 1377, 1379.
 Huger, B., 1361.

Lee, Robert E.—Continued.

Correspondence:

Hurlbert, W. H., 1490.

Reynolds, J. J., 1380.

Tucker, J. R., 1361, 1490.

Mentioned, 591, 1310, 1379, 1425, 1440.

Lee, S. Phillips.

Mentioned, 87.

Reports capture of schooner Henry Middleton,
Aug. 21, 1861, 87.Lee, William L., 237, 238, 245, 262, 333, 334.Leech, Samuel V., 227, 319.Lee County, Va.

Martial law, note, 1421.

Leighton, George E.Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 171, 176, 219, 249.

List of prisoners, 250.

Mentioned, 311, 321, 332, 348, 349.

Leila, 576.Lemmon, Frederick, 265.Lemmon, Jacob, 265.Lemoine, Mrs., 1454.Lemon, John, 257.Lemonier, Dr., 1405.Leon, Henry J.

Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 829.

Leonard, Allen, 1429.Leonard, James, 57, 510, 531, 603.Lesley, James, jr.Correspondence. See *War Department, U. S.Lester, John, 1290.Letcher, Dr., 133.Letcher, John.Correspondence. See *Virginia, Governor of.*Mentioned, 2, 197, 284, 380, 399, 401, 406, 407, 412, 414, 418, 723, 833, 854, 1289, 1362, 1364, 1365,
1384, 1392, 1424, 1425, 1436, 1451, 1452, 1491,
1492, 1494-1496, 1499, 1507, 1538.Levans, Charles, 246.Levens, Mr., 1448.Levins, Mr., 1427.Levis, J.

Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 811.

Levy, Miss, 237.Lewis, Steamer, 328.Lewis. See *M. L. Rossvally.Lewis, Mr., 912.Lewis, Mrs., 59.Lewis, George Cornewall, Sir, 1205.Lewis, John E., 267.Lewis, John L., 912, 1422.Lewis, Richard, 239, 240, 262, 293.Lewy, Green, 267.Lida, Schooner, 182, 184, 328, 329.Lidy, B. F., 97.Liggett, Nathan, 266.Light, J., 1426, 1438.Lighthall, William A.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 964.

Lightner, A. S., 35.Lillard, D. C., 267.Lillard, J. D., 324, 332.Lillard, Jeremiah, 267.Limbers, Isaac, 265.Lincoln, Abraham.

Correspondence:

Anderson, R., 885, 886.Anderson, S. J., 604.

Army Headquarters, 19, 109, 193.

Attorney-General's Office, U. S., 20.

Ballard, B., 811.Brown, G. W., 115.Bullock, W. F., 811.Burton, B., 761.Congress, U. S., 37, 288, 506, 1159, 1166, 1176, 1200, 1202.Coombs, L., 818.Dix, J. A., 139.Dolph, J., 811.Ewing, T., 1103.Guthrie, J., 811, 813.Hall, B. F., 119.Holt, J., 808.Hood, F. T., 919.Hubbell, N., 73.Jones, F. W., 79.Jones, G. W., 1300.Kelley, W. D., 181.Levis, J., 811.Lowber, D. C., 589.Loyall, B. P., 109.McMaster, G. G., 803.May, J. F., 799.Millner, J. K., 763.Muir, C. B., 811.

Navy Department, U. S., 1113.

New York, Governor of, 955.

Osborne, J. D., 811.Peirpoint, F. H., 11.Pirtle, H., 811.Pope, H., 811.Prentice, G. D., 807, 811.Sherman, W. T., 920.Stanton, R. H., 914, 924, 927.

State Dept., U. S., 37, 809, 818, 981, 1104.

Stickney, L. D., 980.Tansill, R., 600.Taylor, H., 919.

Virginia, Governor of, 401.

Ward, W. H., 110.

War Department, U. S., 288.

Wilder, A. B., 696.Wilder, E. B., 701.Williams, C., 461.Wyatt, F., 844.Mentioned, 14, 18-20, 31, 36, 37, 44, 45, 47, 51, 54, 56, 60, 73, 88, 91, 95, 109, 111, 120, 130, 131, 134, 148,
164, 165, 190, 193, 196, 205, 212, 213, 215-217, 222,
223, 242-244, 249, 259, 282, 287, 288, 291, 302-305,
316, 322, 330, 333, 342, 346, 348, 370, 371, 374, 375,
377, 378, 406, 427, 431, 432, 437, 452-454, 466, 474,
479, 483, 497, 500, 507-509, 534, 538, 541, 542, 551,
560, 562, 574, 576, 589, 590, 593, 599-601, 603, 607,
608, 612-615, 619, 622, 627, 629, 631-635, 642, 654,
655, 658, 661-665, 674, 687, 689, 695, 696, 701, 742,
753, 764, 774, 776, 781, 782, 785, 791, 792, 797, 799,
801, 803, 804, 808, 810, 811, 816, 818, 819, 825, 850,
855, 856, 865, 866, 880, 881, 885, 905, 914, 919, 938,
940, 949, 952, 950, 969, 995, 1000, 1002, 1003, 1018,

Lincoln, Abraham—Continued.

Mentioned :

1020, 1022, 1043, 1044, 1066, 1104, 1107, 1108, 1113, 1115, 1118, 1122, 1124, 1129, 1132, 1135, 1138, 1142, 1143, 1146, 1159, 1163, 1167, 1171, 1173, 1175-1178, 1183, 1184, 1192, 1196, 1197, 1199, 1201, 1203, 1204, 1215, 1255, 1297, 1298, 1302, 1305, 1324, 1328, 1330, 1331, 1333, 1334, 1339, 1340, 1342, 1344, 1354, 1355, 1379-1381, 1383, 1401, 1412, 1427, 1428, 1446, 1466, 1471-1473, 1492, 1498, 1516, 1520, 1521, 1523, 1525, 1535-1537, 1539, 1544.

Messages to Congress, U. S., 15, 1159, 1166, 1176, 1200, 1202.

Order to U. S. marshals, 37.

Proclamation, 19.

Lincoln, Abraham, Mrs., 131, 1350, 1396.

Linderman, Rufus, 1327.

Lindsay, Mr., 1243.

Lindsay, James.

Correspondence, J. Davis, 1505.

Lindsay, James E.

Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1415.

Mentioned, 154, 231.

Lindsay, R. T.

Correspondence, S. Breckinridge, 273.

Linkons, Benjamin R., 1476.

Linton, Philip H., case of, 1027-1031.

Mentioned, 152, 237, 1027-1031.

Linton, Philip H., Mrs., 1030.

Lippincott, Richard, 207.

Littledale, T. & H., & Co., 1063, 1064, 1066.

Lively, William E., 34.

Lloyd, Alvin, 1408, 1409.

Lloyd, Spencer, 1480, 1481.

Locke, Sam, Ship, 680.

Locke, Sam, 680.

Lockwood, Henry H.

Correspondence, J. A. Dix, 94, 103, 134, 142, 143, 145, 149, 157, 268, 269.

Mentioned, 139, 140, 176, 213, 275.

Lockwood, John, 265.

Loftus, A., 1212.

Logwood, John E., 1551, 1556.

Loker, James B., 237, 238, 262, 331.

London Gazette, 1179.

London Globe, 1191.

London Morning Post, 1131, 1175, 1179, 1180, 1197, 1235.

London Morning Star, 1235.

London Observer, 1179, 1191.

London Standard, 78, 498.

London Times, 74, 499, 593, 1135, 1141, 1142, 1158, 1175, 1196, 1235, 1238, 1243, 1244.

London Times, Editor.

Correspondence, Justitia, 1135.

Long, Captain, 637.

Long, Colonel, Schooner, 66, 316, 545-547, 551.

Long, Henry, 265.

Long, S. D., 265.

Longley, Benjamin F., case of, 802.

Mentioned, 102, 230, 233, 802.

Loomis, Gustavus.

Correspondence :

Army Headquarters, 120.

New York, Governor of, 97.

Loomis, Gustavus—Continued.

Correspondence :

State Department, U. S., 77, 81, 100, 105, 113, 114, 123, 146, 151, 219, 224.

Updegraff, J., 108.

Lists of prisoners, 113, 225.

Mentioned, 79, 81, 82, 84, 100, 101, 120, 124, 174, 180, 763, 894.

Lord, Daniel.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 683.

Mentioned, 685.

Loring, A. L., 680.

Loring, Charles G., 588.

Loring, Edward, 1347.

Lothrop, Thornton K.

Correspondence :

Butler, B. F., 458.

State Department, U. S., 130.

Mentioned, 460.

Lott, G. V., 471.

Lott, G. V., Mrs., 467.

Louck, G. W., 265.

Louis, Frederick, case of, 956-982.

Mentioned, 155, 958, 961, 975, 976.

Louisa, 694.

Louisa Agnes, Schooner, 130, 131, 158-162, 166, 169, 170, 178, 219-221, 253, 254, 258.

Louisiana.

Martial law, 1420.

Louisiana, Governor of.

Correspondence :

Davis, J., 1421.

War Department, C. S., 1228, 1239.

Louisiana Militia.

Orders, series 1862, No. 530, 1422.

Louisville Courier, 70, 581, 805, 808-812, 821.

Louisville Democrat, 366.

Louisville Journal, 366.

Lousada, Francis.

Correspondence, Lord Lyons, 989, 990, 992, 993.

Mentioned, 90, 300, 717, 989-991, 998.

Love, Elias, 1425, 1486.

Love, James M., 1322, 1326, 1329, 1335, 1336.

Lovejoy, Mr., 1347.

Lovell, Mr., 440.

Lovell, Mansfield.

Correspondence, J. Davis, 1421.

Mentioned, 71, 73, 1421, 1498.

Low, A. A.

Correspondence :

Hardy, H. C., 512.

State Department, U. S., 511.

Mentioned, 513-515, 517, 1052.

Low, Andrew, case of, 1031-1040.

Correspondence, J. A. Dix, 1039.

Mentioned, 154, 214, 233, 1031-1040.

Low, Andrew, Mrs., 1032, 1036.

Low, Andrew, & Co., 1037, 1038.

Low, Eliza. See Mrs. John Low.

Low, John, Mrs., case of, 1031-1040.

Mentioned, 214, 237, 1031-1040.

Low, Josiah G., 1034.

Lowber, Captain, 50, 579.

Lowber, Daniel C., case of, 578-596.

Correspondence :

Hamilton, 589.

Lowber, Daniel C.—Continued.

Correspondence:

Lincoln, A., 589.

Weed, T., 584.

Mentioned, 102, 154, 230, 233, 578-596, 1071.

Lowber, Daniel C., Mrs., 586, 587.Lowe, Francis, 179.*Lowe, W. W.

Correspondence, H. W. Halleck, 275.

Lowell, R. R.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 556.

Mentioned, 559.

Lowell Advertiser, 1385.Lower, Mr. 720, 721*Lowrie, Walter H., 507.*Lowther, Camillus, 265*Lowther, Harrison, 265.*Loyall, Benjamin P.

Correspondence:

Lincoln, A., 109.

Navy Department, U. S., 88.

Mentioned, 103, 109, 230, 304.

Lozier, George, 1029.Lozier, Tom, 1029.*Lucchesi, David H., 63, 113, 225, 234.*Lucretia, Schooner, 1307, 1309, 1311, 1354.*Ludlow, William H.

Correspondence:

Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 398.

Hoffman, W., 403, 406, 408, 410, 411.

Ould, R., 415

State Department, U. S., 124, 138, 156, 289, 597, 671, 687, 760.

War Department, U. S., 427.

See also *John A. Dix.*Mentioned, 85, 149, 151, 153, 174, 175, 287, 427, 490, 669, 671, 672, 763, 804, 894, 895, 947, 1360.Lujeane, Romaine.

Correspondence, G. B. McClellan, 47.

Lukins, E. B., 565.Lum, Benjamin F.

Correspondence, J. W. Burson, 375, 376.

Mentioned, 369, 374-377.

Lumpkin, John F.

Correspondence, J. C. Pemberton, 1411.

Lumpkin, Samuel, 1374.Lusby, John B., 267.*Luster, Mr., 1458.*Lydecker, Abraham, 1429.*Lydnor, John S., 1367.*Lyell, Thomas, 195.*Lyles, Joseph, 1447.*Lyman, Charles W., 897.*Lynch, Andrew A., 102, 154, 225, 227, 230, 233.*Lynch, William, 265.*Lyne, James B.

Correspondence, J. C. Frémont, 748.

Lynn, George, 897.Lynn, George, Mrs

Correspondence, Lord Lyons, 904.

Mentioned, 903, 904.

Lynn, Seymour, 1444, 1472, 1473, 1480.Lyon, Nathaniel.

Correspondence, Army Headquarters, 9.

Lyon, Samuel H., 102, 154, 226, 230, 232, 285, 292, 425.Lyons, Lord.

Correspondence:

Archibald, E. M., 546, 985, 1061

Bernal, F., 900.

Craggs, T., 204.

Crawford, J. T., 1125

Foreign Office, British, 633, 990, 993, 1094, 1097,

1100, 1108, 1110, 1111, 1113, 1118, 1121, 1122,

1124, 1133, 1134, 1142, 1144, 1155, 1160, 1161,

1163, 1170, 1172, 1185.

Green, C., 1033.

Hewitt, W., 1160, 1164

Lousada, F., 989, 990, 992, 993.

Lynn, G., Mrs., 904.

Maury, M. F., 1071.

Milne, A., 131.

Monck, C. S., 987, 988.

Reed, W., 973.

Shaver, J. G., 983, 984, 991.

State Department, U. S., 77, 81, 90, 98, 130, 147,

158, 162, 166, 169, 170, 177, 188, 204, 219, 253, 258,

424, 545, 547, 550, 628-630, 634, 713, 716-719, 847,

856, 899, 900-904, 910, 972, 973, 975, 984, 985, 989-

992, 994-996, 999, 1002, 1004, 1007, 1008, 1033,

1037, 1048, 1061, 1063, 1075, 1076, 1125, 1145,

1155, 1164, 1199, 1200.

Mentioned, 147, 158, 171, 180, 188, 198, 214-216, 220,

234, 318, 319, 416-418, 421, 628, 629, 644-646, 650,

651, 655, 656, 662, 665, 700, 716, 717, 719, 855-857,

897, 898, 912, 987-989, 997-999, 1004-1006, 1023,

1047, 1069, 1070, 1073, 1076, 1102, 1103, 1109,

1112, 1115, 1116, 1118, 1121, 1123, 1132, 1134,

1138, 1143, 1157, 1173, 1179, 1180, 1183, 1185,

1196, 1199, 1239, 1241, 1344.

Lyons, James.

Correspondence:

Davis, J., 1510.

Hurlbert, W. H., 1499.

Mines, J. F., 1511, 1512, 1514.

Virginia, Governor of, 1500.

War Dept., C. S., 1374, 1382, 1388, 1497, 1515.

Mentioned, 197, 1383, 1400, 1406, 1490.

Lytle, William H., 931.M., C. See John C. Brune.*M. S. Perry, Steamer. See *Salvor, Steamer.Mabie, E. M., 251, 320, 349.*McAbey, Arthur, 182, 328.*McArthur, Lewis Linn, case of, 1307-1313.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1307.

Mentioned, 237, 238, 245, 262, 561, 1307-1313,
1355.McAuliff, Jeremiah, 313, 314.*McBlair, Charles H., 898.*McBride, Edward, 251.*McCabe, James E., 1425, 1438, 1489.*McCafferty, Patrick, 237, 312.*McCall, A. J.

Correspondence:

Breckinridge, J. C., 1503.

Winder, J. H., 1503.

McCall, George A.

Correspondence:

Bayard, G. D., 1285.

Porter, A., 1285, 1287.

Mentioned, 1283-1289.

McCammon, David C., 541.

McCann, Joseph, 237.

McCarter, Mrs. See Mrs. J. Barton.

McCartney, G. D., 265.

McCarty, A. L., Mrs., 272.

McCausland, John, 1443, 1478.

McCawley, Benjamin F., 63, 85, 225, 299.

McClellan, U. S. Steamer, 960, 961.

McClellan, George B.

Correspondence:

Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 35.

Army Headquarters, 14.

Burson, J. W., 377.

Dix, J. A., 44, 45, 71, 381, 779, 905, 906, 1315.

Franklin, W. B., 90.

Hooker, J., 185, 201.

Jackson, H. R., 31, 32.

Lujeane, R., 47.

Mansfield, J. K. F., 41.

Peirpoint, F. H., 15.

Porter, A., 39, 252, 1286, 1292.

Post-Office Department, U. S., 12.

State Department, U. S., 858.

War Department, U. S., 43, 793.

See also Army Headquarters.

Mentioned, 12, 14, 30, 39, 45, 47, 71, 80, 94, 104, 126, 174, 178, 179, 184, 235, 240, 248, 252, 259, 271, 317, 319, 323, 335, 381, 565, 566, 568, 576, 636, 778, 779, 787, 795, 834, 835, 839, 840, 854, 858, 866, 875, 876, 905, 1027, 1028, 1283, 1286, 1292, 1303, 1304, 1316, 1346, 1348, 1350, 1351, 1354, 1531, 1535, 1536, 1538, 1540, 1543.

Permit to S. A. Pancoast, 1540.

McClelland, Robert.

Correspondence, G. S. Hopkins, 1248, 1257.

Mentioned, 1245-1247, 1254, 1255.

McClenahan, Charles, 545-547.

McClernand, John A.

Correspondence, U. S. Grant, 749.

McClung, Alexander, 1432, 1433.

McClung, George A. U., 267.

McClung, M. A., 1432.

McClure, Major, 1347.

McClure, T. J., 35.

McColister, Moses, 267.

McColister, Peter, 267.

McConkey, Mr., 112.

McConkey & Co., 112.

McConnel, Mrs., 698.

McCoy, Mr., 1480.

McCrea, Robert, 265.

McCubbin, E. H., 228, 230, 240, 262, 342.

McCulley, John, 1425.

McCulloch, Ben, 637, 1402, 1473.

McCulloch, Henry E.

Correspondence, W. C. Adams, 1526.

McCumpsey, Joshua, 1458.

McCune, Albert, 237.

McCurdy, James W., 237, 271.

McCutcheon, Jones, 265.

McDaniel, John, 152, 237, 238, 245, 262, 271, 318, 1398.

McDermott, Sergeant, 237.

MacDonald, A.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 773.

McDonald, A. W., 1418, 1439, 1440, 1446, 1450, 1451.

McDonald, Aaron W., 197.

McDonald, Angus W.

Correspondence, A. Harper, 1540.

Mentioned, 1535, 1536, 1538, 1545.

Permit to S. A. Pancoast, 1541.

McDonald, Anthony, 267.

McDonald, Christopher, 419.

McDonald, J., 1455.

McDonald, J. W., 251.

MacDonald, M.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 773.

McDonough, Thomas, 1461.

McDougall, James A.

Correspondence, C. J. Faulkner, 467.

McDowell, Anderson, case of, 881-897.

Mentioned, 103, 231, 233, 882, 885-889, 893-897.

McDowell, Irvin.

Correspondence:

Heintzelman, S. P., 11.

Johnson, J. M., 11, 12.

Mentioned, 10-12.

McDowell, Maxwell, 251.

McDowell County, Va.

Martial law, note, 1421.

Macedonian, U. S. Steamer, 110.

Macfarland, James E., case of, 1076-1244.

Correspondence, C. Wilkes, 1088, 1091, 1092, 1096.

Mentioned, 154, 234, 1080-1085, 1087-1091, 1095, 1097, 1098, 1100, 1103, 1110, 1144, 1145, 1147, 1155-1157, 1160, 1162, 1164, 1227-1229, 1231, 1233-1235, 1241, 1244.

McFaul, Ambrose, 252, 348, 349.

McFeal, Jos. T., case of, 881-897.

Mentioned, 103, 231, 233, 883, 886, 888, 893-897.

Macgill, Charles, 103, 154, 227, 230, 232, 285.

McGinnis, E. W.

Correspondence, R. H. Smith, 1400.

Mentioned, 1400.

McGlincey, George D., 237, 271.

McGoodwin, Mr., 638.

McGowan, Mr., 660.

McGraw, James E., 237, 272, 274, 277.

Machado, J. H., 326.

McHenry, Fort, Md.

Prisoners, 108, 152, 226.

McHogan, Matthew, 251.

McIlvain, John, 244.

McIntyre, Richard, 265.

"Melvor," 1367.

McKaig, R. S., 898.

McKaig, Thomas J., 227.

McKaig, W. W., 898.

Mackall, Miss, 1347.

Mackall, Mr., 1294.

Mackall, Mrs., 1347.

Mackall, W. W.

Correspondence. See Albert S. Johnston

Mackay, Charles.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1106.

McKay, Donald, case of, 956-982.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 964.

Mentioned, 155, 957, 961, 964, 970, 974, 976, 977, 979, 980.

McKay, James, case of, 956-982.

Correspondence, Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 966, 981.

Mentioned, 956, 957, 959, 960, 964-966, 973, 974, 977-981.

- McKay, James, Mrs., 981.
McKean, William W.
 Correspondence, Navy Department, U. S., 187.
 Mentioned, 966.
McKee, Captain, 119
McKee, M. Francis, 185, 235, 237, 335.
McKee, Robert, 581, 811, 812, 821.
McKeever, Chauncey.
 Correspondence. See John C. Frémont.
McKenny, Mr., 860.
McKenzie, Alexander L., 238, 239, 245, 262, 345.
McKewen, William, 63, 225, 299.
McKewen, William F., 85, 108, 119, 154, 225, 227, 232, 239, 262, 270, 310.
Mackie, Dr., 1297, 1298.
McKim, S. A. H.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 860.
 Mentioned, 870.
McKinney, August, 749
McKinney, William, 1442.
McKinnon, Isaac, 1318
McKnight, Virgil.
 Correspondence. G. D. Prentice, 818.
McKnight, W. H., 272, 277, 281.
McLand, Hugh, 1367.
McLane, Daniel, 156.
McLane, Robert, 1490, 1492, 1493.
McLaren & Co., 588.
McLaughlin, Duncan, 1443, 1447, 1448, 1468.
McLean, James, 648
McLean, Samuel, 648.
McLean, William, 372.
McLenan, John, 962, 974.
McMaster, Gertrude G.
 Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 803.
McMaster, James A., case of, 802-804.
 Mentioned, 102, 156, 229, 802-804.
McMillan, William, 144, 145.
McMullen, Richard, 237.
McMurdy, Edward, 314, 315.
McNabb, George, case of, 956-982.
 Correspondence:
 McNabb, J., 962.
 State Department, U. S., 963.
 Mentioned, 155, 957, 961, 963, 971, 972.
McNabb, James.
 Correspondence, G. McNabb, 962.
McNamar, John, 265.
McNamee, John, 1530.
McNeill, John.
 Correspondence:
 Corwine, R. M., 122
 Sherman, W. T., 122.
 State Department, U. S., 117.
 Yolan, M., 122.
McPhail, J. L.
 Correspondence:
 Dix, J. A., 192.
 Porter, A., 201.
 Mentioned, 192, 325, 329, 906-908, 1315, 1316, 1318,
 1360.
McPherson, James, 35, 142, 1052.
McQuillen, Thomas, 417, 418.
McRae, Donald G.
 Correspondence, J. Davis, 1397.
 Mentioned, 432, 436.
McRae, J. & D., & Co., 432, 436.
McRedman, Michael, 35.
McVeigh, Townsend J., 272, 273, 279.
McVicker, Steenrod, 265.
Macy, Charles A., jr.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 752.
Macy, Charles A., sr.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 752.
Macy, Seth W.
 Correspondence:
 Bates, W., 441.
 Navy Department, U. S., 435.
 State Department, U. S., 435, 437, 447, 448.
 Mentioned, 432, 433, 437, 438, 450, 451, 454.
Maddox, James, 230.
Maddox, Joseph H., case of, 904.
 Mentioned, 234, 904.
Maddox, Martin, 1532.
Maddox, Robert, 316.
Maddox, Thomas H., case of, 904.
 Correspondence:
 Haig, J. M., 842.
 State Department, U. S., 843.
 Mentioned, 102, 229, 843, 904.
Madison, James, 1116, 1153.
Magaha, Armstead, 1409, 1468, 1472, 1480.
Magee, James, 1544.
Maginnis, John.
 Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 829.
Magnolia (Iowa) Republican, 1323.
Magoffin, Beriah H., 366, 711, 925, 1520.
Magrath, A. G., 1494.
Magraw, Henry S., 38, 60, 463, 470-472, 476, 477, 1428, 1516, 1521, 1523, 1524.
Magraw, Samuel M.
 Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 65.
Magruder, Fielding, 1445, 1446.
Magruder, John B.
 Correspondence:
 Adj't. and Insp. Gen.'s Office, C. S. A., 1378.
 Crump, C. A., 1390.
 War Department, C. S., 1390.
 Mentioned, 1006, 1374, 1390, 1429.
Magruder, Thomas J., 238, 272.
Mahé, George J., 229, 325.
Maies, William H.
 Correspondence, W. A. Parker, 160.
 Mentioned, 159.
Mains, L. C., 1426.
Malcolm, F. M., 265.
Malcomb, J. M., 265.
Mallory, Ben, 1477.
Mallory, Robert.
 Correspondence:
 Barr, M. W., 826, 827.
 State Department, U. S., 826, 828.
Mallory, S. R.
 Correspondence. " See Navy Department, C. S.
 Mentioned, 166, 968.
Manderstrom, Count, 1122.
Mango, B., 251.
Mangold, George W., 1455, 1456.
Mangold, Henry, 1455.
Manhattan, Mr., 498.
Manie, A. J., 265.
Mank, Leander, 1428.

Mann, A. Dudley.

Correspondence:

Foreign Office, British, 1231, 1236.

State Department, C. S., 1233, 1236.

Mentioned, 3, 1040, 1236, 1238.

Manning, W. M., 602.

"Manse."

Correspondence, Mrs. Morris, 173.

Manser, Augustus, 1466.Mansfield, Joseph K. F.

Correspondence:

Donn, T. C., 356.

McClellan, G. B., 41.

Starr, S. H., 416.

State Department, U. S., 420, 464.

Mentioned, 236, 292, 354-356, 372, 464, 860, 1303, 1305.

Marbury, W. H., 272, 277.March, Clement, 1246.*Marchand, John B., 1079, 1112.*Marcy, Randolph B.Correspondence. See George B. McClellan.

Mentioned, 858, 864, 877, 905, 906, 908, 1027, 1031, 1303.

Marcy, William L., 1205.Margaret, Schooner, 291, 386.*Marion, Joseph B., 155.*Markey, Peter, 251.*Markham, Bart, 267.*Markham, Steven, 267.*Mark R. Cheek, Ferry-boat, 1552, 1553.*Marks, John, 267.*Marriott, Mr., 298, 377.*Marriott, Bushrod W., 237, 301.*Marriott, C. H., 239, 240, 262.*Marsh, George P.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1173.

Marsh, William, 1424.Marshall, Mr., 1452, 1453.*Marshall, C. H.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 694.

Mentioned, 697.

Marshall, Humphrey.

Correspondence:

Adj't. and Insp. Gen.'s Office, C.S.A., 1404, 1410.

Johnston, A. S., 1410.

Marshall, John A., 238, 271, 278.Marshall, M. P.

Correspondence:

State Department, U. S., 919.

War Department, U. S., 920.

Marshall, W. L.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 101.

Marshals, Judicial Districts.Connecticut. See David H. Carr.District of Columbia. See Ward H. Lamon.Florida. See E. E. Blackburn (C.) and James C. Clapp (U.).Illinois, S. D. See David L. Phillips.Indiana. See David G. Rose.Iowa. See Herbert M. Hoxie.Kentucky. See Alexander H. Sneed.Maine. See Charles Olarke.Maryland. See Washington Bonifant.Massachusetts. See John S. Keyes.Michigan. See Charles Dickey.New Jersey. See Benajah Deacon.Marshals, Judicial Districts—Continued.New York, N. D. See Edward J. Chase.New York, S. D. See Robert Murray.Ohio, N. D. See Earl Bill.Ohio, S. D. See Alexander C. Sands.Pennsylvania, E. D. See William Millward.Rhode Island. See Albert Sanford.

Subsistence of prisoners, 37.

Virginia, W. D. See Edward M. Norton.Martial Law.

East Tennessee, note, 1421.

Louisiana, 1421.

Memphis, Tenn., note, 1421.

Virginia, 1420, note, 1421.

Martin, Mr. (Ky.), 927.Martin, Mr. (Va.), 1453.*Martin, David, 265.*Martin, H. T., 265.*Martin, Henry, 34.*Martin, Henry L.

Correspondence, J. Davis, 1363.

Mentioned, 1387, 1389.

Martin, James, 152, 165, 227, 229.Martin, Jasper, 34.*Martin, John, 34.*Martin, Luther, 868.*Martin, N., 262.*Martin, Thomas J., 1458.*Martin, W. M.

Correspondence, S. J. Anderson, 612.

Martin, William, 1424.Marvin, William, 959, 965, 967, 968, 970, 974.*Mary, Schooner, 533.*Mary, Ship, 1139.*Mary, 395.*Maryland, Governor of.

Correspondence:

Dix, J. A., 213.

May, H., 795.

State Department, U. S., 99.

Maryland Troops.Infantry—Regiments:

1st, P. H. B., 148.

Mary Pierce, Schooner, 388.Mary Washington, Str., 183, 380, 388, 401, 402, 404.*Mask, Isaac G., 105, 154, 177, 227, 231, 233, 310.*Mason, Mrs., 1347, 1348.*Mason, Augusta Heath. See Augusta Morris.*Mason, Buck, 1438.*Mason, James M., case of, 1076-1244.

Appointed Commissioner to England, 1207.

Correspondence:

Mason, J. M., Mrs., 1227.

Slidell, J., 1243.

Somerset, Duke of, 1244.

State Department, C. S., 1207, 1222-1226 1240, 1241, 1243.

Wilkes, C., 1088, 1091, 1092, 1096.

Mentioned, 143, 154, 165, 233, 234, 463, 464, 499, 566,

1076-1080, 1082-1095, 1097, 1098, 1100, 1102-

1110, 1112-1114, 1116-1122, 1124-1127, 1130-

1135, 1137-1140, 1142, 1144, 1145, 1147, 1155-

1157, 1160-1166, 1174-1177, 1182, 1187, 1192,

1195, 1198, 1207, 1228-1231, 1233-1240, 1275.

Mason, James M., Mrs.

Correspondence, J. M. Mason, 1227.

Mentioned, 1225, 1240.

- Mason, John, jr., 1125.
Mason, John Francis.
 Correspondence, A. Morris, 1348.
 Mentioned, 1346, 1347, 1351.
Mason, John R., 1553, 1556.
Mason, John Thompson.
 Correspondence, R. H. Alvey, 349.
 Mentioned, 350.
Mason, John Thompson, Mrs., 350.
Mason, John Y., 1130.
Mason, Murray, 1447.
Mason, Richard C., 1452-1454.
Massachusetts, Governor of.
 Correspondence:
 Morey, G., 165.
 Post-Office Department, U. S., 164.
 State Department, U. S., 81.
Massachusetts Troops.
 Infantry—Regiments:
 17th, 158.
Massey, J., 1440.
Matagorda, Steamer, 67.
Mathews, Thomas, 239, 240, 262, 343.
Matthew, Mr., 1297.
Matthews, D., 581.
Matthews, John, 96.
Matthews, Joseph, 34.
Matthews, R. A., 1355.
Matthews, William, & Co., 122.
Matthews, William J., 34.
Matthews County, Va.
 Martial law, note, 1421.
Matthews & McFee, 1309.
Maupin, Catherine M., 1636.
Maury, Bark, 1058.
Maury, James, 1043, 1047, 1056, 1065.
Maury, James, & Co., 1051-1053.
Maury, Matthew.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1047,
 1057, 1063, 1064, 1068.
 Mentioned, 1067, 1068.
Maury, Matthew F., case of, 1041-1076.
 Correspondence, Lord Lyons, 1071.
 Mentioned, 140, 153, 154, 231, 233, 717, 1041-1076.
Maury, Matthew F. (U. S. N.), 787, 1044, 1045, 1309.
Maury, Rutson, jr., case of, 1041-1076.
 Correspondence:
 Mure, W., 1047.
 State Department, U. S., 1059, 1069, 1070, 1074.
 Mentioned, 140, 152, 153, 155, 237, 239, 240, 262,
 1041-1076, 1309.
Maury, Rutson, sr., 1063.
Maury, Sarah Nyttton, 1048, 1060, 1069.
Maury, Walker.
 Correspondence:
 Bill, E., 1074.
 State Department, U. S., 1069.
 Mentioned, 1048, 1056, 1058.
Maury, William, 1056.
Maury, William A., 1309.
Maury Bros., 141, 322, 1044, 1045, 1051-1054, 1056-
 1058, 1060, 1063, 1064, 1066-1068, 1075.
Maury & Hogg, 1056.
Maury & Wilder, 1047, 1049, 1051-1053, 1056, 1057,
 1059.
Maxwell, James W., 102, 154, 227, 230, 233.
- Maxy, Charles. See Parker H. French.
May, 400.
May, Mr., 1457.
May, Scout, 1443.
May, H. De C.
 Correspondence, R. Johnson, 801.
May, Henry, case of, 790-801.
 Correspondence:
 Bingham, J. A., 791.
 Kane, G. P., 796.
 Lee, J. F., 797.
 Maryland, Governor of, 795.
 Poe, J. P., 797.
 Warfield, H. M., 796.
 Mentioned, 65, 102, 225, 227, 229, 790-801, 1350.
May, John Frederick.
 Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 799.
 Mentioned, 799.
May, William, 801.
Mayer, Maurice, 229, 320.
Mayer, Rachel, 328.
Mayner, Creed, 1476.
Mayner, James, 1476, 1479.
Mayo, John D., 266.
Mayo, Joseph, 399.
Maysville (Ky.) Eagle, 926.
May Wood, Schooner, 551.
Meade, Mr., 689.
Meade, E. R.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1302.
Meade, Richard K., 43, 70.
Meade, William, 217.
Means, Noble B., 272, 278.
Means, Samuel C., 1479.
Mears, T. S.
 Correspondence, J. R. Flanders, 938, 947.
 Mentioned, 938.
Meeks, F. A., 265.
Meeks, Thomas, 1426.
Meeks, William, 265.
Meigs, Charles A.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 752.
Meigs, Montgomery C.
 Correspondence. See Quartermaster-General's
 Office, U. S. A.
 Mentioned, 210, 264.
Melot, Rezin, 267.
Melum, Jasper, 1476.
Memminger, Charles G., 1303.
Memminger, R. W.
 Correspondence. See John C. Pemberton.
Memphis, Tenn.
 Martial law, note, 1421.
Mendelsohn, Jacob, 317, 318.
Mendenhall, Nathan R.
 Correspondence, E. B. Wilder, 693.
 Mentioned, 695, 697.
Menendez, Francisco, case of, 956-982.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 974.
 Mentioned, 155, 958, 961, 974-976.
Menzies, John W., 327, 332.
Mercer, Rev. Mr., 71.
Mercer & Antels, 534.
Merchant, Charles S.
 Correspondence, H. B. Judd, 1012.
 Mentioned, 1012.

Mercier, Henri.

Correspondence:

Bebian, L. de, 444.

Foreign Office, French, 1116, 1182.

State Dept., U. S., 446, 448, 449, 453, 1143, 1197.

Mentioned, 434, 441, 442, 444, 446, 451, 456, 1120-1122, 1134, 1143, 1144, 1171, 1196, 1493.

Meredith, Charles, 34.Meredith, John A., 1494, 1495, 1499.*Meredith, Spencer & Co.

Correspondence:

Hopkins, Hull & Atkinson, 1341.

Hunter, S., 1341.

Mentioned, 1340.

Meriwether, G. W.

Correspondence, A. L. Shotwell, 818.

Merkle, James, 144, 145.Merrick, Mrs., 1347.*Merrick, James L.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1022.

Merrick, William M., case of, 1021-1023.Merrill, John, 332.*Merrimac, C. S. Steamer, 1320.*Merritt, Charles M., 340.*Merryman, John, 226.*Mersey, Steamer, 38.*Mertens, W. W.

Correspondence, J. B. Phelps, 593.

Mentioned, 578.

Mervine, William, 968, 970, 971, 977.Meyers, Edward, 156.*Michael, Mr., 1464.*Michael, Mr., 1465.*Michael, A. J., 237, 271, 279.*Michael, Albert, 1425.*Michael, John E., 287.*Michael, Jonathan, 267.*Michigan Troops.Infantry—Regiments:

10th, 1260.

Middleton, Mr., 658.Middleton, Mr., 862.*Middleton, Henry, Schooner, 86, 87, 544-555.*Miles, George, case of, 531-544.

Correspondence:

Burke, M., 531.

State Department, U. S., 534, 537, 541, 543.

War Department, U. S., 533, 534.

Mentioned, 229, 511, 516, 520, 521, 523, 531-544, 756.

Miles, John K., 251.Military Authorities.

Extraordinary arrests, 223.

Military Operations.

Publication of, by newspapers, 246.

Millar, Shanley S., 712.Miller, Mr., 15.*Miller, Mr., 1450.*Miller, A. B., 119.*Miller, Fleming B.

Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1385.

Mentioned, 1384, 1385.

Miller, G. W., 1425.Miller, H. H., 265.*Miller, Isaac, 91.*Miller, John C.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 52, 73, 83, 86, 131, 133, 712-714.

Mentioned, 135, 985, 1354.

Miller, John V., 1367.Miller, Peter, 1440.*Miller, Robert, 1438.*Miller, Thomas.

Correspondence, A. Harris, 59.

Mentioned, 59.

Miller, Thomas W., 265.Miller, W. R., 102, 154, 230, 233.*Milliken, Benjamin F., 913.*Milliken, George.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 448.

Millner, John K., case of, 749-766.

Correspondence:

Lincoln, A., 763.

O'Connor, C., 752.

State Department, U. S., 753, 758, 760, 762-764.

War Department, U. S., 765.

Wood, C. O., 175.

Mentioned, 102, 149, 154, 174, 175, 230, 232, 285, 290, 427, 509, 531, 749-766, 769.

Mills, Bernard, 102, 154, 230, 232.Mills, Clarence, 237, 238, 245, 262, 333.*Mills, John M., 788.*Mills, John M., Mrs., 789.*Mills, M., 1251.*Mills, Samuel S., case of, 787-790.*Mills, Samuel S., Mrs., 789.*Millward, William.

Correspondence:

Burke, M., 745.

State Department, U. S., 725, 831, 842, 843.

War Department, U. S., 505, 725.

Mentioned, 7, 132, 133, 292-294, 317, 725, 734, 735, 738, 739, 744, 745, 833-835, 838-840, 847, 849-851, 854.

Milne, Alexander.

Correspondence, Lord Lyons, 131.

Mentioned, 130, 1103, 1111, 1112, 1241, 1244.

Milroy, Robert H., 286, 714.Milstead, Mr., 1454.*Milstead, Matthew, 1444.*Mines, John F., case of, 1508-1515.

Correspondence:

Lyons, J., 1511, 1512, 1514.

War Department, C. S., 1509.

Mentioned, 1497, 1508-1515.

Ministers, United States.Austria. See J. Lothrop Motley.Belgium. See Henry S. Sanford.England. See Charles Francis Adams.France. See William L. Dayton.Italy. See George P. Marsh.Netherlands. See James S. Pike.Prussia. See N. B. Judé.Russia. See Cassius M. Clay.Spain (chargé d'affaires). See Horatio J. Perry.Sweden and Norway. See J. S. Haldeman.Ministers Resident.Belgian. See R. Schleiden.British. See Lord Lyons.French. See Henri Mercier.Italian. See J. Bertinatti.Prussian. See Baron von Gerolt.Russian. See Edward de Stoeckl.Minnes, Mr., 907.*Minnesota, U. S. Frigate, 66, 721.

- Minnie, 576.
- Minor, George, 237.
- Minor, Julius C., 251.
- Minturn, R., jr.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 71.
- Mississippi, U. S. Frigate, 327.
- Mister, David R., 305.
- Mitchel, Ormsby M., 315, 316, 916, 918.
- Mitchell, Mr., 946.
- Mitchell, Messrs., 862.
- Mitchell, D. J.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 558.
- Mitchell, J. P., 1424.
- Mobile (Ala.) Register, 1483.
- Moir, James, 1089, 1090, 1156, 1157.
- Moise, E. W.
Correspondence, J. Davis, 1421.
- Mollohan, C., 1395.
- Molyneux, Mr., 1034.
- Monaghan, Hugh, 293.
- Monagrow, Hugh. See Hugh Monaghan.
- Monck, Charles Stanley.
Correspondence, Lord Lyons, 987, 988.
Mentioned, 987, 998, 999.
- Monell, J. J., 580, 581.
- Monroe, Mr., 1374, 1375.
- Monroe, Alexander.
Mentioned, 1535, 1536, 1538.
Permit to S. A. Pancoast, 1541.
- Monroe, Fort, Va.
Flags of truce, 93, 94.
Prisoners, 225.
- Monroe, James, 685, 1116, 1153.
- Monroe, James T., 237.
- Monroe, John, 1425.
- Monroe, John, & Co.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 148.
Mentioned, 141, 146, 1279, 1280.
- Monroe, John A., 817.
- Monroe, Sylvester, 265.
- Monsarrat, George H., 1412.
- Monson, Edmund.
Correspondence, P. M. Quillen, 416.
Mentioned, 417.
- Montgomery, John B.
Correspondence, E. V. Sumner, 1010.
- Montgomery, James, 9.
- Montgomery, William R.
Correspondence:
Heintzelman, S. P., 206.
State Department, U. S., 212.
Mentioned, 207, 217, 218, 333, 334, 348.
- Montholon, C. C. F. de.
Correspondence, L. de Bebian, 438.
Mentioned, 433, 434, 439-442.
- Moody, J. C., 251.
- Mooney, Lawrence, 251.
- Moor, J. F., 1525.
- Moore, Mr., 418.
- Moore, Mrs.
Correspondence, R. O'N. Greenhow, 575.
- Moore, Andrew J., 1380.
- Moore, George, 16, 17, 418, 419.
- Moore, James H. See N. O. Convention.
- Moore, Jeremiah.
Correspondence, H. W. Thomas, 1398.
Mentioned, 237, 238, 245, 262, 329, 1475.
- Moore, Nancy, 1002.
- Moore, Thomas O.
Correspondence. See Louisiana, Governor of.
Mentioned, 1278, 1422.
- Moore, William F., 152, 237, 271, 278.
- Moory, T., 138, 1435.
- Moran, Mr., 131.
- Moran, Benjamin, 652, 655, 1105.
- Moran, Richard F., 36, 226.
- Mordecai & Co., 970.
- Morehead, Charles S., case of, 805-829.
Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 829.
Mentioned, 102, 154, 230, 233, 776, 805-829, 893, 923, 930.
- Morehead, John, 815.
- Morey, George.
Correspondence, Massachusetts, Gov. of, 165.
Mentioned, 164.
- Morgan, Steamer, 360, 361.
- Morgan, Charles, 67.
- Morgan, Edwin D.
Correspondence. See New York, Governor of.
Mentioned, 97, 758.
- Morgan, George W., 217.
- Morgan, James D., 34, 35.
- Morgan, James M., 34.
- Morgan, Reuben, 34.
- Moriarty, John, 238.
- Morley, Brazilian, 313.
- Morrall, L. D.
Correspondence, J. Brannon, 1507.
Mentioned, 1507.
- Morrill, John, 251.
- Morris, Mrs.
Correspondence, "Manse," 173.
- Morris, Augusta, case of, 1346-1351.
Correspondence:
Johnson, B. T., 1350.
Jordan, T., 1349.
Mason, J. F., 1348.
Mentioned, 238, 272, 279, 561, 565, 577, 1320, 1321, 1346-1351, 1355.
- Morris, E. Joy, 203.
- Morris, George W., 1347.
- Morris, Jacob.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 128.
Mentioned, 129.
- Morris, James, 377.
- Morris, James R.
Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 406.
- Morris, Robert H.
Correspondence, A. Pinkerton, 1031.
- Morris, S., 1426.
- Morris, Thomas A., 14, 246.
- Morris, W. B., 265.
- Morris, William W.
Correspondence:
Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 35, 382, 399.
Dix, J. A., 383, 387, 395, 783, 788, 789, 1215.
Political Prisoners' Commission, 789, 1321.
Lists of prisoners, 36, 226.
Mentioned, 113, 381, 383, 385, 387, 395, 409, 411, 783, 789, 1316.
- Morrison, John, 480.
- Morrow, John, 251.
- Morrow, Thomas, 265.

- Morse, Freeman H., 33.
 Morse, Isaac E.
 Correspondence, G. W. Jones, 1297.
 Mentioned, 1297, 1299.
 Morsley, Barriller, 229.
 Mortimer, Frederick, 66.
 Mortimer, Thomas, 152, 165, 227, 229, 317.
 Morton, Abraham, 251.
 Morton, David K., 303, 304.
 Morton, E. W., 299.
 Morton, Jackson.
 Correspondence:
 Petigru, J. L., 1491.
 War Department, C. S., 1407.
 Morton, Joseph F.
 Correspondence:
 Sumner, C., 850, 851.
 Wyatt, F., 850.
 Morton, Oliver P.
 Correspondence. See Indiana, Governor of.
 Mentioned, 134, 304, 806, 816.
 Morton, S. W.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 187,
 213, 217, 236.
 Mentioned, 212, 348.
 Moses, Isaac.
 Correspondence. See Samuel P. Heintzelman
 Mosher, Orson.
 Correspondence, J. Davis, 1505.
 Moss, Dr., 1469.
 Moss, Edward, 35.
 Moss, G. W., 265.
 Moss, James A., 265.
 Motes, Isaac, 1442.
 Motes, Isaac, Jr., 1442.
 Motherhead, John, 251.
 Motherhead, Willis, 251.
 Motley, J. Lothrop.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1167,
 1182, 1198, 1204.
 Mott, Mr., 657.
 Motz & Beam, 534.
 Moulding, Thompson, 1458.
 Mount, Mark, 71.
 Mount Vernon (Ill.) Star, 243.
 Mudd, James A., 868.
 Muir, C. B.
 Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 811.
 Mulford, John E., 399.
 Munford, George W.
 Correspondence, R. Ould, 414.
 Munger, Auguste, 251.
 Munroe, Mr., 733.
 Munroe, John, & Co., 1051.
 Munsel, Addison T., 464.
 Munson, Mr. See Lafayette C. Baker.
 Munson, Merritt, 133.
 Mure, John, 123, 1006.
 Mure, Robert, case of, 643-665.
 Correspondence:
 ———, 658.
 Archibald, E. M., 69.
 Bunch, R., 646.
 Foster & Thomson, 659.
 Mentioned, 69, 102, 229, 492, 643-665.
 Mure, Robert, Mrs., 659.
 Mure, Robert, jr., 658.
 Mure, William.
 Correspondence, R. Maury, jr., 1047.
 Mentioned, 123, 591, 645, 1041, 1048, 1049, 1051, 1056,
 1060, 1076.
 Murphy, J., 1424.
 Murphy, James E., 102, 154, 226, 230, 272, 278, 292.
 Murphy, John, 92, 94, 96, 307.
 Murphy, Patrick.
 Correspondence, A. F. Wulff, 1530.
 Mentioned, 1526, 1528-1530.
 Murphy, Riley W., 34.
 Murphy, Thomas (England), 155.
 Murphy, Thomas (Ky.), 332.
 Murray, Alexander, 1548.
 Murray, Carlisle. See Parker H. French.
 Murray, Robert.
 Correspondence:
 Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 254, 256.
 Burke, M., 181, 274, 282, 289, 1353.
 Navy Department, U. S., 289, 1092.
 Political Prisoners' Commission, 554, 1339, 1356.
 Semple, H., 976.
 Smith, E. D., 7.
 Stanton, R. H., 924.
 State Department, U. S., 37, 66, 68, 85, 86, 88, 89,
 93, 96, 104, 107, 118, 121, 127, 174, 180, 182, 184,
 200, 420, 422, 425, 440, 446, 482, 494, 517, 524, 549,
 553, 628, 637, 643, 666, 702, 751, 752, 761, 767-769,
 802, 803, 845, 913, 924, 933, 971, 973, 974, 976, 982,
 983, 1014, 1049, 1054, 1092, 1100, 1268.
 War Department, U. S., 287.
 Wood, C. O., 175.
 Mentioned, 7, 37, 38, 48, 83, 94, 113, 116, 123, 126, 127,
 186, 205, 210, 256, 274, 307, 313, 317-320, 326-330,
 420-422, 425, 426, 437, 495, 496, 509, 511, 526, 531,
 532, 539, 545, 552, 553, 579, 582, 583, 635, 637, 643,
 660, 669, 672, 688, 703, 749, 750, 754-757, 759, 763-
 765, 830, 911, 912, 921, 929, 931, 957, 958, 972, 973,
 975, 983, 1008, 1014, 1018, 1054, 1095, 1338.
 Musgrave, Moses, 267.
 Myatt, E. C., 66, 102, 154, 232, 239, 262, 270, 551.
 Myers, Abraham C.
 Correspondence. See Quartermaster-General's Office, C. S. A.
 Myers, D. H., 1425.
 Myers, Daniel M., 267.
 Myers, J., 265.
 Myers, Julian, 326.
 Myers, Mahlon, 63, 227.
 Myers, Rachael E., 125.
 Nabb, W. G., 272.
 Naive, George W., 35.
 Naive, J. H., 35.
 Napier, Lord.
 Correspondence, Foreign Office, British, 1171.
 Napoleon III, 442, 444, 456, 588, 1116, 1129, 1133, 1141, 1147, 1171, 1181, 1194, 1198, 1216, 1222, 1235, 1237.
 Nash, Riley, 152, 237.
 Nashville, C. S. Steamer, 1078, 1079, 1094, 1105, 1112, 1162, 1172, 1222, 1224, 1225, 1227, 1235, 1240.
 Nassauer, Lewis, 267.
 National Intelligencer, 467, 470, 471.
 National Zeitung, case of, 493-505.
 Navy Department, C. S.
 Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1417.

Navy Department, U. S.

Correspondence:

- Berrian, H., 286.
 Burke, M., 45, 193, 961.
 Du Pont, S. F., 220.
 Fulton, C. C., 1094.
 Glynn, J., 8.
 Goldsborough, L. M., 94, 159, 1091.
 Hudson, W. L., 47, 1096, 1100, 1101.
 Lincoln, A., 1113.
 Loyall, B. P., 88.
 McKean, W. W., 187.
 Macy, S. W., 435.
 Murray, R., 1092.
 Paulding, H., 1092.
 Smith, W. P., 1093.
 Spofford, Tileston & Co., 1077.
 State Department, U. S., 17, 86, 87, 95, 106, 109,
 153, 169, 186, 187, 220, 548, 599, 600, 651, 961,
 1077, 1097, 1102.
 Tansill, R., 47, 70.
 Waddell, J. J., 205.
 Ward, W. H., 8, 31.
 War Department, U. S., 93.
 Wilkes, C., 1080, 1091, 1095-1098, 1109.

Nay, James H., 260, 266.

Neal, Anderson, 265.

Neal, Jonathan, 265.

Neal, Minor, 251.

Neale, Francis C., 238.

Neale, John T., 602.

Neet, C. M., 251.

Neff, Addison, 1438.

Neff, Theodore, 1029.

Neidner, Moritz, 251.

Neill, H. M., 586, 587.

Neill, Henry. See Daniel C. Lowber.

Neill, William M.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 587.

Mentioned, 588, 589.

Neisman, Julius, 251.

Nelker, Simeon, 1463.

Nelson, Andrew, 345.

Nelson, Chancellor A., 1444.

Nelson, Isaac, case of, 913-933.

Correspondence:

Hood, F. T., 917.

Taylor, H., 917.

Mentioned, 155, 229, 913, 914, 918-923.

Nelson, J. W., 267.

Nelson, James A., 237.

Nelson, Samuel, 797.

Nelson, Thomas A. B., 1361, 1516.

Nelson, W. H., 265.

Nelson, William.

Correspondence:

State Department, U. S., 914, 917, 921.

Treasury Department, U. S., 915.

War Department, U. S., 916.

Mentioned, 913-918, 920, 922-926, 928-931, 1523.

Proclamations, 106, 129.

Nelson, William H., 251.

Nesbit, H. A., 1006.

Nesmith, James W., 1015, 1347.

Nettleton, Alfred, case of, 368-379.

Correspondence, J. W. Burson, 376, 377.

Mentioned, 152, 237, 271, 278, 368-379.

Neuwander, Jacob, 1425.

Nevitt, Mr., 90.

Nevitt, Richard, 237.

Newcomb, John, 266.

Newcomb, R. H.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 891.

Newell, James M., 35.

Newell, William Nelson.

Correspondence, W. T. Sherman, 920.

Mentioned, 920.

New Hall, Edgware Road, England.

Resolutions of workmen, 1195.

New Jersey, Governor of.

Correspondence:

State Department, U. S., 775.

Wall, J. W., 775.

New Jersey Troops.

Infantry—Regiments:

1st, 2d, 1475.

Newland, John.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 132.

New London, U. S. Gun-boat, 328.

Newman, A. B., 35.

Newman, Thomas, 229, 325.

Newman, William S. H., 458.

Newspapers.

Political prisoners, 179.

Publication of military operations, 246.

See also respective newspapers.

Newton, Mr., 1543.

Newton, Isaac, 431.

Newton, John F., 66, 102, 154, 232, 239, 270, 285, 551.

Newton, Sterling F., 92, 103, 154, 232, 239, 262, 270, 285, 551.

Newton & Hall, 1309.

New York, Governor of.

Correspondence:

Dunn, H., 123.

Flanders, F. D., Mrs., 955.

Lincoln, A., 955.

Loomis, G., 97.

State Department, U. S., 123, 955.

New York Abendzeitung, 495.

New York Daily News, 54, 60, 73, 302, 496, 666, 772, 774, 776, 778, 1268, 1324, 1466.

New York Day Book, 76, 666.

New York Democrat, 495.

New Yorker Journal, 501-504.

New York Evening Post, 505, 588, 1272.

New York Freeman's Appeal, 802, 803.

New York Herald, 395, 418, 451, 498, 577, 594, 695, 838,
839, 1268, 1349.

New York Journal of Commerce, 496, 505, 666, 723.

New York Journal of Commerce, Editor.

Correspondence, W. H. Winder, 723.

New York Times, 505, 577, 588, 695, 732, 1490-1492, 1496-1498.

New York Times, Editor.

Correspondence:

Butler, I., 1261.

Wattles, D. C., 1261.

New York Tribune, 495, 505, 588, 589, 1268, 1386, 1535, 1536.

New York Troops.

Engineer—Regiments:

15th (Murphy), 768.

New York Troops—Continued.Infantry—Regiments:

- 8th, 636.
- 11th (Fire Zouaves), 636.
- 14th (Militia), 636.
- 20th, 62.
- 32d (Empire City), 766-768.
- 34th, 172, 308.

New York World, 1022.

Niagara, Steamer, 1141, 1142.

Nichol, Aylett, 1471.

Nicholas, S. S., 816.

Nichols, E. B., 125.

Nichols, G. W., 265.

Nicholson, Robert, 130, 158, 219-221.

Nickles, Peter, 1391, 1392.

Nicolay, Jo in G., 834, 835, 839, 840, 849, 854.

Nile, H. B. M. S., 1242.

Nisbet, A. K., 251.

Noble, Henry B., 254.

Nolan, James M. P., 171, 176, 251, 311.

Nolan, Joseph M. P., 171, 176, 251, 311.

Nolan, Michael, 251.

Nolan, P. E., 267.

Nonpareil, Steamer, 1077.

Noonan, Michael, 418.

Norfolk, Va.

Flags of truce, 93, 94.

Martial law, 1420.

Norfolk (Va.) Argus, 1385.

Norris, Mr., 376.

Norris, John Charles, 227.

Norris, Mary. See Mrs. William H. Norris.

Norris, William H., Mrs., 272, 277, 394.

Norristown (Pa.) Register, 55.

North, N. G., 154, 310.

North American and Ledger, 87.

Northampton County, Va.

Dix's proclamation, 139.

North Carolina.

Volunteers from, for U. S. service, 70.

North Carolina, Governor of.

Correspondence, War Dept., C. S., 1363, 1367, 1371.

North Carolina Convention.

Resolutions, 1403.

Northeastern Virginia, Department of (U.).

Orders, general, series 1861, No. 5, 10.

Norton, A., 1424.

Norton, Edward M., 247, 266, 313.

Norton, Jesse S., 15.

Norton, Moses, 267.

Norton, Timothy, 265.

Norwegian, Steamer, 1006.

Nott, Charles C.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 651.

Nottoway, Mr., 440.

Noyes, J. H., 1005, 1007.

Noyes, Leonard, 1463.

Nutter, Thomas, 265.

Oaksmith, Appleton, 155, 231, 234.

O'Bannon, J. B., 887.

O'Brien, John, 1447, 1448.

O'Brien, Michael, 182, 330.

O'Brien, Miles, 1448.

O'Brien, Patrick, 228, 239, 240, 262, 342.

Ocampo, Francisco, 164.

O'Connor, Charles.

Correspondence, J. K. Millner, 752.

Mentioned, 626, 797.

Odell, Felix S., 1391, 1433.

O'Dell, John W., 1432, 1433.

Odell, Moses F.

Correspondence, W. H. Suydam, 383.

Odell, William H., 267.

O'Donnell, Hugh, 34.

O'Donoghue, Joseph, 386, 388.

Offutt, James W., 152, 237, 309, 310.

Offutt, John F. C., 238, 259, 260, 271, 278, 340.

Ogden, Charles.

Correspondence, Adj't. Gen's. Office, U. S. A., 254.

Ogden, Eliza E.

Correspondence, J. Davis, 1502.

Ogden, J. M., case of, 1357-1360.

Mentioned, 239, 240, 262, 1357-1359.

Ogden, William, 238, 272.

Ohio, Citizens of.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 128.

Ohio, Department of the.

Orders, circulars, series 1861, Aug. 17, 44.

Orders, general, series 1862, No. 13a, 248.

Ohio, Governor of.

Correspondence:

Hoffman, W., 211.

State Department, U. S., 129, 134, 217.

War Department, U. S., 39, 42.

O'Keefe, William, 227.

Okeleski, Ferdinand Alfons, 290.

Old Capitol Prison.

Prisoners, 237, 271, 277-279.

Olden, Charles S.

Correspondence. See New Jersey, Governor of.

Mentioned, 775.

Olden, Forrest, 238, 245, 262, 339, 1398, 1452.

O'Leary, Thomas, 239, 240, 262, 343, 344.

Olmsted, Fred. L., 588.

Onderdonk, Medora A., or Mary E., 135, 237, 309.

O'Neal, Edward A., 1471.

O'Neil, Edward, 92, 103, 154, 232, 239, 262, 270, 285, 551.

O'Neill, J. L., 303.

Opinion Nationale, 1175.

Orizaba, Steamer, 67, 1009, 1011, 1012, 1015, 1020.

Orleans Parish, La.

Martial law, 1421.

Orozembo, Ship, 1187, 1188.

Orr, James L., 1386.

Orrison, Jonah, 63, 227, 272, 278, 292.

Ortell, Gustavus, 251.

Osborn, Quilby, 31.

Osborne, J. T. D.

Correspondence:

Lincoln, A., 811.

Post-Office Department, U. S., 808.

O'Shea, David, 251.

Ostrander, A., 319.

Ostrander, Elisha C., 238, 245, 262, 347.

Otis, Elmer, 119.

Ottendorfer, Oswald.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 494.

Mentioned, 494, 495.

Ould, Robert.

Correspondence:

—, 382.

Ludlow, W. H., 415.

Munford, G. W., 414.

Turner, T. P., 415.

War Department, C. S., 414.

Mentioned, 398, 399, 406, 414, 1520.

Overman, John W.

Correspondence, J. Davis, 1382.

Mentioned, 1381, 1382.

Owen, J., 1425.Owen, Samuel W., 172, 173, 308.*Owen, Susan G., Bark, 546.*Owens, Dr., 1483.*Owens, George, 244.*P., F. C., 1346.*P., R. D., 1531.*Pace, James M., 243.*Pach, Augustus, 1418, 1440, 1450.*Pach, George, 1443.*Pach, Samuel, 1442, 1443.*Pacheco, Bento, 326.*Pacific, Steamer, 1172.*Pack, A. F., 251.*Pack, Samuel.

Correspondence, G. W. Dunlap, 407.

Mentioned, 403, 406, 407, 411, 414.

Packard, J. W., 103, 229, 308.Padgett, Mr., 1375.*Paducah, Ky.

Proclamation to the people, 55.

Page, L. R., 1548.Page, William M.

Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1415.

Mentioned, 154, 231.

Paget, C.Correspondence. See *Admiralty, British.Paine, H., 1435.*Paine, Robert F.

Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 1071, 1072.

Mentioned, 1070, 1072, 1075, 1076.

Pairo, H. T., 1482.Pairo, H. T., Mrs., 1482.*Palfrey, John G., 1052, 1054.*Palmer, Mr., 715.*Palmer, E. P., 1493.*Palmer, F. A., 346.*Palmer, F. W.

Correspondence, W. M. Hill, 1330.

Mentioned, 1332.

Palmer, John C.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 75.

Palmer, John C., Jr., 75.Palmerston, Lord, 215, 1078, 1104, 1105, 1107-1109, 1123, 1131, 1133, 1194, 1197, 1205, 1235, 1236.*Palmore, Robert, 242, 244.*Palmore, William, 242.*Pancoast, Emily, 1531, 1532.*Pancoast, Flo., 1533.*Pancoast, George L.

Correspondence:

Faulkner, C. J., 1534.

Pancoast, S. A., 1542.

Mentioned, 1418, 1532.

Pancoast, Joseph, 1543, 1544.Pancoast, Lilly, 1533.*Pancoast, Mamie, 1532.*Pancoast, Mollie, 1532.*Pancoast, Rachel M.

Correspondence:

Davis, J., 1533.

Pancoast, S. A., 1531.

Pancoast, Samuel A., case of, 1530-1545.

Correspondence:

Baxter, S. S., 1537, 1539.

Pancoast, G. L., 1542.

Pancoast, R. M., 1531.

Deed of assignment, 1543.

Mentioned, 1418, 1530-1545.

Paris, Virgil D., 689.Parker, Lieutenant, 1006.*Parker, Charles, Mrs., 125.*Parker, George, 92, 94, 96, 104, 307, 713.*Parker, Joseph, 229, 341.*Parker, S. H.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1011.

Parker, Sylvester, 35.Parker, William A.

Correspondence:

Bremont, F. A., 161.

Canning, J. C., 161.

Eldridge, R. D., 161.

Goldsborough, L. M., 159.

Maies, W. H., 160.

Pennington, C. C., 161.

Powers, J., 161.

Richardson, H. A., 161.

Steiger, J. J., 161.

Strong, F. W., 161.

Very, Samuel, jr., 161.

Wells, H. W., 160.

Mentioned, 159.

Parkhurst, Jabez, 941.Parks, Lieutenant, 429.*Parlett, Thomas, 227.*Parr, John F., case of, 1023-1026.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1023.

Mentioned, 155, 229, 262, 1023-1026.

Parrington, Charles, 1424.Parrish, James, 265.*Parry, Lieutenant, 731.*Parsly, O. G., 444.*Parsly, O. G., & Co.

Correspondence, B. C. Watson, 437.

Mentioned, 433-436, 438, 446, 447, 451, 454, 455.

Parsons, Miss.

Correspondence, J. W. Burson, 378.

Mentioned, 378.

Parsons, Abraham, 265.Parsons, C. C., 265.*Parsons, Cornelius, 265.*Parsons, Joseph, 265.*Parsons, Josiah, 267.*Parsons, W. H., 1386.*Parsons, William L., 265.*Partello, Dwight J., 1430.*Pate, Henry Clay, 1439, 1451, 1461, 1462.*Paterson, Daniel, 1425, 1489.*Patey, Charles G. E.

Correspondence, R. Williams, 1102.

Patrick, J. M., 1552, 1556.

- Patrick, William, case of, 627-635.
Mentioned, 229, 627-635.
- Patrie, The, 593.
- Patterson, James T. A.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 529.
- Patterson, R. W., 999.
- Patterson, Robert.
Correspondence, Army Headquarters, 12.
Mentioned, 1413, 1414, 1418, 1427, 1484.
- Patterson, Wilson M., 1041, 1046.
- Patton, William H., 373.
- Paul, Alfred, 99, 1219.
- Paul, James, 268.
- Paul, Thomas, 268.
- Paulding, Hiram.
Correspondence, Navy Department, U. S., 1092.
Mentioned, 313.
- Paulin, Joseph W., 1372.
- Paulsen, G. H., jr., 494.
- Pawnee, U. S. Steamer, 551, 1029, 1366.
- Payne, Edward, 103, 229, 304, 888.
- Payne, Huntington & Co.
Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1239.
- Pays, The, 1237.
- Peabody, George, Steamer, 61.
- Peabody, George, 1035.
- Peacock, Albert, 314, 1459.
- Peak, Mr., 262.
- Pear, Jack, 1442.
- Pearce, Albert, 122.
- Pearce, James A.
Correspondence:
Rasin, R. W., 387.
State Department, U. S., 737.
- Pearcey, H. T.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 919.
- Pearson, A. T. C.
Correspondence, C. Kopperl, 489.
Mentioned, 489, 492.
- Pearson, George F., 303.
- Peck, Mr., 625.
- Peck, Jacob, 1463.
- Peel, Henry, 272, 277.
- Peggy, Packet, 1127.
- Pegram, George, 122.
- Pegram, John, 43, 63.
- Pegram, Robert B., 1224, 1235, 1240.
- Peiper, Conrad, 251.
- Peirce, William, 231, 234, 312.
- Peirpoint, Francis H.
Correspondence:
Lincoln, A., 11.
McClellan, G. B., 15.
War Department, U. S., 246, 258.
Mentioned, 197, 246, 247, 270, 284, 1435, 1436, 1438, 1441.
- Pemberton, Mr., 1253.
- Pemberton, John C.
Correspondence, J. F. Lumpkin, 1411.
- Pembina, U. S. Steamer, 220.
- Pendergrast, Thomas, 251.
- Pendleton, George H.
Correspondence, J. A. Dix, 252.
Mentioned, 261.
- Pendleton, Gorden, 346.
- Pendleton, John.
Correspondence, Virginia, Governor of, 1388.
- Pendroth, Charles, 164.
- Penn, Davidson B., 1513.
- Pennington, Captain, 910.
- Pennington, Mr., 445.
- Pennington, Charles C.
Correspondence, W. A. Parker, 161.
- Pennsylvanian, 722.
- Pennsylvania Troops.
Infantry—Regiments:
1st Reserves, 44.
4th (three months), 636.
23d, 207.
85th, 188.
- Penny, John, 238.
- Perkins, Hosea, 417.
- Perkins, James M., case of, 1357-1360.
Mentioned, 239, 240, 262, 1357-1359.
- Perkins, William, 251.
- Perry, Brig, 161, 1354.
- Perry, Mr., 1451.
- Perry, B. F., 1451.
- Perry, Horatio J.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1158.
- Perry, M. S., Steamer. See Salvor, Steamer.
- Perry, Oliver H., 1094.
- Perry, Thomas, 898.
- Perry, William, 66, 228, 239, 240, 262, 545-547.
- Persia, Steamer, 480, 1115.
- Peterkin, Joshua, 1508-1510.
- Peters, Edwin C.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 92.
- Peters, William E.
Correspondence, Adjutant and Inspector General's Office, C. S. A., 1420.
See also John B. Floyd.
- Peters, William L., 1435, 1437.
- Peters, Campbell & Co., 752.
- Peterson, W. H., 202, 212, 217, 336.
- Petigru, J. L.
Correspondence, J. Morton, 1491.
- Petrel, C. S. Privateer, 293, 294.
- Petrie, Horace, 251.
- Petries, Jacob, 1469.
- Petrikin, B. Rush.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 787.
- Petty, Mr., 1388.
- Peyton, Perry, 266.
- Phelan, John, 251.
- Phelps, Captain, 1469.
- Phelps, Mrs., 572, 1308, 1311, 1312.
- Phelps, J. B.
Correspondence, W. W. Mertens, 593.
- Philadelphia, Chief of Police.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 136.
- Phillip, 1532.
- Phillips, Colonel, 477.
- Phillips, Misses, 237.
- Phillips, David L.
Correspondence:
Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 249.
Davis, A. J., 242.
Halleck, H. W., 272, 274.
State Department, U. S., 170, 179, 185, 240, 247.
War Department, U. S., 273.
Mentioned, 244, 343, 344, 1358.
- Phillips, James C., 237.

- Phillips, P., Mrs., 237.
Phillips, S. Wells.
 Correspondence, H. A. Reeves, 667.
Phillips, Samuel H., 268.
Phillips, Wendell, 588.
Phillips, William P., 1525.
Phineas, Myer, 416.
Pickering, Timothy, 1127.
Pickett, Lieutenant, 112.
Pickett, John T., 1520.
Pickett, Hodges & Ward, 1552.
Pierce, Asst. U. S. Dep. Mar., 707, 708.
Pierce, Benjamin H., 267.
Pierce, Franklin, case of, 1244-1267.
 Correspondence:
 Latham, M. S., 1264.
 State Department, U. S., 1257, 1260, 1261.
 Mentioned, 563, 1244-1267.
 Resolutions, U. S. Senate, 1265.
Pierce, Mary, Schooner, 388.
Pierrepont, Edwards.
 Commissioner, examination of prisoners, 249.
 Correspondence. See Political Prisoners' Commission.
 Mentioned, 249, 257, 260, 261, 263, 282, 283, 300, 553, 554, 576, 743, 744, 746, 747, 766, 786, 937, 1263, 1267, 1294, 1295, 1336, 1338, 1339, 1345, 1352, 1353, 1356.
Piggott, Thomas H., 788, 789.
Pike, James S.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1165, 1174, 1196.
Pillow, Gideon J., 375.
Pinckney, J. W., 229.
Pinkerton, Allan.
 Correspondence:
 Hopkins, Hull & Atkinson, 1342.
 Jones, T. A., 878.
 Morris, R. H., 1031.
 Porter, A., 135, 136, 171, 188, 195, 198, 206, 208, 234-236, 245, 259, 356, 370-373, 566, 570-572, 861, 876, 905, 1028, 1289, 1308, 1312, 1341.
 State Department, U. S., 795.
 War Department, U. S., 880, 1303, 1319.
 List of prisoners, 237.
 Mentioned, 35, 72, 257, 308, 314, 315, 326, 334-338, 371, 562, 778, 787, 793, 857, 858, 905, 906, 1027, 1292, 1305, 1319, 1351, 1355, 1357, 1401.
Pinn, John, 238, 262.
Pinney, Judson, 237.
Piper, Count, 1122.
Pirtle, Henry.
 Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 811.
Pittard, William Thomas, 251.
Pitts, C. B., 327.
Pitts, Charles H., 102, 154, 225, 227, 230, 234.
Pitts, Edward P., 281.
Pitzer, Mr., 1464.
Plaquemine Parish, La.
 Martial law, 1421.
Plaskett, Joseph, 1445.
Plaskett, Matthew, 235, 237, 238, 245, 262, 271, 278, 339.
Platt, Mr., 643.
Platt, Edward R. See John Hopkins, jr.
Platt, Edward Russell, 967, 969.
- Platte Valley, Steamer, 315.
Plummer, Joseph B.
 Correspondence, U. S. Grant, 144.
 Mentioned, 145.
Plymouth (Ind.) Democrat, 82.
Poe, John P.
 Correspondence, H. May, 797
Poinsett, Joel R., 1125.
Political Prisoners' Board (C.).
 Appointed in Western Department, 1398.
Political Prisoners' Commission (U.).
 Appointment, composition, etc., 249, 259, 263.
 Correspondence:
 Barkley, C., 554.
 Burke, M., 554, 1267, 1314, 1339, 1357.
 Conkling, R., 1306.
 Dimick, J., 766, 937.
 Forney, J. W., 576.
 Hill, W. M., 1334, 1336, 1338.
 Hull, R., 1344.
 Morris, W. W., 789, 1321.
 Murray, R., 554, 1339, 1356.
 Sherman, R. A., 1305.
 State Department, U. S., 285, 746.
 Thomas, R., 396.
 Wadsworth, J. S., 577, 1320, 1351.
 Walworth, R. H., 1352.
 War Department, U. S., 259, 263, 282, 283, 287, 789, 1266, 1337, 1339, 1353, 1356, 1357, 1360.
 Winder, C. H., 743.
 Wood, W. P., 272, 274, 281, 378, 379, 880, 881, 909, 1293, 1306, 1352.
 List of prisoners examined, 277-279.
Polk, James K., 1296.
Polk, Leonidas.
 Correspondence, F. A. Hannum, 1388.
 Mentioned, 145.
Polk, Trusten, 65.
Pollard, H. Rives, 865.
Pollock, Captain, 1481.
Pollock, Judge, 1299.
Pollock, G., 1450.
Pontiac (Mich.) Gazette, 1254.
Poole, Bernard B., 237, 271, 278.
Poole, Ellie M., 152, 190, 191, 237, 306.
Poole, James H., 237, 263, 271, 278.
Poole, Thomas E., 237, 271, 278.
Pope, Hamilton.
 Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 811.
Pope, John, 398, 399.
Porter, Andrew.
 Correspondence:
 Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 238.
 Burke, M., 468.
 Coleman, C. W., 1286.
 Coxe, A. C., 195.
 Dix, J. A., 1316.
 Donn, T. C., 372, 374.
 Franklin, B., 722.
 Jones, T. A., 878.
 McCall, G. A., 1285, 1287.
 McClellan, G. B., 39, 252, 1286, 1292.
 McPhail, J. L., 201.
 Pinkerton, A., 135, 136, 171, 188, 195, 198, 206, 208, 234-236, 245, 259, 356, 370-373, 566, 570-572, 861, 876, 905, 1028, 1289, 1308, 1312, 1341.

Porter, Andrew—Continued.

Correspondence:

State Department, U. S., 107, 146, 152, 191, 196,
204, 219, 236, 355, 357, 371, 378, 564, 569, 571, 572,
575, 731, 734, 737, 738, 859, 872, 874-876, 1019,
1021, 1022, 1028, 1030, 1033, 1288, 1289, 1292.
1300, 1303, 1343, 1355.

Stone, C. P., 172.

Lists of prisoners, 152, 237.

Mentioned, 80, 127, 178, 206, 235, 238, 248, 257, 294,
298, 301, 308-311, 314, 316-319, 326, 329, 331, 334-
337, 342, 346, 347, 368, 369, 371, 468, 561, 562, 566-
569, 571, 721, 722, 725, 729, 733, 738, 739, 834, 839,
849, 854, 857-859, 866, 874, 875, 905, 908, 937, 938,
967, 1032, 1046, 1283, 1286, 1288, 1289, 1295, 1305,
1307, 1312, 1315, 1340, 1354, 1355, 1446.

Porter, Fitz John, 342, 348.

Porter, Thomas, 156.

Porter, Thomas P., 1520.

Portsmouth, Va.

Martial law, 1420.

Posey, Miss, 237.

Posey, Mrs., 237.

Posey, Albert Berry, 1030.

Posey, Alonzo, 1027-1029.

Posey, James, 1030.

Posey, Richard B., case of, 1027-1031.

Mentioned, 237, 1027-1031.

Posey, Tip, 1030.

Posey, Tom, 1027, 1028.

Posey, Y., 862, 868.

Postmasters.

New York. See William B. Taylor.

Yarmouth, Me. See Otis B. Pratt.

Post-Office Department, U. S.

Correspondence:

Allkins, A., 861.

Bill, E., 1055.

Burt, W. L., 1051.

McClellan, G. B., 12.

Massachusetts, Governor of, 164.

Osborne, J. T. D., 808.

State Dept., U. S., 13, 58, 70, 82, 162, 179, 191, 350,
353, 496, 500, 501, 563, 940, 1051, 1054, 1055.

War Department, U. S., 12, 59, 283.

Withrow, T. F., 1321.

Potet, H. C., 1435, 1437.

Potomac, Army of the (U.).

Orders, circulars, series 1861, Dec. 16, 178.

Orders, general, series 1862, No. 60, 239; No. 72,
248.

Potter, Clarkson N., 481, 483.

Potter, Ezra.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 128.

Mentioned, 129.

Potter, Horatio.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 68.

Potter, J. A., 1367.

Potter, James, 238, 271, 277, 345.

Potter, John F.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 91.

Mentioned, 374.

Potter, O. F., 238, 245, 262, 340.

Potter, R. B., 684.

Potterfield, Jonah, 152, 165, 227, 323.

Potts, Joseph, 1548.

Poultney, T.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 798.

Powell, Mr., 1531.

Powell, H., 1426.

Powell, L. W., 932.

Powell, Levy & Lemon, 207.

Power, Robert, 1470-1472.

Power, W. T.

Correspondence, J. Davis, 1387.

Powers, Hugh S., 419.

Powers, James.

Correspondence, W. A. Parker, 161.

Powhatan, U. S. Steamer, 912, 1080.

Pracher, George W., 1430

Pratt, Judge, 557.

Pratt, Otis B., 677, 678, 680.

Preller, D. B., 691.

Prentice, Charles, 251.

Prentice, George D.

Correspondence:

Everett, I., 818.

Ewing, W. E., 818.

Lincoln, A., 807, 811.

McKnight, V., 818.

State Department, U. S., 809, 1016-1019.

Memorandum, 1020.

Mentioned, 808, 978, 1016.

Prentiss, Benjamin M.

Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 34.

List of prisoners, 34.

President, C. S. See Jefferson Davis.

Presidents, U. S. See James Buchanan and Abraham Lincoln.

Pressy, George P., 103, 154, 231, 294, 303, 888.

Preston, Sergeant, 371.

Prevost, C., 610.

Price, Miss, 1347.

Price, Risdon H., 251.

Price, S. H., 1468, 1480.

Price, Sterling, 327.

Price, William.

Correspondence, Judge-Advocate-General's
Office, U. S. A., 408.

Mentioned, 301.

Price, William B., 272, 277.

Price, William H., & Co.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 529.

Prima Donna, Bark, 69, 546, 547.

Prime, Frederick E., 1418-1420.

Princeton, U. S. Steamer, 962, 976.

Props, Noah W., 267.

Provost-Marshals.

Baltimore, Md. See George R. Dodge.

Rockville, Md. See Charles M. Merritt.

Saint Louis, Mo. See George E. Leighton.

Washington, D. C. See Andrew Porter.

Pruett, James L., case of, 747-749.

Pruett, John W., 747-749.

Pryor, Roger A.

Correspondence:

Harris, A., 1519.

War Department, C. S., 1517, 1518.

Mentioned, 1517.

Pryor, Thomas, 1410.

Pullen, James W., 1425.

Pully, James D., 241, 244, 249.

- Purdey, Mr., 1247, 1249, 1257.
Quaker City, U. S. Steamer, 553.
Quartermaster-General's Office, C. S. A.
 Correspondence, R. P. Archer, 1407.
Quartermaster-General's Office, U. S. A.
 Correspondence:
 Hoffman, W., 263.
 State Department, U. S., 202, 203, 206.
 War Department, U. S., 264.
Quick, Jacob, 1425.
Quigg, Jackson, 251.
Quigley, Thomas, 239, 240, 262, 293.
Quillen, Purcell M., case of, 415-424.
 Correspondence, E. Monson, 416.
 Mentioned, 228, 363, 364, 415-424.
Quincy, Captain, 864, 866.
Quinlan, Leonard G., 102, 225, 227, 230, 234.
Quinn, James, 854.
Quinn, William, 251.
Quintard, C. T., 1509-1511.
Quitman, John A., 71.
R.
 Correspondence, John, 400.
R., General, 1260.
R., Mrs., 1347.
Racer, Steamer, 1241.
Radcliff, Mr., 1029.
Rader, Anthony, 1432.
Radford, Richard C. W., 1488.
Rae, Mr., 69.
Rae, Robert, 108, 119, 225, 227, 234.
Raeffe, John B.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 493.
Rafferty, Patrick, 266.
Ragland, Reuben, 513, 528.
Rahming, John C., case of, 627-635.
 Mentioned, 229, 627-635.
Raleigh, Sir Walter, Bark, 69, 547.
Ramsay, H. Ashton, 867.
Ramsay, Samuel, 1438.
Ramsay, Thomas A., 1432.
Randal, W. H. W., 811.
Randle, W., 1460.
Randle, W., Mrs., 1460.
Randolph, Captain, 1367.
Randolph, George W.
 Correspondence. See War Department, C. S.
 Mentioned, 1547.
Ransom, Robert, Jr., 1548.
Ranson, A. R. H., 43.
Rareshide, James, 1056.
Rasin, Philip F., 102, 154, 227, 230, 232, 239, 262, 270.
Rasin, Robert W.
 Correspondence:
 Pearce, J. A., 387.
 Suydam, W. H., 389.
 Mentioned, 152, 165, 227, 239, 240, 262, 272, 279.
Rasin, W. I., 238, 342.
Ratcliffe, D., 1520.
Rawlings, Joseph, 1374.
Ray, William, 251.
Rayford, Thomas John. See Thomas Jordan.
Raymond, Benjamin, 955.
Raymond, Henry J., 588, 1498.
Rea, John E., 237, 238, 245, 262, 336, 337.
Read, H. W., 1305.
Read, James, 1305.
Read, Robert N., 237.
Read, Smith, 1479.
Read, White, 1479.
Reagan, John H., 1386.
Reaper, Ship, 680.
Reasor, William, 35.
Rechberg, Count
 Correspondence. See Foreign Office, Austrian.
 Mentioned, 1167, 1168, 1176, 1183.
Rector, Henry, 1464, 1465.
Rector, Henry M.
 Correspondence. See Arkansas, Governor of.
Redding, A. W.
 Correspondence, S. J. Anderson, 607, 608, 612.
 Mentioned, 602.
Redfield, William B., 251.
Redman, Robert, 1314.
Red Rose Club, 72.
Reed, Sergeant, 1260.
Reed, George, 418.
Reed, H. W., 1551, 1556.
Reed, S., 1532.
Reed, William, case of, 957-982.
 Correspondence, Lord Lyons, 973.
 Mentioned, 155, 958, 961, 972, 973, 975.
Reed, William B.
 Correspondence, J. W. Wall, 778.
 Mentioned, 778.
Reemer, Mr., 193.
Reeside, Francis, 573.
Reeves, Mrs., 125.
Reeves, Henry A., case of, 665-673.
 Correspondence:
 Phillips, S. W., 667.
 State Department, U. S., 668, 669.
 Mentioned, 156, 229, 665-673.
Reeves, Samuel, 1472, 1473, 1480.
Regan, Daniel, 1445.
Regan (Rogan?), John, 237, 238, 262, 334.
Reid, Aaron L., Ship, 67.
Reid, John W., 65.
Reilly, Michael, 318.
Reilly, Peter, 66, 102, 233, 316.
Release, U. S. Store-ship, 110.
Reneau, N. S., 239, 240, 262.
Rennehan, Frank, 152, 237, 567, 569.
Reno, Ovid P., 97.
Renwick, John, 318.
Renwick, Robert, 108, 119, 154, 225, 227, 234, 306, 318.
Republican Watchman, 665, 666, 671, 672.
Respass, Isaiah, case of, 1547-1550.
Respass, William, 332.
Revel, Richard, 545-547.
Revere, Schooner, 90, 95, 98, 130, 158-162, 166-169,
 178, 253, 254, 258.
Reynolds, Mr., 192.
Reynolds, Archibald, 265.
Reynolds, H. L., 229.
Reynolds, J. W., 319.
Reynolds, Joseph J.
 Correspondence, R. E. Lee, 1380.
 Mentioned, 1377, 1379.
Reynolds, T., 251.
Rhea, J. L., 266.
Rhode Island, U. S. Steamer, 186, 326, 341, 981.

- Rhodes, Chesley, 35.
 Rhodes, Rush, 1425.
 Ribble, F. J.
 Correspondence, Virginia, Governor of, 1373.
 Ricasoli, Bettino, Baron.
 Correspondence. See Foreign Office, Italian.
 Mentioned, 1204.
 Rice, Almond, 96.
 Rice, Henry M.
 Correspondence:
 Kopperl, C., 492.
 State Department, U. S., 492.
 Mentioned, 490.
 Rich, Samuel H., 1463.
 Richards, A. & T. A., 1470.
 Richards, William L.
 Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 169.
 Richards, Z.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 598.
 Richards & Co., 582, 583.
 Richardson, Messrs., 1385.
 Richardson, H. A.
 Correspondence, W. A. Parker, 161.
 Richardson, James, 34.
 Richardson, William, 272.
 Richardson, William A.
 Correspondence, W. T. Casto, 930.
 Mentioned, 58, 931, 932.
 Richmond, Dean.
 Correspondence, R. G. Horton, 614.
 Richmond Dispatch, 1456.
 Richmond Examiner, 1493.
 Richmore, H. C., 1439, 1440.
 Ricker, Samuel, 256.
 Ricketts, Elijah, 265.
 Ricketts, James B., 479.
 Rickey, Joseph, 251.
 Ridgeway, Thomas, 1534.
 Riffle, Mr., 1395.
 Rigal, John, 262, 344.
 Rigby, Lieutenant, 1139.
 Rigg, Edwin A.
 Correspondence, J. H. Carleton, 163.
 Riley, James, 263.
 Riley, John W., 268.
 Binaldo, H. B. M. S., 1160, 1161, 1163, 1164, 1241, 1242, 1244.
 Rine, Austin A., 1424.
 Rinehart, Elijah, 266.
 Ringgold, Mr., 1015.
 Ritch, Thomas G.
 Correspondence, Treasury Dept., U. S., 542.
 Ritchie, Robert, 360, 361.
 Rittter, John P., 1056.
 Rittig, Mr., 496.
 Rixey, Mr., 1486.
 Rixey, Mrs., 1486.
 Rixey, jr., Mr., 1486.
 Roach, Mr., 163.
 Roach, Charles, 265.
 Roach, John, 266.
 Roach, Thomas, 251.
 Roanoke, U. S. Steamer, 232, 553.
 Robards, John W., case of, 881-897.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 889.
 Mentioned, 103, 231, 234, 882, 886, 888, 889, 893-897.
 Robert, Cæsar Augustus, 141, 161, 175, 1051, 1060.
 Robert L. Seth, Schooner, 112.
 Roberts, Mr.
 Correspondence, E. S. Sanford, 1142
 Roberts, Joseph, 144.
 Roberts, Marshall O.
 Correspondence, M. Taylor, 526.
 Mentioned, 526, 963.
 Roberts, T. L., 164.
 Roberts, Thomas, 1395, 1427.
 Roberts, William H., 251, 349.
 Robertson, Beverly H., 1398, 1452, 1453.
 Robertson, F. M.
 Correspondence, S. J. Anderson, 610, 611.
 Robertson, G.
 Correspondence, W. T. Sherman, 814.
 Robespierre, Maximilien J. F. I., 792.
 Robey, T. B., 868.
 Robie, Reuben.
 Correspondence, J. Davis, 1505.
 Robinson, Colonel, 1441.
 Robinson, Judge, 1523.
 Robinson, Miss or Mrs., 1350.
 Robinson, Mr., 1443, 1448, 1466, 1478.
 Robinson, Alexander C., 305.
 Robinson, Daniel A., jr.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 360.
 Mentioned, 358, 360-362.
 Robinson, H. N.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 559.
 Robinson, J. H., 266.
 Robinson, William, 296, 297.
 Rochford, Christopher, 272.
 Rockford, J., 263.
 Rockwell, William S.
 Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1408.
 Rodenberger, John, 251.
 Rodgers, A. H., 1488.
 Rodgers, Charles, 1425.
 Rodgers, W. C., 266.
 Rodman, Clark, 1383, 1465.
 Rodman, Isaac C., 1384.
 Rodriguez, B.
 Correspondence, N. M. Benachi, 591, 592.
 Roe, John J., & Co., 122.
 Rogan [Regan (?)], John, 237, 238, 262, 334.
 Rogers, C. C., 229, 262, 324.
 Rogers, Charles L., 268.
 Rogers, E. L., 866.
 Rogers, Ira G., case of, 1313, 1314.
 Rogers, Lem, 266.
 Rogers, Levi, 164.
 Rogers, Preston, 711.
 Rogers, S. A., 164.
 Rogers, T. S., 229.
 Rogers, William A., 265.
 Rollins, J. S., 1347.
 Rollins, Joseph, 1430.
 Romaine, W. G. See Admiralty, British.
 Roman, John P., 898.
 Romeo, Ship, 1139.
 Romines, Mr., 1427.
 Rooke, E., 268.
 Rooney, Mr., 757, 758.
 Roosevelt, Judge, 18.
 Roosevelt, J. A., 18.

- Roosevelt & Son, 18.
Rose, Mrs., 1471.
Rose, David G.
 Correspondence, A. H. Sneed, 806.
Rose, Donald, 1044.
Rose, Solomon, 266.
Rose, William, 251.
Rosecrans, William S.
 Correspondence:
 Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 270.
 Samuels, H. I., 197.
 War Department, U. S., 197.
 Wheeler, J. C., 137.
 Mentioned, 44, 281, 313, 1379, 1484.
Rosengarden, Jacob.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 503.
 Mentioned, 504.
Ross, Mr., 499.
Ross, Francis, 268.
Ross, John, 984.
Ross, Marion E.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 564.
Rossvally, Catharine.
 Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1405.
Rossvally, M. L., 1363, 1368, 1371, 1405, 1433.
Rost, P. A.
 Correspondence:
 Davis, J., 1237.
 Foreign Office, British, 1231, 1236.
 State Department, C. S., 1233.
 Mentioned, 578, 585, 588, 1236, 1238.
Rounds, S. P., 712.
Rourke, M., 263.
Rouse, Emanuel, 1409, 1468, 1480.
Rouse, J. H., 138, 1435, 1436.
Rowe, A. D., 1480.
Rowley, L. M., 1407.
Rowsey, Kilbourn, 265, 268.
Rowzie, John, 1425, 1487.
Royal Yacht, Schooner, 1313-1315.
Roys, J. A.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1255.
Ruby, John, 266.
Ruckman, M. D., 266.
Rudolph, Hezekiah, 266.
Ruffner, Lewis, 1477.
Ruger, William C., 558, 559.
Ruggles, Daniel.
 Correspondence:
 Adj. and Insp. Gen.'s Office, C. S. A., 367.
 War Department, C. S., 366.
 Mentioned, 358, 865.
Ruggles, Edward Seymour, case of, 358-367.
 Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 368.
 Mentioned, 102, 154, 230, 234, 262, 358-368, 422.
Rumsey, David, Jr.
 Correspondence, J. Davis, 1505.
Runnion, Colonel, 319.
Rush, Alfred, 35.
Rusk, General, Steamer, 67.
Ruskell, Mr., 45.
Russell, Alfred.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1253.
 Mentioned, 982, 1244, 1252, 1253, 1256.
Russell, Fred. H., 226.
Russell, James R., 228, 239, 240, 262.
Russell, John, Earl.
 Correspondence. See Foreign Office, British.
 Mentioned, 213, 215, 634, 635, 644-650, 652, 654-657,
 660-663, 665, 996, 999, 1001, 1034, 1102, 1105, 1109,
 1112, 1114, 1123, 1137, 1145-1147, 1155, 1162, 1169,
 1173, 1179, 1180, 1185, 1196, 1197, 1199, 1200, 1205,
 1207, 1212, 1236-1238, 1242-1244.
Russell, Oliver M., 34.
Russell, St. Mark, 265.
Russell, William Howard, 593.
Rust, Henry A., 193.
Ryan, E. D., 1386.
Ryan, G. M., 266.
Ryan, George, 1425, 1485.
Ryan, William, 770.
S., Captain.
 Correspondence, Editor Detroit Free Press, 1254.
 Mentioned, 1254.
Safford, Mr., 1444.
Saint Bernard Parish, La.
 Martial law, 1421.
St. George, William, 66, 102, 155, 232, 239, 263, 270, 551.
Saint Lawrence, U. S. Frigate, 293, 294, 328.
Saint Louis, Mo.
 Prisoners, 250.
St. Marc, E., 1530.
Saint Nicholas, Steamer, 290, 379, 380, 390, 392, 393, 399, 401, 402, 404.
Saint Petersburg Journal, 1192.
Saligny, M. de, 1500.
Salmon, William E., 102, 155, 230, 234.
Saloir, Dr., 268.
Salomon, E.
 Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1382.
Salvor, Steamer, 956-982.
Salvor, Steamer, Crew and Passengers.
 Correspondence, E. M. Archibald, 962.
Sam Locke, Ship, 680.
Sampson, J. W., 164.
Sampson, Thomas, 282, 289.
Samuels, Al. T.
 Correspondence, J. C. Frémont, 748.
Samuels, Ben. M.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1301.
Samuels, E. S., 327.
Samuels, Henry I.
 Correspondence, W. S. Rosecrans, 197.
Sanderoff, Mr., 1484.
Sanders, George N.
 Correspondence, P. Dandridge, 1524.
Sanderson, John P.
 Correspondence, D. C. Buell, 223.
Sands, Alexander C.
 Correspondence:
 Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 256, 261.
 State Department, U. S., 127, 1032, 1042, 1046, 1049.
 Mentioned, 129, 322, 915, 917.
Sands, Joshua R., 600.
Sands, Samuel, 789.
Sands, William, 164.
Sanford Mr., 1386.
Sanford, Albert.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 437.
 Mentioned, 49, 301, 437, 440, 445-447, 450, 451.

- Sanford, E. S.
Correspondence:
Burns, G. H., 40.
Roberts, Mr., 1142.
Snyder, B. P., 40.
War Department, U. S., 87, 1093, 1198.
- Sanford, Henry S.
Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 1165, 1173.
Mentioned, 1297.
- Sanger, William, 182, 330.
- Sangston, Lawrence, 102, 155, 225, 227, 230.
- San Jacinto, U. S. Steamer, 1076, 1083-1096, 1098, 1100-1104, 1107, 1109, 1110, 1113-1118, 1121, 1125, 1131, 1136, 1137, 1139, 1142, 1145-1147, 1152, 1156-1159, 1164, 1166, 1167, 1171, 1175, 1177, 1200, 1228, 1229, 1232-1236.
- Santa Rosa Island, Fla.
Proclamation (Lincoln), 19.
- Santee, U. S. Frigate, 341, 1313, 1314.
- Santos, Don, case of, 957-982.
- Saranac, U. S. Steamer, 359-361.
- Saratoga, U. S. Sloop, 1415.
- Sargent, Cyrus F., case of, 673-681.
Mentioned, 102, 230, 234, 673-681.
- Sargent, Elias H., 678, 680.
- Sargent, Thomas Denny.
Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 18.
- Sargent & Hill, 678.
- Sartain, Henry, 1447.
- Sartori, Lewis C., 144.
- Saterfield, John, 243.
- Saunders, Thomas C., 1314.
- Savage, George W., 266.
- Savage, James W., 237, 238, 245, 263, 334.
- Savage, Thomas.
Correspondence, W. H. French, 1077.
Mentioned, 961, 963, 969, 977.
- Savannah, C. S. Privateer, 97, 346, 682, 683.
- Savannah (Ga.) News, 1385.
- Sawger, S., 1425.
- Sayre, Adolphus, 331.
- Sayre, James, 331.
- Sayres, J. Saint, 1531.
- Scales, Thomas, 266.
- Scammon, Eliakim P., 1484.
- Scanland, O. Allen, 152, 237, 271, 278.
- Scarborough, Isaac, 1448.
- Schackelford, Cobb, 266.
- Schell, Augustus.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 527.
Mentioned, 529.
- Schell, Richard.
Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 472, 1130.
- Schenck, J. H., 252.
- Schenck, Robert C., 286, 408.
- Schermerhorn, Simon, 1374, 1430.
- Scheverell, J., 251.
- Schiefer, William, 34.
- Schirmer, William, 496.
- Schleiden, R.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 384.
Mentioned, 382, 1317.
- Schley, Captain, 292.
- Schley, James M., 898.
- Schley, Tench, 237, 272, 278, 326, 1320.
- Schley, William, 351.
- Schnabel, Ellis B., case of, 620-627.
Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 621, 624, 626.
Mentioned, 60, 76, 102, 229, 620-627.
- Schoolcraft, Henry S., Mrs.
Correspondence, Mrs. M. Thompson, 1310.
Mentioned, 203, 1310.
- Schultz, Alexander H.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 648.
Mentioned, 581, 584, 585, 588, 648, 652, 654, 655.
- Schultz, Mary Lowber.
Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 580, 586.
Mentioned, 584.
- Scisson, Luther, 268.
- Scott, Mr., 1252.
- Scott, E. J.
Correspondence:
Burrows, J. L., 1504.
Davis, J., 1505.
- Scott, Gustavus H., 956-961, 964, 966, 970, 977.
- Scott, Henry L.
Correspondence, Army Headquarters, 48.
See also Army Headquarters.
Mentioned, 362.
- Scott, Robert, 1473.
- Scott, Robert G., 163.
- Scott, Robert N., 163, 324.
- Scott, T. Parkin, 102, 154, 225, 227, 230, 232, 285, 793, 795.
- Scott, Thomas A.
Correspondence. See War Department, U. S.
Mentioned, 40, 72, 295, 431, 567-569, 834, 835, 854.
- Scott, William, Sir, 131, 1098, 1140, 1148, 1186-1189.
- Scott, William Anderson, 163.
- Scott, William C., 1507.
- Scott, William R., 1363, 1364.
- Scott, Winfield.
Correspondence. See Army Headquarters.
Mentioned, 30, 32, 33, 37, 38, 42, 43, 48, 51, 82, 84, 92, 101, 102, 105, 109, 111, 120, 121, 124, 225, 228-231, 290, 298, 299, 301, 302, 363, 364, 380, 381, 390, 415, 422-424, 443, 486, 556, 576, 604, 619, 636, 649, 653, 673, 685, 731, 772, 790, 791, 794, 860, 904, 1141, 1142, 1280-1282, 1310, 1534-1537, 1539, 1542-1544.
- Seoville, Joseph, 77, 498.
- Scully, Daniel, 1461.
- Seddon, James A.
Correspondence. See War Department, C. S.
- Seely, E.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 685.
- Seeley, George, 257.
- Seely, John M., 1552, 1553, 1556.
- Seeton, A., 251.
- Segar, Joseph, 1525.
- Seiden, Frederick, 1011, 1020.
- Selby, John W., 227.
- Sells, Mr., 1321.
- Seminole, U. S. Steamer, 551.
- Semmes, Jacob F., 1425.
- Semmes, Raphael, Mrs., 252, 261.
- Semple, Hunter, case of, 857-892.
Correspondence, R. Murray, 976.
Mentioned, 155, 958, 961, 975, 976.
- Semple, James, 1366.
- Semple, James, Mrs., 1366.
- Sepulva, Señor, 163.

- Serrano y Dom., F., 1073, 1098, 1124, 1125.
- Serrill, Thomas S., case of, 480-485.
Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 484, 485.
Mentioned, 229, 480-485.
- Seth, Robert L., Schooner, 112.
- Sevey, Herman, 268.
- Sewall, Mr., 1378.
- Seward, Frederick W.
Correspondence. See State Department, U. S.
Mentioned, 171, 174, 295, 544, 566, 570, 1067, 1074, 1144, 1164, 1303, 1327, 1344.
- Seward, William H.
Correspondence. See State Department, U. S.
Mentioned, 11, 12, 14, 18, 20, 37, 41, 48, 50, 51, 60, 82, 92, 95, 102, 103, 107-109, 111, 114, 116, 123, 131, 135, 136, 138, 151, 153, 156, 171, 173-175, 179, 188-190, 195, 196, 198, 205, 213-217, 220, 228-231, 234-236, 255, 257, 274, 290, 291, 293-306, 308-310, 312-314, 316, 317, 319-326, 328-333, 335-337, 340-344, 346-348, 351-354, 357, 358, 363, 364, 366, 367, 371-373, 388, 389, 418, 425, 426, 428, 440, 442, 444, 456, 458, 459, 461, 463-469, 475, 478-481, 484-486, 490, 492-495, 498, 499, 501, 504-506, 508, 510-513, 515-518, 520, 521, 525, 526, 531, 538-540, 544, 554, 561, 562, 566, 570-572, 575, 579, 583, 586, 589-591, 593, 596, 601-603, 617-621, 627-635, 639, 640, 642, 649, 652, 653, 656-660, 665, 667, 668, 670, 671, 673, 681-683, 686-688, 691-693, 695, 696, 703-705, 709, 710, 718, 719, 722, 727-731, 734, 735, 737-739, 741, 742, 745, 746, 749, 750, 759, 760, 762, 763, 766, 779, 784, 787, 790, 800-803, 805, 806, 819, 822-827, 829, 830, 838, 840, 847-850, 853-859, 873, 875, 881-883, 890, 891, 894-897, 901, 902, 904, 912-915, 917, 921, 923, 930, 931, 933, 938, 940, 943, 953-959, 972, 975, 980-983, 988, 990-994, 997, 998, 1004, 1008-1010, 1013, 1014, 1017-1023, 1026, 1031-1033, 1035, 1039, 1041, 1044, 1046, 1047, 1066, 1068, 1071, 1072, 1074, 1075, 1077, 1095, 1100, 1104, 1106, 1108, 1111, 1113, 1118, 1122, 1124, 1130, 1131, 1133-1135, 1142-1145, 1155, 1159-1161, 1164, 1166, 1167, 1170-1172, 1176, 1177, 1179, 1183, 1185, 1187-1190, 1199, 1200, 1203, 1238, 1239, 1245-1247, 1249, 1251, 1253, 1259, 1260, 1265, 1266, 1268, 1281, 1283, 1289, 1295, 1298, 1300-1303, 1307, 1311-1315, 1317, 1318, 1320, 1321, 1325, 1327, 1330, 1331, 1333, 1334, 1340, 1343-1345, 1348, 1352-1355, 1358, 1499.
- Sexton, John, jr., 251.
- Seymour, Mr., 1134.
- Seymour, Horatio, 947.
- Seymour, O.
Correspondence, J. Davis, 1505.
- Seymour, William J.
Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 829.
- Shackleford, George A., 92, 103, 104, 155, 232, 239, 263, 270, 301.
- Shackleford, John, 864.
- Shaffer, John G. See John G. Shaver.
- Shaffer, James S., 141.
- Shaney, John, 234, 325.
- Shaney, Joseph, 234, 325.
- Shanks, Mr., 1464.
- Shannon, Steamer, 1239.
- Shannon, George, 268, 318.
- Sharkey, Mr., 745.
- Sharp, Bryerly, 266.
- Sharp, Frederick T., 227, 305.
- Sharp, Samuel J., 227, 305.
- Sharps, Jesse H., 268.
- Shaver, John G., case of, 982-1008.
Correspondence:
Benjamin, G., 988.
Foreign Office, British, 996.
Lyons, Lord, 983, 984, 991.
Mentioned, 133, 155, 231, 234, 982-1008.
- Shaver, Peter, 1002.
- Shaw, H. M.
Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 184.
- Shaw, James. See John M. Shorb.
- Shea, John, 251.
- Shea, Martin, 251.
- Sheahan, George A., 237, 298.
- Shears, D., 1457.
- Sheehan, Andrew, 767-770.
- Sheffey, H. W., 1481.
- Shell, Daniel, 1455, 1457, 1465.
- Shelton, Miss, 125.
- Shelton, Henry, 1437.
- Shelton, Philo S.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1094.
- Shepard, A., 238, 271.
- Shepard, C. H.
Correspondence, T. C. Donn, 356.
Mentioned, 354-357.
- Shepard, Henry.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 9.
- Shepard, R. D., jr., 238, 271.
- Shepherd, Mr., 292.
- Shepherd, R. M. J., 252.
- Shepherd, V. E., 1378.
- Sheppard, J., 268.
- Sheppard, Martin, 266.
- Sheppard, R. M. J., 266.
- Sheridan, Philip H.
Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 1357.
- Sherman, F. R., 684.
- Sherman, R. A.
Correspondence, Political Prisoners' Commission, 1305.
Mentioned, 1306.
- Sherman, William H., 372.
- Sherman, William T.
Correspondence:
Buckner, R. A., 814.
Lincoln, A., 920.
McNeil, J., 122.
Newell, W. N., 920.
Robertson, G., 814.
Ward, W. T., 125.
Mentioned, 813, 814, 920.
- Sherrard, Robert B., 1464, 1530, 1534, 1544, 1545.
- Sherrard, William, 1467.
- Sherry, William, 1424.
- Sherwood, H. C., 1245, 1252, 1253.
- Shields, Hamilton L., 231, 234, 310, 311.
- Shields, Thomas, 63, 113, 155, 225, 232, 285.
- Shipman, William D., 422, 423.
- Shippard, Samuel, 260.
- Shirely, Henry, 268.
- Shockley, James, 181.
- Shorb, John M., 238.
- Short, Samuel, 1436.

- Short, Thomas, 268.
Shorter, John G.
 Correspondence. See Alabama, Governor of.
 Mentioned, 1407.
- Shotwell, A. L.
 Correspondence, G. W. Meriwether, 818.
- Showalter, Dan, 163, 164.
- Showalter, J., 1425.
- Shrivers, H. J., 268.
- Shufeldt, Robert W.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 93.
 Mentioned, 358, 1077, 1080, 1102.
- Shults, John L., 347.
- Shurtliff, R. W., 325.
- Sibern, E., 155, 232, 239, 263, 270, 285, 551.
- Sibley, Caleb C., 49.
- Sickles, Daniel E.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 859.
 Mentioned, 298, 301, 417, 644, 858, 864, 872, 877.
- Siebert, Adam, 266.
- Siebert, William, 266.
- Siecle, The, 1175.
- Siers, Isaac, 1478, 1479.
- Silver, D. H., 251.
- Simmonds, William, 268.
- Simmons, Elijah, 92, 103.
- Simmons, William H., 237.
- Simms, William, 545-547.
- Simms, William E., 324.
- Simonée, Amédee, 33.
- Simpson, Dr., 1131.
- Simpson, Henry, 237, 238, 245, 263, 338.
- Simpson, Robert G.
 Correspondence, C. Wilkes, 1082, 1087.
 Mentioned, 1084.
- Simpson, Sylvester, 252.
- Sinclair, General, 75.
- Sinter, Jacob, 1425.
- Sir Walter Raleigh, Bark, 69, 547.
- Sites, John A., 1456, 1457.
- Sites, Josiah, 1457.
- Sites, Polycarp, 1457.
- Sites, William, 268, 1457.
- Skeen, Sol., 251.
- Skinner, Mr., 1028.
- Skinner, St. John B. L.
 Correspondence. See Post-Office Dept., U. S.
- Slanny, Mr., 869.
- Slater, Isaac, 1409, 1468, 1470, 1472.
- Slidell, Miss, 1115.
- Slidell, John, case of, 1076-1244.
 Appointed Commissioner to France, 1207.
 Correspondence:
 Davis, J., 1207.
 Mason, J. M., 1243.
 State Department, C. S., 1214, 1222, 1225.
 Wilkes, C., 1088, 1091, 1092, 1096.
 Mentioned, 143, 155, 165, 233, 234, 499, 566, 1035,
 1076-1095, 1097, 1098, 1100, 1102-1110, 1112-1122,
 1124-1127, 1130-1136, 1137-1140, 1142, 1144, 1145,
 1147, 1155-1157, 1160-1166, 1174-1177, 1182, 1187,
 1192, 1195, 1198, 1207, 1223, 1224, 1226-1231, 1233-
 1235, 1237-1244, 1275.
- Slidell, John, Mrs., 1114, 1115, 1236.
- Sloat, Mr., 295, 308.
- Slocum, Henry W.
 Correspondence, W. B. Franklin, 89.
- Slus, George W., 34.
- Smart, Ephraim K., 691.
- Smedes, Albert, 195.
- Smedes, Bennett, 195, 196, 237, 263, 335-337.
- Smedley, J. L.
 Correspondence, J. C. Frémont, 748.
- Smith, Dr., 1289.
- Smith, Mr., 145.
- Smith, Mr., 628, 629, 631.
- Smith, Mr., 702.
- Smith, Mr., 1415.
- Smith, Mr., 1430.
- Smith, Mr., 1454.
- Smith, Mr., 1531.
- Smith, Allen, 268.
- Smith, Austin E., case of, 424-431.
 Correspondence:
 Smith, W., 429.
 State Department, U. S., 427.
 Mentioned, 102, 149, 154, 230, 232, 285, 424-431, 636.
- Smith, B. F., 1525.
- Smith, Bayard, Mrs., 797.
- Smith, Benjamin F., 268.
- Smith, Caleb B.
 Correspondence. See Interior Department, U. S.
 Mentioned, 37, 114, 186, 679, 687, 978.
- Smith, Charles, 345.
- Smith, Charles E.
 Correspondence, F. G. Smith, 841.
 Mentioned, 841.
- Smith, Charles F.
 Correspondence, Army Hdqrs., 48, 363, 422.
- Smith, Chauncey, 30.
- Smith, Chris. H., 266.
- Smith, Daniel.
 Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1381.
- Smith, Daniel R., 97.
- Smith, E. A., 266.
- Smith, E. Delafield.
 Correspondence:
 Burke, M., 108, 117.
 Evarts, W. M., 483.
 Garrison, S., 117.
 Murray, R., 7.
 State Department, U. S., 361, 419, 422, 438, 480-
 484, 549, 552.
 War Department, U. S., 6, 8, 517.
 Woodford, S. L., 424.
 Mentioned, 104, 144, 362, 459, 480, 482, 520, 541, 543,
 544, 552, 629.
- Smith, Edward H.
 Correspondence:
 Carpenter, B. D., 670.
 State Department, U. S., 667, 669.
 Mentioned, 668, 669.
- Smith, Eugenia, Steamer, 1172.
- Smith, Frank G.
 Correspondence:
 Smith, C. E., 841.
 War Department, U. S., 841.
- Smith, Franklin, 156.
- Smith, George W. (Md.), 868.
- Smith, George W. (Va.), 1467, 1469.

- Smith, Gustavus W., 71, 93, 1466, 1467
 Smith, H. H., 1432.
 Smith, Hamilton, 1464.
 Smith, Henry, 156.
 Smith, J. B., 202, 212, 217, 336.
 Smith, J. M., 1461.
 Smith, Jacob, 228, 239, 240, 263.
 Smith, James, 229, 341.
 Smith, James E., 266.
 Smith, James M., 426.
 Smith, Jennie, 905, 907, 908.
 Smith, John, 35.
 Smith, John B., 1422, 1423.
 Smith, John L., 263, 272, 277.
 Smith, Joseph D., 1314.
 Smith, Michael, 252.
 Smith, N. R., 799, 800.
 Smith, Peter, 156.
 Smith, Robert H.
 Correspondence:
 McGinnis, E. W., 1400.
 War Department, C. S., 1400.
 Smith, Samuel (Md.), 898.
 Smith, Samuel (N. Y.).
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 44.
 Smith, Samuel (W. Va.), 266.
 Smith, Stokes A., 1513.
 Smith, Theodore, 252.
 Smith, Truman.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 562.
 Smith, Truman, Mrs., 563.
 Smith, V. T., 889.
 Smith, W. B., 315, 316.
 Smith, W. M., 31.
 Smith, W. O.
 Correspondence, S. Breckinridge, 273.
 Smith, William (Colonel).
 Correspondence:
 Ayres, W., 430.
 Davis, J., 428-430.
 Smith, A. E., 429.
 Tattnall, J. R. F., 428.
 War Department, C. S., 430.
 Mentioned, 429, 430, 636, 638, 1441, 1444.
 Smith, William (D. C.).
 Correspondence, J. Davis, 1375.
 Smith, William (Ill.), 263, 344.
 Smith, William (Seaman), 66, 545-547.
 Smith, William (Va.), 1409, 1468, 1470, 1480.
 Smith, William C., 1426.
 Smith, William F., 311, 314, 329, 333, 347, 368, 371.
 Smith, William M., 239, 240.
 Smith, William Prescott.
 Correspondence, Navy Department, U. S., 1093.
 Smith, Withers, 152, 237, 238, 245, 263, 314, 1398.
 Smith & Patrick, 628, 629, 631.
 Smithson, William T., case of, 1354-1357.
 Mentioned, 237, 272, 572, 1309, 1310, 1312, 1347, 1354-1357.
 Smoot, Mr., 1450.
 Smoot, Mrs., 1450.
 Smoot, N. C., 266.
 Smyth, Frank, 1382.
 Snapp, Joseph, 1425, 1485.
 Sneed, E. R., 305.
 Sneed, Alexander H.
 Correspondence:
 Johnson, R. W., 884.
 Rose, D. G., 806.
 Mentioned, 316, 324, 805, 809, 810, 815-817, 820.
 Snider, Mr., 1438.
 Snow, Mr., 1454, 1455.
 Snow, Ambrose, case of, 1313-1314.
 Snowden, Dr., 377.
 Snowden, Edgar J., 272, 277.
 Snyder, Mr., 1440.
 Snyder, Mr., 1484.
 Snyder, B. P.
 Correspondence, E. S. Sanford, 40.
 Snyder, Lewis, 266.
 Solar, Carbonell & Co., 970.
 Solent, Steamer, 361.
 Sollers, Aug. R., 316.
 Somerset, Duke of.
 Correspondence, J. M. Mason, 1244.
 Somerville, David, 266.
 Sons of Liberty, Bombay, N. Y.
 Address and declaration of principles, 951.
 Sorrell, Captain, 373.
 Sorrell, Taylor, 372, 373.
 Soulé, Pierre, 578, 585.
 Southall, Travis.
 Correspondence, V. F. T. Southall, 1365, 1366.
 Mentioned, 1362, 1365-1367, 1371.
 Southall, V. F. T.
 Correspondence:
 Davis, J., 1365.
 Johnston, J., 1366.
 Southall, T., 1365, 1366.
 Mentioned, 1366.
 South Carolina, U. S. Steamer, 325, 326, 909-912.
 Southeastern Virginia.
 Martial law, note, 1421.
 Souther, John M., 268.
 Southwestern Virginia.
 Martial law, note, 1421.
 Sowers, Mr., 1461.
 Spaulding, Elbridge G.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 617.
 Spear, George C., 291.
 Spear, or Speer, William P., 1425, 1487.
 Speed, Mrs., 1347.
 Speed, James, 809, 885.
 Speed, John J.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 362.
 Speer, or Spear, William P., 1425, 1487.
 Spencer, Henry W., 592.
 Spencer, J. D., 268.
 Spencer, James C.
 Correspondence:
 Flanders, J. R., Mrs., 952.
 State Department, U. S., 943.
 Mentioned, 943, 950.
 Spencer, John, 252.
 Spencer, Joseph, 331.
 Spiller, E. N.
 Correspondence, S. Hunter, 1342.
 Spina, C. F.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 501.
 Splunner, Francis E., 484, 485.

Spofford, Tileston & Co.

Correspondence, Navy Department, U. S., 1077.
Mentioned, 934.

Spoo, Matthias, 1424.

Spooner, Mr., 10.

Sprague, Mr., 1510.

Sprague, William, 295.

Spriggs, Cornelius, 1464, 1465.

Spurlock, Hurston, 266.

Squier [Squires(?)], Lewis L., 1056.

Staats, William, 266.

Staats Zeitung, 494-497.

Stabler, George, 573.

Stackhouse, M., 266.

Staffey, P. C., 1424.

Staley, A. G.

Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1399.

Stallins, William, 1425, 1486.

Stallman, G. W., 266.

Stalnaker, Absolom, 266.

Stalnaker, John, 268.

Stambol, Andres, 545, 548.

Stanley, Marcus Cicero, case of, 766-771.

Mentioned, 229, 496, 624, 751, 766-771.

Stannard, Moses, 102, 229, 302.

Stanton, David, 1285.

Stanton, Edwin M.

Correspondence. See War Department, U. S.

Mentioned, 205, 209, 210, 223, 238, 239, 241, 245, 247,
249, 254, 256-261, 263, 264, 268, 270, 273, 274, 281,
283, 284, 287, 288, 292, 306, 365, 388, 389, 394, 397,
398, 401, 405-408, 410, 427, 428, 431, 504, 554, 561,
575-577, 619, 659, 660, 719, 742, 743, 746, 765, 766,
786, 788-790, 828, 829, 854, 855, 933, 937, 956, 979,
1039, 1040, 1075, 1263, 1277, 1280, 1295, 1301, 1302,
1306, 1314, 1316, 1319-1321, 1336, 1339, 1340, 1345,
1346, 1351-1353, 1356, 1359, 1360.

Stanton, Frederick P., 922.

Stanton, Richard H., case of, 913-933.

Correspondence:

Hood, F. T., 917.

Lincoln, A., 914, 924, 927.

Murray, R., 924.

State Department, U. S., 914, 918, 922, 926, 928.

Taylor, H., 917.

Mentioned, 155, 229, 913-929.

Staples, W., 1438.

Starcher, A. J., 266.

Starcher, Philip, 266.

Star of the West, Steamer, 360, 611.

Starr, Samuel H.

Correspondence, J. K. F. Mansfield, 416.

State Department, C. S.

Correspondence:

Crane, A. J., 1491.

Huger, B., 1228.

Hurlbert, W. H., 1496.

Mann, A. D., 1233, 1236.

Mason, J. M., 1207, 1222-1226, 1240, 1241, 1243.

Rost, P. A., 1233

Slidell, J., 1214, 1222, 1225.

Trescott, W. H., 1222, 1225.

Virginia, Governor of, 1497.

Winder, W. H., 723.

Yancey, W. L., 1233, 1238,

State Department, U. S.

Correspondence:

Acton, A. E., 869.

Adams, C. F., 33, 648, 651, 654, 655, 660, 663, 1078,
1102, 1104, 1106, 1108, 1115, 1119, 1122, 1123, 1127,
1137, 1143, 1157, 1159, 1162, 1168, 1178, 1180, 1184,
1190, 1193-1197, 1202, 1205.

Adams, E. L. O., 64, 83, 85, 138, 176.

Adams, N. A., 579.

Addison, W. M., 143, 461.

Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 268.

Alvey, R. H., 350, 352.

Amory, J., 78, 83, 86, 176, 1050, 1052, 1055.

Anderson, R., 885-888.

Anderson, S. J., 618, 619.

Andrew, J. G., 1032.

"Anonymous," 1137, 1246.

Army Headquarters, 14, 30, 36, 38, 107, 112, 121,
148, 150, 191, 361, 362, 364, 421, 423, 425, 485, 510,
511, 533, 556, 603, 615, 674.

Ashton, J. H., 132, 133, 847, 848, 851-853, 978.

"A True Blue," 702.

Att'y-Gen.'s Office, U. S., 351, 508, 855-857, 873.

Averell, W. H., 705.

Aymar, W. H., 910.

Baker, L. C., 118, 119, 183, 201, 778, 831, 841, 852.

Ball, F., 54, 66, 917.

Ball, G. H., 579.

Banks, N. P., 118, 146, 898.

Baptist, S. G., 529.

Barkley, C., 551.

Barlow, S. L. M., 98.

Barnes, H. B., 275.

Barney, H., 18.

Barr, M. W., 826, 827.

Barse, G. R., 982, 1251.

Barse, W. H., 52, 73, 83, 86, 98, 137, 176, 982, 996, 999, 1033, 1246, 1247, 1249, 1254.

Bausenwein, V., 219.

Baxley, C. V., 1316, 1317.

Bebian, A. de, 441.

Bebian, L. de, 441.

Bebian, O. de, 441.

Beebe, Deane & Donohue, 548, 549, 759.

Benham, C., 1019.

Bergen, A. J., 672.

Berret, J. H., 597.

Berrian, H., 204, 211, 426.

Berry, M., 935.

Bertinatti, J., 1204.

Bestor, G. C., 574.

Biddle, C. J., 740.

Bill, E., 1042, 1043, 1046, 1070, 1071.

Bing, J., 588.

Blake, W. H., 719.

Blanchard, S. C., 681.

Blatchford, R. M., 482, 525, 526, 628, 727.

Blatchford, S., 82, 84.

Bonifant, W., 37.

Bowen, J., 362, 602.

Brent, J. L., 1019.

Brewster, B. H., 507.

Brooks, E., 703.

Brown, A. A., 706.

Brown Bros. & Co., 1048,

State Department, U. S.—Continued.

Correspondence:

- Browning, W. J., 963.
 Buckner, McCammon & Co., 540.
 Bull, G. G., 149.
 Bullitt, J. C., 849.
 Burke, M., 77, 83, 85, 94, 95, 101, 105, 116, 123, 146, 151, 153, 194, 196, 219, 221, 228, 253, 254, 256, 288, 426, 442-444, 447, 458, 459, 469, 471, 482, 483, 506, 518, 539, 540, 545, 547, 548, 584, 597, 598, 617, 620, 621, 623, 627-629, 637, 639-641, 660, 668-670, 683, 687, 688, 702, 709, 710, 713, 727, 753, 754, 759, 771, 775, 799, 800, 804, 809, 824, 886, 911, 921, 922, 929, 930, 972, 973, 975, 983, 1016, 1018, 1025, 1026, 1051, 1072, 1344.
 Burt, W. L., 1056.
 Burton, B., 763, 764.
 Butler, B. F., 142.
 Cairo (Ill.) Pro. Mar., 219.
 Cameron, S., 745.
 Campbell, J., jr., 752.
 Carr, D. H., 118.
 Carrington, E. C., 464.
 Cass, L., 1130, 1131.
 Casto, W. T., 931, 932.
 Catlin, C., 685.
 Chandler, Z., 46.
 Chase, E. J., 557, 704, 705, 943.
 Chester, J. L., 202, 210.
 Clarke, C., 673-675.
 Clay, C. M., 1191.
 Clay, J. B., 890.
 Coffey, G. A., 746, 747, 851-853, 978, 979.
 Coleman, C. W., 1287.
 Collingsworth, A. D., 72.
 Comfort, S. R., 773.
 Congress, U. S., 18, 1266.
 Coons, C. B., et al., 919.
 Cornell, E., 100.
 Cornwell, W. J., 488.
 Corwine, A. B., 359.
 Cranston, W. H., 48, 49.
 Crittenden, J. J., 823, 826.
 Cummins, P. S. L., 704.
 Cummins, Alexander & Green, 710.
 Darr, J., jr., 260.
 Dart, W. A., 556-558, 941, 942, 950, 952.
 Davis, A. G., 83.
 Davis, H. W., 872.
 Day, W. B., 1289.
 Dayton, W. L., 1120, 1123.
 Deckart, D., 88.
 Dent, J., 870.
 Develin, J. E., 726, 728, 1268.
 Dimick, J., 127, 146, 148, 151, 153, 182, 219, 231, 352, 354, 364, 462, 479, 491, 553, 590, 681, 692, 718, 732, 736, 737, 740, 741, 822, 823, 825, 827, 846, 848, 895, 896, 902, 989, 1039, 1072, 1073, 1100, 1110, 1114, 1119, 1157, 1162.
 Dix, J. A., 43, 70, 72, 79, 84, 85, 95, 99, 105, 107, 109, 115-117, 119, 146, 151, 153, 166, 177, 188, 192, 198, 201, 212, 216, 219, 226, 257, 287, 351, 352, 382, 383, 386, 387, 389, 460-462, 779, 780, 781, 787, 801, 831, 836, 848, 878, 899, 902, 1093, 1281, 1282, 1343, 1344.
 Dodge, N. S., 465.
 Draper, S., 416, 419.

State Department, U. S.—Continued.

Correspondence:

- Dunn, H., 83, 86.
 Dunn, W., 55.
 Durrett, R. T., 820.
 Elliot, H. F., 690.
 Emerson, J. S., 355.
 Evarts, W. M., 1033, 1035, 1036, 1039.
 Farr, K., 1288.
 Faulkner, C. J., 466, 469, 472.
 Faulkner, C. J., Mrs., 467.
 Fessenden, W. P., 46, 58, 675, 676, 689.
 Fishback, C., 806.
 Fiske, E. W., 647.
 Flanders, F. D., Mrs., 953-956.
 Forney, J. W., 1266.
 Forrest, T. L., 420.
 Foster, C. H., 562.
 Foster & Thomson, 657.
 Fouke, P. B., 574.
 Franklin, B., 830.
 French, B. B., 489.
 Gerolt, Baron von, 1177.
 Giddings, J. R., 83, 86, 132, 983, 985-987.
 Gilchrist, R. A., 846.
 Gilchrist, W., 833, 846.
 Goddard, J. H., 417.
 Graham, J. L., 1130.
 Grimes, J. W., 1301, 1302.
 Grinnell, M. H., 86, 529, 694, 1048, 1054, 1057.
 Grove, B. F., 638, 640, 642, 643.
 Grove, B. F., Mrs., 642.
 Grubbs, W., 889.
 Gurley, W. H. F., 114.
 Gwin, W. M., 1019.
 Hagelin, C. M., 112.
 Haig, J. M., 837, 840.
 Haldeman, J. S., 1122, 1169.
 Hambleton, T. E., 872, 877.
 Hamlin, H., 194.
 Harbin, G. F., 870, 874, 875.
 Haskins, W. L., 1272.
 Hawley, S. C., 123, 126, 147, 149, 178, 219, 427, 487, 513, 514, 518-521, 524, 526-528, 537-539, 696, 697, 702, 754, 755, 757, 762, 765, 769, 770, 819, 892, 894, 896, 933-935, 1024, 1025, 1034, 1037, 1072, 1073, 1275-1277.
 Hayes, W., 446, 447.
 Heineken, G., 2.
 Henderson, J., 487.
 Henry, B. T., 645.
 Hill, B. H., 973.
 Hill, S., 114.
 Hill, W. M., 1325, 1329.
 Hitzelberger, A. L., 143.
 Hoben, W. G., 673.
 Hoffman, G. A., 900.
 Hoffman, W., 216.
 Hogan, W., 504.
 Holt, J., 889, 891.
 Hone, J., 1094.
 Hopkins, G. S., 1250, 1264.
 Hoxie, H. M., 113, 1322, 1325, 1326.
 Hughes, J., 52, 57.
 Hulsemann, Chevalier de, 1167.
 Hunter, J., et al., 529.

State Department, U. S.—Continued.

Correspondence:

Huson, C., jr., 38.
 Hutchins, W., 528.
 Interior Department, U. S., 37, 388.
 Iowa, Governor of, 1324.
 Jackson, M. M., 1078.
 James, E. S., 584.
 Jewett, J., 802.
 Johnson, M. C., 891, 892.
 Johnson, R., 800.
 Jones, C. J., 384.
 Jones, J., sr., 671.
 Jones, T. A., 860, 868, 869.
 Judd, N. B., 1126, 1199.
 Keasbey, A. Q., 93, 98, 120, 620, 693.
 Kennedy, J. A., 3, 32, 50, 53, 67-70, 75, 77, 99, 137, 140, 141, 146, 161, 163, 175-177, 180, 191, 362, 363, 438, 440, 485, 486, 494-499, 501, 504, 510, 511, 519-522, 524, 525, 531-533, 541, 580, 582, 583, 590, 603, 619, 624, 644, 645, 647, 682, 751, 760, 768, 769, 771, 1010, 1013-1016, 1044, 1049, 1050, 1053, 1060, 1067, 1068, 1132, 1268, 1300.
 Kentucky Legislature, 927.
 Keyes, J. S., 70, 75, 137, 142, 143, 146, 151, 153, 457, 762, 895, 1050, 1052, 1058, 1278.
 Kimball, C. W., 449.
 King, J. G., & Sons, 1043.
 King, P., 943.
 Knowlton, E., 691.
 Kopperl, C., 486, 488.
 Lamont, W. H., 1046.
 La Montagnie, J. de, 451.
 Ledwidge, C., 200.
 Leighton, G. E., 171, 176, 219, 249.
 Lighthall, W. A., 964.
 Lincoln, A., 37, 809, 818, 981, 1104.
 Loomis, G., 77, 81, 100, 105, 113, 114, 123, 146, 151, 219, 224.
 Lord, D., 683.
 Lothrop, T. K., 130.
 Low, A. A., 511.
 Lowell, R. R., 556.
 Ludlow, W. H., 124, 138, 156, 289, 597, 671, 687, 760.
 Lyons, Lord, 77, 81, 90, 98, 130, 147, 158, 162, 166, 169, 170, 177, 188, 204, 219, 253, 258, 424, 545, 547, 550, 628-630, 634, 713, 716-719, 847, 856, 899-904, 910, 972, 973, 975, 984, 985, 989-992, 994-996, 999, 1002, 1004, 1007, 1008, 1033, 1037, 1048, 1061, 1063, 1075, 1076, 1125, 1145, 1155, 1164, 1199, 1200.
 McArthur, L. L., 1307.
 McClellan, G. B., 858.
 MacDonald, A., 773.
 MacDonald, M., 773.
 Mackay, C., 1106.
 McKay, D., 964.
 McKim, S. A. H., 860.
 McNabb, G., 963.
 McNeil, J., 117.
 Macy, C. A., jr., 752.
 Macy, C. A., sr., 752.
 Macy, S. W., 435, 437, 447, 448.
 Maddox, T. H., 843.
 Mallory, R., 826, 828.
 Mansfield, J. K. F., 420, 464.

State Department, U. S.—Continued.

Correspondence:

Marsh, G. P., 1173.
 Marshall, C. H., 694.
 Marshall, W. L., 101.
 Maryland, Governor of, 99.
 Massachusetts, Governor of, 81.
 Maury, M., 1047, 1057, 1063, 1064, 1068.
 Maury, R., jr., 1059, 1069, 1070, 1074.
 Maury, W., 1069.
 Meade, E. R., 1302.
 Meigs, C. A., 752.
 Menendez, F., 974.
 Mercier, H., 446, 448, 449, 453, 1143, 1197.
 Merrick, J. L., 1022.
 Miles, G., 534, 537, 541, 543.
 Miller, J. C., 52, 73, 83, 86, 131, 133, 712-714.
 Milliken, G., 448.
 Millner, J. K., 753, 758, 760, 762-764.
 Millward, W., 725, 831, 842, 843.
 Minturn, R., 71.
 Mitchell, D. J., 558.
 Monroe, John, & Co., 148.
 Montgomery, W. R., 212.
 Morton, S. W., 187, 213, 217, 236.
 Motley, J. L., 1167, 1182, 1198, 1204.
 Murray, R., 37, 66, 68, 85, 86, 88, 89, 93, 96, 104, 107, 118, 121, 127, 174, 180, 182, 184, 200, 420, 422, 425, 440, 446, 482, 494, 517, 524, 549, 553, 628, 637, 643, 666, 702, 751, 752, 761, 767-769, 802, 803, 845, 913, 924, 933, 971, 973, 974, 976, 982, 983, 1014, 1049, 1054, 1092, 1100, 1268.
 Navy Department, U. S., 17, 86, 87, 95, 106, 109, 158, 169, 186, 187, 220, 548, 599, 600, 651, 961, 1077, 1097, 1102.
 Neill, W. M., 587.
 Nelson, W., 914, 917, 921.
 Newcomb, R. H., 891.
 New Jersey, Governor of, 775.
 Newland, J., 732.
 New York, Governor of, 123, 955.
 Nott, C. C., 651.
 Ohio, Citizens of, 128.
 Ohio, Governor of, 129, 134, 217.
 Ottendorfer, O., 494.
 Paine, R. F., 1071, 1072.
 Palmer, J. C., 75.
 Parker, S. H., 1011.
 Parr, J. F., 1023.
 Patterson, J. T. A., 529.
 Pearce, J. A., 737.
 Perry, H. J., 1158.
 Peters, E. C., 92.
 Petriken B. R., 787.
 Philadelphia, Chief of Police, 136.
 Phillips, D. L., 170, 179, 185, 240, 247.
 Pierce, F., 1257, 1260, 1261.
 Pike, J. S., 1165, 1174, 1196.
 Pinkerton, A., 795.
 Political Prisoners' Commission, 285, 746.
 Porter, A., 107, 146, 152, 191, 196, 204, 219, 236, 355, 357, 371, 378, 564, 569, 571, 572, 575, 731, 734, 737, 738, 859, 872, 874-876, 1019, 1021, 1022, 1028, 1030, 1033, 1288, 1289, 1292, 1300, 1303, 1343, 1355.
 Post-Office Dept., U. S., 13, 58, 70, 82, 162, 179, 191, 350, 353, 496, 500, 501, 563, 940, 1051, 1054, 1055.

State Department, U. S.—Continued.

Correspondence:

Potter, H., 68.
 Potter, J. F., 91.
 Poultney, T., 798.
 Prentice, G. D., 809, 1016-1019.
 Price, W. H., & Co., 529.
 Q. M. Gen.'s Office, U. S. A., 202, 203, 206.
 Raefle, J. B., 493.
 Reeves, H. A., 668, 669.
 Rice, H. M., 492.
 Richards, Z., 598.
 Robards, J. W., 889.
 Robinson, D. A., jr., 360.
 Robinson, H. N., 559.
 Rosengarden, J., 503.
 Ross, M. E., 564.
 Roys, J. A., 1255.
 Russell, A., 1253.
 Samuels, B. M., 1301.
 Sands, A. C., 127, 1032, 1042, 1046, 1049.
 Sanford, A., 437.
 Sanford, H. S., 1165, 1173.
 Schell, A., 527.
 Schell, R., 472, 1130.
 Schleiden, R., 384.
 Schnabel, E. B., 621, 624, 626.
 Schultz, A. H., 648.
 Schultz, M. L., 580, 586.
 Seeley, E., 685.
 Serrill, T. S., 484, 485.
 Shelton, P. S., 1094.
 Shepard, H., 9.
 Shufeldt, R. W., 93.
 Sickles, D. E., 859.
 Smith, A. E., 427.
 Smith, E. D., 361, 419, 422, 438, 480-484, 549, 552.
 Smith, E. H., 667, 669.
 Smith, S., 44.
 Smith, T., 562.
 Spaulding, E. G., 617.
 Speed, J. J., 362.
 Spencer, J. C., 943.
 Spina, C. F., 501.
 Stanton, R. H., 914, 918, 922, 926, 928.
 Stetson, C. A., 1268.
 Stickney, L. D., 977.
 Stoeckl, E. de, 1201.
 Stoughton, E. W., 76, 78.
 Stowell, A. H., 170.
 Strong, J. C., 615.
 Stuart, W., 38.
 Sturgis, R., 694, 697.
 Sutherland, J. S., 684.
 Talbot, G. F., 674, 676, 677.
 Tansill, R., 601.
 Tappan, C. O., 558.
 Taylor, D., 898.
 Taylor, M., 525.
 Thayer, A. W., 41.
 Thayer, M. R., 1139.
 Thomas, R., 386, 387.
 Thompson, F. H., 193.
 Thomson, J., 658.
 Todd, C. M., 587.
 Treasury Department, U. S., 51, 106, 128, 518, 916, 1044, 1299.

State Department, U. S.—Continued.

Correspondence:

Underhill, E. F., 733.
 Underhill, J., 1272.
 Vandyke, H. L. R., 773.
 Van Riper, B., 623.
 Van Santwood, J., 866.
 Van Zandt, W., 666.
 Wadsworth, W. H., 923.
 Walker, R. J., 1014, 1127.
 Walker, R. R., 765.
 Wall, J. W., 478, 639, 641, 777.
 Walton, C. W., 675.
 Walworth, H., 86.
 Ward, J. E., 10, 85.
 War Department, U. S., 147, 180, 224, 365, 506, 773, 794, 917, 1014, 1253, 1256, 1295.
 Washburn, I., jr., 639, 690.
 Watson, W. S., 491.
 Webster, E. D., 671.
 Weed, T., 47, 482, 628, 672.
 White, H., 47, 73, 83, 86, 236.
 Whittlesey, E., 1022.
 Wilder, E. B., 890.
 Wilder, E. B., Mrs., 698.
 Williams, J., jr., 459.
 Wilson, C., 1355, 1356.
 Wilson, C. A., Mrs., 386.
 Wilson, H., 54.
 Wilson, H. G., 832, 845.
 Winder, C. H., 735, 738.
 Winder, W. H., 735.
 Withrow, T. F., 1330.
 Wood, F., 1267, 1272.
 Woodford, S. L., 482.
 Wool, J. E., 95, 107, 126, 146, 219, 225, 1282, 1283.
 Wyatt, F., 832, 840.
 Newspapers for political prisoners, 179.
State Flag, 1326.
State of Maine, Ship, 677, 680.
Staunton, A. C., 1481-1483.
Staunton, O. C., 1428.
Stedman, Captain, 1479.
Steering, H., 228.
Steiger, John J.
 Correspondence, W. A. Parker, 161.
Stephens, Mr., 523.
Stephens, Alexander H.
 Correspondence, S. J. Anderson, 605, 607, 609.
 Mentioned, 602-604, 608, 609, 613, 1386.
Stephens, Nathaniel, 36, 226.
Stephens, William, 867.
Sterman, O. F., 815.
Stetson, Charles A.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1268.
 Mentioned, 597, 754.
Stewart, Adam D., 366.
Stevens, A. G., 305, 1023.
Stevens, Firman, 268.
Stevens, Henry K., 103, 230, 303.
Stevens, J. J., 268.
Stevens, James E., 295.
Stevens, Lewis W., 268.
Stevens, N. B., 332.
Stevenson, Mr., 520, 523.
Stevenson, Caleb N., 1465.

- Stevenson, Leslie, 268.
 Stewart, Dr., 309.
 Stewart, Miss. See Ellie M. Poole.
 Stewart, A. T., & Co., 480.
 Stewart, Henry A., 237, 271, 279.
 Stewart, J. D., 252.
 Stewart, J. J., 268.
 Stewart, J. R., 212, 213, 217, 218, 348.
 Stewart, James, 266.
 Stewart, John W., 266.
 Stewart, Owen, 268.
 Stewart, Thomas R., 297.
 Stewart, William P., 266.
 Stickney, L. D.
 Correspondence:
 Lincoln, A., 980.
 State Department, U. S., 977.
 Stiles, William H., 1032.
 Stillman, Eliza, 125.
 Stillman, Julia, 125.
 Stine, James M., 252.
 Stockslager, Daniel, 266.
 Stockwell, J. S., 1011, 1012.
 Stoeckl, Edward de.
 Correspondence:
 Foreign Office, Russian, 1200.
 State Department, U. S., 1201.
 Mentioned, 1171, 1192, 1200, 1202.
 Stollings, Granville, 268.
 Stone, Messrs., 862.
 Stone, Charles P.
 Correspondence, A. Porter, 172.
 Mentioned, 173, 308, 340, 565, 1348, 1482, 1483.
 Stone, D. C.
 Correspondence, W. McK. Dunn, 685, 686.
 Stone, Henry, 1480.
 Stone, John S., 1289.
 Stone, Thomas, 862, 868.
 Stoneburner, Jacob, 1470, 1472.
 Storer, Ammi, 678.
 Storm, Steamer, 122.
 Stott, Stephen, 252, 349.
 Stoughton, E. W.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 76, 78.
 Stoughton, E. W., Mrs., 76.
 Stover, F., 1442.
 Stover, J. See M. M. Hallinan.
 Stover, Sampson, 1448, 1476.
 Stover, Tallison, 1478, 1479.
 Stovin, John C., case of, 897-904.
 Mentioned, 227, 897-904.
 Stowell, Lord, 1140, 1187.
 Stowell, Alexander H.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 170.
 Strather, Stephen, sr., 266.
 Stratton, W. J., 252.
 Streeter, James, 1553.
 Streeter & Co., 1553.
 Strickland, Joseph, 266.
 Stringham, Silas H., 45, 52, 66, 150, 226, 721.
 Strong, Frederick W.
 Correspondence, W. A. Parker, 161.
 Strong, John C.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 615.
 Mentioned, 617.
 Stuart, Charles E., 1245, 1247, 1248, 1252-1254, 1256, 1257.
 Stuart, James E. B., 1374, 1447, 1455, 1456, 1458, 1487, 1488, 1516, 1519.
 Stuart, John B., 1464.
 Stuart, William.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 38.
 Stubblefield, G., 898.
 Stubbs, F. B., 1309.
 Studley, W. H.
 Correspondence, M. Burke, 405.
 Mentioned, 404, 405.
 Stump, Herman, 332.
 Stunz, Herman P., 239, 240, 263.
 Sturgis, Russell.
 Correspondence:
 State Department, U. S., 694, 697.
 Wilder, E. B., 695.
 Mentioned, 694, 696, 697.
 Sturtevant, Leonard, 229, 302.
 Styles, Joseph, 207.
 Sudendorf, John D., 119, 155, 232, 270, 313.
 Sullivan, Algernon S., case of, 682-688.
 Mentioned, 102, 229, 635, 682-688.
 Sullivan, Jere.
 Correspondence, W. McK. Dunn, 687.
 Mentioned, 685.
 Sullivan, Mary, 684-686.
 Sullivan, Michael, 251.
 Summers, David, 63, 113, 155, 225, 234, 301.
 Summers, E. B., 164.
 Summers, George, 63, 85, 225.
 Sumner, Charles.
 Correspondence, J. F. Morton, 850, 851.
 Mentioned, 560.
 Sumner, Edwin V.
 Arrest of Gwin, Benham, and Brent, 1011.
 Correspondence:
 Judd, H., 1012.
 Montgomery, J. B., 1010.
 Mentioned, 9, 218, 1009, 1010, 1012-1014, 1017-1020, 1455.
 Sumter, C. S. Str., 252, 261, 346, 360, 1133, 1134, 1172.
 Sun Flower, Schooner, 1483.
 Susan G. Owen, Bark, 546.
 Susan Jane, Schooner, 300, 301.
 Susquehanna, U. S. Steamer, 131, 162, 169, 220, 221.
 Sutherland, J. F.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 128.
 Mentioned, 129.
 Sutherland, John S.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 684.
 Sutter, or Sutler, Henry, 182, 329.
 Suydam, William H.
 Correspondence:
 Odell, M. F., 383.
 Rasin, R. W., 389.
 Mentioned, 155, 229, 321.
 Swain, C. M., 268.
 Swain, J. P., 228, 239, 240, 263.
 Swan, George, 238.
 Swan, Walter, 238.
 Swank, John, 1425.
 Swann, Thomas B., 1448.
 Swedish Consuls. See Consuls.
 Sweeney, Preston, 252.
 Swindle, Isaac, 92, 94, 96, 307.
 Swindler, Wilson, 268.
 Swisher, George W., 1425.

- Swisher, John, 1425.
 Sybert, Mr., 1464.
 Sykes, William L., 1554, 1555.
 Syms, Mrs., 1347.
 T., Captain, 730.
 T. J. Evans, Sloop, 297.
 Tabram, William, 713.
 Talbot, George, 238.
 Talbot, George F.
 Correspondence:
 Eaton, D. L., 679.
 State Department, U. S., 674, 676, 677.
 Woods, G., 680.
 Mentioned, 681.
 Tallant, J. F., 252.
 Taney, Roger B., 29, 409, 1328.
 Tanner, Elijah, 266.
 Tanner, John A., 266.
 Tanner, Joshua, 266.
 Tanner, William, 266.
 Tansill, Robert, case of, 599-602.
 Correspondence:
 Lincoln, A., 600.
 Navy Department, U. S., 47, 70.
 State Department, U. S., 601.
 Mentioned, 47, 48, 76, 78, 79, 102, 155, 230, 428, 599-602.
 Tappan, Charles O.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 558.
 Tappan, T. C., 85.
 Tappin, Augustus, 1433.
 Tapt, Dr., 1531.
 Tapt, Mrs., 1532.
 Tarr, J. Hopkins, 85.
 Tate, Sam, 431.
 Tate, William, 1481.
 Tattnall, John R. F.
 Correspondence, W. Smith, 428.
 Mentioned, 155, 428.
 Tattnall, Josiah, 341.
 Taylor, Captain, 60.
 Taylor, Colonel, 1447.
 Taylor, Mr., 1454.
 Taylor, A. S., 1388, 1434.
 Taylor, Alfred (U. S. Navy), 1092, 1093, 1098.
 Taylor, Alfred (W. Va.), 268.
 Taylor, David.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 898.
 Mentioned, 899.
 Taylor, Edward.
 Correspondence, H. W. Thomas, 1405.
 Mentioned, 365, 367, 368, 1434, 1519.
 Taylor, Harrison.
 Correspondence:
 Lincoln, A., 919.
 Stanton, R. H., et al., 917.
 Mentioned, 919.
 Taylor, J., 1483.
 Taylor, J. Looney.
 Correspondence, J. Davis, 1412.
 Taylor, J. R.
 Correspondence, W. M. Churchwell, 1423.
 Taylor, Julian, 1347.
 Taylor, Moses.
 Correspondence:
 Hardy, H. C., 525, 526.
 Taylor, Moses—Continued.
 Correspondence:
 Roberts, M. O., 526.
 State Department, U. S., 525.
 Mentioned, 520, 523, 525.
 Taylor, Obed W., 268.
 Taylor, Robinson M. N., 1041, 1042, 1046, 1070, 1071, 1074.
 Taylor, William Arthur, 272, 277.
 Taylor, William B., 494, 496, 501, 1067.
 Teackle, St. George W., 396.
 Tebbs, James J.
 Correspondence, S. Breckinridge, 273.
 Temple, Charles, 268.
 Temple, Charles T., 147, 180.
 Temps, The, 1174.
 Tennessee.
 Martial law, note, 1421.
 Tenney, Mr., 327.
 Tennison, Andrew, 1447.
 Terry, Benjamin F., 243.
 Texas Troops.
 Infantry—Regiments:
 3d (Buchel), 1408.
 Thayer, Mr., 947.
 Thayer, A. W.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 41.
 Thayer, Eli, 1283.
 Thayer, J. T. & S. G., 533, 534, 543.
 Thayer, John M., 327.
 Thayer, M. Russell.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1139.
 Mentioned, 1106.
 Theodora, C. S. Steamer, 1077, 1080, 1227, 1239.
 Theodore Weems, Steamer, 192.
 Thigpen, Benjamin.
 Correspondence, J. Davis, 1387.
 Thomas, Dr., 1320.
 Thomas, Benjamin F., case of, 913-933.
 Correspondence:
 Hood, F. T., 917.
 Taylor, H., 917.
 Mentioned, 155, 229, 913-915, 918, 919, 921-923.
 Thomas, Charles, 206, 210.
 Thomas, Francis, 792.
 Thomas, Frank, 1538, 1540, 1542.
 Thomas, George.
 Correspondence, T. J. Jackson, 412.
 Mentioned, 400.
 Thomas, George H.
 Correspondence:
 Anderson, R., 884.
 Coffey, W. A., 884.
 Mentioned, 885, 886.
 Thomas, H. W.
 Correspondence:
 Baxter, S. S., 1421.
 Moore, J., 1398.
 Taylor, E., 1405.
 Mentioned, 1418, 1422, 1429, 1441, 1445, 1452-1454, 1481, 1487, 1488.
 Thomas, Henry W., Mrs., 397.
 Thomas, J. William, 412.
 Thomas, James, jr., 533, 539, 540, 542, 543.
 Thomas, John B.
 Correspondence, La Porte Co. (Ind.) Sheriff, 712.

- Thomas, John Hanson, 102, 155, 225, 227, 230, 232, 239, 263, 270.
- Thomas, John L., 411.
- Thomas, Lorenzo.
Correspondence. See Adj. Gen.'s Office, U. S. A.
Mentioned, 182, 217, 281, 286, 335-337, 395, 619, 719, 782, 783, 938, 966, 974, 1301.
- Thomas, R., Mrs.
Correspondence, M. Burke, 396.
Mentioned, 396-398, 412, 413.
- Thomas, Richard, case of, 379-415.
Commission, Virginia forces, 399.
Correspondence:
Political Prisoners' Commission, 396.
State Department, U. S., 386, 387.
Virginia, Governor of, 412.
War Department, C. S., 411.
Indictment, 390-394.
Mentioned, 17, 99, 151, 152, 165, 226, 277, 291, 379-415.
Resolution, U. S. Senate, 403.
- Thomas, Ruel, 1428.
- Thomas, Sanford, 1464.
- Thomas, William B., 834.
- Thomas Colyer, Steamer, 343.
- Thomasson, P. H., 266.
- Thompson, Mr., 1488.
- Thompson, Aden, 1484.
- Thompson, Amos, 228, 239, 240, 263, 342.
- Thompson, B. W., 687.
- Thompson, Caloway, 268.
- Thompson, Carthwright, 92, 94, 96, 307.
- Thompson, Coplin, 268.
- Thompson, Ellis, 1309.
- Thompson, Franklin, 1309.
- Thompson, Fred. H.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 193.
- Thompson, George, 63, 113, 225, 234, 299.
- Thompson, George W., 268.
- Thompson, Jacob.
Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 1389.
- Thompson, Jesse, 1309.
- Thompson, Lewis, 34.
- Thompson, M. Jeff.
Correspondence, U. S. Grant, 145.
Mentioned, 144, 145.
- Thompson, Matthew, 138.
- Thompson, Michael, case of, 1307-1313.
Mentioned, 237, 561, 572, 1307-1313, 1320, 1355.
- Thompson, Michael, Mrs.
Correspondence, Mrs. H. S. Schoolcraft, 1310.
- Thompson, Samuel, 1367.
- Thompson, Sears P., 1000, 1003, 1005, 1007.
- Thompson, W. L., 1386.
- Thomson, James.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 658.
Mentioned, 658, 659.
- Thouvenel, Edouard A.
Correspondence. See Foreign Office, French.
Mentioned, 592, 1120-1122, 1134, 1143, 1144, 1175, 1176, 1196, 1197, 1219, 1237, 1243.
- Thurston, C. A., 898.
- Thurber, Henry G., case of, 881-897.
Mentioned, 103, 155, 231, 234, 882, 885-888, 893-897.
- Ticknor, Mr., 1474, 1477, 1478.
- Tiemen, Mr., 50.
- Tiernan, Peter H., 35.
- Tift, Charles, case of, 957-982.
Mentioned, 959, 960, 964-966.
- Tilghman, Samuel Ogle, 36, 226.
- Tillman, Thomas W., 202, 212, 217, 266, 336.
- Tilton & Co., 534.
- Tinelli, Louis W., 320.
- Tipton, Mr., 884.
- Tirrer, John, 252.
- Tochman, Madam, 237.
- Tod, David.
Correspondence. See Ohio, Governor of.
Mentioned, 212, 217, 332, 348.
- Todd, Lieutenant, 1367, 1371.
- Todd, Charles M.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 587.
Mentioned, 586.
- Todebush, John, 252.
- Tolle, William B., case of, 915-917.
- Tollenback, Frederick, 63, 85, 225, 299
- Tomlin, Harrison B., 1429.
- Tompkins, Christopher Q., 1478.
- Tompkins, Daniel D.
Correspondence, Army Headquarters, 423.
- Tompkins, S. S., 1430.
- Tompkins County (N. Y.) Democrat, 66, 68.
- Toole & Fairleigh, 207.
- Toombs, Robert.
Correspondence. See State Department, C. S.
Mentioned, 609, 612, 613, 721, 723, 839, 841, 1272, 1386, 1493-1497, 1509.
- Toone, Joseph H., Schooner, 909-913.
- Tortugas Island, Fla.
Proclamation (Lincoln), 19.
- Toothman, Ashbury, 268.
- Topping, John P., 1525, 1526.
- Torney, Michael, 266.
- Torr, John, 1064, 1066.
- Townsend, Major (N. Y.), 465.
- Townsend, Edward D.
Correspondence, Adj. Gen.'s Office, U. S. A., 394.
See also Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., and Army Headquarters.
Mentioned, 107, 124, 394, 397, 404, 1345.
- Tracy, Albert.
Correspondence. See John O. Frémont.
- Trader, Samuel, 1425
- Trappman, William H., 644, 647
- Travis, John S., 306.
- Treasury Department, U. S.
Correspondence:
Ballard, C. J., 1044, 1045.
Barney, H., 71.
Dix, J. A., 176.
Gallagher, W. D., 810.
Jordan, E., 516.
Nelson, W., 915.
Ritch, T. G., 542.
State Dept., U. S., 51, 106, 128, 518, 916, 1044, 1299.
- Tremain, Mr., 947.
- Trenholm, George A., 1224, 1225.
- Trenholm Bros. & Co., 191.
- Trent, Steamer, 1076, 1080-1091, 1094, 1095, 1097, 1098, 1100, 1102-1105, 1107, 1108, 1110, 1112-1118, 1121-1123, 1126-1128, 1133-1143, 1145-1149, 1151, 1152, 1155-1162, 1164, 1166-1168, 1170-1180, 1182-1185, 1187, 1189-1194, 1196-1206, 1228, 1232-1235, 1237, 1238, 1243.

- Trescot, William H.
Correspondence, State Dept., C. S., 1222, 1225
Mentioned, 651, 654, 660.
- Treviño, Don Andres.
Correspondence, J. S. Ford, 1391.
- Trice, Mr., 1452.
- Trieber, Michael, 898.
- Trimble, W. W.
Correspondence, S. Breckinridge, 273.
- Triplett, J. S., 252.
- Tripp, Jonathan, 1247.
- Trott, T. P.
Correspondence. See Post-Office Dept., U. S.
Mentioned, 563.
- Troutman, Francis, 324.
- Troxell, John L., 309.
- Trumble, Vance L., 238, 245, 262, 347.
- Tryon, Frank, 711.
- Tucker, Beverly, 59, 176.
- Tucker, Daniel G., 704, 707, 708, 950.
- Tucker, John, 430, 431.
- Tucker, John Randolph.
Correspondence:
Lee, R. E., 1361, 1490.
Virginia, Governor of, 1362.
War Department, C. S., 1374, 1384.
See also Attorney-General's Office, C. S.
Mentioned, 683 1385.
- Turnbull, Thomas B., 419.
- Turner, Lieutenant, 1488.
- Turner, Mr., 863.
- Turner, H. D., 1303.
- Turner, John.
Correspondence, S. S. Baxter, 1409.
- Turner, L. C.
Correspondence. See War Department, U. S.
- Turner, Thomas P.
Correspondence:
Bass, C., 414.
Ould, R., 415.
- Turner, William, 164.
- Tuscarora, U. S. Steamer, 1172, 1240.
- Tyler, C. H., 231.
- Tyler, Charles R., 158.
- Tyler, Erastus B., 1433.
- Tyler, George W.
Correspondence, D. H. Craig, 809.
- Tyler, John, 1317.
- Tyler, John, jr.
Correspondence, J. Davis, 1366, 1367.
Mentioned, 428.
- Tyler, Robert, 1428.
- Tyndale, Hector, 1304, 1341.
- Tyree, William, 1438.
- Tyson, Isaac, 314.
- Tyson, William, 1290.
- Tyte, Mr., 112.
- Tytus, F. J.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 128.
Mentioned, 128, 129.
- Underhill, Edward F.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 733.
- Underhill, J.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1272.
- Underwood, Mr., 255.
- Underwood, J. C., 1444, 1471-1473, 1480.
- Union, Steamer, 181.
- Union Democrat, 1323, 1324, 1327.
- Union Democrat, Editor.
Correspondence, W. M. Hill, 1323.
"Union Now and Forever."
Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 774.
- Union Troops.
Artillery—Batteries:
Sherman's 1513.
Infantry—Regiments:
8th, 470
- United States Consuls. See Consuls.
- United States Consuls-General.
See Consuls-General.
- Updegraff, Joseph.
Correspondence, G. Loomis, 108.
- Upham, J. J., 1012.
- Usher, Annie M., 125.
- Urgent, H. B. M. S., 1139.
- Valentine, George, 268.
- Vallandigham, Clement L., 65, 128, 129, 725.
- Van Amringe, G. O., 92, 103, 155, 232, 239, 263, 270.
- Van Arsdale, Lemuel, 198, 200, 237, 263.
- Vanasdale, Mr., 1531.
- Van Bibber, D. C., 266.
- Van Bibber, J. C., 266.
- Van Buren, D. T.
Correspondence. See John A. Dix.
- Van Camp, Aaron.
Correspondence, T. Jordan, 565.
Mentioned, 237, 271, 561, 562, 565, 572-574, 1309, 1310, 1312.
- Vance, George W., 266.
- Vandalia, U. S. Steamer, 87, 546, 551, 553.
- Vandevender, Cain, 266.
- Vandyke, Henry L. R.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 773.
- Vanhorn, Mr., 1531.
- Vanloon, I. C., 636.
- Van Meler, Solomon, 1484.
- Van Meter, Jacob, et al.
Correspondence, J. Davis, 1378.
- Van Riper, B.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 623.
- Van Santwood, J.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 866.
- Van Valkingburgh, R., 623.
- Van Zandt, W.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 666.
- Varner, Lieutenant, 413, 414.
- Varner, Jacob, 266.
- Vattel, Emmeric de, 1148, 1185, 1188.
- Venus, Schooner, 344, 345.
- Verneigerholz, C. Theodore.
Correspondence, R. Anderson, 887.
Mentioned, 887.
- Verot, Augustin, 55.
- Verree, John P., 431.
- Very, Samuel, jr.
Correspondence, W. A. Parker, 161.
- Victor Emmanuel II, 1202, 1204.
- Victoria, Schooner, 546.
- Victoria Alexandrina, Queen, 171, 215, 551, 594, 596, 632, 633, 665, 700, 897, 899, 900, 912, 992, 998, 1002, 1095, 1106, 1111, 1112, 1139-1141, 1157, 1171, 1172, 1197, 1202, 1214, 1233, 1240, 1243, 1431.

- Vifguerin (French Officer), 1422.
 Vigilant, Steam Tug, 112.
 Vincennes, U. S. Sloop, 329, 330, 343.
 Vincent, Captain, 457.
 Vincent, Henry, 252.
 Vincent, Isaac T., 34.
 Vincent, Samuel W., 34.
 Vincent, Thomas M., 982.
 Virginia.
 Dix's proclamation, Eastern Shore, 139.
 Martial law, 1420, note, 1421.
 Virginia, Governor of.
 Commission of R. Thomas, 399.
 Correspondence:
 Bass, C., 414.
 Branch, W. D., 1363, 1364.
 Brannon, J., 1507.
 Davis, J., 1364, 1507, 1508.
 Hall, W. C., 411.
 Heck, J. M., 1508.
 Lincoln, A., 401.
 Lyons, J., 1500.
 Pendleton, J., 1388.
 Ribble, F. J., 1373.
 State Department, C. S., 1497.
 Thomas, R., 412.
 Tucker, J. R., 1362.
 Winder, W. H., 723.
 Virginia (Merrimac), C. S. Steamer, 1320.
 Virginia Legislature (U.).
 Resolutions, 246.
 Virginia Troops (C.).
 Cavalry—Companies:
 Caskie Rangers, 1441, 1442, 1448, 1449, 1469, 1474.
 Mead's, W. W., 1414, 1471.
 Prince William, 1444, 1472.
 Rockbridge, 1382, 1455.
 Visser (Wisser), J., 1459.
 Voorhes, Nelson, 1290.
 Vroom, P. D.
 Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 774.
 W., Colonel, 1348.
 Wabash, U. S. Frigate, 341.
 Waddell, James J.
 Correspondence:
 Berrian, H., 205.
 Navy Department, U. S., 205.
 Mentioned, 204, 211, 321.
 Wade, Emanuel C., 227.
 Wade, Robert, 835, 840.
 Wadsworth, James S.
 Correspondence:
 Political Prisoners' Commission, 577, 1320, 1351.
 War Department, U. S., 269.
 Wadsworth, W. H.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 923.
 Mentioned, 915.
 Waggener, Charles B., 15, 1395.
 Wagoner, Michael, 266.
 Wainwright, Henry C.
 Correspondence, J. Amory, 1053.
 Mentioned, 153, 1045, 1050-1059.
 Walbridge, Lewis, 984.
 Walden, Howard de, 1165.
 Walker, Major, 1548.
 Walker, Mr., 372.
 Walker, Benjamin, 1413.
 Walker, Charles, 1431.
 Walker, George W., 1484.
 Walker, Leroy P.
 Correspondence. See War Department, C. S.
 Mentioned, 358, 793, 839, 841, 1363, 1367, 1378, 1508,
 1511-1516, 1518, 1519, 1521.
 Walker, Oceana, 563.
 Walker, Robert J.
 Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 1014, 1127.
 Mentioned, 1014, 1016.
 Walker, Robert R., case of, 749-766.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 765.
 Mentioned, 102, 229, 516, 749-766.
 Walker, Samuel J., 809.
 Walker, Samuel T., 1425, 1487.
 Walker, William, 1450, 1451.
 Walker, William J., case of, 561-577.
 Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 575.
 Mentioned, 152, 237, 561-564, 566, 567, 569-571.
 Wall, Harrison, 1461, 1462.
 Wall, James W., case of, 771-778.
 Correspondence:
 Burling, G. C., 773.
 Hall, W., 776.
 New Jersey, Governor of, 775.
 Reed, W. B., 778.
 State Department, U. S., 478, 639, 641, 777.
 War Department, U. S., 772, 773, 777, 778.
 Mentioned, 229, 403, 405, 771-778.
 Wall, James W., Mrs., 774.
 Wallace, Andrew, 304.
 Wallace, Lewis, 268, 275, 897.
 Wallace, Martin, 1309.
 Wallace, Thomas, 513.
 Wallace, William H. L., 200.
 Wallach, Richard, 72, 598.
 Wallis, S. Teackle, 102, 155, 225, 227, 230, 232, 285, 780, 793, 795.
 Walsh, Mr., 77.
 Walsh, Robert, 155.
 Walsh, Thomas, 252.
 Walters, William, 314.
 Walton, Charles W.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 675.
 Walton, David, 206.
 Walton, David, Mrs., 207.
 Walton, E. H., 266.
 Walton, E. P., 978.
 Walton, G. R., 643.
 Walworth, Hiram.
 Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 86.
 Walworth, Mansfield T., case of, 1351-1352.
 Mentioned, 238, 272, 1347, 1349, 1351, 1352.
 Walworth, Mansfield T., Mrs., 1347.
 Walworth, Reuben H.
 Correspondence, Political Prisoners' Commission, 1352.
 Mentioned, 947, 1349, 1352.
 Walzl, Richard, 237, 330, 331.
 Wanger, Henry M., 1425.
 Wanger, Jacob, 1425.
 Ward, Alexander, 770.
 Ward, Alexander W., 226.
 Ward, George W., 1418.
 Ward, James H., 1030.

Ward, John E.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 10, 85.
Mentioned, 83, 85, 180.

Ward, McKinsey, 266.Ward, W., 1437.*Ward, William, 238, 263, 338.*Ward, William H.

Correspondence:

Lincoln, A., 110.

Navy Department, U. S., 8, 31

Mentioned, 8, 102, 109, 155, 230, 298, 1417, 1419.

Ward, William T.

Correspondence, W. T. Sherman, 125.

War Department, C. S.

Correspondence:

Adjt. and Insp. Gen.'s Office, C. S. A., 368.

Alabama, Governor of, 1407

Anderson, F. P., 184.

Arkansas, Governor of, 1402, 1403.

Ashby, T., 1393.

Associated Press, New Orleans, 829.

Attorney-General's Office, C. S., 197.

Baldwin, J. B., 1381, 1546.

Baxter, S. S., 1403, 1413, 1416, 1418, 1419, 1526, 1533, 1534.

Beauregard, G. T., 565.

Bell, H. M., 1415.

Bennett, J. M., 1390, 1392, 1394.

Blackburn, E. E., 1399.

Bledsoe, A. T., 1389.

Board, G. B., 1371.

Bocock, T. S., 1517, 1518.

Boyce, W. W., 1517, 1518.

Byrd, J. J., 1383.

Crane, A. J., 1419, 1546, 1547.

Daniel, A. T., 1546, 1547.

Davis, J., 429, 430, 1363, 1409, 1412, 1413, 1502, 1517.

Dickinson, A. D., 413, 414.

Ely, A., 1383, 1385.

Fisher, M. W., 1372.

Floyd, J. B., 1391.

Garland, A. H., 1417.

Gray, J. T., 1367.

Green, W. J., 184.

Hagadorn, S., 1501.

Harness, W. H., 1416.

Heyliger, L., 1239.

Hilliard, H. W., 1229.

Huff, J. C., 1371.

Huger, B., 367, 368, 456, 1376, 1419, 1420.

Hunter, A., 1377.

Hunton, E., 796.

Irving, J. B., jr., 1375.

Johnson, R., 476, 477.

Johnson, R. W., 1517, 1518.

Johnston, J. E., 1411.

Johnston, W. P., 365.

Jordan, J. V., 184.

Jordan, T., 564.

Joynes, E. S., 1407.

Joynes, W. T., 1546, 1547.

Keitt, L. M., 1517, 1518.

Lindsay, J. E., 1415.

Louisiana, Governor of, 1228, 1239.

Lyons, J., 1374, 1382, 1388, 1497, 1515.

Magruder, J. B., 1390.

War Department, C. S.—Continued.

Correspondence:

Miller, F. B., 1385.

Mines, J. F., 1509.

Morton, J., 1407.

Navy Department, C. S., 1417.

North Carolina, Governor of, 1363, 1367, 1371.

Ould, R., 414.

Payne, Huntington & Co., 1239.

Pryor, R. A., 1517, 1518.

Rockwell, W. S., 1408.

Rossvally, C., 1405.

Ruggles, D., 366.

Ruggles, E. S., 368.

Salomon, E., 1382.

Shaw, H. M., 184.

Smith, D., 1381.

Smith, R. H., 1400.

Smith, W., 430.

Staley, A. G., 1399.

Thomas, R., 411.

Thompson, J., 1389.

Tucker, J. R., 1374, 1384.

Winder, J. H., 1373, 1374, 1409, 1422, 1424, 1426, 1427, 1502, 1506, 1508, 1547.

Pass for H. May, 796.

Political Prisoners' Board, 1403.

War Department, U. S.

Correspondence:

Acton, S. G., 879.

Adjt. Gen.'s Office, U. S. A., 205, 280, 404.

Army Headquarters, 41.

Attorney-General's Office, U. S., 8, 182, 247.

Baker, L. C., 853.

Banks, N. P., 10, 380.

Barkley, C., 553.

Barnum, P. T., 166.

Baxley, C. V., 1318.

Biddle, G. W., 739.

Burke, M., 91, 257, 395, 397, 398, 530, 845, 1360.

Burson, J. W., 377.

Carper, P. W., 1294.

Carr, D. H., 54, 60, 66.

Chiefs of Police, 246.

Clarke, C., 689.

Coffey, G. A., 7, 55, 725, 726, 745.

Crittenden, J. J., 828.

Curtiss, G., 57.

Deacon, B., 772.

Deringer, T. T., 535.

Dimick, J., 258, 269, 561, 765, 828, 1278, 1280.

Dix, J. A., 33, 117, 246, 258-260, 382, 389, 390, 788, 793.

Dixon, J., 854, 855.

Draper, S., 46, 416.

Duble, H. N., 1314.

Dudley, T. H., 206.

Dunn, H., 255.

Emerson, J. S., 354.

Falls, M. N., 1093.

Fisher, C. H., 505.

Frémont, J. C., 286.

Fulton, C. C., 479.

Fulton, W. W., 1141.

Gilchrist, W., 854.

Grimes, J. W., 1302, 1331, 1333.

War Department, U. S.—Continued.

Correspondence:

- Hall, R. B., 9.
 Halleck, H. W., 1333.
 Harlan, J., 1331, 1333.
 Hill, S., 56.
 Hill, W. M., 1331, 1335.
 Hitchcock, E. A., 403.
 Hollingshead, J. S., 1294.
 Howard, F. K., 783.
 Hoxie, H. M., 1331, 1332.
 Hull, R., 1345.
 Hutchins, W., 517.
 Indiana, Governor of, 806.
 Judge-Adv. Gen.'s Office, U. S. A., 409.
 Keasbey, A. Q., 7.
 Lincoln, A., 288.
 Ludlow, W. H., 427.
 McClellan, G. B., 43, 793.
 Magraw, S. M., 65.
 Marshall, M. P., 920.
 Miles, G., 533, 534.
 Millner, J. K., 765.
 Millward, W., 505, 725.
 Morehead, C. S., 829.
 Morris, J. R., 406.
 Murray, R., 287.
 Navy Department, U. S., 93.
 Nelson, W., 916.
 Ohio, Governor of, 39, 42.
 Peirpoint, F. H., 246, 258.
 Phillips, D. L., 273.
 Pinkerton, A., 880, 1303, 1319.
 Political Prisoners' Commission, 259, 263, 282,
 283, 287, 789, 1266, 1337, 1339, 1353, 1356, 1357,
 1360.
 Post-Office Department, U. S., 12, 59, 283.
 Prentiss, B. M., 34.
 Quartermaster-General's Office, U. S. A., 264.
 Richards, W. L., 169.
 Rosecrans, W. S., 197.
 Sanford, E. S., 87, 1093, 1198.
 Sargent, T. D., 18.
 Sheridan, P. H., 1357.
 Smith, E. D., 6, 8, 517.
 Smith, F. G., 841.
 State Department, U. S., 147, 180, 224, 365, 506, 773, 794, 917, 1014, 1253, 1256, 1295.
 "Union Now and Forever," 774.
 Vroom, P. D., 774.
 Wadsworth, J. S., 269.
 Walker, W. J., 575.
 Wall, J. W., 772, 773, 777, 778.
 Washington (D. C.) Tel. Op., 46.
 Wattles, D. C., 1263, 1264.
 Webster, E. D., 828.
 White, A. G., 42.
 Wilmer, J. W., 1283.
 Wilson, H., 404.
 Winder, W. H., 741.
 Wood, W. P., 263, 1295.
 Wool, J. E., 794.
 Executive orders, No. 1, 221; No. 2, 249.
 Wardlaw, Levi J., 252.
 Wardle, Arthur, 182, 330.
 Wardwell, Jeremiah M., 485, 486.

Ware, Ashur, 689.

Ware, John N., 266.

Ware, Robert, 227.

Warfield, Henry M.

Correspondence, H. May, 796.

Mentioned, 102, 155, 225, 227, 230, 232, 270, 285, 793, 795.

Waring, Mr., 1367.

Warkup, William, 1431.

Warley, Ella, Steamer, 1239.

Warner, E. C., 266.

Warner, William A., 223, 224.

Warren, Fort, Mass.

Dimick, J., assigned to command, 105.

Newspapers for prisoners, 179.

Prisoners, 154, 155, 230, 232, 233, 285.

Warren, M. J.

Correspondence, F. D. Flanders, 950.

Warrior, H. B. M. S., 1131, 1236.

Watrous, D., 1466.

Warwick County, Va.

Martial law, note, 1421.

Washburn, Israel, jr.

Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 689, 690.

Mentioned, 688-692.

Washington, D. C.

Prisoners, 152.

Washington (D. C.) Tel. Op.

Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 46.

Washington, George, 733, 1127, 1394.

Washington, Henry, 400.

Washington, Mary, Str., 183, 380, 388, 401, 402, 404.

Washington Chronicle, 269, 406.

Washington Star, 65, 880, 1228, 1310.

Washington States, 1520.

Water, James, 1445.

Waters, William, 1290.

Watkins, Charles W., 268.

Watkins, Daniel, 1425.

Watkins, David, 1487.

Watkins, George S. and Rudolph, case of, 857-881.

Correspondence, J. M. Bowman, 867.

Mentioned, 152, 237, 271, 277, 857-881.

Watson, Barron C.

Correspondence, O. G. Parsly & Co., 437.

Mentioned, 438, 454.

Watson, Gillet F.

Correspondence, J. A. Dix, 281.

Watson, Hugh, 485, 491-493.

Watson, Peter H.

Correspondence. See War Department, U. S.

Watson, W. L., 1466.

Watson, W. S.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 491.

Watt, Alexander, 237.

Watt, George, 182, 330.

Wattles, David C., case of, 1244-1267.

Correspondence:

New York Times, Editor, 1261.

War Department, U. S., 1263, 1264.

Wattles, J. M., 1258.

Mentioned, 239, 240, 263, 1244-1267.

Wattles, John M.

Correspondence, D. C. Wattles, 1258.

Mentioned, 1258.

Wauldron, Thomas, 1464.

- Weaver, Aaron W.
Correspondence, J. L. Lardner, 220
Mentioned, 220.
- Weaver, Isaac H., 228, 239, 240, 263, 342.
- Webber, Mr., 977.
- Weber, Max.
Correspondence, R. C. Hawkins, 63.
- Webster, Alexander, 223.
- Webster, Daniel, Steamer, 612.
- Webster, Daniel, 936, 1230, 1231, 1261.
- Webster, E. D.
Correspondence:
State Department, U. S., 671.
War Department, U. S., 828.
See also Political Prisoners' Commission; State Department, U. S.; and War Department, U. S.
Mentioned, 526, 672, 719, 828, 1157, 1162, 1338, 1353.
- Webster, Fletcher, 53.
- Webster, Noah, 56.
- Wedge, Frank, 1029.
- Weed, Thurlow.
Correspondence:
Lowber, D. C., 584.
State Department, U. S., 47, 482, 628, 672.
Mentioned, 59, 60, 84, 124, 498, 672.
- Weems, George, Steamer, 226.
- Weems, Theodore, Steamer, 192.
- Weese, Elias, 268.
- Weimer, C. F., 1468, 1470.
- Weir, Morgan C., 720.
- Welch, Alonzo, 226.
- Welch, John, 271, 277.
- Weldon, Mr., 623.
- Weller, J., 1459.
- Welles, Gideon.
Correspondence. See Navy Department, U. S.
Mentioned, 49, 92, 95, 98, 102, 103, 109, 158, 162, 166-170, 204, 219, 230-232, 253, 258, 295, 298, 300, 301, 304, 312, 321, 322, 325, 326, 341, 343, 350-361, 431, 438, 447, 508, 549, 599-601, 685, 1091, 1093, 1098, 1101, 1122, 1125, 1313, 1415.
- Welles, Gideon, Mrs., 431.
- Wells, D. M. C., 252.
- Wells, George D.
Correspondence, J. Hooker, 1027, 1028.
Mentioned, 1027, 1028.
- Wells, Henry W.
Correspondence, W. A. Parker, 160.
Mentioned, 159.
- Wells, W. F., 252, 327.
- Welmore, Harry, 226.
- Welsh, Judge, 768.
- Welsh, James, 35.
- Welsh, Peter, 155.
- Welton, Mr., 1455.
- Wendell, Cornelius.
Correspondence, S. J. Anderson, 615.
- Werth, W. H., 1365.
- West, Benjamin P., 35.
- West, Department of the, C. O.
Correspondence. See Nathaniel Lyon.
- West, Madison J., 35.
- Western Department (C).
Political Prisoners' Board, 1398.
- Western Virginia, Department of.
Prisoners, 267.
- Weston, William, 1445, 1446.
- West Virginia Troops.
Infantry—Regiments:
9th, 270.
- Wethered, Charles E., 206, 210.
- Wethered, John, 202, 203.
- Wethered Bros., 203, 206, 210.
- Wetherel, James S., 1367.
- Whaley, Kellian V.
Correspondence, Judge - Advocate - General's Office, U. S. A., 406.
Mentioned, 137, 407, 1464.
- Wharton, Dr., 349.
- Wharton, Arthur D., 102, 155, 230, 300.
- Wharton, Jesse B., 237, 271, 278.
- Wharton, W. H., 268.
- Wheaton, Henry, 1232.
- Wheeler, Joseph C.
Correspondence, W. S. Rosecrans, 137.
Mentioned 1436.
- Wheeler, William A., 944, 952, 953.
- Wheeling, W. Va.
Prisoners, 264.
- Whipple, William D.
Correspondence. See John E. Wool.
- Whisler, Jonathan, 212.
- White, Lieutenant, 172.
- White, Mr., 173.
- White, A. G.
Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 42.
- White, Albert, 138.
- White, Cornelius, 1422, 1425, 1488.
- White, Elijah, 1468.
- White, Hollis.
Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 47, 73, 83, 86, 236.
Mentioned, 92.
- White, Julius.
Correspondence, W. Hoffman, 410.
- White, M. G., 1451.
- White, Micajah, 1451.
- White, Moses Bradford.
Correspondence, R. S. Hamilton, 1385.
Mentioned, 1388, 1389.
- White, Moses F., 252.
- White, Perry, 92, 94, 96, 307.
- White, Phillip, 252.
- White, R. W., 315.
- White, Robert, 1443.
- White, S. V., 1323.
- White, Thomas, 315.
- White, W. T., 268.
- White, William P., 1528, 1529.
- Whitehead, Dr., 1446.
- Whiting, Joseph P.
Correspondence, W. H. Barse, 1252.
Mentioned, 1244, 1245, 1251, 1252, 1254, 1259.
- Whiting, Samuel, 144.
- Whitley, F., 144.
- Whitney, Mr., 841.
- Whitten, A. M., 1286.
- Whittinghoff, William F., 252.
- Whittlesey, Charles.
Correspondence, D. C. Buell, 186.

Whittlesey, Elisha.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 1022.

Wible, Mr., 864.Wigen, L. L., 1368, 1371, 1429.*Widmeyer, Joseph, 252, 272*Wigal, J. W., 202, 212, 217, 336.*Wilcox, Mr., 302.*Wild, John, 257*Wilday, Lieutenant, 1388.*Wilder, Mr., 1047, 1057.*Wilder, Alice B.

Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 696.

Wilder, Edward B., case of, 693-703.

Correspondence:

Archibald, E. M., 699.

Kearny, W. E., 890.

Lincoln, A., 701.

Mendenhall, N. R., 693.

State Department, U. S., 890.

Sturgis, R., 695.

Mentioned, 102, 229, 693-703.

Wilder, Edward B., Mrs.

Correspondence, State Department U. S., 698.

Mentioned, 694.

Wilder, L. C., 699.Wiley, Mrs., 1446.*Wilhill, Evan, 1424.*Wilhite, Mr., 1416, 1456, 1457.*Wilkes, Charles.

Award of gold medal, 1113.

Correspondence:

Dahlgren, C. B., 1082, 1088.

Eustis, G., 1088, 1091, 1092, 1096.

Fairfax, D. M., 1081, 1082.

Grace, H. P., 1082, 1088.

Greer, J. A., 1082, 1084.

Hall, G. W., 1082, 1086.

Houston, J. B., 1082, 1085.

Hudson, W. L., 1101.

Macfarland, J. E., 1088, 1091, 1092, 1096.

Mason, J. M., 1088, 1091, 1092, 1096.

Navy Dept., U. S., 1080, 1091, 1095-1098, 1109.

Simpson, R. G., 1082, 1087.

Slidell, J., 1088, 1091, 1092, 1096.

Mentioned, 1076, 1084, 1090-1098, 1100-1102, 1104,

1107, 1109, 1110, 1113, 1116-1119, 1121, 1122, 1124,

1125, 1132-1134, 1137-1139, 1143, 1145, 1146-

1149, 1151-1153, 1156, 1159, 1160, 1163, 1164,

1166, 1167, 1170, 1171, 1173, 1175, 1176, 1177,

1190, 1193, 1200, 1203, 1204, 1227-1229, 1239.

Wilkes, George.

Correspondence, M. G. Flanagan, 768.

Wilkins, John, 63, 225, 299.Wilkins, John E., 171, 176, 311, 714.*Willard, Ashbel P., 724.*Willard, George L.

Correspondence, C. J. Faulkner, 468.

Mentioned, 468, 470.

William.

Correspondence, J. C. Brune, 255, 256.

William Byrne, Sloop, 112.William I, 1171, 1176-1178.*Williams, Captain, 380.*Williams, Mr., 243.*Williams, A. B., 152, 237, 238, 245, 263, 311, 1398.*Williams, Alexander, 1437.*Williams, August, 1409*Williams, Austin C., 293.*Williams, Cecelia.

Correspondence, A. Lincoln, 461.

Mentioned, 458, 460-462.

Williams, Charles, 66, 94, 96, 307.Williams, David, 1432.*Williams, Frank E., 229, 297.*Williams, Henry, 243.*Williams, Hosea H. H., 237, 271.*Williams, Isaac, 1441, 1449, 1554-1556.*Williams, Israel.

Correspondence, State Department, U. S., 128.

Mentioned, 129.

Williams, J. J.

Member Political Prisoners' Board, 1398.

Mentioned, 1398.

Williams, Jacob, 156.Williams, James, 75.*Williams, John, jr., case of, 456-463.

Correspondence:

Burke, M., 459.

State Department, U. S., 459.

Mentioned, 85, 102, 230, 234, 456-463.

Williams, John, sr., 458, 462.Williams, John S., 327, 366, 1446.*Williams, R., 309.*Williams, R. K.

Correspondence, J. C. Frémont, 749.

Williams, Richard.

Correspondence:

Admiralty, British, 1114.

Patey, C. G. E., 1102.

Mentioned, 1090, 1102, 1110, 1114, 1145, 1147, 1156, 1157.

Williams, Robert.Correspondence. See *Nathaniel P. Banks.Williams, Seth.Correspondence. See George B. McClellan.

Mentioned, 235, 834, 835, 839, 840, 849, 854.

Williams, Thomas, 1432.Williams, William, 291, 545-547.*Williamson, Miss, 125.*Williamson, A., 63, 113, 225, 234.*Williamson, William H., 1452, 1475.*Willison, Ashriel, 898.*Wills, J., 1448.*Wills, William, 1440.*Wilmer, J. P. B., case of, 1280-1283.

Mentioned, 862, 1280-1283.

Wilmer, J. P. B., Mrs., 1281, 1282.Wilmer, John W.

Correspondence, War Department, U. S., 1283.

Wilson, Mr. (D. C.), 597.Wilson, Mr. (Md.), 863.*Wilson, Mr. (Va.), 1454, 1455.*Wilson, A. L., 1435, 1437.*Wilson, Anderson, 1449.*Wilson, Ann, 385.*Wilson, Billy, 184, 192.*Wilson, C. A., Mrs.

Correspondence:

State Department, U. S., 386.

Wilson, C., 384.

- Wilson, C. S., Mrs., 1347.
Wilson, Charles.
 Correspondence:
 State Department, U. S., 1355, 1356.
 Wilson, C. A., Mrs., 384.
 Mentioned, 291, 386-388, 409.
Wilson, George, 252.
Wilson, H. G.
 Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 832, 845.
Wilson, Henry.
 Correspondence:
 State Department, U. S., 54.
 War Department, U. S., 404.
Wilson, J., 1424.
Wilson, Jim, 1296.
Wilson, Joseph, 268.
Wilson, Joseph S.
 Correspondence, B. F. Grove, 639.
Wilson, S. F., 155.
Wilson, Samuel P., 237, 301.
Wilson, T. A., 164.
Wilson, T. L., 1527.
Wilson, Thomas, 1530.
Wilson, Thomas S., 48, 102, 230.
Wilson, Walter M., 794, 795, 863, 865.
Wilson, Wash. M., 266.
Wilson, Wm. T., 183, 184, 188, 192, 194, 228, 229, 329.
Wilton, Mr., 1446.
Winans, Ross, 225, 227, 794, 795.
Windell, Samuel A., 1324.
Winder, Mr. (Md.), 145.
Winder, Charles H., case of, 721-747.
 Correspondence:
 Political Prisoners' Commission, 743.
 State Department, U. S., 735, 738.
 Winder, W. H., 721-725, 728, 729, 734.
 Mentioned, 721-747.
Winder, John H.
 Correspondence:
 Adj. and Insp. Gen.'s Office, C. S. A., 1503.
 Boyle, C., 1374, 1375, 1397, 1398.
 Cheatham, R. B., 1503.
 Hagadorn, S., 1506.
 Hill, D. H., 1409.
 McCall, A. J., 1503.
 War Department, C. S., 1373, 1374, 1409, 1422, 1424, 1426, 1427, 1502, 1506, 1508, 1547.
 Mentioned, 722, 729, 730, 737, 1315, 1317, 1348, 1374, 1484, 1487, 1490, 1503, 1546, 1547.
Winder, Josie, 730.
Winder, Mary, 730.
Winder, William H., case of, 721-747.
 Correspondence:
 Brooks, J., 732.
 Burke, M., 744.
 Cameron, S., 743-746.
 Develin, J. E., 726, 727.
 Dimick, J., 731, 741.
 Journal of Commerce, Editor, 723.
 State Department, C. S., 723.
 State Department, U. S., 735.
 Virginia, Governor of, 723.
 War Department, U. S., 741.
 Winder, C. H., 721-725, 728, 729, 734.
 Mentioned, 102, 155, 230, 232, 239, 263, 270, 285, 303, 721-747, 805.
Windsor, Mr., 1498.
Windsor, Anderson, 266.
Wine, B. W., 263.
Wineon, Daniel, 898.
Winter, John, 164.
Wisconsin Troops.
 Infantry—Regiments:
 2d, 1501.
Wise, Mr. (D. C.), 372.
Wise, Mr. (Va.), 201.
Wise, Henry A., 139, 201, 378, 685, 1325, 1332, 1371, 1373, 1384, 1385, 1395, 1432, 1438, 1443, 1450, 1469, 1476, 1478, 1481.
Wise, W. H., 202, 212, 217, 266, 336.
Wise County, Va.
 Martial law, note, 1421.
Wiseman, George W., 35.
Winter, William R., 505.
Witcher, Vincent A., 1442, 1465.
Withrow, Thomas F.
 Correspondence:
 Post-Office Department, U. S., 1321.
 State Department, U. S., 1330.
 Mentioned, 1331.
Withrow, Thomas F., Mrs., 1322.
Wivill, Dr., 865.
Wolcott, Christopher P.
 Correspondence. See War Department, U. S.
Wolfe, Joel, 685, 686.
Wolfe, Udolpho, 685, 686.
Wood, Mrs., 208.
Wood, Alfred M., 384, 396, 1115.
Wood, Algernon R., 636.
Wood, Benjamin, 65, 456, 666, 1268.
Wood, Charles O.
 Correspondence:
 Burke, M., 67, 116, 124, 396, 405, 425, 469, 782, 845, 1074, 1360.
 Millner, J. K., 175.
 Murray, R., 175.
 Mentioned, 51, 52, 76, 82, 83, 85, 121, 124, 174, 350, 396, 413, 469, 547, 625, 782, 783, 1251, 1252, 1260.
Wood, Fernando, case of, 1267-1275.
 Correspondence, State Dept., U. S., 1267, 1272.
 Mentioned, 1267-1275.
Wood, H. M., Mrs., 344.
Wood, May, Schooner, 551.
Wood, R. R., 164.
Wood, Robert, 1525, 1526.
Wood, Thomas P., 509, 522, 524.
Wood, William P.
 Correspondence:
 Political Prisoners' Commission, 272, 274, 281, 378, 379, 880, 881, 909, 1293, 1306, 1352.
 War Department, U. S., 263, 1295.
 Mentioned, 1305, 1319.
Woodford, Stewart L.
 Correspondence:
 Smith, E. D., 424.
 State Department, U. S., 482.
Woodhull, Maxwell, 981.
Woodruff, C. P., 1309.
Woods, George.
 Correspondence, G. F. Talbot, 680.
 Mentioned, 674, 677, 680.
Woods, Sam, 1477, 1478.

- Woods, Samuel W., 34.
 Woods, T. W., 164.
 Woods, W., 164.
 Woods, William, 252.
 Woodward, Mr., 1522.
 Woodward, Lavinia. See Mrs. T. W. Woodward.
 Woodward, M. J., 238.
 Woodward, T. W., 535, 536.
 Woodward, T. W., Mrs.
 Correspondence, T. T. Deringer, 535.
 Woodward, William R., 297.
 Woodworth, William, 1429.
 Wool, John E.
 Correspondence:
 Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., 428.
 Army Headquarters, 794.
 Dix, J. A., 428, 794.
 Falls, M. N., 104.
 Hawkins, R. C., 58, 60, 61.
 Huger, B., 54, 125, 365, 1229.
 State Department, U. S., 95, 107, 126, 146, 219,
 225, 1282, 1283.
 War Department, U. S., 794.
 List of prisoners, 225.
 Mentioned, 99, 104, 105, 212, 305, 309, 320, 324, 367,
 456, 479, 794, 798, 1060, 1228, 1419.
 Wooldridge, Stephen H., case of, 881-897.
 Mentioned, 103, 231, 234, 883, 886, 888, 893-897.
 Woolsey, Theodore D., 1232.
 Word, Mr., 1488.
 Working, William J., 1409, 1410, 1414, 1418, 1468,
 1479-1481.
 Workman, Amos, 1451, 1461, 1462.
 Workman, Benjamin, 1451.
 Workman, James, 1451.
 Workman, Jasper, 1440.
 Workman, Lawson, 1451.
 Workman, William, 1450, 1451, 1462.
 Workman, William, 1470.
 Wormell, Mr., 93, 98, 120.
 Worrall, Henry, 1436.
 Worthington, Mr., 946.
 Worthington, Charles A., 237, 310.
 Wrain, Tom, 1528-1530.
 Wray, John H., 480.
 Wren, James O., 1421, 1425, 1487.
 Wright, George & Co., 1479.
 Wright, Thomas A., 268.
 Wright, Uriel, 252.
 Wright, W. H. D. C., 70.
 Wright, William E., 103, 155, 231, 234, 303, 888.
 Wriston, Mr., 1474.
 Wriston, Caleb, 1474, 1475.
 Wriston, John, 1474.
 Wriston, John, 1474, 1475.
 Writ of Habeas Corpus, 18-30, 40, 48, 109, 134, 164,
 193, 814-817, 885.
 Wulff, A. F., case of, 1526-1530.
 Correspondence:
 Adams, W. C., 1528.
 Murphy, P., 1530.
 Mentioned, 1526-1530.
 Wusse, G. P., & Co.
 Correspondence, War Department, C. S., 829.
 Wyandank, U. S. Steamer, 195, 336, 337.
 Wyatt, Addison, 266.
 Wyatt, Felix, case of, 829-857.
 Correspondence:
 Baker, L. C., 831.
 Burke, M., 843.
 Lincoln, A., 844.
 Morton, J. F., 850.
 State Department, U. S., 832, 840.
 Mentioned, 102, 155, 230, 232, 829-857.
 Wyatt, Matthew P., 246, 1427.
 Wybert, Isaac, 1422, 1425, 1487.
 Wyche, John M., 513
 Wycoff, Mr., 1350.
 Wyer, Edward, 1123
 Wyke, Charles, 1112.
 Wyoming County, Va.
 Martial law, note, 1421.
 Xerxes, 594.
 Yancey, Alfred, 34.
 Yancey, B. C.
 Correspondence, W. L. Yancey, 1279.
 Mentioned, 1278, 1279, 1493, 1494.
 Yancey, Henry, 1426, 1427.
 Yancey, William L.
 Correspondence:
 Foreign Office, British, 1231, 1236.
 State Department, C. S., 1233, 1238.
 Yancey, B. C., 1279.
 Mentioned, 3, 100, 141, 179, 609, 1040, 1198, 1236,
 1241-1243, 1278, 1279.
 Yankee, U. S. Steamer, 112, 195, 336, 337.
 Yarber, Nelson, 223.
 Yolan, M.
 Correspondence, J. McNeil, 122.
 York, C. S. Privateer, 89.
 York County, Va.
 Martial law, note, 1421.
 Yost, John, 268.
 Young, Mr., 499.
 Young, E. R., 714, 715.
 Young, George, 1426.
 Young, Hume, 268.
 Young, John (Ind.), 715.
 Young, John (Prisoner), 238, 245, 263.
 Young, John S., 510, 514-516, 532, 538, 750, 755-758.
 Young, Joshua, 272.
 Young, Lewis, 238, 245, 263.
 Young, V. B., 814.
 Young, Wigal, 313.
 Young & Simpson, 1309.
 Youst, F. H., 266.
 Zarvona, Richard Thomas. See Richard Thomas.
 Zeigler, John L., 1443.
 Zeigler, John S., 252.
 Zenas, Albert, 156.
 Zevely, A. N.
 Correspondence. See Post-Office Dept., U. S.
 Mentioned, 1046.
 Zickler, Edward, 345.
 Zimmerman, S. B., 865.
 Zollicoffer, Felix K.
 Correspondence, A. S. Johnston, 1396.
 Mentioned, 884, 892, 1397, 1524.

3 5282 00713 5695

Duquesne University

3 5282 00713 5695